It's a taxing time for Newton

Bills are out, due in June 28

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — Payments of property tax bills, mailed to nearly 22,000 homeowners and thousands of commercial property owners last week, are due in the City Hall treasurer's office by June 28.

City Treasurer Theodore Scafidi Monday confirmed that what he called a "calculated risk" paid off when the city was given the green light by the state Department of Revenue to mail the property tax bills at about 5 p.m. last Friday.

Taxpayers missing the June 28 deadline face interest penalties of 14% per year.

City officials had the bills stuffed in envelopes awaiting mailing at the post office Friday when they received the final okay from the state agency. "It was a risk we had to take," said Scafidi. "If we didn't get them out we wouldn't have been able to get them out until next week."

Scafidi said 12 employees from his office, along with 12 municipal employees from other departments, spent Friday stuffing the thousands of bills into envelopes. Many homeowners received the property tax bills Saturday.

The state Department of Revenue had to review the new tax rates under classification after city assessors discovered a $150 million nonexistent residential parcel on the tax rolls that forced nearly a $2 increase in the commercial rate and almost a $1 hike in the residential tax rate.

The Board of Aldermen approved a classification plan last Friday taxing commercial properties at the maximum allowed under state law - setting new tax rates at $21.88 for homeowners and $36.29 for businesses. Commercial, industrial and personal property is being taxed at 150%. Residential property and open space is being taxed at about 90%.

Under the tax rates, a $100,000 home will be taxed at $2,188 while a commercial property with the same $100,000 assessment will be taxed at $3,629. The new tax bills, which reflect new assessments under a revaluation completed this month, are for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1982.

'Official' parade for heroes

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The heavens cried buckets of tears Memorial Day as veterans, political dignitaries and thousands of residents honored the fallen heroes of past wars.

The city's "official" Memorial Day Parade slogged up Washington St. and over Walnut St. to City Hall with only a few umbrellas to show it was a day to stay indoors. Flagwavers who lined the streets saw veterans, politicians and brass bands march by oblivious to the constant downpour.

The rain stopped in time for ceremonies at the War Memorial but it was impossible to tell a raindrop from a tear in the eyes of the faithful.

The rain stopped in time for memorial services in front of the War Memorial. By the time Newton's Gold Star Mother, Mrs. Raymond Richard, put the first wreath in the "Living Memorial Garden," it was impossible to tell a raindrop from a tear in the eyes of the faithful.

Mrs. Richard's gesture was especially poignant on a day which put special emphasis on Vietnam veterans. Her late son, Wallace, was the first Newton casualty of the Vietnam War.

The parade was marked by some exceptional bands, but Newton North won the hearts of the crowd with a soft and subtle rendition of "America the Beautiful." The crowd gathered around the Living Memorial Garden in front of the War Memorial hummed and sang along in one, low, sweet, harmonic voice.

Fr. Anthony Moore, of St. Bernard's in West Newton, offered a benediction in which he pleaded for an end to all wars and, especially, for the elimination of the threat of nuclear holocaust.

Ron Burdette, head of the Vietnam Combat Veterans, read a poem he had written about his comrades who are still "missing in action." Speaking through the sound system of a police car–the public address system was shorted out by the rain–Burdette asked those present, "Please help our children who gave their best, to come home now so they can rest."

Mayor Theodore Mann called the Memorial Day parade "the best yet. We have the largest number of elected officials ever." The mayor was highly visible, wearing an electric-orange poncho he donned when it became obvious the downpour would not let up for the parade.

In his address, Mann called for increased understanding, "so that we can live at peace with ourselves, with our neighbors next door, with our neighbors throughout the world."

He said that war, besides being a tragedy, was counterproductive. "Throughout history, war has been a tremendous drain on the natural and financial resources of countries, in addition to the drain on human talent," Mann said.

"There are those who say we cannot prosper without war, but we must remember that the time of our largest growth as a nation was between the Civil War and World War I–a span of over 50 years of peace interrupted only by the four-month Spanish-American War," he said.

Keeping time in Nonantum

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NONANTUM — Gloomy skies and drizzle didn't stop an estimated 5000 area residents from crowding Nonantum streets Sunday for a colorful Nonantum Memorial Sunday Parade.

Adults and children jammed Watertown and Adams Streets as some 11 marching bands, military color guards, bagpipe players, a dozen decorative floats, baton twirlers, police motorcades, antique cars and horses marched to honor veterans of war. "I didn't think Newton had all this," remarked 20-year-old Christine Kendall. She was one of many surprised and delighted spectators who marveled at the parade's size and variety.

The parade was organized by volunteers with the Nonantum Christmas Party Association, under the direction of Anthony "Fat" Pelligrini. The $10,000-event featured 3000 participants from throughout Massachusetts and emphasized commemoration of all war veterans, particularly Vietnam veterans. Several commemorative salutes were held along the parade route at Nonantum war memorials.

"This is the best parade I've seen," said Barbara Leehan, of Nonantum. "I give Mr. Pelligrini a lot of credit for this." Leehan, a Craft Street resident, watched the parade with her family and neighbors from her front porch. "I'm really thrilled that it's in Nonantum. We usually have to drive a mile (to see the annual city of Newton-sponsored Memorial Day parade)."

"This is better than the one the mayor runs," commented Robert Meal. A resident of Craft Street, Meal, 40, said he was quite pleased that the Nonantum parade was held on Memorial Day. "It should be held on Memorial Day. Too bad the mayor and this guy can't get together. But this is very good and it's on the day it's supposed to be on," he said.

As marching bands, military units and bagpipes passed by one awe-struck parade-watcher remarked: 'I didn't think Newton had all this.'

Paul Whalen, 82, a World War I veteran, watched the event from Craft and Washington Streets. As the various veteran's and military bands marched by, Whalen removed his derby and held it to his heart. "That's tradition. It's respect," said Whalen, a veteran of the U.S. Army's famous Yankee Division.

Judy Slamin, of Nonantum, applauded as the red and gold Syria Temple Band of Boston marched by her home. "I especially like this band," said Slamin. She said the Nonantum parade is especially enjoyable for Newton residents because "It's nice to see the local people (in the parade)." Slamin said she felt the Nonantum parade was a true memorial to veterans. "I appreciate that you shouldn't mix politics and memorials," said Slamin.

Alderman Joseph DePasquale, as he watched the parade on Adams Streets, agreed the parade "is a great tribute to veterans." Before the march began, military color guards and firing squads honored veterans at Pvt. Richard Forte Memorial, Allison Park; Korean-Vietnam Memorial, Hawthorn Park; J.F.K. Memorial, Jackson Garden;

Mayor wins the first day in court

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — A Middlesex Superior Court judge ruled last week the city must pay Mayor Theodore Mann's "reasonable" legal bills in a case involving a $1.1 million lawsuit pressed by the mayor's former personal secretary.

Citing a "lack (of) merit" in the suit filed to block payment of the legal fees, Middlesex Superior Court Judge James Donohue said the city must pay the mayor's legal expenses under a city ordinance insuring city officials.

In a "summary judgement" he dismissed a suit by 28 taxpayers who sought to block a $10,000 city payment to Mann's private lawyer, Edward Barshak The legal bills are in connection with a $1.1 million lawsuit filed by Mann's former secretary, Diana Ossinger.

Ossinger, the mayor's secretary for nearly eight years, claims she was illegally fired and is seeking back pay and damages. The West Newton woman was acquitted by a Middlesex County jury in October 1980 of stealing $24,000 from the mayor by cashing his paychecks at the City Treasurer's Office.

Judge Donohue ruled last Wednesday the mayor and Board of Aldermen must "first find the fees incurred to be reasonable" before initiating and approving city payment.

Aldermen approved the $10,000 payment to Mann's private attorney last December. However, the 28 taxpayers, led by Newton businessman Vincent Filippone, stopped the payment with a court challenge filed on Dec. 21.

In a 12-page decision, Donohue wrote: "The court holds that (Newton's) ordinance R-129 mandates that the city of Newton must pay reasonable expenses incurred by Attorney Barshak only after they are incurred, properly billed and presented to the Board of Aldermen and the mayor."

Donahue said the taxpayers' arguments "lack merit."

"On all points of law, we have been upheld," said a jubilant City Solicitor Daniel Funk. "I've said from the beginning that the case (taxpayers' suit) was without merit."

Funk stressed that aldermen must approve payment under the court order unless Barchak's fees are "unreasonable." He said he would submit Barshak's $3,412 bill to aldermen within the next several days.

The dispute regarding Mann's legal bills resulted from Funk's refusal to represent the mayor because of a "conflict of interest."

Funk, who advised Mann on Ossinger's firing, noted that he could be called as a witness for Mann's defense. He also said he would be obligated to defend the city against any claim mayor might file for his cashed paychecks. The $24,000 is still missing.

Arthur Goldsmith, attorney for Filippone and other taxpayers bringing the suit, complained that the judge overlooked crucial facts.

"There was no evidence submitted on Mayor Mann's actions," asserted Goldsmith. The Boston attorney argued that the judge should

East meets West at Newton's City Hall

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — East met West at city hall Thursday morning when Mayor Mann hosted a delegation of 13 engineers visiting from Japan.

There was a welcoming ceremony, a work session and lunch. The affair had all the earmarks of an international get-together as Mann juggled the roles of mayor and ambassador.

He bowed. He joked. He bowed some more. He even took a few stabs at speaking Japanese.

The engineers loved it, and they did their best to express their appreciation.

The meeting was originally suggested by alderman Elaine Gentile. The Japanese engineers' specialty is "value engineering," a discipline concerned with increasing efficiency and lowering costs in industry and government.

Gentile said she thought, "With the concept of value engineering just filtering into local government and the cloud of Proposition 2½ hanging over our heads, it would be beneficial for Newton to explore the use of such analysis techniques in its management decisions."

The methods of "value engineering" were discussed during an hour-long presentation, but the bulk of the three-hour conference was given over to social activities and a cultural exchange.

The mayor greeted the delegation in his office and filled them in, through an interpreter, on the history of the city.

"We are one of the oldest cities in America," he said. "The industrial revolution started here in Newton, with factories manufacturing silk, shoes and paper. The Stanley Steamer was built here."

Mann talked at length about city hall, saying that, "When it was built during 'The Great Depression,' there were a few things built into the building that I'd like to show you." With that, he elbowed the wall near the fireplace and a secret passageway opened up.

An intrigued "Oh so-o-o," came from the Japanese delegation in one voice.

"This exit goes all the way outside the building," Mann said, "but I don't use it. This mayor, "sono," goes in and out of the building through the front door."

A group picture was set up. "It's always good to take a picture with the American flag in it," the World War II veteran told the engineers.

"Andiamo," he said, trying to get people together for the picture. "You're all so stiff. Loosen up."

The group adjourned to another room where city officials described Newton's recent attempts at applying "value engineering" to various operations of city government.

Mayor Mann not only shared insights into Newton's commercial climate with Japanese visitors, he also showed them the 'secret' passageway from his office, installed when City Hall was built during the Depression years.

Introducing the visiting delegation to the officials, Mann said, "We very much admire the accomplishments of the Japanese. America could learn a great deal from Japanese ingenuity."

Referring to the visiting engineers, Mann said, "I'd like to import all these guys and start a business."

Director of Public Works Charles Thomas spoke to the delegation on recent changes in solid waste treatment, and Michael Kuklinski, head of the Energy Division of the Building Department, described the success of recent conservation efforts in his department.

Thomas was introduced by the mayor as "a graduate of MIT," credentials which were quite obviously understood and esteemed by the Japanese engineers.

"He makes more than I do," Mann told the crowd.

"I'm in real trouble already," Thomas responded. The DPW head went on to describe his ongoing efforts toward the construction of a solid waste incinerator aimed at generating energy from the city's 150-ton-per-day output of trash.

Thomas told the delegation of recent innovations in the city's trash pickup system and estimated more than a half million dollars had been saved since the changes were instituted.

He outlined the proposed system of having one man operating a trash truck by himself. Mann turned to Toshio Tanaka, the coordinator and interpreter for the group, and asked, "Do you like that idea?"

Tanaka said, "Yes, very much," and Mann responded, "Well, if you use it, give the credit to Charlie Thomas."

Kuklinski showed a short videotape, made with infrared film, which pointed out energy loss in 65 municipal buildings. He told the engineers that, through infrared photography and other innovative techniques, the city had reduced its energy consumption by 25 percent in three years.

The city's "energy manager" adjusted the room air conditioner twice during the hour-long session.

The visiting engineers had to turn their chairs around to watch the video. When it was over, they turned back to the front of the room and rearranged their chairs as few Americans might–in perfectly straight lines, the exact way they had found them.

The visitors from Japan were obviously impressed by much that they learned at city hall, but their biggest reaction came when Mann told them, "Where you are right now is the foot of 'Heartbreak Hill.'"

They turned and looked out the window to where the mayor was pointing. The fellow countrymen of last year's winner of the Boston Marathon, Toshiko Seiko, expressed their respect and surprise with a flurry of "Oh so-o-o's."

"You know, most of the Boston Marathon is run in Newton," the mayor informed the delegation. "Next year, I'm going to call it the Newton marathon."

Laughter all around.

Taxpayers fight through final round

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — Approximately 200 taxpayers Thursday night crowded into the aldermanic chamber to take parting shots at a revaluation many claim is filled with errors, inequities and discrepancies.

Taxpayer after taxpayer strode to the microphone to take the firm that conducted revaluation in the city, Finnegan and Associates of Acton, to task for what they claimed is a poor and unprofessional job. The public hearing was marked by repeated taxpayer pleas for aldermen to reject the revaluation despite the consequences of an $11 million budget cut.

The accelerated revaluation was implemented last May to raise the levy and avert potentially disastrous cuts under Proposition 2½.

John Matthews, who faces a $1,000 tax increase, received thunderous applause when he told aldermen to throw out what her termed the "plainly and seriously flawed" revaluation.

"It doesn't solve the problem to say you can get an abatement," asserted Matthews of Pine Ridge Road. "This whole scheme is flawed...Everybody says we can't throw it out because the city will lose $11 million. Well let it!"

Wernerh Gumpertz, who has conducted extensive research on the Finnegan methodology, revealed the most startling information during the hearing.

Gumpertz charged that Finnegan has increased the inflation factor used on comparable sales for determining assessments by 10 percent higher than the actual figure.

The member of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Revaluation, who stressed he was giving his own personal opinion, detailed yearly inflation rates using the consumer price index and other indicators and the 10 percent increase used by Finnegan.

In a short interview, Gumpertz said he came to the conclusions based on data provided by Finnegan. He charged Finnegan may have artificially increased the tax base to raise the levy.

He said: "If you adjust the value of homes from June 1978 to Jan. 1, 1981 and use the wrong inflation factor, you obviously don't make a fair market assessment."

The hearing included a long list of speaker from Save Our Homes Two- the citizens group battling revaluation inequities that initiated the hearing.

Body with bullet still unidentified

NEWTON — Medical examiners determined last Wednesday night that a man found dead last week in a Boylston Street home was dead for a month, though the identity of the man and the nature of the death are still undetermined.

Medical Examiner Nathaniel Brackett said a bullet wound to the head from a .25 caliber pistol definitely caused the death. "The manner of the death is something we haven't decided yet," said Brackett.

Newton Police - 552-7251

Police described the victim as 35 to 45, 5-feet-6-inches to 5-feet-8-inches tall, 150-160 pounds, with dark brown hair and a full beard and mustache. He was reportedly wearing tan pants, a size 40 white Shane House shirt with long sleeves, a size 34 black belt, light boxer shorts and black size 7-R work boots that reached above the ankle. The boots, according to police, had the letter "F" written in pen on the tongue.

Owners of the Boyslton Street home returned from a six-month vacation to find the body in a closet, according to reports.

Detectives ask any one with information on the case to call them at 552-7251.

Reval contract changed again; aldermen ask 'why'

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen Thursday night demanded all copies of contracts with the company which conducted revaluation be released to them after learning the contract had been changed for a second time without their knowledge.

As they prepared to consider a proposal that the contract with Finnegan Associates of Acton be strictly enforced, aldermen learned the contract had been altered for the second time.

Aldermen also requested that the mayor appropriate the funds necessary to mail a letter to all taxpayers with clear and easily understandable instructions on how to file property tax abatements.

The board also refused to suspend the rules to consider a request for an additional $95,820 for the assessing department to handle abatements expected as a result of the scores of complaints on the revaluation. Aldermen are scheduled to consider the request at a joint meeting of the Revaluation and Finance Committees this week.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer estimated that the accelerated revaluation has cost the city $1.2 million including the $95,000 request. The cost does not include an estimated $250,000 to $500,000 in lost revenue as a result of the delay in the mailing of property tax bills.

The board approved the contracts request by a 19 to 2 vote. The board requested the mayor send appropriate funds for the letter on a voice vote.

Alderman Richard McGrath said he is concerned that the city may be letting the firm that conducted revaluation, Finnegan Associates of Acton, off the hook without paying penalty fees and other fines required if the job was not completed within specific deadlines and guidelines.

McGrath said he "could not believe" the $600,000 contract has been further changed by assessors and Mayor Theodore Mann. James Hickey, a key Mann aide, confirmed that "extensions" were given in contract amendments in April.

"The contract was amended as a good many contracts are amended," said Hickey.

McGrath charged the Mann administration in April with "misleading" aldermen by extensively altering a board order on the revaluation pact.

The mayor reduced penalty fees in the contract from the $5,000 a day proposed by aldermen to $500 a day. Furthermore, he did not require that Finnegan post a full performance bond for the pact as requested. Because the firm could only get a $200,000 bond, Mann reduced the bond necessary for the contract.

Mann, backed up by the city solicitor, has contended the executive department has the sole authority to enter into contracts.

Under a city timetable, Finnegan and Associates was scheduled to complete the job before Feb. 1. The firm finished the job nearly three months behind schedule after approximately 11,000 taxpayers went to appeal hearings.

The further contract change came as a complete surprise to every aldermen questioned. Hickey said that the Revaluation SubCommittee Chairman Paul Coletti was given a copy of the amended pact. Coletti, however, that he was informed of several changes, but not an "extension" of the deadlines.

Aldermen also voted to set up a committee to review a proposed letter to be mailed to all taxpayers with property tax bills.

If the funds are initiated by the mayor, all taxpayers will be provided extensive information on property tax abatements and other options. Aldermen Sondra Shick and Verne Vance have prepared an extensive and clear package on abatements and other avenues open to aggrieved taxpayers.

Tax bill relief option is voted down

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A rarely used legislative option designed to provide relief for those homeowners least able to afford soaring property tax hikes was axed by aldermen Thursday night.

The board denied a motion to implement the state exemption, referred to as the Homestead act, by a 12 to 7 vote.

Alderman Michael Malec pushed for the exemption option to 'give a break' to some homeowners, calling it the 'largest meaningful remedy.' The move was voted down by the board.

Alderman Michael Malec filed the legislative option that was apparently discarded by Mann administration officials. Malec learned of the option to use what he touted as a "progressive reform of the property tax" after the town of Brookline adopted the exemption last week.

Under the exemption, about two percent of the residential tax burden is shifted from the lower valued homes to the higher valued parcels. In Newton, the exemption would provide tax reductions for all properties assessed at less than the average home value of $115,000.

Under the plan, 10 percent of every residential assessment is reduced and the tax rate is increased proportionately. As a result, homes valued under the average receive tax reductions while higher valued homes receive similar increases.

Malec said the exemption would "give a break" to those least able to afford significant property tax increases under revaluation.

"This softens the blow to those hit the hardest by the revaluation process," he said, calling the exemption the "largest meaningful remedy" the city could offer.

"It's not perfect," he added, "but it will give help to thousands of people who need...I feel a progressive reform of this tax rate is something that the city sorely needs and will help the people who need it most."

Opponents, however, argued that the exemption was unfair and its passage would delay the mailing of property tax bills.

Malec criticized the Mann administration for not bringing the exemption to the attention of aldermen. He said the administration had figures prepared on the exemption but had not shared the information with the legislative body.

Alderman Cynthia Creem said the exemption would hurt elderly on fixed incomes with high priced homes. She asked: "Who is to say that someone who has a home valued at $100,000 is hurt anymore than a person with a home valued at $200,000?"

Alderman Lisle Baker claimed it is not "clear" that the exemption will provide the relief touted by Malec.

Aldermen voting for the exemption: Bullwinkle, Carmichael, DePasquale, Malec, Sheehan, Shick, and Sofman.

Aldermen voting against the exemption: Baker, Bauckman, Coletti, Creem, Gentile, Morris, Marcy Richmond, Shea, Taglienti, Tennant, Vance, and Jefferson.

Absent: Rodney Barker, Paul Daley, Harold Levinsky, Richard McGrath and Edward Richmond.

Board okays 150% tax on businesses

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Board of Aldermen Thursday night approved a classification plan taxing commercial properties at the maximum allowed under state law- establishing tax rates of $21.88 for homeowners and $36.29 for businesses.

Aldermen gave final approval to the classification plan taxing city businesses at 150 percent by a 19 to 2 vote. The vote came after approximately 200 taxpayers crowded into the aldermanic chamber for a three-hour public hearing in which homeowner after homeowner criticized the accelerated revaluation as unfair, inequitable and plagued with errors and discrepancies.

Many taxpayers urged aldermen to reject the revaluation even though it would mean an $11 million cut in the municipal budget with only one month remaining in the fiscal year.

Under the classification plan approved by aldermen, approximately 70 percent of the 21,602 homeowners and 740 businesses face property tax increases. Residential taxpayers will be taxed at approximately 90 percent of full and fair market value.

The maximum classification plan makes Newton one of a handful of the 351 cities and towns in the state that have voted to tax businesses at the maximum allowed under state law.

Under the plan, approximately 15,586 homeowners face tax increases; 6,016 will receive tax decreases. Approximately 519 businesses face tax increases; 219 will receive decreases.

Under the revaluation, implemented last May to raise the tax levy and avoid Proposition 2½ cuts, residential taxpayers will be forced to pick up a $3.5 million shift in property taxes previously paid by commercial taxpayers. The major reductions will go to utilities, according to assessors.

A disappointed Newton Chamber of Commerce Vice President Lewis Songer contended the tax plan will force small businesses to either close up shop or move out of the city.

Songer said there is "no question" that some small businesses will be forced to close their doors. "Some will not go right out of business," he said. "But many will find they have to move to less expensive locations."

Songer said several businesses have already informed the chamber of their plans leave the city. Many commercial taxpayers have complained that the maximum classification will stifle economic growth and force businesses out of the city.

Aldermen supporting the classification plan, however, argued that the business sector has the ability to absorb the cost by passing it on to consumers while homeowners would have no recourse. Others argued that anything but the maximum classification would provide additional huge reductions to the major utilities.

City assessors have estimated that under the 150 percent classification plan, Boston Edison and New England Telephone will receive approximately a $2.5 million reduction in taxes.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle said a minor reduction in classification would not help small businesses hard hit by revaluation. "It's not going to filter down to the little guy," he said.

Alderman Robert Tennant, however, voiced strong support for the taxing commercial taxpayers below the 150 percent rate. "Fairness to all," said Tennant. "That's all I ask for tonight."

"If you don't give business a break you'll see what will happen," shouted Tennant. "Your taxes will climb and climb and climb."

Many aldermen maintained maximum classification had to be voted because of the large number of homeowners facing tax increases under the first full scale revaluation of the city since World War II.

"I just honestly in my own conscience can't tax or burden residential taxpayers with any more money," said Alderman Bruce Carmichael.

Aldermen voting for 150 percent classification: Baker, Bauckman, Bullwinkle, Carmichael, Coletti, Creem, DePasquale, Gentile, Malec, McGrath, Morris, Marcy Richmond, Shea, Sheehan, Shick, Sofman, Taglienti, Vance and Jefferson.

Nonantum parade a hit

Wallace Richards Bridge, Church Street and Sgt. Enrico Pagnano Bridge, Lewis Street Bridge.

Waltham resident Rose Malizia praised the many children and teenagers participating in the event. "All the children - it's marvelous to see young kids get into like this," she said. Of the 3000 participants, 2000 were under age 18, according to parade officials. Youngsters marching in Sunday's event included the Newton Explorers, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts troops, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Newton Boys Club, Girls Club, Watertown High School Band and the Bluebell Twirlers.

Nonantum residents Michael Riffe, Joey Clamente and Dante Angelucci, all 16, were enjoying free sandwiches, drinks and doughnuts after the parade. The three friends agreed that participating in Nonantum's parade was a way of "helping out" in Nonantum.

"The kids around here should get involved and they do," said Angelucci, who drove a decorative memorial truck for veterans. "I like living here and I like helping out."

"I like doing things for Nonantum," said Clamente, who also drove a memorial truck. "It feels good," added Clamente, who participates in other voluteer projects in Nonantum.

Riffe, who was dressed as Uncle Sam, felt it was his "duty" as a Nonantum resident to help out with the parade. "It feels good doing things like this because people enjoy it," he said.

"It went extremely well," said Robert Vassalotti, a parade organizer. "We succeeded in honoring the veteran, especially Vietnam veterans. They need the recognition."

THE BIBLE -- A TREASURY
The Bible is a treasury, rich and deep! It is "The Book" among all books. Its literary forms include poetry, prose, law, letters, biographies, psalms, histories and prophecies. Its penmen have been kings, peasants, lawyers, fishermen, a doctor and a tax-collector.
The place of authorship?—It spans the entire known world of the time, from Babylon to Italy. It varies in literary style, background of penmen, place of writing, and time of writing. Yet its theme is constant and its revelation consistent.
The Bible is the very Word of God, breathed out over a span of 1600 years starting with Moses, the greatest prophet of God, and ending with the Apostle John (95 A.D.). It was confirmed 300 years later (397 A.D.) at a council held at Carthage in North Africa. Not long after that, the Bible was locked away from the people by the Apostate Church. For nearly a thousand years, from the 6th century through the 15th century, the Bible was locked up.
History calls this period the Dark Ages. Human society became dark because the Bible, containing all the divine light, was locked away from humanity.
Then, in the Reformation, God used Martin Luther to unlock the Bible. At the same time, printing was invented, allowing the Bible to be printed.
Although the Bible was unlocked, it was not so open. Yet, we thank the Lord that during the past five centuries He has opened up His Word again and again through many great teachers. We stand on their shoulders and we are grateful to them. We thank the Lord that today the Bible is so open to us, allowing us to feed on the living Word.

Heart disease or stroke can cheat you out of the best years of your life.

Those are the years shared with people you love. And when a loved one is gone, everything changes. You can't imagine the loss, unless it happens to you. Last year, nearly one million Americans died of heart disease and stroke — 200,000 of them before retirement age.
The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke with research, professional and public education, and community service programs.
But more needs to be done. You can help us save young lives by sending your dollars today to your local Heart Association, listed in your telephone directory.

Such a situation this revaluation

The votes aren't in yet but the tax bills are out. June 28, that's the big due date for Newton taxpayers to get their payments in to City Hall.

Hasn't this been just about the most fun you've had in years? With a final bill of around $1 million, charges and counter-charges, hearings for residential property owners and hearings for business people, this sure has been some fun.

Look on the bright side. Neighboring Brookline's assessors just figured out the new assessments and sent out the bills. Not even so much as a how-de-do as far as public hearings for taxpayers. But here in Newton taxpayers had their say two or three times (it's easy to forget, what with all those hearings on the calendar). Businessmen and women turned out for one of their own, too, and voices were heard across the land.

The aldermen went five or six rounds with this revaluation situation and, in the end, there really was only one bottom line.

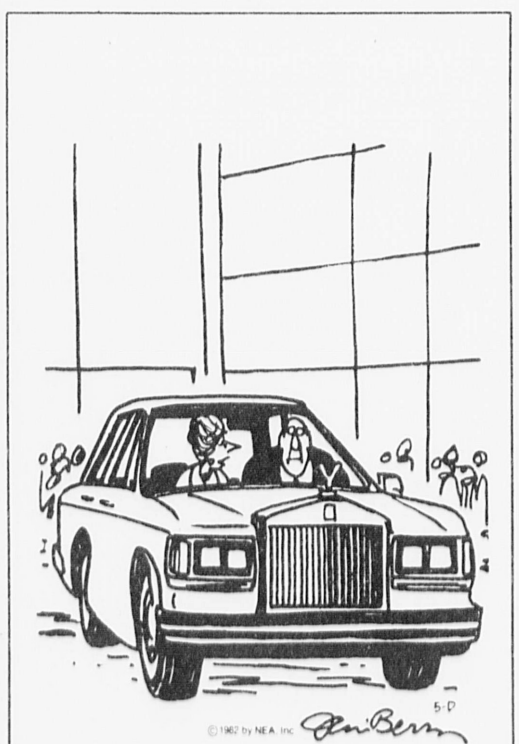
Reval - a painful experience in anyone's book - had to be done, by law.

The assessors and the aldermen didn't win any popularity contests. But then, it can only be hoped they didn't think that's what this would be.

The mayor didn't exactly win the hearts and minds of the people by repeatedly failing to show at public hearings. And the revaluation firm of Finnegan Associates won't be getting too many presents from Newton taxpayers come holiday time next December.

And the press, that catch-all term for newspapers, large and small, came in for its share of criticism for trying to consistently and accurately (at least from our end) reflect the pains and high points of this lengthy process.

At some point perhaps the lesson learned from all this will be clear. As for now, it's still lost in the smoke on the battlefields.



"'Lou Grant' is canceled, and all you can say is, 'I feel sorry for Mrs. Pinchon'!?"

The mayor as China Mann?

To China from Garden City

Ambassador Chai Zemin of the People's Republic of China was in Boston to attend a small business conference May May 18 and was escorted by Newton's own Alderman Bruce Carmichael.

Seems Carmichael's Garden City Livery Limousine service picked up the ambassador at Logan Airport at 8 a.m. and carted him from a Copley Plaza brunch with state legislative leaders, to the State House to address legislators, a luncheon at Anthony's Pier 4 and on to a private reception all under the escort of two state police cruisers.

Carmichael not only drove the limousine, attended all the functions with the ambassador, and posed for a picture with the distinguished guest, but also offered a greeting in his official capacity.

Carmichael, introduced as a Newton alderman, noted that he was also bringing greetings from the board and "my good friend" Mayor Theodore Mann.

Carmichael said hizzoner the mayor extended an olive branch of good will to the People's Republic of China. Maybe the mayor is planning to follow in the footsteps of Boston's Kevin White who recently returned from China. Sounds like a great trip!

No one mentioned spelling

John O'Hagan, former New York City fire commissioner, may know something about fire department manning and management, but he could certainly use an elementary school lesson in spelling.

The fire management guru, who is profiting by offering his services as a high priced consultant, recently released his draft report on the Garden City's manning level, recommending that the Manet Road station be closed.

Throughout the 50-plus page report, stamped "draft," the fire commissioner spelled Newton - Newtown. O'Hagan, who has come under fire in Boston for his high priced services, received $12,000 to conduct a 13-day study in Newton. Not a bad wage for 13 days' work. Of course that includes $1,200 for traveling expenses. The traveling expenses are Newtown's loss. If Mr. O'Hagen had taken his car to the Garden City, he surely would have come down the Mass Pike and learned from the "Welcome to Newton," sign that Newtown is Newton.

That's okay though Mr. O'Hagan, we here at The Graphic still don't know the correct spelling of your name. While some Newton newspapers and The Boston Globe were spelling it O'Hagen, we were using O'Hagan. For the record, the spelling used in O'Hagen's (O'Hagan's) official Newtown "Fire Facility Study" is John T. O'Hagan Associates. But then again maybe that report isn't a reliable source. If we see Mr. O'Hagan (O'Hagen) back in town, we'll be sure to ask.

Speaking officially on this

Mr. O'Hagan is not the only one having trouble with spelling, Newton's own are also joining in the quest for the Fickled Finger of Fate spelling award.

The parade ribbons given to aldermen for use in the Memorial Day Parade read "Offical" instead of "Official."

Alderman Dominic Taglienti was quick to pick up the error. "I haven't been in school for a long time and I know that," said the sharply dressed alderman who arrived at the parade lineup before any of the other Newton dignitaries.

With a political splat causing a Nonantum charitable organization, headed by Anthony "Fat" Pellegrini, to split from the traditional city run memorial day observances on Monday and hold their own parade Sunday, Taglienti had some other thoughts on the "offical" ribbons.

"They were supposed to go to Pellegrini," jested Taglienti.

Education, national news

Newton Public School teacher Rosetta Johnson-Taylor has been elected to serve a three-year term on the Board of Directors of the National Educational Association.

The election to this prestigious post took place recently at Hynes Auditorium in the Hub.

Nice to know friends in high places, especially when it comes to public education.

Post this one for the post

Seems they have some real prize winners over at Post 440 American Legion in Nonantum.

The post recently hosted a Bingo party for a group of people with cerebral palsy and of the 25 who attended every one of them managed to win a prize. We can hear the shouts of "Bingo!!" even now.

Besides the prizes all those attending enjoyed refreshments, courtesy of the Legion and all prizes and the work involved came from post members and their wives, who volunteered their time.

Now that's the thing we like to hear about.

Life in the fast lane

The ADE Lotus, driven by Needham Heights resident Noel Poduje, recently took the checkered flag at the Trak-Auto Springnational Sports Car Races in Summit Point, West Virginia.

The Lotus is sponsored by ADE Cororation, a high tech firm based on Rose Street here in the Garden City.

The win puts the Lotus solidly in the lead for the Northeast Division Championship of the D-Production class in the Sports Car Club of America series.

Congratulations, and keep on trucking.

Helping hand for seniors

Marking time

The story behind the story

By Mark White

As a columnist one has to be very careful to maintain objectivity.

However, occasionally, I guess everyone has the right to be a little self-serving. Our tale goes like this:

About four years ago, Alderman Terry Morris and I decided that the time had come to launch an offensive against county government. We examined all aspects of the Middlesex County budget and discovered incredible goings-on. There were positions like county dog officer, supervisor of plumbers, and director of tourism.

Employees of several departments often had the same last names. Surprisingly enough, those names were often related to a state legislator.

There were department heads running non-existent departments. Salary upgrades were handed out like candy to little children. The situation was more outrageous than even we imagined.

Terry and I went to the Board of Aldermen with a bold suggestion - refuse to pay the county assessment until answers were provided.

The board approved the action and a subcommittee was formed consisting of Terry and myself along with Aldermen Tennant, Shea and Creem.

Now, I knew as a lawyer that there had to be some legal justification for withholding payment. Consequently, I discovered a statute that required the county commissioners to issue an annual report. This report had not been done for six years. Bingo! There was the justification.

When demand was made for the report the commissioners explained that the reports were at the printer. Either they were giving us a line or their printer was doing the report on a Gutenberg press!

Now, the only question remaining was the prospective penalty.

I discovered a statute that stated an unequivocal 8 percent penalty if the assessment wasn't paid.

At the time treasury bills were paying 15 percent! Consequently, we could take the assessment monies invest them at 15 percent and even with the penalty make a 7 percent profit!

The decision was made by the board to continue withholding payment until the reports were delivered or a judgment rendered against the city.

In the interim were meetings with County Commissioners, and the State Legislature Committee on Counties, and representatives of several cities and towns.

We were laughed at, accused of elitism, and even insulted. Representative Charles Flaherty, chairman of the Committee on Counties, referred to Alderman Tennant as a "two-bit political hack." But inspite of pressure from the Law Department, and a few aldermen, to pay the assessment, the Board of Aldermen stuck to its guns and continued to withhold assessment payments every six months.

Finally, in 1980 the county commenced suit and won the case in Superior Court recovering all assessments, penalties, and excess interest.

I always felt that there was never any danger of losing the excess interest since the General Laws clearly spelled out a maximum 8 percent penalty. However, a majority of the board members succombed and voted to pay the assessment plus the penalty.

They did agree to appeal the decision requiring the City to return the excess profits.

Two weeks ago the Massachusetts Appeals Court ruled that the city was entitled to keep all the excess profits made by investing the County Assessment.

The amount made by the city was approximately $125,000!

This money could pay for several teachers, Newton Youth Hockey, and several Human Service Programs.

We not only led the assault on county government but we were financially rewarded for having the courage to do it.

The Board of Aldermen certainly has its failings and I haven't been afraid to criticize the board.

However, this issue shows what the board is capable of accomplishing when united behind an issue of critical importance to Newton.

Congratulations to most of my former colleagues but especially Aldermen Robert Tennant and Terry Morris. We did the job and we did it well!

Concerns on cancer and moth spraying

To the editor;

Cancer is one of the leading, if not the leading cause of death in our modern world. It is probably the most puzzling problem of modern living, although it's not so mysterious a problem if you really think about it. I believe that some cancer is caused by poisons released as waste into our streams and rivers, later to find their way into our drinking water. Poisons released as waste into the atmosphere, which was once clean, fresh air. Poisons applied to food during processing to improve its shelf life and appearance, poisons applied to the soil to kill weeds and sprayed on food bearing plants to kill off insect pests.

Make no mistake about it, insecticides don't just poison insects. Insecticide is a term used to describe a poison that is used primarily to kill off pesky insects, a term that can be dangerously misleading if taken to mean a poison that can only kill insects, and not wild animals, beneficial insects, pets and people.

Gypsy moth caterprillars munch a lot of tree leaves but I've never seen a strong healthy tree completely defoliated by the caterpillars. I've never been bitten or poisoned by a Gypsy moth, but I hope I never find out what one of those poison sprays would do to someone.

How would you know if you did get poisoned? How would you know it wasn't the flu? Spraying poison around is just asking for trouble in the form of unexplained and incurable illness.

Spraying with insecticide for Gypsy Moth caterpillars can be self-defeating and is likely to prolong the infestation, because the caterpillars aquire resistance to the poison spray, and the caterpillar's natural enemies, who get the credit for controlling the pests, get killed off by the spraying. Without their natural predators, the Gypsy moths multiply unchecked and return more numerously the next year until the natural ceiling on their population is reached, and a disease wipes them out, beginning the cycle at a low point in the following year.

Where does the insecticide runoff go when it rains after a spraying? Into the Charles River? Or does some get into the Reservoir and wind up in the drinking water?

I'm not advocating hands off the Gypsy moths, I can't stand them any more than you do. All I'm saying is don't shoot yourself in the foot while trying to do them in. It's a losing battle to throw insecticide at them. Spiders and wasps and birds are a lot better at killing Gypsy moth caterpillars than we are, they're at their job all day long and don't cost a cent.

Let's lay off the spraying and give the spiders a chance to get the job done right.

Thanks to all from the Asian refugees' friends

To the editor;

There are many good things to be said about the city of Newton. I am especially grateful to all of the people who have responded so generously to the needs of the Southeast Asian refugees who have been resettled in Newton.

Leading the way has been the mayor, who has put all of the city services at their disposal. Second to none has been the fantastic cooperation of the Newton School Department. One needs only to say Ena Lorant or Louisa Loch to the children and their faces light up. These children can enter into the mainstream of American education at the same age level as their American counterparts, able to qualify for good education because of the language skills.

The Newton-Wellesley Hospital has not only been helpful but I am sure has learned much about disabilities of people from Southeast Asia. Many of our churches and temples have helped wtih sponsorship. It has been a fantastic pouring out of generosity of the whole city.

One of the greatest gifts has been the great quantity of clothing and household itesm donated by the many citizens of Newton. One cannot imagine what it's like to arrive in the United States with only the clothes on one's back' the family photos, and a great hope that now they are here things will be better. Two shops have been most helpful, Second Appearance in Newtonville and Pass It On Kids, in Newton Highlands. Without the combined help of all, we could not have helped so many.

In this season of putting away winter clothes and finding some no longer fitting (particularly children's) we would be glad to receive any clothing you can no longer use.

All clothing should be clean and whole and usable. Bring it to the Eliot Church building, 474 Centre Street, Newton Corner. For those who might ask, there are many people who need this clothing. None is wasted. We welcome what you can bring. And if you have household linens that are usable (sheets, blankets, pillows) they are most welcome also. Thank you to all who have made it all possible.

Locals among Aquinas College grads

By Art Illman
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Some 120 area women who graduated from Aquinas Junior College Thursday evening were told to seek a career, not simply a job.

Dawn Marie Driscoll, vice-president and counsel for Filene's, and a member of the department store's Administrative Board, addressed the graduates and about 300 guests at the college's twenty-first annual commencement.

"If you approach each job as a career, learn as much about it as you can, and be open to change — you will not be bored," she said. "More than that, you will probably be more economically secure than your peers, and have a firmer sense of your own identity."

Driscoll, who graduated from Regis College and Suffolk University Law School, said that throughout history, women have had a difficult time with the question, how do I stop trying so hard to please others, and begin to do what I want to do?

"Hopefully, your age group will find this an easy task, and you will find the way through your work," she said. "Paid employment is not only an economic necessity, it will also become central to your self-esteem."

Twenty-nine Waltham students represented the highest percentage of graduates from area towns receiving two-year degrees at the outdoor ceremony. Degrees were presented by Aquinas Junior College President Sister Julia Ford.

Ten area graduates will continue their education upon graduation. Lisa Gaudet of Waltham will attend Salem State in the Early Childhood program; and Elizabeth Daley of Newton will enroll at Bridgewater State, also for Early Childhood. Anne Waldron of Watertown will go on to Suffolk University, in a legal program.

Kathy Dion of Waltham, who served as secretary to the class of 1982, will attend Northeastern University this fall to continue her study in health management.

"I received a good education here," she said before the graduation exercises. "I hope to work as a medical secretary, and attend Northeastern evenings. Eventually I plan to be a hospital administrator," she said.

Lori McLellan of Waltham, vice president of the student association, said Aquinas "prepares students well for the business world, and gave us an understanding of the secretarial field.

"These two years have been great," she continued, "I know I've made many life-long friends."

Students kicked off graduation week Monday night with an awards ceremony. Tuesday night they enjoyed a senior banquet at the Town Line House in Lynnfield.

Graduates from Newton were Kim-Marie Battista, cum laude; Danielle Cloonan; Mary Cloonan; Catherine Marie Conrad; Elizabeth Daley, cum laude; Marisa Dicicco; Kendra Ferranti; Kathleen Flaherty; Diane Lopez; Rosemarie Lopez; Kathryn Sprissler; Janine Stewart; Susan Tempesta; and Gail Whiting.

Q & A on tax payments

NEWTON - This information on propery tax bills was prepared primarily from a packet put together by Aldermen Sondra Shick, Verne Vance, Paul Coletti and Michael Malec.

In addition, the city plans to mail a packet to all taxpayers with information on abatements and taxpayer rights. The Board of Aldermen last week asked Mayor Theodore Mann to appropriate funds for the mailing of the letter. Mann said he will cooperate with the request. Aldermen are scheduled to vote on the approximately $6,000 cost of the letter mailing this Wednesday.

WHAT IS THE TAX RATE FOR HOMEOWNERS AND RESIDENTIAL TAXPAYERS?

The tax rate for residential taxpayers and open space is $21.88 per $1,000 of assessed value. A $100,000 house would be taxed $2,188.

WHAT IS THE TAX RATE FOR COMMERICIAL, INDUSTRIAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY?

The tax rate for commercial, industrial and personal property under classification is $36.29 per $1,000 of assessed value. A $100,000 commercial property would be taxed at $3,629.

WHEN ARE THE TAX BILL PAYMENTS DUE IN THE TREASURER'S OFFICE?

The tax bills are due in the treasurer's office by June 28 - 30 days from the date of mailing, according to City Treasurer Theodore Scafidi. The treasurer stressed that payment cannot be postmarked by June 28 and received later. He said the "safest" option is for taxpayers to pay the bill at the treasurer's office at City Hall on Commonwealth Avenue. Scafidi said it is the taxpayer's responsibility to assure the assessor's office receives payment by mail. "If they mail it and it doesn't get to me it is there responsiblity," he said. The treasurer noted this has happened to a number of taxpayers in past years.

Taxpayers, however, can mail the payment to: Theodore Scafidi, Treasurer and Collector, 1000 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, 02159.

HOW WILL THE MONEY I PAID LAST OCTOBER ON MY ESTIMATED TAX BILL AFFECT MY PAYMENT UNDER THE NEW BILLS REFLECTING REVALUATION?

The payment for the bill due June 28 is for the fiscal year ending June 30. Any estimated payment made last October or November should deducted from this bill.

WHAT IF I CAN NOT PAY MY PROPERTY TAX BILL BECAUSE OF FINANCIAL HARDSHIP OR FEEL MY PROPERTY IS OVERASSESSED?

Taxpayers who can not pay their property taxes because of financial hardship or feel their property is overassessed should file an application for abatement with the assessors. The abatement applications are available at the assessor's office in City Hall.

Application for abatement must be filed in the assessors by June 28, 1982. The assessors have 90 days from the day the application is received to act on an abatement application.

If the abatement is denied, the taxpayer has three months from the date of notice of denial to file an appeal to the state Appellate Tax Board.

The city treasurer said taxpayers that cannot pay the tax in full should pay as much as possible to avoid interest on the payment. The treasurer's office will accept partial payments before or after the due date. Any partial payment made after the due date will pay interest only to the date the payment is made.

MUST I PAY MY TAX BILL IF I FILE FOR AN ABATEMENT?

No, it is not necessary to pay the tax prior to the assessor's decision on the abatement. However, interest on the amount determined to be due will be charged at the rate of 14 percent per annum beginning 30 days after the mailing of the tax bill. If is not possible for the assessor's to waive this interest. Therefore, the taxpayer may ultimately be stuck with it. Because partial payments are acceptable. taxpayers filing abatment applications may want to make a minimum payment.

WHAT IS THE ABATEMENT PROCESS?

Technically, the abatement process is a procedure in which taxpayers apply for a tax reduction or relief if they feel they have been overassessed. Abatements in the case of revaluation for taxpayers who feel they have been overassessed are permanent reductions until the property is reassessed.

Apartment owners and commercial property owners may apply for abatements because of loss of income during tenant vacancies or loss of use due to fire. In most cases, these abatements are granted on a temporary basis.

WHERE CAN I RECEIVE AN ABATEMENT APPLICATION FORM?

Abatment applications form can be obtained from the Assessor's Office at Newton City Hall (1000 Commonwealth Avenue) or any branch of the Newton public Library. The application should be directed to the Newton Board of Assessors.

WHAT IS THE DEADLINE FOR FILING AN ABATEMENT APPLICATION?

An application for abatement must filed in the assessor's office by June 28 - 30 days from the mailing of tax notice. Failure to receive your tax bill because of mail delays will excuse a failure to file the application by the mandated 30 day from mailing deadline.

The application should be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, or hand carried to the Assessor's office on the first floor of City Hall, where a date stamped copy of the application should be obtained. If the application is made by mail, the letter should include a self addressed stamp envelope asking the assessors to return a date stamped copy of the application.

WHAT SHOULD I INCLUDE ON THE ABATEMENT APPLICATION?

The form must contain a sufficient description of the property. The best way to do this is to use the description from the deedof record and to describe the property by street address and section. Improper description of the property may defeat the application.

DO I NEED A LAWYER TO FILE AN ABATEMENT APPLICATION?

There is no requirement that a taxpayer use an attorney for the abatement process.

HOW LONG DO ASSESSORS HAVE TO REVIEW THE ABATEMENT APPLICATION AND HOW DO THEY MAKE DECISIONS?

Assessors have 90 days to act on the abatement application. By state statute, if the assessors fail to act on the application within the required three months, the application is automatically denied. The assessors are required to notify the applicant within 10 days after the three month deadline.

The standard for reviewing the application is whether the applicant was taxed at more than the fair cash value of the property.

ARE THERE EXEMPTIONS FOR ELDERLY, BLIND, AND VETERANS?

Yes, there are a broad range of tax exemptions available to elderly and handicapped veterans and taxpayers. A list of the exemptions should be included with your tax bill. If you believe that you may qualify for an exemption or want more information on whether you may be eligible, you should contact the Newton Board of Assessors at 552-7065.

Tax bills are in the mail

The new tax bills will deduct the estimated bill paid by commercial and residential taxpayers in November. Newton along with a number of other cities and towns received approval to send out the estimated bills while the accelerated revaluation to raise the levy was being conducted. The city mailed estimated tax bills on last October.

City officials implemented the accelerated revaluation last May to raise the tax levy for the fiscal year and avoid further cuts under Proposition 2½. Many taxpayers have argued that the project is plagued with errors, inconsistencies and errors.

Scafidi stressed that homeowners must have payment in his office by June 28 at 5 p.m. He said even if a payment is postmarked on June 28 and is received after that date, a taxpayer would be subject to penalty interest.

"The law says it must be in the possession of the tax collector 30 days from the date of mailing," Scafidi said. He said since the thirtieth day from the mailing (May 28) falls on a Sunday (June 27), the bills are not due until June 28.

Scafidi also confirmed that the city lost an estimated $250,000 to $500,000 in revenue because the bills were mailed late. Scafidi was forced to borrow $15 million in anticipation of taxes due because of the delay in receiving tax monies. The city must pay the interest on the $15 million loan, Scafidi noted, adding the city also would have earned investment monies if the bills were mailed on time.

"I knew we could do it if we had the help," said Scafidi of the race to mail the tax bills out. "My only question was would all things be go (from the state Department of Revenue) on Friday."

If the bills did not go out before June 1, the city would have begun the new fiscal year with a "revenue deficiency," providing numerous accounting problems and possibly jeopardizing the city's coveted AAA bond rating, according to City Comptroller Lawrence Marino.

Scafidi said a few bills still need to be mailed. He did not have an estimate on the number, but noted the majority were for condominiums. "Those will go out when assessors give them to me," said Scafidi. He said those bills will be due 30 days from the date of mailing.

Taxpayers who feel they have been overassessed may file for an abatements with the assessor's office. The abatement application, available at the Assessing Department in City Hall on Commonwealth Avenue, must be filed within 30 days of the mailing of the tax bill.

Under statute, the assessors are required to act on the abatement application in 90 days. There is no requirement that an attorney is needed to file the abatement application.

State GOP women say 'no' to casino gambling

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — An emphatic "no" to casino gambling and an equally emphatic "yes" to President Reagan's arms control policy were the results of Thursday's annual meeting of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts.

The Red Coach Grill in Newton Corner, the site of the meeting, was liberally salted with state GOP dignitaries and hopefuls during the luncheon.

The featured speaker, State Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset), took aim at one of her favorite targets, casino gambling. "I haven't found anything good about it yet," she said.

Murray complained that the arguments in favor of casino gambling were flawed, and that Atlantic City, N.J., where it was recently made legal, was proof.

She said the contention that casino gambling would bring more revenues to a city and result in lower taxes was false. "Taxes have actually increased in Atlantic City because of the added strain on city services," she said.

Her main concern, though, was with the threat which casino gambling might bring in the shape of more crime and the corruption of public officials. She said "the large numbers" that go along with gambling are an unavoidable attraction to the criminal element.

About corruption, Murray said, "This state has a poor enough image right now. This certainly couldn't help any."

Gubernatorial hopeful John Sears echoed Murray's feelings about what casino gambling might do to local and state government. He said the recent innovation had "upended unions and school committees in Atlantic City. The numbers are so large, and the Massachusetts state legislature is so penny-ante.... It's just too easy to buy this legislature."

Sears said he was against casino gambling "essentially unqualifiedly." He added that he was "no 18th century moralist." He called gambling "a true addiction" and voiced his concern for the drain it could put on the talents of young people.

Willaim Barnstead, who is vying for Thomas P."Tip" O'Neill's senate seat, said, "There is already enough gambling going on in this state. It's in the State House, and the taxpayers are the losers. People in Massachusetts have labored too long with the idea that they will get something for nothing."

ABC's Ted Koppel to appear at ceremony

NEWTON — A cornerstone will be placed for a new multi-million dollar centralized facility for the Jewish community of greater Boston, on Sunday, June 13 at a 35-acre tract, bounded by Winchester and Nahanton Streets in Newton.

Sponsored by the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston, the facility will be called the Central Area Jewish Community Multi-Service Center.

Television journalist Ted Koppel, anchorman of ABC News' Nightline will be the guest speaker at the ceremonies, which will also serve as the kick-off for the final phase of a fundraising drive to raise the $13 million needed to complete the new facility.

Close to $8 million has been raised to date. Jason E. Starr of Newton, chairman, of Phase III of the community building campaign, has set a $5 million goal for this aspect of the campaign.

The ceremony will culminate six years of planning to create the facility. Work has been underway since February at the site, with existing buildings being given extensive renovation. They will be linked and augmented by new structures so that the multi-service center will cover 123,000 square feet.

Generous space will be provided to house a broad range of activities including complete center facilities, a specialized human services area, and education and health components.

Guests at the ceremony will be given a first-hand opportunity to see the site and they will be able to tour the area in the company of a member of the building committee, which has overseen the creation of the facility since its inception.

Mann defenders: it was 'harassment'

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The city solicitor and the mayor's private attorney last week charged that a taxpayers' lawsuit to block city payment of the mayor's legal bills was mere "harassment."

Edward Barshak, Mayor Theodore Mann's attorney, has filed a motion to recoup his $3,412 fee from taxpayers who brought what he called the "capricious" claim designed to "harass" Mann.

City Solicitor Daniel Funk plans to file a similar motion to recoup much more than the $3,412 in expenses detailed in Barshak's bill.

> 'Frankly I don't take any pleasure in this whole process. I have been the victim of a crime as investigated by police and confirmed by a judge in Newton District Court.'
> Mayor Theodore D. Mann

"The irony of this case is that the plaintiffs' effort at trying to save the city $10,000 has cost the city a considerable amount of money in the time and effort taken to defend it," Funk said. "The cost may even approach the $10,000 that was challenged."

"I think it was harassment," asserted Funk. "This ordinance (authorizing payment of legal bills) was clear from the beginning. This was an effort at giving the mayor a hard time..."

"The mayor has definitely been victimized," added Funk.

Mann was at City Hall when he learned of the ruling paving the way for city payment of his legal bills. The bills are in connection with a $1.1 million lawsuit filed by his former secretary, recently acquitted of diverting $24,000 worth of Mann's paychecks to herself.

Mann's $24,000 is still unaccounted for.

"Frankly I don't take any pleasure in this whole process," said Mann. "I have been the victim of a crime as investigated by police and confirmed by a judge in Newton District Court."

Mann charged that some of the taxpayers who brought the complaint acted "out of malicious contempt" and were "attempting to subvert the way in which our judicial system is designed to work."

Mann said the suit "abused" the judicial system and city taxpayers. He added: "I am pleased the judge has found for Mr. Barshak and for the city on all counts."

"I think people who bring suits just to harass people ought to start learning a lesson," said Barshak. "I hope the judge whacks them with counsel fees."

Barshak said with the taxpayers' suit out of the way he will begin to work on the $1.1 million lawsuit filed by Mann's former secretary. He predicted the earliest the case could come to court would be one year from now.

Responding to a possible appeal from taxpayers, Barshak said: "I think it would be an unjustified appeal...It would just be another attempt at harassment that wouldn't do him (Filippone) any good."

Funk contended that the taxpayer's complaint was an "effort to embarass and hurt the mayor."

"They went out of their way to insult and malign the mayor," said Funk.

Both Funk and Mann were quick to point to Donohue's earlier reprimand of the complaint. In responding to a brief referring to the mayor's "pigheadedness," Judge Donohue said there appeared to be more "spitefulness" than "legality" in the taxpayers complaint.

Lawsuit tossed out

have considered whether Mann was "grossly negligent" in firing Ossinger.

Judge Donohue said it is "true" that the mayor would not be entitled to the city payment of legal bills if the Ossinger firing was "grossly negligent." But he wrote: "That determination, however, can not be made until the verdict is rendered in the Ossinger case."

Goldsmith argued that Judge Donohue failed to consider whether Mann acted outside the scope of mayoral duties by asking Ossinger to put his checks in the city credit union.

Goldsmith said: "Trusting her (Ossinger) with his checks is not within the scope of his (Mann's) employment."

Judge Donohue dismissed a claim that aldermen violated the open meeting law by appropriating the $10,000 in a closed session.

Furthermore, Donohue dismissed arguments that Funk did not have a legitimate conflict of interest.

The ordinance insuring city officials was approved by aldermen on March 16, 1981. Under the ordinance, the mayor and other officials are insured for up to $1 million for any civil-rights action brought against them in the scope of their city duties.

In addition, the ordinance requires the official to obtain a private counsel if the city solicitor determines he has a conflict of interest.

Barshak's bill thusfar for the case is $3,412. Barshak, who receives $125 per hour, said he has put approximately 27 hours into the case - all in connection with the taxpayers suit.

Taking action on nuclear disarmament

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — Tears fill Ann Regan's eyes as she discusses her views on nuclear disarmament.

Embarrassed, Regan apologizes for her public display of emotions, but adds, "I get very emotional about this."

Five years ago, the words "disarmament" and "missiles" drew a blank expression on Regan's face. Today however, the 48-year-old mother of six is an ardent activist for a nuclear arms freeze. A Newton Centre resident, Regan is publicizing her support for a freeze and for the United Nations Second Special Session on Disarmament on June 12. Each Saturday, Regan stands at the horse trough on Newton Centre Green as "a witness for the success of the session."

Regan defines "success" of the session as a proposal by President Ronald Reagan for an arms freeze, not a reduction in stockpiles as the president's administration has proposed. "You can't talk about reduction without talking about not making them anymore. It doesn't make any sense," says Regan.

Regan is a member of the Newton Cohalition to Prevent Nuclear War. The group, comprised of Catholics, Jews and Protestants and members of various activist groups, will hold the "Newton Interfaith Service for Peace" on June 6. Prayer readings from members of all faiths and "disarmament music" will highlight the service. Various children's activities, including "peace clowns" helping children create peace flags and doves, will also take place before the service on the Newton Centre Green. "It's really a wonderful service," says Regan, a member of Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre and its Peace and Justice Committee.

Five years ago through the church committee, Regan attended a weekend disarmament seminar at Boston College. At that time, "I didn't know what (disarmamament) meant," she says. The B.C. seminar inspired Regan to become an activist. "I have six children. It's for their future."

On the Newton Centre Green where she is surrounded by anti-nuclear slogans and literature, Regan urges others to become involved in the fight. "Unfortunately, there's still a lot of work to be done. They know what's happening, but they just don't want to get involved," she says. Regan is "constantly" talking to people about the threat of nuclear war. She disagrees with those who often tell her 'If it's meant to be, then there's nothing we can do about it.' Regan says, "I believe we do have control over it."

Regan, with members of the cohalition and her church, will attend the U.N. disarmament session in New York City next week, "To let our elected officials know that we want an end to all this madness."

Final cost of reval: $1 million

By Steven Burke

NEWTON — The final cost of the accelerated revaluation, culminating in property tax bills being mailed last week, will be more than $1 million.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer has estimated that the accelerated revaluation has cost the city $1.2 million including a $95,820 request that aldermen are scheduled to consider at a special meeting Wednesday night.

On Wednesday, Palmer will present aldermen with an additional $95,820 request to provide assessors with monies to handle the wave of abatment applications expected as a result of the highly criticized revaluation.

The cost does not include an estimated $250,000 to $500,000 in lost revenue as a result of the delay in the mailing of property tax bills.

Under the revaluation, which many taxpayers have criticized, approximately 70 percent of the 21,602 homeowners and 740 businesses face property tax increases.

The $1.1 million includes

• approximately $600,000 paid to the firm that conducted the revaluation project in the city - Finnegan and Associates of Acton.

• $15,000 paid to a private Boston consultant, R.M. Bradley, to review commercial values determined by Finnegan and Associates. The $15,000 does not include an additional $7,500 requested by Palmer for the company. The chief assessor said the cost resulted from "services performed during the appraisal and certification of commercial/industrial properties.

• approximately $260,000 paid to a New York company, Calspan Inc., for the computer program used to determine new values. The $260,000 does not include an additional $3,500 for the company requested by Palmer. The chief assessor said the cost resulted from the city's need to "rerun comparable sales sheets prior to residential certification."

In a letter to aldermen, Palmer said the additional $95,820 in funding is necessary to "accomodate taxpayers' inquiries and anticipated abatement requests as a result of the implementation of the revaluation assessments and to offset unanticipated costs incurred during the revaluation.

Palmer said $72,320 of the request will be used to fund six temporary clerical positions and 12 appraisal technicians; $6,000 for a copying machine; and $3,000 for telephone installation.

The Aldermanic Revaluation and Finance Committees will consider the request in a joint meeting at 7;30 p.m. The full board is scheduled to take up the request at 9 p.m.

Alderman Paul Coletti said assessors should have brought the request before the board before last Thursday nights aldermanic meeting when aldermen refused to suspend rules to take up the request. On the same night, aldermen approved a classification plan taxing businesses at the maximum allowed under state law - 150 percent.

The classification plan approved by aldermen makes Newton one of a handful of the 351 cities and towns in the state that have voted to tax businesses at the maximum allowed under state law.

Under the plan, approximately 15,586 homeowners face tax increases; 6,016 will receive tax decreases. Approximately 519 businesses face tax increases; 219 will receive decreases.

Under the revaluation, implemented last May to raise the tax levy and avoid Proposition 2½ cuts, residential taxpayers will be forced to pick up a $3.5 million shift in property taxes previously paid by commercial taxpayers. The major reductions will go to utilities, according to assessors.

City assessors have estimated that under the 150 percent classification plan, Boston Edison and New England Telephone will receive approximately a $2.5 million reduction in taxes.

Alderman Richard McGrath said before aldermen consider the $95,000 request from assessors on Wednesday night, he will bring up the Mann administration's decision to change a contract, extending revaluation deadlines to Finnegan and Associates.

Aldermen last week voted to request all copies of contracts with Finnegan and Associates after learning the contract had been changed for a second time without their knowledge.

As they prepared to consider a proposal that the contract with Finnegan Associates of Acton be strictly enforced, aldermen learned the contract had been altered for the second time.

McGrath said he is concerned that the city may be letting the firm that conducted revaluation off the hook without paying penalty fees and other fines required if the job was not completed within specific deadlines and guidelines.

"It is the most irrespnsible act I have ever seen by a government agency on a local level," McGrath said of the possibility that the contract changes may prevent the city from collecting penalty fines from Finnegan.

James Hickey, a key Mann aide, confirmed that "extensions" were given in contract amendments in April.

McGrath charged the Mann administration in April with "misleading" aldermen by extensively altering a board order on the revaluation pact.

The mayor reduced penalty fees in the contract from the $5,000 a day proposed by aldermen to $500 a day. Furthermore, he did not require that Finnegan post a full performance bond for the pact as requested. Because the firm could only get a $200,000 bond, Mann reduced the bond necessary for the contract.

Mann, backed up by the city solicitor, has contended the executive department has the sole authority to enter into contracts.

Under a city timetable, Finnegan and Associates was scheduled to complete the job before Feb. 1. The firm finished the job nearly three months behind schedule after approximately 11,000 taxpayers went to appeal hearings.

The further contract change came as a complete surprise to every aldermen questioned last week. Hickey said that the Revaluation SubCommittee Chairman Paul Coletti was given a copy of the amended pact. Coletti, however, that he was informed of several changes, but not an "extension" of the deadlines.

Mann wary of changes in 10% housing rule

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore D. Mann said last week he opposes any changes in the city's low-income housing requirements which would impede development in the city.

A week ago Monday, aldermanic Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris proposed to boost the quota of low-income units in any new housing deveelopment from 10 to 20 percent. Also, the city would take ownership of the units rather than leasing them as it does now.

The mayor said his first responsibility is to reduce residents' tax rates by expanding the tax base. He added that he would oppose any revisions in the zoning laws which would jeopardize the city's being "a residential community with a clean commercial tax base."

Speaking of the proposed raise in percentages from 10 to 20, Mann said, "You might have a good idea, but if nobody supports it, you've got a percentage of nothing."

Mann pointed to the special needs of young families trying to find housing in the city and said that the ongoing development of the Weeks Junior High "recognizes those needs."

Director of Planning and Development Barry C. Canner shared some of Mann's concern for the effect the proposed changes might have on future developments. Speaking of raising the percentage of low-income housing in a development to 20 percent, Canner said, "If it went straight to 20, it would be a hindrance. It can be done so that it is not so outlandish."

Canner added, "It's important to change the formula (for determining the number of low-income units) so you can figure what bonuses you'll have to offer the developer in terms of increased density."

About the city's assuming ownership of the housing units, Canner said the proposal's future "depends on where the funds are coming from. State and federal funds are drying up. If the city has to do it, it will only have trade-offs to offer. In that way, it is not just a political question but a fiscal one."

Alderman Ethel Sheehan, a member of the Land Use Committee, said of the proposal to raise the limit to 20 percent, "It will need alot of discussion. The percentage is negotiable from my point of view."

Sheehan added, "I'm not so sure you can say it will stop development. Sometimes we get a lot of scare tactics on these matters."

Developer James A. Miller said he could not speak on the matter as president of the Newton/Needham Chamber of Commerce, but said his personal opinion was that raising the requirement to 20 percent "would present some problems to developers. You can't even make the numbers come out at 10 percent."

Miller added that, "Absent other incentives, such as increased density, there would be insufficient reason to develop property in Newton" given the proposed zoning law changes.

Alan Green, developer of "The Gables," said he thought it was more important to develop housing in the city for moderate income families and "address the real needs of Newton." He questioned whether allowing increased density in return for low-income units was in line with "good land planning."

Green added, "There are lots of cities that have come up with a solution for this problem. I suspect that, with some Yankee ingenuity, we could come up with some very interesting programs."

DeNucci favors Gov. King's crime plan

BOSTON — Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D. Newton-Waltham), House Chairman of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee, said last week he "supports Governor King's plan to crack down on criminals by implementing tougher sentences for those who commit violent crimes against people."

DeNucci said generations of criminologists have proposed theories on education, rehabilitation, probation and various other alternatives.

The governor's plan calls for the establishment of a comprehensive system of presumptive sentences for violent personal crime and serious property crime. It establishes mandatory sentences for repeat rapists, arsonists and those who commit armed home invasion. It also abolishes the so-called "indeterminate" sentence, and instead creates a "truth in sentencing."

Nobel winner Hubel speaks at prayer breakfast

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Nobel laureate and Waban resident Dr. David Hunter Hubel likened his award-winning brain research to the same "reverence" which Thursday brought him and several hundred others together at the Eighth Annual Mayor's Prayer Breakfast.

"It's a deep philosophical issue," among other reasons, which inspires scientists to devote their lives to brain research, said 55-year-old Hubel.

Hubel was the honored guest at the prayer breakfast and recipient of the Newton Centennial Medallion Award from Mayor Theodore Mann. A professor of neurobiology at Harvard Medical School, Hubel, with colleague Torsten Wiesel, won the 1981 Nobel Prize in Medicine for research on the brain's processing of information which allows people to see.

"Is the brain just a machine or is it something more?" asks Hubel. "The relationship between the (brain) and the mind - You can't fail to think about them with a certain amount of awe and reverence, which is why we're here this morning."

A resident of Waban since 1958, Hubel said it is not unusual that someone from Newton won the esteemed Nobel prize. "It's no accident that so many prize winners are from this country," said Hubel, noting that seven 1981 Nobel winners are Americans. He emphasized that the United States, more than any other nation, encourages scientific research. Hubel added that an "absolutely terrific" university system is also attractive to various professionals.

"It's just wonderful to work here. You see that because so many people that come from other countries do just that. It draws people like magnets because it is such a nice place to work," said Hubel.

A native of Ontario, Canada, Hubel addressed more than 700 guests and "fellow victims of revaluation" at the Boston College dining hall.

He said he normally does not lecture on non-scientific topics, adding, "Scientists get preoccupied with technical problems."

However Hubel earned loud applause when he criticised budget cuts. "If you must cut, cut across the board. But don't start with the music teachers or the art teachers," Hubel said. "One hopes that in 2000 years we'll be remembered the way the Greeks were remembered and not the way the Romans were remembered."

Hubel said he chose to study the brain because it "is both interesting an beautiful in every sense.

"It can't help but be interesting. Everything that we know that people do is attributable, in some sense anyhow, to the brain," he said. Hubel said insights into brain damage and diseases are "obvious" reasons for continuing research. Understanding "deeply mysterious" aspects of the brain, such as its role in personality characteristics, is another important area for scientists, he said.

"There's good hope for understanding all these things."

In presenting the annual medallion award to Hubel, Mayor Mann said it is "fitting that we choose a person who has dedicated his life to clear understanding of the relationship between the eyes, vision, to the brain, to the mind, to the conscience and to the heart. It is central to what we talk about here."

Some 19 churches and temples from Newton were represented at the gathering, which attracted the largest number of guests since the annual event was started.

Various guests read prayers and bible passages, including readings by Rev. J. Donald Monan, President, Boston College, Rabbi Samuel Chiel, Temple Emanuel The Rev. Thomas Lannon, St. Ignatious Church, Lillie Jefferson, Myrtle Baptist Church and The Rev. Ned Martin, Second Church in Newton. Also addressing the audience was Jean-Christophe Oberg, Ambassador at Large, Sweden.

Boys and girls of the Brown Junior High School Chorus under the direction of Beatrice Maier and Alice Smith, highlighted the prayer breakfast with their performance of several religious songs.

> 'The relationship between (the brain) and the mind. You can't fail to think about them with a certain amount of awe and reverence, which is why we're here this morning.'

West Suburban honors volunteers

NEWTON — Twenty-six volunteers from the West Suburban nursing home programs were honored at a dinner recently. The date was set to mark National Volunteer Week, National Nursing Home Residents' Day and Older Americans Month.

The evening program included a speech by Diane Piktialis, assistant secretary of the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs, and official recognition of each volunteer.

The volunteers devote an average of three hours per week to the programs. Most are "ombudspersons" who visit nursing and rest home residents to hear and investigate their concerns; when concerns are verified, the ombudsperson works toward a fair solution. Other volunteers assist Choices for Living, a nursing home information and advisory service.

The programs, part of Cooperative Metropolitan Ministries, receive funding from West Suburban Elder Services and private foundations. Call 244-7157 for more information about the ombudsprogram or 244-0116 for information about Choices for Living. More volunteers are needed.

The volunteers honored recently included: NEEDHAM - David Brisk, Al Marshall, Lois Merrill and Susan Turner. NEWTON - Roland S. Lee, Helen Leneten, Ann Lennihan, Marilyn Sicurella, Maeve Ward and Arthur Wood.

New store stresses 'kid-knowlogy'

NEWTON CENTRE - A Newton Centre children's store has introduced a new term into the English language "Kid-knowlogy."

The store, Smart Stuff, LTD, is based on the premise that "learning from play is an intrinsic action as opposed to a formal learning situation, and why integrate them," according to Linda Lyons, one of the store owners along with Steve Schwartz and Rick Schwartz, who grew up in the Garden City.

According to Lyons, "Play aids in positive personality building and ego building. It's a voluntary situation that comes naturally to children of all ages and should be maximized at a congitive level" in terms of coordination, dexterity, perception and spacial relations.

The store owners say they are also trying to meet the needs of special needs and handicapped children, with a barrier-free access and "constructive play areas" within the store.

EMPLOYEES: CITY OF NEWTON

"Melissa is 10. She sees her dermatologist for her skin problem.

"Billy is 11. Street hockey keeps him in stitches.

"Andrea is 8. Just home from the hospital. Without her appendix.

"Plus regular check-ups for Sarah, our little surprise.

"Then add in shots, exams, and other routine care.

"If it weren't for Bay State, those doctor visits would have cost a fortune."

The Wilsons save a lot of money on doctor's visits because Mr. Wilson joined the Bay State Health Care plan where he works. With Bay State's group plan, an office visit to any Bay State doctor costs only $3.00. Even for services like routine physicals, eye and ear exams, and well-baby care.

What about hospital care? The Wilsons are covered for that, too. Bay State provides comprehensive coverage for both in-patient and out-patient services, whether minor or catastrophic. And there are no deductibles, co-insurance requirements, or waiting periods.

Personalized health care. The Wilsons were pleased to find that health care under Bay State's plan is more personal. They weren't limited to centralized facilities, but instead were able to choose from a list of more than 1200 member physicians, dentists and specialists.

How can you join Bay State Health Care? The Bay State plan is designed to provide City of Newton employees with an alternative health care plan, one that may better meet their individual or family situation. Although you're presently covered by medical insurance, it may be to your advantage to change to Bay State. Like the Wilsons, you could save plenty. If you have any questions call John Hennen or Deborah Ritorze at 742-3800.

Girl Scout cookie sale: a good year

WABAN — Eighteen troops of Girl Scouts have been working hard selling cookies to a most supportive Newton community for the last few months. Now it is all over for this year except for some good eating of cookies by customers. It is the time to applaud the good job done by all and to especially note the outstanding work done by those who sold the most boxes, either individually or at their troop level in Newton.

Nancy Grissom, Newton G.S. Service Unit Cookie Chairperson announced which troop at each level of scouting sold the most cookies. Record sales were made by Brownie Troop 2829, selling 1239 boxes of cookies, by Junior Troop 2620 selling 2760 boxes, by Cadette Troop 2395 selling 5052 boxes, and by Senior Troop 2529 selling 276 boxes. Brownie Troop 2829's Cookie Managers are Jane Cohen and Margaret Sapier; Laurel Dew is the proud leader. Junior Troop 2620's Leader, Linda Wurm thanks the troop Cookie Managers — Ronna Casper and Judy Weltz. Travel Cadette Troop 2395's Leader, Barbara Gassett also served as Cookie Manager and Marina Haley served as Cookie Manager of Senior Troop 2529, with Louise Kiley as leader.

The individual Girl Scout who is Newton G.S. "supersalesgirl" of 1982 for selling the most boxes is Kirsten Karegosian of Cadette Troop 2395. Besides a special patch, Kirsten is receiving a T-shirt, Scout duffle bag and Picadilly stuffed panda.

The best salespersons of G.S. Cookies at each level of Scouting are: Brownie Elizabeth Glazier of Troop 2829, who sold 277 boxes; Junior Girl Scout Kristen Morse of Troop 3032, selling 433 boxes; Cadette Kirsten Karegosian of Troop 2395, selling 503 boxes, and Senior Scout Clare Kiley of Troop 2529, who sold 114 boxes of cookies. Each of these outstanding Scouts received a special patch. Thirty-two Newton girls distinguished themselves by selling over 200 boxes each. The 1982 Cookie Sale was indeed successful and the 270 Girl Scouts in Newton appreciate the community support.

Locals will attend convention

NEWTON - A spokesman for the local Jehovah's Witnesses said last week a number of local people will be among more than one million expected to attend district conventions across the country this summer.

John Ligor, representative for the Newton Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said one of the first gatherings of the series which members from Newton will attend will be June 10 through 13 at the Providence Civic Center.

"More than 50 congregations from southeaster New England will be supporting the event that will draw over 9,000 people," Ligor said.

"Kingdom Truth" is the theme chosen and "will stress the unifying message of the Bible in this divided world," Ligor said. "It is the theme of the bible itself, from Genesis to Revelation. Many people today feel that mankind is without hope and hungry for truth. Now is the time to bring comfort and hope to all who really yearn for truth and the convention will assist us in seeing our obligation in relation to it and be stirred to do all we can in publishing kingdom truth."

Ligor said all sessions of the convention are free and open to the public.

Spagnuolo does it all for Lions in 12-4 windup win

Right-hander Joe Spagnuolo ended his junior year with an unmarred pitching performance, not allowing a single hit in the five innings he threw, to lead Newton South to a 12-4 victory at Bedford Friday in their season finale.

Spagnuolo, 6-0 on the year, also contributed two hits while fanning seven in South's 12-hit attack.

Lion Mike Pappas went 3-for-3 at the plate with a triple to aid Newton South, 13-5.

Bedford never had a chance as the Lions jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the third. Pappas was forced to second on a Rich Wenning grounder after he singled to leadoff the inning. Ben Adler has a base hit and Steve Mosca walked to load the bases for Jerry Marcus.

Marcus hit a sacrifice fly to score Pappas for the first run of the game. Joe Spagnuolo singled in a run and then Mark Nicoletti's grounder to third was bobbled, allowing the third run to score.

The second-place finishers of the Dual County League showed the hustle that got them there as Newton South rallied for six-runs in the fourth led by Steve Mosca's base clearing triple.

Back-to-back singles by Evan Kushner, 2-for-4, and Pappas started the inning. Wenning reached on an error to load the bases. Adler walked in a run and then Mosca crashed his three-run triple to make the score, 7-0.

Marcus singled Mosca home for the fifth run of the clip. Spagnuolo got to first on a shortstop's error and Mark Nicoletti's sacrifice fly moved Marcus to third. A deep fly ball by Mark Paglia scored Marcus from third for the sixth run and put Newton South up 9-0.

Bedford scored their only run off Spagnuolo in the bottom of the inning after a walk and an error scored a run.

Andy Young relieved Spagnuolo, who was to pitch in the McDonald Invitational Tournament over the weekend, in the fifth and gave up three runs.

Leading 9-1, the Lions grabbed three more in the sixth as Spagnuolo had a lead-off base hit, advanced to second on an error and moved to third on Nicoletti's single. Paglia's second sacrifice of the game netted him his second RBI, scoring Spagnuolo. Kushner cracked a double for a run and two walks loaded the bases for Newton South.

With two outs, Adler bounced a grounder, Kushner scored on the error and Pappas was thrown out at the plate.

Bedford added one in the sixth and two in the seventh off Young.

Gerson homers in Tiger 17-6 rout

Sophomore Sue Gerson had a big day at the plate in sparking the Newton North High girls' softball team to a 17-6 victory over Cambridge, Rindge and Latin Friday afternoon at the Newton North Field.

The Tigers lassies, who were slated to close out their season with a make-up Suburban League game with North Quincy at home today, brought their overall record to 8-7.

Gerson, who patrols centerfield, drove in four runs Friday on a pair of singles and a home run. Her round tripper came in the ffith inning with runner aboard. Caroline Corbato had singled before Sue blasted a drive over the right fielder's head.

Corbato, sophomore second baseman, and catcher Carol Summers and junior shortstop Denise Richards had two hits apiece.

Mary Reynolds, sophomore righthander, was the winning pitcher in relief. She was rushed to the mound in the fourth inning when starter Tina Gentile was struck on the side of her cap by a drive hit back through the mound. The senior pitcher was unhurt, but was taken out of the game as a precuationary move.

Reynolds came in with the score tied at 4-4. Newton North broke the game opne with as five-run rally in the bottom of the fourth inning, which included run-scoring singles by Patty McGrath and Reynolds.

Cambridge nips North to win Suburban League

The champions of the Suburban League, Cambridge, Rindge and Latin, had a run for their money as they narrowly defeated Newton North Friday, 2-1, as both pitchers threw a two-hitter at Newton North.

Left-handed Tiger pitcher Paul Howley and righty Mike Harshbarger went neck-and-neck to the wire, but three consecutive walks in the sixth by Howley lost the game for North.

Harshbarger threw a well-controlled game, fanning 10 Newton batters and allowing three to reach base on walks compared to Howley's three strikeouts and six base-on-balls. The Cambridge hurler also contributed a double.

Cambridge scored their two runs in the third on errors and walks by North. Two errors by the Tigers and a single by Cambridge almost started a rally for Rindge but a quick throw from center field by Chris Coen cut down the runner trying to score from third.

With runners posted at second and third, Howley walked three opposing batters in a line, forcing in Cambridge's only two runs.

Harshbarger kept Newton North scoreless until the last half of the seventh when the Tigers nearly broke the bank.

Joe Slamin reached on an error and then Harshbarger threw a base-on-balls to put runners at first and second. Howley moved each of the runners up a spot with a sacrifice fly. Slamin scored on a shot by Chris Coen that was misjudged by the shortstop for an error.

Men were on second and third with one out. Newton North looked as though they would pull it out, but Harshbarger kicked back for all he had left and fanned the next two batters to end the game.

The Tigers, 9-8 overall and 8-7 in league play, end the season Tuesday at North Quincy.

The summary:

CAMBRIDGE(2)--Harshbarger 4-1; Daugherty 3-0; Holmes 3-1; J. Lopes 1-0; S. Lopes 2-0; J. Hoog 2-0; B. Hoog 2-0; Rodriguez 2-0; Linares 1-0; Totals 20-2.

Newton's Wilcox top female athlete at Tufts

Diane Wilcox, who won 12 varsity letters and captained three championship tournament teams, is the recipient of the 1982 Hester L. Sargent Award as the top female athlete at Tufts University, Rocco J. Carzo, director of athletics, announced today.

The senior from Newton earned four varsity letters each in field hockey, indoor track and lacrosse during her college career. She captained the 1980 and 1981 field hockey teams to MAIAW championships and the 1982 lacrosse team to the New England Women's Lacrosse Association title.

"Diane has icredible presence which makes everyone around her perform a little better. She has the right kind of ability and the right kind of attitude to mmake her indispensable in team sports. She's a winner and I wouldn't trade her for any athlete in the world," said Marisa Didio, field hockey and lacrosse coach at Tufts.

Wilcox earned All-East honors while setting school records for most assists (9) and most points (15) in a season while leading the '81 field hockey team to an 11-1-1 record and an MAIAW Class B championship. The previous year, she was the eading scorer on a 7-4-2 field hockey team which captured the MAIAW Class C championshiP.

A consistent scorerin the shot put and hurdles, shc was a member of an idoor track program which compiled an overall record of 36-4 in four years and went undefeated in her freshman and sophomore years.

She was also a four-year regular in lacrosse. After being moved from defense to attack in her sophomore year, she scored 27 goals and 20 assists while pacing the Jumbos to three straight winning seasons.

"Diane is an All-American person who happens to be an outstanding athlete. Her genuine concern for all those around her has greatly improved the status of athletics at Tufts," added Carzo in making the award presentation.

Wilcox also received a 1982 Senior Award from Tufts on the basis of her academic and community work. A child study major with a 3.0 grade point average, she was a volunteer teacher in the Medford public school system and a member of local church groups in addition to her involvement with athletics.

A former field hockey and track captain at Newton South High School, Diane is the daughter of Robert and Ann Wilcox of 418 Woodward St., Newton.

Spicer sparks Lion girls

Laurie Spicer lifted her average to .350 with two hits, including a double, to help the Newton South girls' softball team defeat Belmont, 15-10, Thursday at Newton.

The Lions, who improved their record to 6-9 with the victory, stormed out to a 9-1 lead after three innings with three runs in the second and six in the third. Barbara Littman and Chiqui Wales started the second with walks. Donna Segal doubled to knock in the first two runs and later scored herself on a wild pitch.

The Lions broke it open in the third. Spicer began the inning with a single and moved to second when Leslie Smith walked. Chiqui Wales then lashed a two-run double to score both runners. Chiqui's sister, Blanca, walked to load the bases and one run was forced in when Judy Cimetta was hit by a pitch. Newton South's final three runs were all forced in on bases-loaded walks to Segal, Gale Arduino and Chris Moan.

The Lions upped the cushion to 13-1 with four more in the fourth before Belmont exploded with seven in the fifth to cut the lead back to 13-8. But, despite scoring two more in the next inning, they were never really able to get close to the Lions.

Newton South was also in action Wednesday afternoon, dropping a 12-6 decision to Lincoln-Sudbury. Spicer and Lynn Waldstein both had two hits in the defeat.

The Lions wind up the season Friday at Concord-Carlisle.

Hawk runners blitz Quincy, 113-13

Depth was the deciding factor as Quincy High had only a handful of entries in the final meet of the season for Waltham and Waltham rolled to a 113-13 win over Quincy at Quincy's Memorial Stadium Thursday.

Freshman Trent Sevene had an outstanding day as he ran the two-mile in a time of 10:33 only to be shaded by teammate Greg Platt for the win, who was the runner-up in the State mile.

It was Sevene's best effort of the season. He is the son of Bob Sevene, coach of Athletics West, an amateur organization.

Platt was also the winner in the triple jump with a distance of 36'6".

Sophomore Andy Kramer won two events for the Hawks as well. He took the high jump (5'2") and the high hurdles (19 flat).

Five of Waltham's winners were sophomores which shows plenty of encouragement for the future.

For the Hawks, Doug Hoffer won the javelin, Steve Thomas came in first in the low hurdles and Sung Kim raced in ahead of everyone else in the 100.

Waltham ends its season at 2-3.

But the season isn't over for all the Hawks. Kramer and Joe Romanowski will be entering the States this weekend at Boston College in the pole vault along with Platt in ther 880, Kevin Milligan and Brian McKenzie in the mile, Sevene in the 880 and Joe Kelly in the 330 hurdles.

Dodgers, Xidea are on top, 7-4

Winning their seventh out of their last eight games and lifting their record to 7-4, the Dodgers nipped the Cubs, 8-7, in Newton East Little League action Monday night at Newton Centre Field

Mike Xidea was the winning pitcher, coming in to relieve starter Jonno Dietz.

The Cubs jumped out to a 5-0 after an inning and a half on key hits by Stuart Ablon and Brian Logan.

But the Dodgers came back in the bottom of the second with six runs behind a grand slam by Danny Freeman to leftfield. It was his seventh homer in 11 games.

The Cubs added two more in the fourth to take a 7-6 lead.

Alex Doren scored in the fifth to tie it at seven.

In the sixth, a bases loaded single by Jonno Dietz won the game for the Dodgers.

Longwood tennis

Eliot Teltscher, who recently became only the second American in 22 years to reach the finals of the Italian Open in Rome, has joined Ivan Lendl and Guillermo Vilas in the field for the 55th U.S. Pro Tennis Championships, to be held July 10-19, at the Longwood Cricket Club in Chestnut Hill.

Teltscher thus becomes the third player ranked in the top 10 to enter the 1982 U.S. Pro, an event where he was a semifinalist a year ago.

McDonald Invitational Tournament

North, Watertown in battle for crown

Newton North and Watertown High will squared off on Monday night for the championship game of the McDonald Invitational Tournament at Victory Field, Watertown, after both teams won their contests over the rain-swept Memorial Day weekend.

The Tigers outscored their cross-town rivals, Newton South, 10-1, while the Red Raiders blanked St. Patrick's, 5-0, Sunday. Both games were originally scheduled for Saturday but were washed out and re-scheduled.

Boston Latin was set to play the Red Raiders Saturday, but were forced to withdraw from the tournament since the school does not participate in sporting events on Sundays.

St. Patrick's was called in as a replacement for Boston Latin because of their locale and talent, according to Watertown coach Mo Maloney.

Newton North banged out 14 hits, highlighted by a five-run sixth inning, in their 4 p.m. start Sunday behind third baseman John Corsi. Corsi went 4-for-4 at the plate with a triple as he started three of the four Tiger scoring innings with a single.

Catcher Joe Slamin had three hits for Newton North with a double and triple, scoring twice and driving in two.

The Tigers got rolling in their first ups by scoring one as Corsi tripled to drive in winning pitcher Richie Marchioni, a four-hitter, who reached base on a walk off Lion Mike Pappas.

Five straight hits, lead by Corsi's single, off Pappas began a three-run third. After Corsi, Slamin, Chris Pauchus, Paul Howley and Chris Coen all had a base hit. Pachus, Howley and Coen had the RBI's that inning.

But Corsi's magic kept sparkling as his leadoff single in the sixth ignited a five-run inning. Slamin doubled him in and then Chris Pauchus walked. Howley doubled to drive in his second and third runs of the day.

Three walks in a row followed, forcing in the fourth run of the inning and then Marchioni's sacrifice fly to leftfield knocked in one more.

Pappas was replaced by Mark Paglia.

The Lions eluded a shutout by coming across the plate for one in their half of the sixth as Paglia knocked in Joe Spagnuolo. Spagnuolo had doubled and was sacrificed to third by Mark Nicoletti.

Watertown 5, St. Pat's 0

In the nightcap, right-handed senior Joe Posato took charge and fired a three-hitter, going the distance and walking none behind triples by Frank Zaino and Bob Rallis.

RBI's for the Red Raiders came from Zaino, Rallis and a double by Joe Hauswirth.

The score was deadlocked at zero when Watertown came to bat in the fourth but four runs that inning put St. Pat's away for good.

Leftfielder Zaino lashed a single to center to start the rally before Mark Corliss walked. That's when Rallis strolled up to the batter's box and shot a triple over the centerfielder's head to drive in a couple of runs. Rallis scored on a throwing error.

Lou Spiridigliozzi reached on a throwing error and Dave Kelley singled. With two outs, Hauswirth smashed a double, scoring Spiridigliozzi.

St. Pat's threatened in the fourth. With a runner on second and two out, Bob Rallis made a diving save on a hot grounder to first to get the batter out and end the inning.

In the fifth, leading 4-0, the Red Raiders' Charlie Everett walked, stole second and third and scored on Zaino's triple to center.

But all wasn't bad for St. Patrick's. Paul Piselli had a double and a single for them and catcher Tony Gulla kept Watertown on their toes as he cut down the first four runners trying to steal second.

St. Pat's will play the Lions in the consolation game, Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Victory Field.

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Faithful paid tribute

According to Mann, "We do prosper with peace. Instead of spending millions on destruction, human service needs could be met and economic growth realized at a fraction of the dollars involved.

"What of the lives lost fighting wars, those soldiers we are here to remember and honor?" he asked. "What talent was snuffed? What contributions to humanity unrealized?"

Mann emphasized the theme of this Memorial Day was "one of community...community awareness, community involvement, community action. Therefore, it is fitting that we, as a community united, gather here to honor those who have fallen with a commitment to make our community one of even greater understanding and cooperation."

New director

Ronald Knudsen, presently concertmaster and associate conductor of the Newton Symphony Orchestra, has been named music director and conductor for the 1982-83 season.

Ronald Knudsen new Symphony conductor

NEWTON - The Newton Symphony Orchestra board of directors has named Ronald Knudsen, presently concertmaster and associate conductor of the orchestra, to the post of music director and conductor for the 1982-83 season. Knudsen, a violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will continue the excellent musical director of the NSO established by its founding music director Michel Sasson, now the principal guest conductor at the La Scala Opera House, Milan, Italy..

Knudsen, who has been with the Newton Symphony for three consecutive years, has also been concertmaster and assistant conductor with the Brockton Symphony Orchestra.

He is a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore and was concertmaster and soloist with the Berkshire Festival Orchestra, then a member of the Baltimore and Detroit Symphony Orchestras before joining the Boston Symphony in 1965.

Knudsen, a Newton resident, has been an active chamber music performer and has been a member of the contemporary music ensemble Collage, of the Halcyon String Trio and of Fiori Musicale, a baroque music group. He is on the faculty of the Yound. Artist Program at Tanglewood and of the All Newton Music School. Knudsen will give music lovers a taste of his musical ideas in a free concert on the Esplanade by the NSO, under his leadership, on Saturday, June 12 at 8 p.m.

The relaxed setting of the MDC Hatch Memorial Shell, on the Charles River, will be the backdrop for music of Rachmaninoff, Bizet and Enesco and highlights from the popular musical, Annie, by Charles Strouse. The Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 2 will be performed by Boston's nationally known artist David Deveau.

This will be the NSO's third annual performance on the Esplanade which has attracted thousands to the riverside park. This year the concert has been assisted by grants from Continental Cablevision, Inc., Legal Seafoods, Oscar Wasserman of Newton, the Shawmut Community Bank and West Newton Savings Bank.

Childbirth class is planned

LOWER FALLS — What should you eat during your pregnancy? What exercises will keep your body in shape?

These are just some of the questions addressed in Newton-Wellesley Hospital's P.E.P. program, a new early pregnancy course for expectant couples. The next four week series of the Physical Fitness, Experiencing Pregnancy and Prenatal Nutrition course began recently and will continue on Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the School of Nursing's Allen Riddle Hall.

P.E.P is taught by three professionals: a registered physical therapist, a registered dietitian and a childbirth education instructor. Unlike many other childbirth education courses, P.E.P. provides expectant couples with important information about physical exercise and nutrition.

To enroll in the course, women must receive written authorization from their obstetrician. Call the NWH Childbirth Education Office from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 964-2800, Ext. 2343 to register.

Museum of Industry asking for money

WALTHAM - The Charles River Museum of Industry has some $217,000 pledged in Government grants, but needs $15,000 a month until November to keep operations on a steady keel.

Museum Director Michael B. Folsom updated the trustees on progress and plans for the developing museum located in the Mill Housing off Moody Street Thursday.

With the assistance of Waltham Architect Walter Keyes a tentative layout of the exhibit area including the big boiler room at the end of the factory was outlined.

Museum Curator Steven Lubar mentioned some of the collections that have been acquired including the $100,000 Atwood collection of watches and tools. Lubar will take a leave of absence next spring to undertake a -fellowship at the Smithsonian in Washington.

Planner Shari West told the trustees that by visiting other industrial museums around the country the Charles River group has a better idea of what "works" for museum visitors and what kind of exhibits and programs will be successful. She indicated that "hands on" participation by visitors including children will be one of the goals of the museum.

Director Folsom alluded to the hazards of starting a museum when he noted the Lowell Museum and the Museum of Transportation in this area have failed.

Folsom said that the Museum of Transportation had some annual costs of housing and programs that was running $400,000 annually. The program was too ambitions, he indicated.

Herbert Ahrens of the Trustees indicated that the museum will eliminate one of the big costs when it signs a 20-year lease with the owners of the Mill housing for $1 a year. Ahrens i an executive with polaroid.

Earl Wilson of the Development Comnittee issued a call "for money, for your time. We need the greenstuff to keep operating."

It was explaned that the government grants that assisted in getting the museum started are for special purposes and as such don't pay things such as electric bills and some salaries.

Gerald J. Cianciolo has been hired as a part-time director of public relations and development. His charts were used by Wilson to outline strategy in fund raising.

One of the projects the museum will aim at is the elementary and high school students so that they will know that the country was not made solely by "presidents and generals" but also by "American engineering, ingenuity and craftsmanship."

A workshop for teachers will be held at the museum July 12 to 23 on the theme "Teaching Industrial History."

Wins top honor in Watertown

Town says thanks to Mrs. Corbett

By Paul Dinger
Staff Writer

WATERTOWN — Bernadette Corbett is the "Outstanding Person of the Year."

She won the top Watertown Chamber of Commerce award last night at its annual awards banquet at the Oakley Country Club.

"My children," she said hesitating as she glanced to the back of the room to see all of her six children who had slipped in to the banquet hall. "I'm absolutely flabbergasted."

Mrs. Corbett said she felt her work in the community made her "a better mother," and she thanked her husband, John, for his support in her work.

Although it was the first time a woman has won the Stanley Porter Cup award, Mrs. Corbett's award represented the third time in two years that a woman has been nominated for the high honor by the chamber.

Sonia Boyajian was elected the 1981 president of the Chamber of Commerce and Kelley MacDonald was chosen as the chamber executive vice president last year.

Coincidentally, Mrs. Corbett's brother-in-law William, principal of the Lowell School, was named "Outstanding Elementary School Principal in Massachusetts" four days before she won her award as outstanding person of the year. She is the wife of Watertown attorney John Corbett.

Mrs. Corbett grew up in Watertown and, in addition to raising six children, has spent much time as a volunteer for Red Cross blood drives, on the board of directors of the Beaverbrook Guidance Center, and, recently, as the president of the board of directors of the Watertown Boys' Club.

"Bernadette is best known for her quiet and persistent ability to get a job done," said chamber Executive Vice President Kelley MacDonald. Recently, she was largely responsible for keeping the Boys' Club open with her efforts in a fund-raising drive. "Against odds that many would have not challenged, she has made a very permanent mark on our community and its commitment to youth," said MacDonald.

Other awards given at the banquet were:

- Douglas Kolb, Western Electric distribution manager won the Dexter Whitinghill Memorial Award for outstanding service to the chamber as a member and committee person.
- Boston Edison won the award for Significant Industrial Development.

Tainted marijuana can spread salmonella

BOSTON (UPI) — Marijuana can carry salmonella bacteria that cause a painful digestive ailment often linked to food poisoning and non-smokers can contract the disease merely by coming in contact with flecks of the tainted pot, a report published today said.

The World of Travel
by Hank Fleming
TRAVEL BY THE HANDICAPPED
The physical act of boarding a plane or taxi seem to be the easiest part of vacation travel unless you happen to be physically handicapped. Elevators in airports, rest room access and car rentals are but a few of the problems which confront this segment of our population. While ramps, wider doors and wheelchairs are making travel easier for the disabled, change is slow in coming. If you are a handicapped traveler, make your disability known to your travel agent. The necessary communications and arrangements can then be made to make your trip easier. Usually, wise planning can make for a smooth transition through airports with necessary facilities. Handicapped travelers should write to airlines, airports and hotels to voice their concerns.
While FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham always has available a large assortment of package tours to a wide variety of destinations throughout the world we also look forward to working with you on an individual basis. If you or a member of your travelling party has any special requirements we will do everything possible to assure a trouble free vacation. There is never any additional charge to you for our services. Passport photos taken here. Most major credit cards honored. Call us at 899-5658.

High school grads here prefer high tech

WALTHAM - Engineering and computer science are two of the top careers preferred by this year's hiqh school graduates in Waltham and Newton.

Jobs are tight in a recession, but college engineering grads are being offered salaries in the $23,000 to $30,000 range and computer specialists are in the $21,000 to $24,000 range.

Myra Trachtenberg, counselor in charge of the Career Center at Newton North High School said she knew one woman who got her doctorate in computers and her first job paid $39,000 and a couple of years later she was earing $46,000.

Margaret Nolan, assistant director of pupil services at Waltham High School said "women have been going into management" in recent years and "doing wonderful."

But Miss Nolan added, "I suppose the (women in management) field will be glutted in another year or two."

Ms. Trachtenberg said some schools have dropped the "business" out of programs in favor of "administration or management" and then let students elect courses aimed at business or the public sector.

There always seems to be a demand for accountants and business management graduates, but the traditional liberal arts majors find it toughest to find jobs right out of college.

"Today," Ms. Trachtenberg said, "many liberal arts students haven't found a career they want and are hoping their liberal arts courses will lead them to some occupation."

In an era of declining population and declining school enrollment, many students are steering away fron education except in the area of special education.

Miss Nolan and Ms. Trachtenberg agreed there is a big move toward health related fields and the service fields, but financial rewards are mixed.

U.S. Labor Dept. statistics for 1978 show a social worker with a master's degree earning about $10,300 to start, Ms. Trachtenberg said. "But you add 10 percent a year to that so it's about 40 percent better now," she added.

But a physical therapist which is a rapidly growing field in health care was earning $13,000 to start in 1978. Other rapidly growing occupations in the health field are occupational and inhalation therapists.

There is a big demand for nurses and their salaries have been moving up, but Ms. Trachtenberg says the lack of financial reward to go with their professional standing has slowed some from becoming nurses.

"I think things are changing. In California it is not uncommon for a nurse to earn $25,000 while it it is not common here. The hospitals will be forced to upgrade salaries as the nursing shortage continues, said Ms. Trachtenberg.

Ms. Trachtenberg said students should go to the library and get the "Occupational Outlook Handbook" put out by the U.S. Labor Dept. "It is an excellent source of information," she said but warned that inflation has been increasing salaries about 10 percent a year.

In Waltham, Miss Nolan said, about 30 percent go on to a four-year-college, about 30 percent go on to a two year college or some form of specialized training such as technicians at Wentworth Institute and Franklin Institute or Sylvania Institute in Waltham. Some go train to be hairdressers and similar fields.

Pomerleau gains finals in Canadian diving

Waltham diver Scott Pomerleau was in Montreal, Canada this past weekend competing in Canada's National Age Group Diving Championships. Scott was one of five Americans invited to the prestigious event.

Performing in all three events, tower, 1 and 3-meter spring boards, he competed against Canada's best. Those individuals included Mark Rourke, World Age Gropu champion: Perry Chamchuk and Jay-Jon Strifler of Alberta and Steve Kirkham of Ottawa.

Scott, a finalist in all three events (top 8) had a lot of re[illegible]t for the Canadians.

In the tower event, Pomerleau finished seventh, scoring 210.20 points (6 dives).

Docs fighting the death penalty

By Richard Lodge
Graphic Editor

NEWTON - A group of physicians, led by a Newton man, has jumped into the fight to keep the death penalty off the books in Massachusetts.

Dr. Jonathan Weisbuch is chairing a symposium June 11 at Harvard Medical School on "Physicians and the Death Penalty."

Weisbuch, former commissioner of health in North Dakota and director of Health Services for the Massachusetts Department of Corrections from 1974-76, said almost 100 physicians from around the commonwealth have joined the fledgling Physicians Against the Death Penalty (PADP).

Although the question of reinstating capital punishment in this state has not arisen, as yet, in the gubernatorial campaign, Dr. Weisbuch says the "docs" have organized to prevent the death penalty from creeping back into the Massachusetts penal system. In at least one state, Weisbuch said, prison officials would rely on a "physician's assistant" to give a lethal drug dose to inmates on death row.

"The American Medical Society position is that physicians should not be involved (in executions)," Weisbuch said last week. "That sort of begs the question."

In states considering reinstitution of the death penalty advocates "are arguing that physicians' assistants will be involved. If he says no, they fire him. If he says yes, he goes against the very reasons he became a physician's assistant," Weisbuch said.

At the June 11 symposium, which will feature such speakers as noted defense lawyer Max D. Stern and Tufts University Professor of Philosophy Dr. Hugo Bedau, Dr. Ward Casscells, co-founder of PADP, will speak on "Lethal injections: The physician as executioner."

Among those advocating the death penalty for criminals, the electric chair and gas chamber are almost passe, Weisbuch said, in favor of administration of a lethal drug injection.

"It's $15 a shot," he said. "It makes a lot of sense from an economic point of view. But economics is not, at all, the issue.

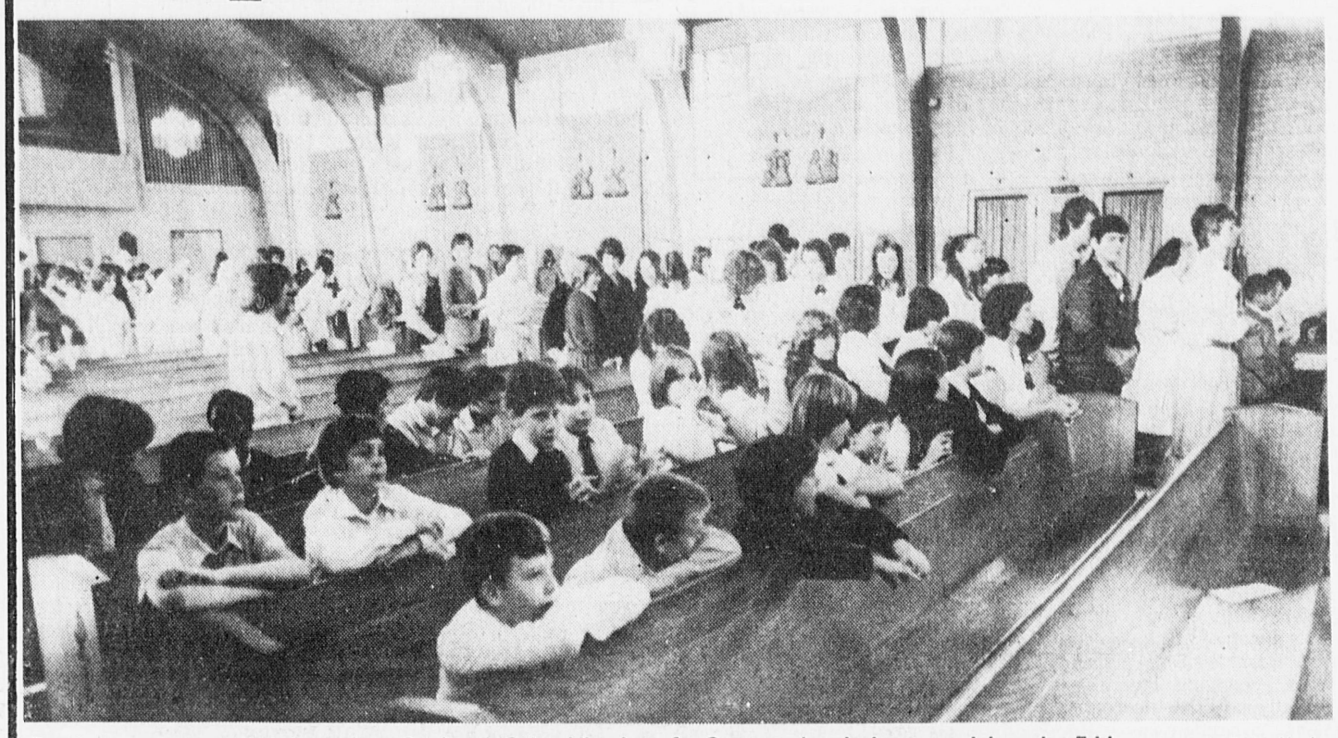
Requiem for a school



Teachers, parents and students from St. Jean's School lined up for Communion during a special service Friday. Photos by Richard Lodge

Controversy is over; St. Jean's closes

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — It was a bittersweet moment as St. Jean's school released its students Friday to a carefree summer which, unlike other summers, would not see the financially troubled school reopen in September.

The last parochial elementary school in Newton, Ecole Saint Jean L'Evangeliste (generally known as St. Jean's) was founded in 1925 by St. Jean's parish on Watertown Street.

The heated controversy this spring over the decision to close the school was something which the church's pastor, Father Francis LeBrun, said he expected because "people have such high regard for the school."

During the final "First Friday" mass for the students last week, Fr. LeBrun urged the many parents, teachers and students at the mass against being bitter or sad over the closing of the school and to be thankful instead for the 57 years St. Jean's has been in existence.

"What St. Jean's has meant to us is a thought that we should carry with us," Fr. LeBrun said.

"We want to thank all of the people involved in the school. There is a whole line of teachers in our minds—people who were dedicated," he said with emotion.

"We have to have ideals in our lives; we have to have values. And this has been the task of the teachers at St. Jean's forever," Fr. LeBrun said urging the students to carry their high ideals to their new schools.

According to Diane Donnellan of Newton, chairperson of St. Jean's School Board, about half of the school's 132 students will be going to public school and other half to private schools such as Newton Catholic High School and grammar school.

At the end of the mass, awards were given to the outstanding 7th graders in the school and certificates were handed out individually to all students through Fr. LeBrun. Although the special awards are traditionally given only to the 8th grade graduating class at a separate mass, the school's principal, Natalie Stimmell, and teachers decided to present awards to the 7th graders as well.

Eighth grade graduation ceremonies were held Sunday evening in the parish.

Donnellan said she will send her four children to the Newton public schools next year because she has found other Catholic schools more expensive than St. Jean's. Donnellan fought hard along with other school parents this spring to try to raise money to keep the school going and she helped to create a brochure advertising the strengths of the school.

The brochures, which were on a table at a coffee following the mass, were picked up by many parents as souvenirs. A huge cake donated by Antoine's Bakery in Nonantum which said "Aurevoir a Notre Ecole St. Jean" was among donations from Newton stores for the final reception at the school.

The brochure touts small class sizes and a supportive environment as some of the outstanding features of the school, but, for many parents, this is an understatement of what St. Jean's has given their children.

One father of three children who have attended St. Jean's said the school practices "a dying art—individual treatment."

"It really was an experience," a West Roxbury woman said of her children's years at the school. "It is truely a unique school. They'll never have something like this again."

Mt. Ida hit by 2-alarm blaze

NEWTON — A two-alarm blaze caused extensive damage early Tuesday in the Mount Ida Junior College library-administration building, shooting flames through the roof and slightly injuring five firefighters.

Some 42 men on nine trucks battled the blaze reported at 11:33 p.m. Monday for more than five hours before the flames were doused at the exclusive women's junior college.

"The building suffered extensive damage," a fire official said. "The flames went right through the roof. Three-fourths of the roof is gone."

He said five firefighters suffered minor injuries.

The blaze "appeared to have started in a first floor utility room," said Asst. Chief William Dwyer. He added that the flames "spread rather quickly" through the one and a half story wood-brick building.

The cause is under investigation today.

Firefighters from nearby Brookline aided in fighting the fire.

Asst. Chief Dwyer said the administration building is some distance from dormitories and

Arson blamed in Peirce fire

WEST NEWTON — Arson is suspected as the cause of a minor fire in the Peirce Elementary School Monday night which brought down the curtain on a performance in the auditorium and forced evacuation of the audience.

Fire officials said the fire broke out just before 8 p.m. and engines 2,4,5 and ladders 1 and 3, along with Assistant Chief William Dwyer, responded.

According to Superintendent Aaron Fink, the fire was "apparently set" and a small bottle containing rags saturated with an inflammable liquid was found at the scene. However, fire officials would not confirm this.

Fink said the fire was confined to a wooden locker in a back hall of the school and caused minor damage to a portion of a wall. No estimate of the cost of the fire had been determined Monday night.

"Fortunately it was caught within a minute or two after it had been set," Fink said.

Fink said School Department work crews had washed down the area, installed a new wall section and were ready to repaint the area.

News of the fire came to Fink while he was attending a special School Committee meeting Monday night at Bigelow Junior High. Fink announced at the end of the meeting that a fire had occurred at the school.

The Newton schools have had two major fires since April 1981. One of three Hyde School buildings was gutted by an April 1981 fire and, in August 1981, a wing of the Brown Junior High (formerly Meadowbrook) suffered heavy damage.

Abatement details mailed to residents

NEWTON — A letter detailing property tax abatement and appeal rights, deadlines, and details was scheduled to be mailed to all taxpayers Tuesday.

Alderman Sondra Shick, with the aid of several other aldermen, drafted the two-page foldout letter detailing the abatement procedure for homeowners and businessmen claiming to be overassessed.

Aldermen approved $7,500 for the printing and mailing of the letter last week.

Abatement applications must be filed at the City Hall assessor's office on Commonwealth Avenue by June 28. Under state statute, assessors have 90 days to act on the abatement application.

Taxpayers do not need an attorney to file the abatement application which must contain description of the property by address and street number.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer has advised taxpayers to provide as much data and evidence as possible of the alleged overassessment. He stressed that detailed information will result in quicker and more efficient review of the wave of applications anticipated.

Guest performer

Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flute of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will perform with pianist Martin Amlin in a benefit for the James Pappoutsakis Memorial Fund on Friday, June 11 at the home of Irma and Allan Mann, 26 Merrill Road, Newton Centre.

Benefit for Pappoutsakis fund planned for June 11

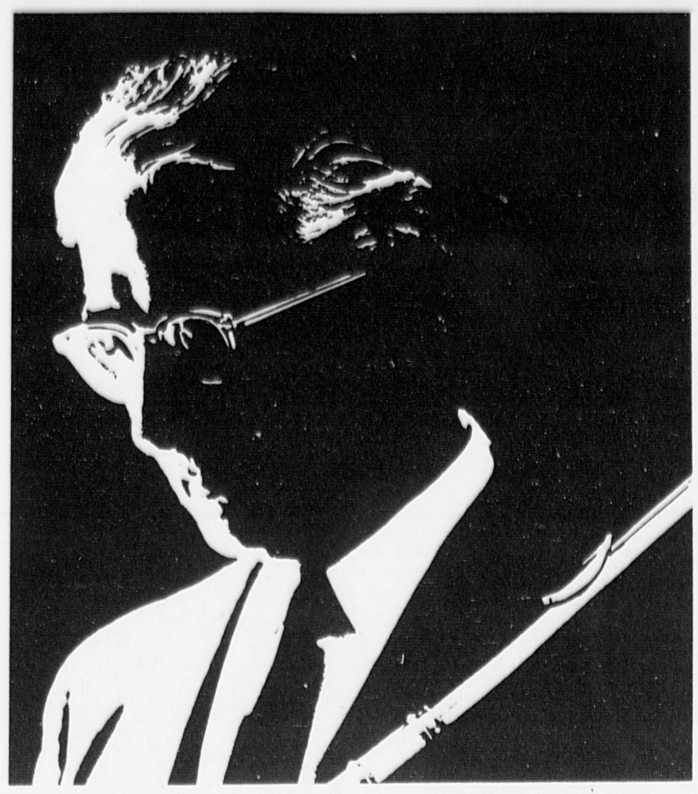
NEWTON CENTRE — An evening of fine music and gourmet food is planned Friday, June 11 to benefit the James Pappoutsakis Memorial Fund, named in memory of the late member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra who died in 1979.

The benefit evening will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mann, 26 Merrill Road, Newton Centre.

Featured performor for the evening will be Doriot Anthony Dwyer, principal flutist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, accompanied by Martin Amlin, pianist. The duet will perform music by Poulenc, Honegger and La Montaine.

The evening's menu will be prepared by host Allan Mann and Margo Miller of The Boston Globe will be the guest speaker.

The Memorial Fund was estabilshed in 1979 after the death of Mr. Pappoutsakis, a BSO flutist for some 40 years. The fund's purpose is to encourage promising young flutists studying in Boston area music schools by presenting awards won through annual flute-playing competitions.



In memory

James Pappoutsakis, for over 40 years a flutist with the Boston Symphony, died in 1979 but a benefit concert is planned in Newton Centre Friday, June 11 to raise funds for the Memorial Fund in his name.

"Mr. P," as his students called him, had a distinguished reputation as a teacher as attested to in many ways - he had 18 students who had been awarded Fulbright Scholarships; a Pappoutsakis Award for Excellence in Flute Playing has been established at the Boston University Tanglewood program for young artists; his own students have honored him with a chair bearing his name in Jordan Hall of the New England Conservatory of Music; and the famous flute makers, Verne Q. Powell Flutes, Inc., donated a flute to the Conservatory in his name.

Rain couldn't stop prayers for peace

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Despite the bad weather, about 100 city residents Sunday afternoon gathered at the Bishop MacKenzie Center for a prayer service in support of peace and nuclear disarmament.

Carolyn Arond of Newtonville, along with her husband and two young children, was one of many at the service planning to attend a disarmament rally in New York this weekend. From June 7 to July 9, the United Nations in New York will host the second special session on disarmament.

On June 12, 500,000 are expected to mark the occassion with a rally at Central Park. An estimated 2,000 to 3,000 Newton residents are expected to attend the rally.

"I think it's clear that we can't look to our leadership to take the lead," said Arond, who became intersted in disarmament as an undergraduate in college. "We have to show them where to go." Arond attended the first United Nations special session on disarmament two years ago.

"This is our chance to make this world work," she said. "If we muff it now, won't get a second chance."

Linda Lowe, a member of a Newton action for disarmament group, is also planning to attend the rally in New York.

"It can be effective as a way of giving Washington the message that a lot of people care very deeply on this issue," she said.

The prayer service Sunday was made up of readings, songs and speeches in support of disarmament from activists, clergy and political leaders.

Before clergy and activists took to the microphone, the service had a carnival like flavor. A folk singer led the crowd in the singing of "Where have all the Flowers Gone?" and "We've Got the Whole World in our Hands," and children in clown makeup and rainbow decals paraded around the gym and tossed balloons with "love" scribbled in magic marker on them. The service, originally scheduled for the Newton Centre green, was forced indoors by the heavy rain.

While a bucket in the middle of the gym floor filled with rain from a leaking roof, clergy from all faiths stepped to the microphone.

Rabbi Samuel Chiel of the Temple Emanuel had the strongest criticism of President Ronald Reagan and world leaders ignoring cries for disarmament.

"The truth is most of are terribly suspicious of our leaders and statesman," he said. "We have leadership that is frightening us." He particularly cited Reagan's belief that a nuclear war is winable.

Referring to claims the Reagan administration hopes a June 29 peace conference in Geneva will "diffuse" the nuclear disarmament movement, Chiel said: "We are here to say to the government of the United States and the government of Russia that we are not about to diffuse. We want to live. We want our children to live...We will not be satisfied until our goals have been met."

Chiel also praised those "committed" enough to attend the service despite the rain.

Mayor Theodore Mann read a prayer attributed to Rabbi Nachman of Bratzlov. "May we see the day when war and bloodshed will cease," said Mann. "When a wondrous peace will embrace the world. When nation will not threaten nation. When humankind will not experience war."

The service also attracted U.S. Rep. Margaret Heckler (R-10th) battling U.S. Rep. Barney Frank (D-4th) for the fourth congressional district in the September primary.

Writer digs into 'Dune' secrets

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

Timothy O'Reilly first read Frank Herbert's science fiction classic Dune when he was 11-years old.

Nearly 20 years after reading the novel he says "impressed" him a "great deal," O'Reilly has gone on to write the first book study of the author and the science fiction adventure that has captured the imaginations of millions.

The Newton Centre resident's book, entitled simply "Frank Herbert" (published by Frederick Ungar), provides fascinating insight into the Dune series along with a portrait of Herbert through a collection of interviews.

In an intimate conversation with a small group of science fiction fans and friends at the Lincoln Street Turnover Books store, O'Reilly talked about Dune and Herbert.

O'Reilly, 28, says the center of the Dune series is a life-style philosophy that goes far beyond the narrative of life on a desert planet in the far, far future. His book, as he says, attempts to "open up" the "depth" in Herbert's writing that is not always clear to readers.

In Herbert's hands, O'Reilly says, "science fiction is a training manual for consciousness." It is not surprising then that O'Reilly, a computer consultant who writes computer mannuals from his home, is a consciousness teacher.

The Dune series follows the life of a hero-messiah, who has special powers and the ability to see the future, on a strange planet.

O'Reilly says Herbert's writing is attempting to prod people into being "more conscious" to life and what is going on around them. He says Herbert is attempting to show how "susceptible" people are to the "hero-myth."

"What Herbert does with all his books is build a scenario for people to go through and hope they will come out the other side with a diff-ference," O'Reilly says. "They won't just have read a book and be entertained...Maybe they'll become more aware."

"He's trying to urge an evolution in ourselves," he adds. O'Reilly's own book, in many ways, parallels Herbert's science fiction.

O'Reilly says his book asks readers to "think about" the issues posed by Herbert and what they mean to everyday life.

"What I am really after is the subject matter and not whether Frank Herbert is as great a writer as Herman Melville or if he's as good a stylist as Hemingway," he says.

"It's a way of being perceptive and open to the universe," O'Reilly says of Herbert's Dune philosophy. "The world is a very exciting, very dynamic, changing place."

O'Reilly says that Herbert asks readers to "open" themselves up to life and ideas rather than constantly aiming for total "control."

O'Reilly, a Harvard graduate, is a longtime science fiction fanatic. "I had read science fiction since second grade," he says. "There was a time when I think I had read everything."

He got the chance to put his his science fiction zeal to good use when a publishing friend asked him to write a book on Herbert.

While writing the book, O'Reilly became friends with the popular science fiction writer. He is now editing a collection of essays by Herbert.

"I am very excited about some of his ideas," O'Reilly says of Herbert's writing. "He is really pointing to some very important issues in our culture. I was just trying to open that up."

Art of Kogin will be displayed at Waban Library on June 16

WABAN — Mrs. Setsu Maeda, a designated "Living National Treasure of Japan", will display Kogin embroidery and speak informally (through an interpreter) on June 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Waban Branch Library, 1608 Beacon Street.

Maeda was born in Japan, and has devoted her life to preserving and teaching the ancient art of Kogin, the only form of peasant embroidery in Japan. As a result of her dedication to this cause, she was officially designated by the Japanese Government as a Living National Treasure in 1965 (there are 70 in all). Since then she has travelled throughout Europe and Asia to share, and teach Kogin. She has won many major awards, and has had much national recognition through exhibits, publications and television appearances in her native land. She established the Society for Preservation of Kogin Embroidery, and presently teaches at N.H.K. Cultural Center in Japan.

Maeda is in the Boston area as an instructor in the Fifth Annual National Textile Arts Assembly sponsored by the American Institute of Textile Arts headquartered at Pine Manor College, Chestnut Hill.

The program is being sponsored by the Japan Society of Boston, a non-profit organization which promotes friendship and understanding between Japan and the United States.

The public is invited to attend.

Newton Catholic summer program set

NEWTON — Newton Catholic Elementary School will conduct a summer program of learning experiences that will challenge, reinforce and develop basic concepts in the areas of math, reading, self-growth and study skills. The program will be conducted from July 6 through 23.

Programs include reading for levels 1-8, math for levels 1-8, study skills for levels 5-8 and self-growth for levels 1-4. Tutoring will also be available in specialized areas. For further information call 244-8169.

Registrations are being taken for environment class

NEWTON - Registrations are being taken for the Environmental Science Program, a summer outdoor learning experience sponsored by the Newton Conservation Commission. Students in the program explore the many different forms of plant and wildlife found in the Newton area.

A study is also done of Newton's geology and water is tested from ponds and streams throughout the citv.

As a contrast to Newton's environment, several field trips are planned to other parts of New England, including visits to a salt marsh and tide pools in Kittery, Maine. Trips to the Blue Hills, three days on Mount Washington and a climb up Mt. Monadnock are also planned.

The pgoram is based at Newton South High School and runs from July 5 through 30. Tuition is $200 and the program is for students who have completed grades 6, 7 8 or 9. For more information call Markos Hankin at 965-1557.

HOMES NEEDED for French Students

The O.S.S.L., Organization for Linguistic Holiday for Students is looking for families in the Needham-Newton-Dedham area who would like to have a French student stay with them this summer in the month of July or August.

The purpose of O.S.S.L. is to provide French students an opportunity to meet Americans and learn their way of life. These French boys and girls ages 14-22, have been studying English and desire to practice what they have learned in an American home. Obviously the family that takes in one of these French students will also benefit by learning something of the French character and habits. Each group includes a French teacher.

Anyone interested in having a French student this summer should call Margaret Genaske at 444-9255.

City cuts energy usage by 25%

Million gallons of oil saved

NEWTON — The city's energy manager said last week a study of the past three years indicates energy usage in municipal buildings has been cut by 25.3%.

According to Michael Kuklinski of the city's Building Department, the reduction in total energy consumption for the city, over the past three years, translates into a savings of more than a million gallons of fuel oil.

The city's net heating consumption (oil and gas) has been reduced by more than 27 percent, according to Kuklinski, and electrical consumption is down 10.4 percent.

Kuklinski, obviously proud of the results of his long-term efforts, said the city enjoys "a pretty good name across the country" for its success in conserving energy.

The graduate of Lowell Tech said recently that much of the reduction in ener8gy use in municipal buildings was a result of a relatively new method of determining energy loss. Using infrared film, Kuklinski photographed 65 city buildings from the air and on the ground.

This thermographic technique showed the exact points of heat loss in those buildings, he said. Poorly fitted doors and windows, leaky roofs and ill-constructed walls were all targeted for repair by the energy manager.

Continuing with statistics on energy savings which would be the envy of any homeowner, Kuklinski said, "The two most energy efficient buildings im the city are the Burr School and the Horace Mann School. City Hall, which has significantly more usage, is now operating as efficiently as our best building.

"Simply stated, Newton City Hall, which is 50 years old, has become the most energy-efficient facility in the city, and, perhaps, in the state, for a building of this size, type and use"' Kuklinski said.

Since he began the conservation program in 1978, Kuklinski cites reductions in energy usage at city hall which total 40 percent. Fuel oil consumption in the building has decreased by 66 percent and electricity usage has dropped by 23 percen , according to Kuklinski.

Citing energy performance in terms of gallons of heating oil to square feet of floor space, Kuklinski gave the figures for the past year as .32 gallons per square foot. The figure is close to a third of the same measurment for 1978.

"An aggressive energy management program, plus a comprehensive maintenance program, coupled with an intense capital improvement program of energy retrofits, are responsible for city hall's dramatic energy savings," Kuklinski said.

The energy manager promised, "Additional energy savings will be achieved next heating season as the remainder of the energy retrofit package will have been implemented."

Teachers' union head named Burr principal

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Committee unanimously approved Monday night the appointment of current Newton Teachers Association (NTA) President, Janet Goldrick, as the new principal of Burr Elementary.

Committee member Susan Silbey moved Goldrick's appointment after an interview which lasted less than 15 minutes. Silbey said that she could think of no appointment she has made while on the committee that has given her more pride.

"It's just a delight to have a candidate as well supported as you are," committee member Robert Ricles stressed.

Goldrick, an Auburndale resident, is well-known to the community, teachers and the School Committee for her 20 years of teaching in Newton and current role as president of the NTA. She will replace Ella May Gay, who is retiring at the end of the school year.

School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said Goldrick is expected to resign from her post as NTA head prior to her Sept. 1 appointment to Burr. The current salary for the principalship is $30,645, although this could increase with negotiated salary increases for FY83.

"I guess I just have to ask you why," School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann said in reference to why, after 20 years as a teacher, Goldrick was seeking the job.

"Except for my first two months in teaching when I wondered why would anybody want to do this," Goldrick laughed, "there literally has not been a day when I haven't looked forward to going to work."

Goldrick, who holds a law degree from Suffolk University, said she is driven by the "energy" and "enthusiasm" she sees "in the faces of the children" she has taught at Pierce School and by "the committment to public education in Newton."

Goldrick said one of her strengths was "openness" and that her teaching experience and work with the NTA were other ingredients for being an effective principal.

A graduate of Regis College in Weston where she majored in psychology, Goldrick received a master's degree in education from Boston University in 1962. She began teaching in Newton in 1962 and from 1969-70 was on special assignment from Newton as a teacher in Bogota, Columbia.

there was no threat to other structures during the blaze. There was heavy water damage to books and other contents of the building, said Dwyer.

The first alarm was struck at 11:33 p.m. Monday when security guards spotted the flames and telephoned the Newton Fire Department.

Asst. Chief Dwyer said he called for a second alarm 10-12 minutes after the first apparatus arrived "because of the location and design of the building." The fire "was going pretty well when we got there," added Dwyer.

Additional fire personnel from Newton and Brookline responded to the second alarm and Waltham and Watertown firefighters covered at Newton fire stations.

Dwyer said it took about an hour to bring the fire under control but it was not until 4:11 a.m. today that the all out was declared.

Responding to that first alarm were Newton Engines 3,7,6,10 and Ladders 2 and 3. Newton Engines 4 and 9, Ladder 1 and Brookline Engine 6 responded to the second alarm.

Asst. Chief Dwyer speculated that the college building might be rebuilt although he described the damage as "extensive."

Last week three people were sentenced in Cambridge Superior Court in connection with the approximately $2 million Brown fire. All three (who were 19 years old at the time of the fire) received 2½ year suspended sentences and three years probation after pleading guilty to the charge of arson and breaking and entering the building.

The three sentenced were Eric R. Krasnigor, of 90 Clearwater Rd , Newton, Michael K. Masterson, of 209 Park Ave., West Roxbury, and Leslie Alberts, of 96 Levbert Rd., Newton.

This year's graduating 8th grade class had eight students. Although this was not typical overall, student-teacher ratios were low for all grades.

"It's my type of school," Principal Natalie Stimmell said with pride. "This school has had a lot of parental support and it's small. You don't find many schools like this."

"It's been very special and I wouldn't have missed it for the world," Stimmell said of the school she has headed since February 1981. "I've made a lot of very, very good friends."

Father Paul Shannon of St. Jean's parish said the church is investigating options for sale of the school building which range from offers from other schools to a plan for elderly and handicapped housing. Fr. Shannon said the parish has made no decision, but will attempt to retain the use of the community hall in the school in any agreement.

THE BIBLE — THE BREATH OF GOD
The Bible is a wonderful book. But what is this book? The Bible itself says, "all scripture" or "every scripture is God-breathed" (2 Tim. 3:16 - Gk). The Bible is the breath of God. It is not merely the word or the thought of God, but the very breath of God. Whatever we breathe out is our breath, and this breath proceeds out of our being. So the Bible as the breath of God is something breathed out of the being of God. The Bible contains the very element of God. Whatever God is, is contained in this divine Book. God is light, life, love, power, wisdom, and many other items. All these items of what God is have been breathed out into the Bible. Whenever we come to this book with an open heart and an open spirit, we can immediately touch something divine: not just thoughts, concepts, knowledge, words or sentences, but something deeper than all these things. We touch God Himself!
To a Spirit-born, fundamental Christian the Holy Bible is held in high esteem. An essential part of the Christian faith is that the Bible is the complete divine revelation and is inspired by the Holy Spirit, word by word. A Spirit-born child of God believes that we must pay the closest attention to every word of the Bible: taking it and following it not as the word of man, but as it is in truth, the Word of God (1 Thess. 2:13).
Only the Word of God, to a real Christian, is the source of authority for our Christian lives and is the reference point for all our actions. A genuine Christian accepts every word of the Bible, without exception, as truth. To the true believer, the Word of God provides light for his daily living (Psa. 119:105) and food for his spiritual nourishment (1 Pet. 2:2); the Bible can also furnish the Christian (2 Tim. 3:17) for a daily life filled with the experience of the person Jesus Christ.

Sad state of affairs

Always travel in pairs. Always walk with a purpose. Never walk near dark doorways or through alleys.

The words of caution from the Newton Police Department this week were familiar as police put out the word to women in the area following a rape over the Memorial Day weekend at the Chestnut Hill Reservoir.

The words, the advice are important and should not go unheeded. But it is, again, a sad state of affairs when a rapist remains on the loose.

MDC police were putting the clues and descriptions together, with some cops tying the recent rape with a series of such crimes in Boston. There's a very sick and dangerous person on the loose out there and, in light of police reports, the constables are doing everything they can to get this guy.

But the words of caution about this most violent crime cannot be dismissed in a society that has, and will most likely always, produce its share of outcasts who turn their inner violence on women.

Rape, contrary to some of prehistoric understanding, is not a crime of sex or passion but rather one of simple, brutal violence. It is a crime of which we must all be aware.

And the rain came

We did the planting on time this year. Eight-inch store-bought tomato plants, well staked. The yellow squash and zukes evenly spaced. Some brocolli, just because we'd never grown it before. Some spinach that already has an as-yet unidentified blight.

We planted some flowers and some herbs. We weeded out the weeds, the ones we could tell apart from the tiny flower sprouts. We read the books and put up the fence to keep the cats and kids out and then, we turned on the hose. Like an evening's meditation we turned on the hose. Gently, we soaked the soil and each evening after work we checked for progress as the seeds began poking up. We watered some more, always cautious about the ground drying out.

And then the rains came. The evening's meditation was recessed for a day or two as we stared out the window at the rain falling on the garden. Each night we peered through the drizzle, still noting some progress as the plants poked up through the soggy soil.

Surely this rain is just nature's way of giving us a break from the evening's chore. Surely it will stop.

But it did not. It kept coming and the zukes started to droop. The tomatoes began leaning heavily against their stakes. The herbs, once so neatly lined up in rows, were now being overtaken by the weeds which were thriving on this continual rain.

We wondered if the evening's bout with the garden hose and the relaxing chore of gently spraying water on the garden would ever be allowed again. We wondered why it had to rain so much, just when things were looking up. And then, we realized the truth. Noah never had time for brocolli, much less yellow squash.

Graphically speaking

And nothing but the truth...

A bit of 'Mann-speak'

After refusing to attend public hearings on revaluation or speak out while countless taxpayers criticized the project, Mayor Theodore Mann is getting into the act as the abatement process begins.

In a letter to aldermen, Mann wrote: "It is my hope that your honorable board, the assessors, and the executive department will act with a single voice in trying to assuage the fears and frustrations of taxpayers who are experiencing problems."

This from the Mann who told taxpayers that revaluation would result in "one third of the taxpayers paying more; one third paying less and one third paying the same as last year." That was before the city election. For the record, approximately 70 percent of the $21,602 homeowners and 740 businesses face tax increases under revaluation.

Take us out to the ballgame

Last week Middlesex County Commissioner John Danehy announced he was withdrawing from the race for reelection, citing "increasing responsibilities and expansion in my real estate and insurance business."

"However," Danehy said in a press release, "My decision was not based solely on these personal concerns, but was also influenced by the current climate of suspicion and distrust which pervades the public sector, and by the continual erosion of county government."

One of those still in the race and keeping his mind open for possible elimination of county government altogether is Newton resident Bill Schmidt. A second local resident, former Alderman Thomas Concannon Jr., had expressed interest in running but found out too late, reports indicate, to get his nomination papers in to the Secretary of State's office in time.

In a press release this week Schmidt noted his campaign had "received a significant boost" with recent endorsements of several state legislators and local officials.

The 30-year-old Democrat, who is on leave from his job with County Sheriff Ed Henneberry to run for county commissioner, won endorsements from Senators Carol Amick and George Bachrach, as well as Reps. Michael Barrett (D-Reading), Stephen Doran (D-Lexington), Mary Jane Gibson (D-Belmont), Lucille Hicks (R-Wayland), Alfred Mihahan, Jr. (D-Wakefield), Nicholas Paleologos (D-Woburn) and Susan Schur, a fellow Newton Democrat.

Schmidt, the candidate backed by the Change Middlesex County organization, has also won backing from such various officials as Cambridge City Councillor David Wylie, Newton Alderman Ethel Sheehan, Watertown Councillors Marilyn Devaney and Wayne MacDonald, and Burlington School Committeeman Augusto Grace.

City councillors from Malden and Medford have also given their stamps of approval to Schmidt.

A little Tennessee twang

Several Newton gymnasts have been invited to demonstrate their prowess at the World's Fair in lovely downtown Knoxville, TN.

The girls are training at the Gymnastic Academy of Boston, located on Charlemont Street in Upper Falls. Included in the entourage are Nicole Adams, Julie Bresnick, Sayre Crocker, Susan Fagan, Erin Flanagan, Tammy Goedken and Maria Leet.

And while we catch our breath, Sara Nadolny, Becca Norris, Dani and Kerri O'Leary, Missy Pappalardo, Sabrina Putnam, Laurie Saffi, Dara Schraft and Cindy Tiberio.

An able group to represent the Garden City. Good luck, troupe.

A most peaceful person

Newton's own Dr. Helen Caldicott, president of the Physicians for Social Responsibility, who was recently profiled in Life magazine, has tallied another honor for her hard work spreading the word about the dangers of nuclear war.

Dr. Caldicott will be honored as "Humanist of the Year, 1982," by the American Humanist Association at its annual conference at MIT on June 19. Dr. Caldicott was named "Humanist of the Year" for her "outstanding contributions toward world peace, both nationally and internationally, through mobilizing her fellow physicians and educating the public at large to the irrationality of nuclear war."

A heart-felt congratulations to the good doctor.

It's true, Barney's on ballot

In case you had any doubts, Congressman Barney Frank has just put them all aside. Frank, a Democrat representing Newton, among other communities, has obtained nearly 7000 certified signatures on his reelection nomination papers. The signatures have been certified by the clerks in the 23 cities and towns in the 4th Congressional District. Two thousand signatures are required for congressional candidates to have their names placed on the ballot.

Frank is in the running against Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, thrown into the same ring after a nasty little redistricting move courtesy of the boys on Beacon Hill.

Frank, according to his press office, said he was pleased that the signatures represented broad-based support from all over the district. That district goes to such far away places as Seekonk, Freetown, Swansea and Attleboro. Some might say you can't get there from here.

But then, that's what the folks in Freetown say about Newton, we assume.

Chess in case someone asks

More than 150 chess players from throughout eastern Massachusetts are expected to compete in the Newton Summer Open July 3 and 4, slated for the Newton Howard Johnson's. The Newton Winter Open in January attracted 182 competitors, a record for the five-year-old event, we're told.

Chess players from master to novice (or is it novice to master?) will compete in six classes, with each player participating in four games. Entry forms are available from the Mass. Chess Association, Box 452, Worcester, 01613.

Your move...

Marking time

No gun? Better get one soon

By Mark White

In recent weeks I have criticized the Board of Aldermen for considering and ultimately passing some ridiculous laws.

Remember the law banning the handing out of free samples of cigarettes when there has been no evidence of anyone handing them out?

And, of course, a few weeks ago I wrote about a law that is destined to become a classic, the noise ordinance.

Frankly, I thought that no city could ever pass laws that challenged ours for absurdity, but I was wrong. Last night on the news I heard about a law that would be right in line with those passed by our city fathers.

A town in Georgia has passed some very progressive legislation, a gun control law.

So what's new about that? This law is a mandatory gun law! It is a violation of the law not to have a gun in the house.

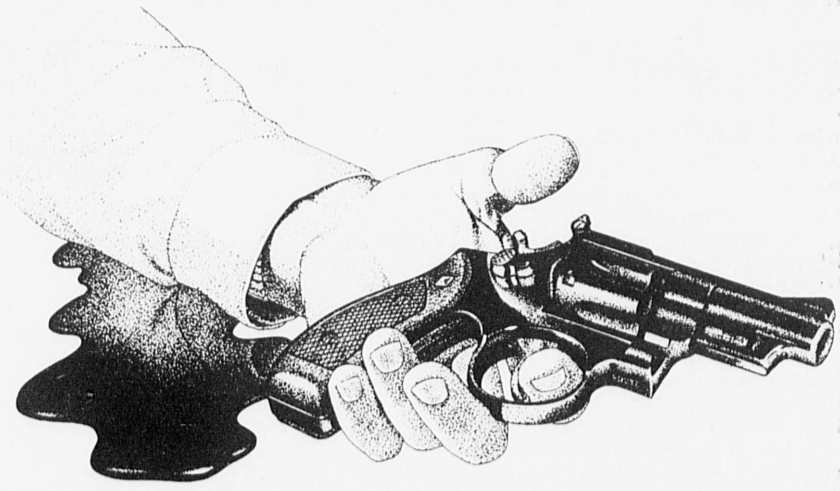
This is on the level, folks! Last year the citizens of this town experienced 63 burglaries, over one per week. Since the institution of this gun law 13 weeks ago, they have experienced only 3 burglaries. Well, you can't quarrel with success.

If you think about it who is going to rob a house knowing there's a five year old kid who's going to blow him to bits the minute he steps in the door?

Newton's crime rate has increased drastically the last few years, especially burglaries. Maybe we ought to institute a mandatory sub-machine gun law. (Only kidding aldermen, don't take me seriously).

These Georgia officials may have discovered the new laws of the future-laws mandating certain actions.

Instead of government telling you what you can't do, now they're telling you what you have to do.



The world has gone crazy! It's bad enough that they tell you what you can drink, what you can't eat, what movies you can see, what magazines you can read, what songs you can hear, what you can own, what you can smoke, and what you can say.

Now some idiots are telling people that they have to endanger their own personal safety for the good of the community. They may keep the number of burglaries down but I bet accidental gun deaths increase drastically.

The point in common between our Board of Aldermen and these Georgia officials is that government must learn that you can't solve societal problems simply by passing simplistic laws.

Drunken driving still exists in spite of stringent criminal legislation. Drug use is reaching epidemic proportions in spite of threats of prison sentences. Violent crimes are increasing in spite of new mandatory sentencing laws.

And noise will continue and people will smoke cigarettes in spite of any law passed by the Board of Aldermen.

Ulysses S. Grant once said "I know no method to secure the repeal of bad or obnoxious laws so effective as their stringent execution".

The only way to stop the passage of these laws is by their strict enforcement.

If enough people are victims of guns and decibel meters maybe the politicians will learn that some laws don't solve problems, they merely create new ones.

Remember, I said MAYBE the politicians will learn!

(Mark White is a practicing attorney and a former member of the Newton board of Aldermen)

'Computer capers' - What a scalping!

To the editor;

The years 1981-82 will be recorded in the annals of the city of Newton as the time of the accelerated asininities or the computer capers, a series of bizarre dramas produced by the outstanding theatrical troupe, the Finnegan Players.

The plays ended this last week in May with a stellar performance called "The Great Goof." This production like the preceding ones involved a grand charade with an awesome computer background. In the current offering, however, the main actin takes place in a fabulour phantom residence very suggestive of Buckingham Palace and rumored to be worth $150 million. The play is climaxed with a widespread financial havoc wreaked on the hapless residents of the Garden City.

The script for this exotic production was written in coollaboration with the majority of the local Board of Aldermen who appeared on stage in a seemingly awkward chorus singing a doleful ditty entitled "What's all the fuss, please don't blame us'" accompanied with mock yawns and a feeble wringing of hands in feigned despair, all to the tune of that lovely old ballad, "After the Ball is Over."

The prominent drama critic of the Assessor's Weekly, Robert Palmer, gave it a dubious "R" for residential rating yet found it accepable on the whole. Yet in an interview with The Newton Graphic he did make the following reservation: "I'm going to wait until all the products are in. I think everything that happens has to be considered. We are looking at the whole package." Another well-known authority in the theatre, Jane Malme, of the State Department of Revenue, and editor of The Golden Dome, a Beacon Hill review, when asked by the same reporter to comment on this grim charade, responded vaguely, "This type of clerical error often occurs."

The scribe was completly bewildered.

In the intermission the mayor of Newton, known affectionately as "Teddie, The Accelerated Rough Rider," paid a tribute to the cast and recommended to the audience some background reading called "The Amazing Abatement," a dramatic form of redress often referred to as somethign that no good wastebasket should be without.

It should be noted that a direct descendant of John Eliot, historic preacher to the Newton Indians, when asked to comment on the play simply bowed his head and whispered sadly, "What a scalping!"

Curiously enough, the last production of the series, an urbanized version of the "Little House on the Prairie," has been unexplainably cancelled.

Thanks to the Fire Department

To the editor;

On Monday, May 24 we had a fire in our house, which was minor in damage but major on the nerves. Our neighbor had no sooner called the Fire Department than they were there.

All men on the location were pleasant, courteous and efficient. This is one of our city services that must not be cut.

Our thanks again to our fine Fire Department.

Remember 'Baltic Holocaust'

To the editor;

June 14 marks the 41st anniversary of the "Baltic Holocaust." On this day in 1941 the Soviet Union began mass deportations of innocent persons from the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania to the frigid wastes of Siberia and other desolate areas of the Soviet Union.

During the night and morning of June 13-14, Soviet secret police went house to house arresting whole families and herding them into waiting railroad cattle cars. Husbands were separated from their wives, mothers from their children. Deprived of food and water, many died on the long trip to Siberia. Starvation and disease killed most of the enslaved people. Very few returned to bear witness against this crime.

After the first wave of deportations others followed until approximately 600,000 persons, or 10%, of the total population of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania were killed.

The Baltic states are still under the Soviet domination. The systematic violation of human rights and genocide in the Baltic states is well docunented and has been condemned by many Western governments and international forums. Due to Soviet genocide the Baltic people are on the verge of becoming a minority in their own countries.

The United States government has never recognized the forcible incorporation of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania into the Soviet Union.

Americans should remember this tragedy. They should remember the former republics of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. They should remember that only America stands between Communism and its goal of world tyranny and oppression.

It is the responsibility of the United States to make sure that freedom wins the struggle and that finally, some day, the Baltic states and all captive nations will be free.

Thanks for parade coverage

To the editor;

On behalf of the veterans of the city of Newton and the citizens of our community may we thank you for the fine coverage which your publication gave to the annual city of Newton Memorial Day Parade and annual Memorial Observances.

Further, we wish to express our deep appreciation to those many citizens and business firms who made a financial contribution towards the cost of the parade and observances, the contributions making it possible for the Parade Committee to meet the necessary expenses involved with all of the Memorial Day activities.

We feel proud to be a part of a community which collectively came forward to honor our departed comrades and we shall remain indebted to you and to all of those who not only came forth with valued assistance but with their participation with grave decoration, Memorial Observances and with the Memorial Day Parade.

Again, we thank you and our fellow citizens.

For the city of Newton Memorial Day Parade Committee:

Carleton P. Merrill
Veterans' Agent,
1982 Parade Marshal

No thanks to you, Mr. White

To the editor;

I feel compelled to write in response to the most offensive article by former Alderman Mark White on the noise ordinance I have proposed.

As Mr. White knows very well, our present ordinance is so vague it is really quite meaningless. The proposed ordinance, for the first time, offers a comprehensive and objective means of measuring sound and sets reasonable limits in a variety of categories.

Yes, it has been documented that excessive sound does degrade the quality of life and may be harmful to the health and welfare of our citizens.

Frankly, Mr. White, there may in fact be exceesive noise coming from the Board of Aldermen but as you very well know, it is not coming from this alderman.

Alderman Carol Ann Shea

A word of thanks to Graphic

To the editor;

This year, with the cooperation of The Newton Graphic, the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston (CJP) was able to raise $16,019,500 for the support of some 75 local and overseas human care agencies in the fields of health, education, individual and family counseling, group work and community relations.

On behalf of the many thousands of men, women and children who benefit from the services provided by our agencies, may we express our deep gratitude for your interest and assistance in interpreting the needs of our community.

Budgetary appreciation

To the editor;

As a parent who is dependent on the Newton Public Schools, I want to thank the Board of Aldermen and the mayor for their support for the Fiscal Year 1983 school budget.

I also want to compliment the School Committee for its superb effort in developing and lobbying the budget.

At a time when it is easy to be cynical about the cost and quality of public education, I am delighted to see that the city of Newton continues its commitment to our children.

'Inconsistent' values concern to this reader

To the editor;

This letter will protest the recent revaluation policies and procedures employed by Finnegan Associates for the city of Newton and request that the entire process be declared null and void. The basis for the protest and request is our own experiences as Newton homeowners.

We purchased our home in 1967 for $31,200. At that time our evaluation was $13,100. The average price of Newton homes in that period was $31,800 (according to CIT Financial Services Advertising Supplement to The Boston Globe, April 1982). Our home was about average.

Finnegan Associates placed a value of $153,700 on our home. The average price of a Newton home in 1980 was set at $77,300. Our home has suddenly doubled in value according to Finnegan Associates.

In the mid-seventies evaluation, eight of our 12 neighbors had higher evaluations than we did. In 1982, Finnegan Associates determined that only two of our neighbors had higher evaluations. A remodeled kitchen and a new deck were apparently the basis for determining a quantum leap of 1200% in our evaluation and over $1100 in our tax bill.

We were adivised to meet with the staff of Finnegan Associates if we were in need of an explanation of "how the value of your property was determined." I arranged for such a meeting after considerable difficulty in making telephone contact.

At the meeting I was shown printout materials on five houses which were compared with ours to form the basis for our evaluation.

I was told that these houses were chosen because they were directly comparable to ours. I noted that one house was a contemporary (mine is a colonial). I was told that the computer had to use that house because it couldn't find any more colonials in its data bank for comparison. I pointed out that two other houses had twice as much land as ours. I was told that once again the computer had to come up with some houses and therefore had searched to come up with these entries. I pointed out that the houses were in neighborhoods and areas other than ours. I was once again referred to the computer. I pointed out that the houses were all built at different times than ours. And so it went to no avail.

I asked about the training of those evaluators who visited my home. I was assured that they had been well-trained. I asked how someone who was well-trained could list my home as having asphalt shingle roofing when in fact our roof is slate.

I was told that I had better keep quiet since a slate roof was "better than" an asphalt shingle roof. The point I was making entirely escaped the staff member who was supposed to be explaining how my home was evaluated. I also asked what the effect of the evaluator being allowed or denied access into the home was. Some people had refused admittance to the evaluators. I was told "none." I asked her how she knew that and she said that that is what she had heard.

I reviewed the computer printout. I asked about sale prices, sale price 1/81, and adjusted sale price. Other than "inflation" I could not get an answer as to why these figures were what they were nor what they meant. The same was true when I asked how model estimate, market value, and appraisal value were determined. Reference was made to a formula someone had.

My wife and I visited the "comparison" homes. None were directly comparable. One which was listed as not having a detached garage, has a detached garage. Two had brick exteriors; three were in substantially better neighborhoods; and four had landscaping designs and layout superior to our own. We did not enter the homes.

We are concerned for ourselves and for our city.

We will, of course, file for an abatement. The larger question, however, is not our individual circumstances. Rather, it is whether or not the Board of Assessors and our elected officials are going to sustain and support the incompetent, inconsistent, inequitable and incomplete job done by Finnegan Associates. If that is the case, the city of Newton will suffer greatly.

Doctors band together against death penalty

"I address it because it's the comment I get when I talk to people. They say 'these people have to be locked up and it costs so much money...'"

"Until we have a criminal justice system that is 100% error-free it doesn't matter how long you have a guy locked up," Weisbuch noted.

Weisbuch said he became involved in establishing Physicians Against the Death Penalty because he feels execution is "society's legalized way of getting at people they don't like," since historically, minorities and lower income prisoners have been those most often put to death.

"I feel it's barbaric and it is not consistent with my view of man's relationship to man," Weisbuch said. "We don't cut hands off thieves anymore. We don't whip people in the public square. If society believed in equality in relation to the death penalty we would make the punishment equal - not fit - but equal to the crime."

In response to some advocates in other states who claim clinically administered, lethal drug injections are "humane," Weisbuch described one drug considered for usage in executions which is a "relaxant" actually used, in some operations.

"(This relaxant) stops muscles from responding to the nerve," he said. "It stops muscles from responding but it does not stop the pain. It does not stop you from thinking. It does not stop you from realizing you cannot breath and that you are dying."

Weisbuch said after working for three years with inmates in state prisons, many of whom were on so-called "death row," he felt such criminals had already had to deal with a grisly, daily confrontation with death. "Their minds are different from the average bear," he said. "It is a devastating kind of experience."

Weisbuch recognizes a move in some quarters of society to seek direct action against those convicted of "capital" crimes.

"It is the force of vengeance and hatred and prejudice which seeks this sort of eye-for-an-eye punishment," he said. "Why should society support those things by bringing back the death penalty?"

The Physicians and the Death Penalty symposium is slated for Friday, June 11 from 2 to 5 p.m. at Harvard Medical School, 25 Shattuck Street, Boston. Among the organizations sponsoring it, besides PADP, are Amnesty International, the Mass. Medical Society, American Civil Liberties Union, the NAACP Defense Fund, Medical Ethical Society, The Cabot Society and the Massachusetts Campaign against Restoration of the Death Penalty. Those interested in more information can call 527-2741 or 542-6044.

THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

LONDON — $439 includes round trip airfare, hotels, shopping discounts.

The scars of an abused child can stay with us all his life.

In any way you can think of, the effects of child abuse are devastating.

Each year, over one million American children suffer from child abuse.

Over 2,000 of those abused children die.

And, for many of those who live, the effects of an abusive childhood may influence their entire lives. And ours.

Many teenage drug addicts and teenage prostitutes report being abused children. So do juvenile delinquents and adult criminals.

Because we pay to respond to those problems, we are all the victims of child abuse.

Yet child abuse can and must be prevented.

The National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse is a private, charitable organization that knows how to prevent child abuse.

But we need your help to do it. We need money. We need more volunteers. Send us your check today, or write for our booklet.

And, remember, if we don't all start somewhere, we won't get anywhere.

National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse

Help us get to the heart of the problem.

Conference on Jewish education at Brandeis

CHESTNUT HILL — Jewish educators from the Greater Boston area are planning for the forthcoming Seventh Annual Conference on Alternatives in Jewish Education to be held at Brandeis University from August 13 to 19.

This year's conference is co-sponsored by the Bureau of Jewish Education of Greater Boston with a grant from the Combined Jewish Philanthopies of Greater Boston.

Cherie Koller-Fox, chairperson of the Coalition for Alternatives in Jewish Education–the national sponsoring organization of the Conference, estimates that over 1,000 people will be in residence on the Brandeis campus for the four nights and five days of the conference itself and up to 500 local educators and supporters of Jewish education will attend on a daily commuter basis.

"We are very pleased," Koller-Fox continued, "that we finally have an opportunity to bring our CAJE Conference to Boston, where our organization first began almost 8 years ago." Previous conferences have been held in Providence, Rhode Island, and Rochester, New York, as well as in New Jersey, California, and Ohio.

Lester Bronstein, Educational Director of Congregation Beth El in Sudbury, is serving as the program chairman for this year's Conference. Bronstein has attended all of the prior conferences and expressed some ideas on how to create a unique "Bostonian" atmosphere for this year's event.

"We definitely want to continue the CAJE tradition of creating a Hevrah," Bronstein stated, "by bringing together Jewish teachers –both young and old – principals, academicians, researchists, agency staff, and rabbis. We also want to bring together large groups of lay supporters of Jewish education including school committee members, federation board members, and parents to join with the professionals in forging an active Coalition of Jewish education advocates."

To support wide-spread attendance at the Conference, the Combined Jewish Philanthopies has provided a substantial sum for subventions for teachers to attend the conference. These subventions are being distributed by the Synagogue Council of Massachusetts with direct assistance from the Bureau of Jewish Education. It is anticipated that over 300 local professionals will receive stipends. In addition, Tuesday, August 17, is being set aside for special programming for lay supporters of Jewish education to join forces with the professionals and discuss topics relating to the priority for Jewish education in America today.

In addition to the Shabbat experience, several mini-conferences will take place focusing on topics and issues including Special Needs Education, Research in Jewish Education, Media Center Directors, One hundred fifty different 3 - 12 hour seminars, called "modules", will draw from a national talent pool who will lead these sessions in some two dozen subject categories. Some 200 shorter workshops ("Lehrhaus sessions") are also scheduled. There will also be specific times set aside for the study of Jewish text and topics in Jewish studies to be taught by outstanding Judaic scholars from around the country and from Greater Boston. There will be a working Jewish Teacher center, a Computer Center, and a Media Center, each of which will conduct workshops, displays and demonstrations.

Entertainment will be provided by local groups and others who have been invited from around the country.

For further information on participation in the CAJE Conference contact the Bureau of Jewish Education, 824 Boylston Street, Chestnut Hill, 02167 and the Special CAJE phone line, 277-3108.

Today's small cars are big headaches for most body shops.

That's because most imports, newer Fords and X, J and K cars are built differently than cars of the past. They're unibodies. And without the right equipment, they take more time to repair, and it's harder to do an accurate job.

We have equipment specifically designed for this kind of repair—the Blackhawk' Bench System. So don't take chances, call us.

The three defendants, Eric R. Krasnigor, of 90 Clearwater Rd., Newton, Michael K. Masterson, of 209 Park Ave., West Roxbury and Leslie Alberts, of 96 Levbert Rd., Newton, all 19 years old at the time of the fire, were charged with arson of a public building and breaking and entering in the night in connection with the fire.

Superior Court Judge Walter Steele ordered that the terms of the sentence be determined by the probation department. According to defense attorney Richard Steinberg of Newton, it is unlikely the three convicted arsonists will pay restitution for the blaze as requested by Newton Police.

"Frankly, one or two of them can't do it (pay restitution)," Steinberg said Monday. He added that the three will probably not be required to give community service as part or of their probabtion requirement because "there's no telling where they'll be." Steinberg stressed that if Alberts, Krasnigor and Masterson violate probation they would be sent to jail without the right to appeal. "If they violate, they go directly to jail. There's no hearing," he said.

Steinberg said Judge Steele handed down a suspended sentence because the defendants were all first offenders and had a history of emotion problems and learning disabilities, including dyslexia. "These were the type of individuals who don't belong in jail," said Steinberg. He said the decision by Judge Steele was "absolutely" fair.

Alberts, Masterson and Krasnigor were arraigned three days after the fire in Newton District Court and charged with setting the fire of the school in Oak Hill, which has since been renamed the Charles E. Brown Junior High School. During a Sept. 23 hearing, Newton District Court Judge Monte Basbas found probable cause for pursuing the charges and the case was continued to Middlesex County Superior Court in Cambridge. A grand jury indicted the three defendants in December. During the probable cause hearing, two of the defendants made statements that they were involved in setting the blaze, according to Newton Police.

The maximum penalty for arson of a public school building is 10 years in a state prison or 2 ½ years in the house of correction. The maximum penalty for breaking and entering in the night is 20 years in a state prison or 2 ½ years in the house of correction.

The case was delayed for several months because of a prior committment by another defense attorney, William Homans of Boston, according to Middlesex County Assistant District Attorney Thomas Brennan.

Brennan declined to comment on the outcome of the case. However he stated previously that he did expected that the defendants to plead before the judge rather than request a jury trial.

Violinist's death shocks colleagues

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — Colleagues of a Boston Symphony Orchestra violinist from Newton Centre, who was found dead last Wednesday in a Lenox Hotel room in Boston, said they were "shocked and saddened" by the sudden death of the man who was called a "child prodigy."

"He has been an admired and respected member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra first violin section for 21 years," Thomas W. Morris, BSO General Manager, said of Gerald Gelbloom, 56, of 16 Furber Lane.

Gelbloom was found dead at 3:10 p.m. Wednesday in the hotel room where he had checked in on the previous day. He was reported missing to Newton police Wednesday afternoon. Boston police said they found the BSO violinist after a caller went to the hotel room and reported that Gelbloom was not answering.

Boston police declined to comment on the manner of the Gelbloom's death pending an autopsy by the Suffolk County medical examiner. Police termed it a "sudden death." They did not report finding a weapon at the scene or any signs of foul play.

Gelbloom, who is survived by his wife, Mildred, and daughter, Mara, was called a child prodigy and internationally-known violin teacher. A native of Toronto, Gelbloom won the gold medal at the Canadian National Exhibition when he was seven-years-old. Gelbloom moved to New York City at age 12 and studied at the Julliard School of Music. A violinist from 1947-49 with the Clevland Orchestra, Gelbloom was assistant concert master from 1949-53 with The Baltimore Symphony and concert master from 1954-61 with the Hartford Symphony Orchestra.

Gelbloom received an associates degree from the University of Hartford. He taught at the Hartford School of Music, Hartford College of Music, the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore and Wesleyen University. Gelbloom was recently an instructor at Boston University.

"He was a fine violinist, a fine teacher and an honest man, which is hard to find," said Eonald Knudsen, a BSO violinist and Newton Symphony Orchestra conductor and music director.

Knudsen is a long-time friend and colleague of Gelbloom. Knudsen was a student at the Peabody Conservatory in Baltimore while Gelbloom was an instructor there. "We became very good friends and have been for many years," he said. Knudsen said their's was "a great long and close association." Both violinists enjoyed collecting bows and violins, Knudsen said.

Knudsen, of Waban, said he was aware that Gelbloom had been physically ill "for a long time." He said however he did not have details of Gelbloom's apparent illness.

Craig Nortstrom, Chairman of the Players Committee, said, "I am deeply saddened at the sudden death of a good friend and colleague, Gerald Gelbloom. He will be missed by all of us."

Knudsen and a BSO spokesperson said a concert dedicated in Gelbloom's honor may be performed sometime in the future. "We'll certainly do something (in Gelbloom's honor)," said Knudsen.

Revaluation fee hits $1.2 million

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen Monday night approved $7,500 in additional consultant expenses for revaluation, bringing the cost of the highly criticized project to more than $1.2 million.

Despite complaints from several aldermen that Chief Assessor Robert Palmer failed to request the funds before incurring the cost, the funding request passed on a 22 to 1 vote.

Aldermen also approved a $2,000 data-processing request resulting from revaluation.

The $7,500 is part of a $49,732 total bill run up by the city for the appraisal services of R.M. Bradley of Boston. The firm reviewed commercial properties including the top seven commercial parcels and nursing homes.

With an additional $95,820 approved by aldermen last week, primarily to provide 18 temporary employees in the assessing department to handle property tax abatements, Palmer has estimated the cost of the project at $1.2 million.

The final cost of the project does not include an estimated $250,000 to $500,000 loss in revenue because of the delay in mailing out property tax bills.

Aldermen approved $15,000 for the R.M. Bradley consultant services last November, but only learned last week that the cost for the consultant services had reached nearly $50,000.

Alderman Verne Vance called the timing of the request "sloppy management." He urged the Mann administration to "come clean" with aldermen on appropriation requests and other information needed by aldermen to make decisions.

Alderman Richard McGrath, meanwhile, used the request to once again criticize the administration for making changes in the $600,000 contract with the firm that conducted the citywide revaluation - Finnegan and Associates of Acton.

McGrath said contract amendments approved by assessors and Mayor Theodore Mann have extended the deadlines and effectively "bargained away" liabilities that could have forced the Acton company to pay thousands of dollars in penalty fees.

Under the initial contract, Finnegan was subject to a $500-a-day penalty for every day after the Feb. 1 deadline.

The contract amendments, negotiated and approved in April, allowed the company to complete revaluation contract requirements in April, May and June.

"By contract, Finnegan is not now liable," snapped an angry McGrath.

Furthermore, McGrath called the $2,000 data processing revaluation cost one of many "nickel and dime items that keep appearing" to increase the final cost of the project.

Revaluation Committee Chairman Paul Coletti countered with some stinging criticism of the veteran alderman.

Coletti charged that McGrath has used the revaluation crisis and "errors" for political "mileage."

Coletti stressed that the city had to go through with the project or face a grim $11 million cut in this year's municipal budget.

The accelerated revaluation was implemented last year to raise the tax levy and avoid deep cuts in services under Propostion 2½. Before the acclerated revaluation, assessors were scheduled to complete the court mandated project this June.

"I don't think everything was done properly," asserted Coletti. "But I do think the ends justifies the means. And the city is better off for it."

Alderman Paul Daley, the sole opponent to the request, said the timing of the appropriation request was one of many ways the administration has used to get funding "with us or without us."

75 seek advice on taxes

NEWTON — Approximately 75 taxpayers Monday night attended a meeting sponsored by a citizens group to get some advice on filing property tax abatements.

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer, meanwhile, Monday said that 500 taxpayers have already filed overassessment abatement applications since tax bills were mailed May 28.

Save Our Homes Two, a citizens group that battled the implementation of the revaluation, sponsored the forum at the Emerson School in Newton Upper Falls. The organization has contended that the revaluation is plagued with errors and discrepancies.

The group is considering filing a law suit to force the city to discarded the revaluation. A number of taxpayers at the meeting said they would be willing to donate funds to support the case.

Louise Riley, an organization representative, said the group is talking to attorneys and getting advice on legal options.

John Rogers, president of the group, reviewed the abatement application step by step for taxpayers attending the meeting. A similar meeting last Thursday night attracted 500 taxpayers interested in filing abatements.

The property-tax-bill payment is due in the City Hall Treasurer's office by June 28. Abatement applications are also due in the assessor's office by June 28.

Assessors have been busy handling abatement applications since last week. Aldermen recently approved approximately $95,000 for the assessing department to hire 18 temporary employees to handle the wave of abatement requests expected as a result of the revaluation.

Palmer said the response from an advertisement in the Sunday Boston Globe for appraisal technicians has been encouraging. He speculated that the appraisal technicians with real estate experience will begin to help review abatement applications early next week.

Palmer said about 200 tax bills have not been mailed out yet. Furthermore, he said that personal property bills for city businessmen will go out "late this week."

Gunpoint robbery in Centre

NEWTON -- A female employee of a Newton Centre jewelry store was held at gunpoint by a man and a woman and then tied and forced into a back room while the robbers fled with an undetermined amount of jewelry Monday afternoon.

A black couple entered Lisa's Jewelry, 97 Union St., at about 5 p.m. and confronted the female employee. There were no customers or other employees in the shop when the male suspect displayed a small silver weapon.

The male robber was wearing a knit jogging suit and carried a brown briefcase. He held the woman employee at bay while his female accomplice scooped a large quantity of gold chains, rings, charms and a diamond safire ring, according to a Newton Police spokeswoman.

The female robber was described as black, 5-3, of stocky build and about 25 years old. She was wearing a red raincoat, red print scarf and red and white jogging shoes.

The male bandit was said to be about 5-9, slim, in his late 20s with medium brown hair, which receded at the front. He wore a jogging suit and sneakers and carried the briefcase.

After scooping the loot, the couple forced the employee into a rear room and tied her. She managed to free herself quickly and phone police at 5:03 p.m., according to Newton police reports.

Reval may be affecting house sales

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — As "For Sale" signs threaten to become as prolific as gypsy moths in front yards throughout the city, some local real estate agents say the increase is seasonal while others suspect that the recent revaluation of residential properties might be partially responsible.

Alderman Paul Daley, a real estate agent and a certified appraiser, said: "A percentage of the increase in homes now on the market can be attributed to the revaluation. Owners of older homes, especially, are not prepared to pay more and don't want to pay more. So, they've decided to sell."

Under the new assessment rate of $21.87 per thousand, approximately 70 percent of the city's 21,602 homeowners face tax increases. Those homeowners are being asked to pick up $3.5 million in taxes previously paid by commercial property owners, mainly utilities.

Fresh from a meeting with the city assessors, Daley said the recent revaluation, which he described as being "unquestionably screwed up to a 'fare thee well,'" might affect the real estate market in the city for years to come.

"If a house is over-assessed, it's bound to affect my ability to sell it. The house is stigmatized with the overassessment for as long as ten years, or until the next complete revaluation is done," Daley said. "A buyer will tend not to want to get involved."

Steve Pauler of Broderick Bros., President of the Newton Real Estate Board, said, "At this point, the increase seems to be more seasonal than a result of revaluation." But he added that he has seen "some instances of people who seem to be testing the market to see if the city's figures are correct."

Pauler joined with other brokers in predicting that the real, long-term effects of the revaluation have yet to be felt. "There certainly will be a fallout when people start figuring out their own situation," he said. "Someone who has been used to paying around $2,000 a year in taxes, when confronted with an increase to $3,000 or $4,000 and, possibly, a fixed income, might say, 'It's not worth it to me.'"

Pauler added, "I tend to think the idea of selling a home because of the tax burden is arrived at only as a last resort. The people who would do that would have to lose out on all levels of the appeals process."

Activity at the assessor's office at city hall the last two days would seem to indicate that residents are willing to go through the abatement process.

According to Pauler, the city's assessments of property values have little to do with the selling price of those properties. He said he has heard of houses selling for prices both above and below their assessed values.

Regarding those homes sold recently for something less than their assessed value, Pauler said, "The city has chosen to ignore the sale price. They say, 'One sale does not a market make.'"

Pauler agreed with Spencer Lookner, of Lookner Real Estate, who said the increase in homes being put on the market consisted mostly of older homes owned by older people. "Some of these are older people whose children have left home," he said.

Lookner echoed other brokers when he predicted that the real effects of revaluation "are going to show up soon, when people actually have to start paying their taxes. In six or eight months, you'll see people who were just hanging on start trying to sell their properties."

On the commercial front, realtor Richard Bram said, "The effects of the revaluation have not filtered down yet." He predicted a change in the complexion of the city's business community when the results of assessing commercial properties at 150 percent of their value begin to show up in the form of increased rents to tenants.

Bram said that, since the final guidelines of revaluation were announced, two of his tenants have already given him notice of their intent to relocate. He cited their reason for moving as a lack of confidence in the future of businesses in the city.

Bill claimed $129,000 garage

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTONVILLE — "This is the $129,000 garage," Daniel Gentilucci said incredulously pointing to the simple, two-car garage which he received a separate tax bill for last weekend.

"It's just a plain old, dirty garage," he laughed.

Like many Newton residents, Daniel and Julie Gentilucci received their property tax bill but instead of one envelope, they found two.

Not only did the bill for Gentilucci's garage get the size of the lot wrong, but the assessment conducted by Finnegan Associates valued Gentilucci's garage and approximately 1,400 square feet of property at $129,000.

The second bill was for the Gentilucci's two-family house on Norwood Avenue in Newtonville and was based on an assessment of $118,000.

Since the Gentilucci's garage is by deed on a separate piece of property behind their home, they have received two tax bills ever since they bought their house in 1957. So, when Gentilucci appealed his reassessment of $118,000, he specifically asked if the figure combined both pieces of property.

"I was told that it ($118,000) was based on everything that I owned," he said.

Outraged by the huge error made in assessing his property, Gentilucci went to the assessor's office, but was told he'd have to pay both bills and file for an abatement.

"Now why should I pay for their error?" he said angrily. "I feel that if I have to pay them my money, they have to pay me 14 percent interest."

Alderman Richard McGrath, who represents Gentilucci's ward, said the error made on Gentilucci's garage "further adds to the evidence that the job by Finnegan was not just marginally ridiculous, but blatantly ridiculous."

"You don't have an abatement process to correct blatant discrepancies," McGrath said angrily. "The abatement process is not there to fix Finnegan's job."

"This is what the hearings were for — to catch typographical errors," he stressed. "This mistake should have been cleared up before that tax bill went out."

Chief Assessor Robert Palmer says the person Gentilucci spoke with on Tuesday was mistaken and that Gentilucci will not have to pay the outlandish tax bill on his garage. According to Palmer, Gentilucci must file for an abatement, but the error would be corrected before payment was required.

"When you add this to all of the other mistakes that have been made, the figures that were used to base the tax rate on become less reliable," McGrath warned.

Newton Rider bus is rolling through June

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The financially troubled "Newton Rider," a city subsidized bus service for thousands of commuters, will continue to operate at least until the end of the month.

Aldermen Wednesday night unanimously approved $2,500 in funding to keep the three buses serving the city on the road.

The bus system, however, will be shut down by July 1 without additional support from local merchants, additional city funding or a grant from the MBTA.

The service, which is operated by Andre Coachlines of Newton, began in September 1980 with business and city funding.

Aldermen approved $12,000 in March to keep the service running until the end of June. Declining ridership, according to city officials, increased the operating deficit and forced the additional funding.

In a letter to aldermen requesting the $2,500, Department of Public Works Commissioner Charles Thomas said the ridership decline is "due in part to a 25-cent fare increase and the onset of spring."

Thomas said service beyond June 30 is not "anticipated unless substantial financial contributions from the business community are received during the month of June."

Mayor Theodore Mann, who initiated the $2,500 appropriation, is attempting to get a $25,000 grant from the MBTA to operate the service until June 1983 with contributions from the business community. At a press conference earlier in the week, Mann said he was "attempting to pull a rabbit out of the hat" to keep the bus service.

Mann and Chamber of Commerce President Lewis Songer have sent a letter to local businesses urging tax-deductible subscriptions to keep buses running.

However, the response from the business community, which has donated $23,000 to the service, does not appear to be promising. Some aldermen have speculated that additional financial assistance from the business community is unlikely in the wake of tax increases forced by revaluation. Furthermore, the city taxed commercial and industrial property at the maximum allowed under state law.

Several aldermen Wednesday night complained they only learned of the system's financial plight in the last several days. Alderman Michael Malec and others criticized the mayor for not bringing the matter to the attention of aldermen earlier.

Board of Aldermen President Matthew Jefferson said aldermen should consider taking a "firm stand" and funding the service for the entire year.

"We can not rely on merchants and good will to do it," said Jefferson. Aldermen, however, do not have the power to appropriate funds for the system.

Noise ordinance nears passage

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The proposed city-wide noise ordinance squeaked to within a peep of passing Monday night.

Voted on as one of the first orders of business before the Board of Aldermen, the controversial ordinance passed 16 to 1 before alderman Richard Bullwinkle looked up in surprise and exclaimed, "You mean that passed?"

Items presented on "first call", at the beginning of a meeting, are traditionally those which warrant no further debate.

Bullwinkle immediately moved to reconsider the proposal at the next meeting. Such a move did not need a vote from the board.

Alderman Bruce Carmichael, previously an outspoken opponent of the noise ordinance, was not present when the early vote was taken. Anticipating being late for the meeting, he said he had requested the item be deferred until the "second call," later in the evening.

In an inter-office correspondence distributed to his colleagues at the beginning of the meeting, Carmichael solicited their "no" votes on what he described a "frivolous" ordinance. "The six-page document before you is a cumbersome and lengthy example of what legislators should be trying to avoid," Carmichael said.

The ordinance prescribes the "maximum noise level permitted" for dozens of machines and activities by decibel. A motorcycle, for instance, would be permitted to emit 82 decibels. Trucks over five tons would be allowed to emit 86 decibels under 35 miles per hour and 90 decibels from 35 to 45 miles per hour.

Musicians and owners of animals other than dogs and birds would also be liable for permitting "the existence of a condition of noise pollution."

City employees armed with sound level meters would supposedly be dispatched to the scene of any "noise injury" to measure the sound and take appropriate action. In case of a violation, that action could result in the person responsible for the noise being fined up to $50.

Each day the offense continued would be considered as a separate violation.

The ordinance is modeled after one enacted in Brookline as the result of an study done by the Environmental Protection Agency. Carmichael said he thought comparing Newton to Brookline was unjustified.

"An ordinance of this sort may be helpful in solving some urban problems regarding noise in Brookline. But, Newton is not Brookline. It differs most in its urban character and intensity of use," he said.

The Ward 1 alderman said he had talked to the Noise Ordinance Enforcement Officer in Brookline, and that "he indicated the decible meter has been used a few times. I would expect 'a few times' in Brookline will mean a very few times in Newton," Carmichael said.

He added that, speaking with Brookline police, he got the impression that "most noise problems are usually disregarded by police lieu of other, more pressing problems. The fact that officers haven't even used the meter is something to consider when you want to determine the enforcement factor of this ordinance in Newton."

In requesting that his colleagues reject the ordinance, Carmichael cautioned them against passing "unenforceable laws that will reduce the credibility of our office."

In other action, aldermen approved:

• a $10,395 reallocation of funds by City Comptroller Lawrence Marino among various city departments to cover telephone bills.

•approximately $5,000 to pay workmen's compensation bills for four Department of Public Work's employees and one school department employee.

•the acceptance of $104 from the Newtonville Improvement Association to purchase a sign identifying Newtonville Square.

•approximately $400 in transfers for the city-operated Jackson Homestead Museum for preservation of documents and other expenses.

•the acceptance of a grant from the Newton Needham Chamber of Commerce to cover the cost of the annual senior citizen luncheon.

•approximately $15,000 in account transfers for the Library Department including $13,500 from personal services to purchase new books.

•$1,625 to cover longevity payments owed a city public health nurse.

•approximately $1,500 in a Health Department transfer for the rehabilitation of a lead-paint analyzer.

North High sign-ups being accepted

NEWTONVILLE — Students who are planning to attend Newton North High School in September, and who are presently enrolled in another system or in private or parochial schools, should contact the Counseling Department at Newton North.

Appointments will be scheduled during the month of July and during the last week in August. Registrations at this time will help to avoid disappointment in course selection.

Lawsuit against police moves closer to final legal ending

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The city's involvement in a lawsuit stemming from a Christmas morning fight in 1979 neared its end Monday night when the Finance Committee approved the last of a total of $8,300 in legal fees to "outside counsel" in the case.

As the result of alleged mistreatment following the fight, five members of the Alfred Mazolla family had filed a $19 million civil rights suit against members of the Newton Police Department and Chief William F. Quinn. The Mazollas' suit alleged "excessive use of force, false arrest, deprivation of liberty, abuse of process, malicious prosecution and failure to discipline (against Chief Quinn)."

According to City Solicitor Daniel M. Funk, after only one day of a trial he estimated "would take up a least five full days,"..." the plaintiffs accepted the city's nominal offer to settle the matter for $2,500."

Funk said it was necessary to employ legal counsel outside his office because of a drastic manpower shortage at the time the suit was first pressed.

The city solicitor said of the turned over Mazzolas' suit, "I don't claim that it was not in good faith, but, as they got closer to trial, they had less of a case."

According to Funk, "The suit will be dismissed with prejudice and no judgment against the police will be recorded. The settlement erases any element of risk that trying such a case always has, including the award of plaintiffs' attorneys fees.

"It also represents a significant savings to the city in further attorneys fees and other trial costs which would greatly exceed the cost of settlement," Funk said.

He added that the final settlement was so small that, "given the costs of the plaintiffs associated with bringing the suit, it surely represents a loss not only to them but to their attorney as well."

The suit originated with a fight in the Police Station in which Alfred Mazzola, a long time Newton firefighter, attempted to see his son, who had just been arrested for his alleged involvement in a "major brawl" on Adams St.

League delegates eyed national security plans and domestic programs

NEWTON — Delegates to the 35th national convention of the League of Women Voters voted to undertake a study to evaluate U.S. national security policies and their impact on our domestic programs and international relations.

Ellen Goodman, award-winning columnist, praised the league's adoption of the national security study in her address to the convention.

Stating that the time has come to demystify the Pentagon, Goodman told delegates, "We need facts and figures from people like you whom we trust."

The scope of the study will be to define the nature of national security and its relationship to military spending.

"We aim to assess the impact of military spending on the nation's economy and ability to meet social and environmental needs, and to determine the effects of military policy on our relationship with other countries," stated Marsha Francis, one of Newton's League delegates.

As a result of another convention decision, local Leagues will be asked to determine whether or not they agree that "public policy in a pluralistic society must affirm the constitutional right of privacy of the individual to make reproductive choices." Instrumental in organizing this proposal to the convention were delegates Ann Hartner and Sheila Shulman, Directors of Women's Issues, Massachusetts League and Newton League respectively.

"The Massachusetts League has held a position for ten years that all citizens should have access to contraceptive information and devices and that abortion, treated as a medical procedure, should be decided upon by a women and her physician," Hartner said.

Concurrence on this proposal would allow the League of Women Voters to lobby against the proposed Human Life Amendment.

Fewer joggers seen after rape reported

CHESTNUT HILL - Significantly fewer women were jogging early last week around the Chestnut Hill Reservoir where a female jogger was raped over the Memorial Day Weekend.

"I haven't noticed any women today. That's not normal," said Thomas Ryan, Metropolitan District Commission Police Officer. Ryan was frequently cruising the MDC area looking for suspects who fit the description of the rapist.

On Saturday morning, a male jogger grabbed a female jogger from behind, forced her at knifepoint to climb a five-foot iron fence and raped her in the bushes, according to MDC police.

On May 14, another female jogger was raped by a jogger at the Boston Arnold Arboretum. Both rape victims were attacked at knifepoint. MDC police said the incidents may be linked.

Officer Ryan reported that area residents are aware of the situation and reporting more sexually-related incidents. "There's been a lot more complaints of flashers and other things of a sexual nature," said Ryan, who received reports on attempted attacks, though he declined to elaborate further on the reports. "People are more aware of it so they're watching," he said.

Officer Ryan said police are advising women to jog in pairs.

Burned Hyde building deemed surplus

NEWTON — The School Committee Monday night voted 7-1 to declare the burned Hyde School building as surplus.

The vote to declare the building surplus was requested by Mayor Theodore Mann and it allows the city to start the reuse process for the building in Newton Highlands.

The building is one of three Hyde School buildings and, since the April 1981 fire, students have been housed in somewhat cramped conditions in the remaining space.

Mayor Mann last week set a project budget of $508,000 for reconstruction of school space, a figure which soundly eliminates consideration of two plans developed by the Wellesley architectural firm of Kubitz and Pepi.

Both of the firm's plans had cost estimates in excess of $1.5 milion.

The city's Building Commissioner, Allan Fraser, and Design Review Committee Chairman Sidney Shuman have envisioned a single story wing as a solution which would comply with the mayor's budget for the project and provide the 5,000 square feet net educational space required by the School Committee.

The wing would be built on the Lincoln Street side of the 1906 Hyde building and would run opposite and parellel to the gym wing of the school. Fraser estimates that the general construction would cost $375,000, plus architectural fees and contingencies.

According to School Committee member Robert Ricles, who represents the Hyde School district, no time frame for completion of a single story wing has been presented.

Ricles stressed that the School Committee had originally sought restoration of the classroom space for September 1982. "We (the School Committee) would be grossly unhappy if it took another year," he said.

Committee member Ann Berwick voted against the motion on the grounds that turnover of the building should be conditional upon a final decision to provide space without rehabilitating the burned building.

Hyde School PTA co-president Charles Gunnoe, who is also a member of the city's Design Review Committee, also urged the School Committee to make turnover of the building hinge upon provision of other suitable plans.

"The mayor told me this afternoon that he would not accept it with conditions," Chairperson Nancy Mann told the committee.

"I can't figure out a logical reason why the mayor would refuse that kind of resolution," Berwick said. "Tell me why the mayor should care whether that is a conditional resolution."

Committee member Susan Silbey said she would vote for the motion without conditions attached because the mayor had requested it in order to start the lengthy reuse process as quickly as possible.

Newton Police log

Intruders hit Woodlawn

NEWTON CENTRE — Jewelry and silver were among the items stolen from a Woodlawn Street home, where a car was also stolen though later recovered by Boston police.

Newton police reported that the intruders entered the home sometime between May 29 and June 6 by breaking a front window. Two television sets, assorted jewelry and silver were taken from the house, according to police. Also stolen was a 1977 Lincoln Continental with the keys. At 10:45 p.m. Sunday, Boston police recovered the vehicle at the rear of 1500 Commonwealth Ave., Brighton.

Vermont vehicle stolen

LOWER FALLS — A 1973 International Scout with a Vermont license plate was reported stolen at 11 p.m. Sunday from 2300 Washington St., police said. The car was parked there from 8-12 p.m.

Mishap victims stable

NEWTON CENTRE — Two Dedham women are in stable condition at Newton-Wellesley Hospital following a two-car collision early Sunday morning at Centre Street and Commonwealth Avenue.

Donna M. Teehan, 25, of 105 Oakdale Ave., Dedham, and Cheryl Gleason, 24, 30 Veterans Rd., Dedham, were removed from Teehan's 1981 Dodge by Newton firefighters using the jaws of life. Hospital officials said Monday afternoon that Teehan and Gleason were in "stable and comfortable" condition.

According to police, Teehan was issued a citation for failing to stop an at a flashing red light. Teehan collided with a 1977 Dodge Aspen driven by Janet , M. Naticchioni at about 2 a.m. in the Newton Centre intersection. Both cars were heavily damaged and towed from the scene.

Jewels missing in break

LOWER FALLS — Assorted jewelry was reported missing following a break into a Sherrin Road home.

Police said the break occurred sometime between May 28 and May 31. Police reported that the intruders entered the home by removing a clothes dryer vent from a basement window.

Elderly women hurt

NEWTON — Two elderly women were injured, and one was issued a traffic citation, following a two-car collision at Beacon and Crescent Streets.

Bella S. Gans, 86, of 76 Selwyn Rd., Newton, was treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Also injured was Margretta O'Shea, 76, of 76 Selwyn Rd., Newton.

Gans was issued a citation for failing to stop at a stop sign at the intersection, where her 1972 Dodge was struck by an 1982 Audi, according to police. The Audi, driven by Alan Rottenberg, 38, of 24 Gould Rd., Newton, and Gan's car were both towed from the scene.

Vandals hit firms

NEWTON — An audible alarm alerted police to two vandalism incidents at Washington Street businesses.

Police said that at 9:30 p.m. officers responded to the "Gifted Way," 709 Washington St., where they discovered a hole in the store window. The damage was probably caused by a pellet gun, according to police.

About 10 minutes later, as officers examined the area, they found a window damaged next door to the shop, Bifsky Insurance on Washington Street. Police said a pellet gun probably caused the damage there as well.

Lammers, Dalicandro take top North awards

Fred Dalicandro and Jenna Lammers were the major award winners Wednesday night as Newton North High School held its annual Spring Athletic Award Banquet at the Newton Post 440 Legion Hall.

The presentation of the Bill Connors Award, symbolic of that boy and girl who best places team above self, to Dalicandro and Lammers climaxed an evening where letters and plaques were given to students who participated in baseball, softball, track, tennis and lacrosse.

Dalicandro was an outstanding athlete this season for both the football and baseball squads and Tom Rezzuti, his baseball coach, had this comment after the ceremony. "I've said it many times. Freddie is the type of kid who will never hurt you or the team. Just as the award says, he always placed the team above his own personal performance. A perfect example of that was in the final two games of the year. Freddie hurt his knee and couldn't play, but he was still there rooting the rest of the team on."

Lammers starred on the basketball and tennis teams. She was a point-guard two years ago for Newton North's state championship squad and this season earned Suburban League All-Star honors. She currently plays doubles and No.3 singles for the undefeated tennis team, which appears headed this season for a state crown of its own after finishing the regular schedule 16-0 and winning its opening tournament match Wednesday, 4-1, over Marshfield.

Another superb athlete who was honored was track star Liz Natale, called by her coach, Peter Martin, "Simply the finest (high school) distance runner in the United States." Martin's claims, of course, have been backed by Track and Field Magazine, which ranks the University of Tennessee-bound senior as the No.1 miler in the country.

The boys' tennis team, coached for the first time by Norm Walker, also received special notice. They, like their female counterparts, are in the MIAA Tournament after concluding a 14-2 regular schedule.

The girls' softball squad, which finished an even 8-8, was the first to receive its letters Wednesday night. Coach Carolyn Harrington praised the determination of what she termed a "talented but inexperienced" group of girls. "We lost quite a few top people to graduation, scholastic ineligibility and injuries," said Harrington. "So these girls were forced to grow up overnight, as the saying goes."

Pitcher Tina Gentile, Outfielder Kathy McGrath and Shortstop-Catcher Carol Summers were all honored for making the Suburban League All-Stars.

The lacrosse team suffered through a disappointing season, as coach Rick Clark readily admitted. They finished third in the league — their worst finish ever — and missed qualifying for the tournament for the first time in 10 years. But Clark professed satisfaction. "We lost five games by one goal or in overtime and every one of those defeats was to a tournament team," he said.

First-team All-Stars from the Tiger team were Ken Healey and Joe Santangelo while Alec Murphy, Ed Cohen and Ed McCarthy all made the second unit.

Tom Rezzuti praised his baseball team for the tremendous improvement attained over the past three years, when the Tigers went from 5-15 to 8-12 to this year's mark of 11-9. "There was one reason for this success," said Rezzuti. "Maturity. On the part of the players and the coach. We're back on the right track here now and it's nice to see that hard work pays off."

Suburban League baseball All-Stars were Infielder John Corsi, Pitcher Paul Howley and Catcher Joe Slamin.

Retiring Headmaster Richard Mechem capped his 65th and final such banquet at Newton North by telling the athletes that they were now part of a select "family" of people who had experienced the feelings of competing, winning and losing. "Now you can go out into the world and say hello to someone who has competed and trade a few old war stories," he said. "Because you're part of that family."

4 Lions, 2 Wildcats named to DCL All-Stars

Newton South, which finished second in the Dual County League for the second straight year, has placed four players to the 1982 DCL All-Star squad while two from Weston High were given the prestigious honor.

Selected from the Lions were Pitcher Mike Pappas, Catcher Mark Paglia, Infielder Jerry Marcus and Outfielder Joe Spagnuolo. Wildcats named to the team were Catcher Marshall Tarbox and Outfielder Rick Hall.

League champion Acton-Boxboro also placed four to the team, tying with Newton South for the most selections. Included in that was the voting of Infielder Bob Kostro as Most Valuable Player.

Pappas, who finished 6-3 this season and was scheduled to get the start in this afternoon's MIAA Tournament game at Lowell (weather permitting), has been Newton South's No.1 pitcher all season. He defeated Acton-Boxboro twice and lost to them a third time in an effort which may have been his best of the year. "Mike has had the ability all season to make the big pitch and get the big out when he's needed to," said coach Neil McPhee. "He's a great competitor."

Paglia constituted an early Christmas present for McPhee. The Lions needed a catcher to replace the graduated Brian Striar, and presto, in came Paglia from Newton Catholic. "He was probably the biggest piece of the puzzle that we needed to fit," said McPhee. "It's often very difficult to come to a program and do the job the first year, but Mark was quick to adapt. He's one of the best athletes on the team."

Paglia was an infielder last year at Newton Catholic, but McPhee, confident of his all-around abilities, introduced him to catching in 1982. "I had heard that he was one of those people who could play any position, so I kind of figured him for catcher before the season," he conceded.

Paglia finished the regular season with a .298 average. And oh yes, he's only a junior.

Also a junior is Marcus, called by his coach "fundamentally the most complete player on the team." Marcus handled second base for the Lions while hitting a team-high .400 and driving in the winning run in three different games. Marcus makes up for a lack of strength and size with guile. He has excellent range and instincts. "He's sound at every aspect of the game," McPhee noted. "Once he gains some upper body strength, he'll be one of the finest ballplayers around. I really think he has enormous potential."

The fourth all-star from the Lions is Spagnuolo, who also made the DCL All-Stars in football as a quarterback. Spagnuolo has more natural ability than any of the Lions — in fact, he may have more natural ability than anyone presently at Newton South. "He has excellent speed and a very strong arm and is probably the best defensive outfielder I've ever coached," praised McPhee.

Spagnuolo hit .365 this year while playing centerfield and pitching. Like Paglia and Marcus, he too is a junior and should only improve with age. "He has unlimited potential," says McPhee.

Newton South finished 12-5 in the DCL this season and 13-6 overall.

Weston High experienced a resurgence of sorts in '82 with a 7-11 mark. "There were plenty of people who never thought we'd win seven games," said first-year coach Cliff Wilson. Two of the major reasons for the Wildcats' turnaround were Hall and Tarbox.

Hall, a junior, was easily Weston's MVP. In fact, he was second to Kostro in the league voting for that honor. Hall hit .411 with three home runs and 18 runs-batted-in and only a season-closing 1-for-13 slump prevented him from compiling even more outstanding statistics. "If it hadn't been for that slump, he really would have had a year," said Wilson.

Hall, who hit .375 a year ago and made the All-Stars, also stole 18 bases to lead the team and contributed defensively as well by throwing out seven runners from his spot in leftfield. "Rick is always consistent," said Wilson. "He's such a competitor that in the past he'd get down on himself if he made a mistake. This year he overcame that and next year he should do even better."

Tarbox, yet another junior named to the squad (there were 11 underclassmen in all), hit over .300 and knocked in 15 runs for Weston while handling the catching chores. "When I saw him before the season, I predicted he'd hit .300," said Wilson. The coach was right; Tarbox finished at .340.

"He is an aggressive, smart hitter," Wilson explained. "Marshall doesn't forget things. When you tell him something, he remembers and learns from it."

Tarbox's only current flaw is a weak throwing arm. "He needs to work on that during the off-season," Wilson admits. "He blocks the ball well behind the plate and has the defensive skills, but his arm just needs a little more strength."

Completing the '82 DCL All-Star squad are Pitchers Andy Clark (Lincoln-Sudbury), Bill Fitzpatrick (Acton-Boxboro), John Dolan (Concord-Carlisle) and Steve Curtin (Wayland).

Also, Infielders Paul Leighton (Lincoln-Sudbury and the only sophomore), Dave Courtoglous (Bedford) and Doug Calandrella (Acton-Boxboro) and Outfielders Mark Romeo (Acton-Boxboro) and Dave Santis (Concord-Carlisle).

The only seniors on this year's team are Pappas, Clark, Kostro, Courtoglous and Santis.

10 cafeteria staffers get layoff slips

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Ten cafeteria workers in the Newton schools received layoff notices last Wednesday under a "reduction in force" before the end of school.

Faced with a deficit of over $150,000 in the food services revolving account for this year alone, School Department officials began discussions with the union which represents the cafeteria staff and reached a decision to lay off 10 part-time cafeteria helpers.

Local 454 Union President Robert Robards said the greatest cuts in staffing will be felt at Newton North High where the equivalent of 37.5 hours per day is being eliminated. The total number of hours being cut throughout the system is 322.5 hours per week.

According to Robards, the cafeteria staff members had felt their jobs might be in jeopardy since the School Committee approved a hiring freeze and urged negotiations to reduce labor costs at the secondary school level. Nevertheless, the 10 female employees who received notices last week were "shocked and hurt," Robards said. "It always comes down to 'Why me?'"

Robards said the 10 employees were all part-time cafeteria helpers or provisional employees with the exception of one permanent part-time helper. The employees must respond to school officials by June 9 and either accept the layoff or appeal. All appeal hearings will be held June 11 and, after that date, the layoffs would become effective.

Support Services Director Roy Cornelius estimates the reductions will save $1,000-$2,000 dollars before the end of the school year and nearly $50,000 more next school year. Cornelius said the savings achieved by laying off employees prior to the end of school are not trivial because the revolving account will have "a couple thousand dollars less of a deficit for next year."

Helen Thomas, assistant superintendent of personnel, said most of the employees are Newton residents. "That's what so heartbreaking about it," she said.

Thomas said the layoffs are necessary to make the lunch program in the secondary schools "cost effective" by bringing down labor costs in proportion with the number of lunches being served in the schools.

According to Cornelius, the total number of lunches to be served this school year was originally projected at 461,700, but was drastically revised to around 360,000.

The School Department is in the process of reviewing proposals from consulting firms which specialize in school food programs and officials are hopeful that the firm which is hired will come up with a plan to dramatically reduce the deficit of the current program.

Robards said that while 10 employees are being "riffed", 17 employees with seniority status were "bumped" to other positions and possibly other school cafeterias. Robards said he does not agree with the method used for "bumping" or transferring and will work with school officials on this issue.

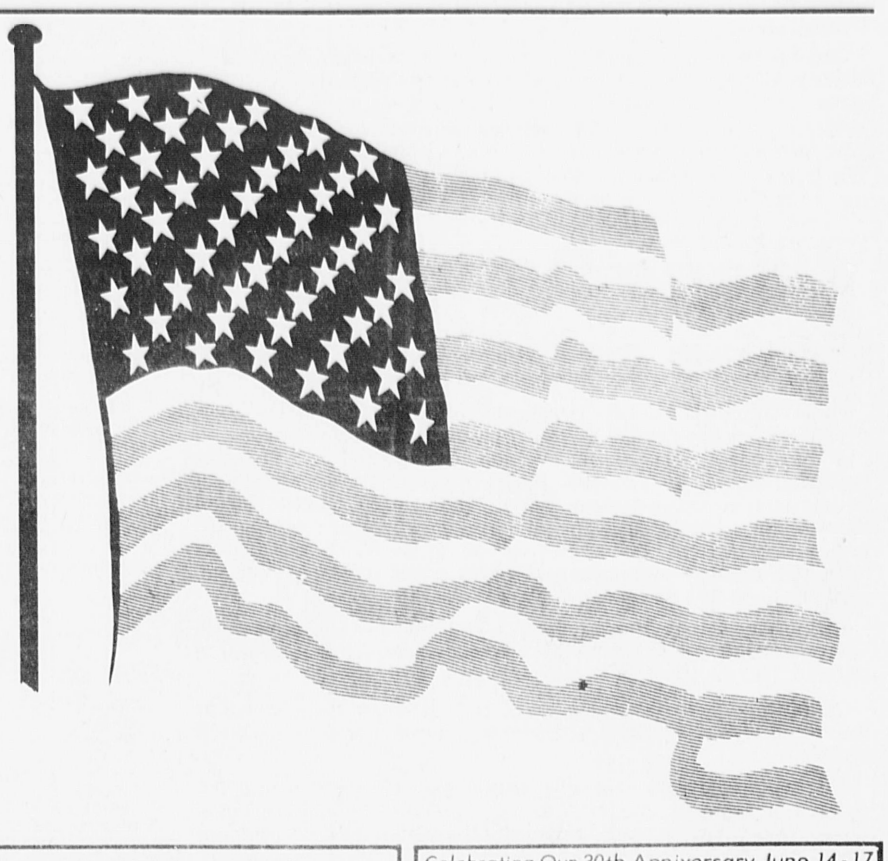
FLAG DAY
JUNE 14



EXCERPTS FROM FLAG CODE

DESCRIPTION OF THE FLAG

The Flag of the United States of America has 13 horizontal stripes, alternating, and a union which consists of white stars of five points on a blue field placed in the upper quarter next to the staff and extedning to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top. The number of stars is the same as the number of States in the Union.

Effective July 4, 1968*, the canton or union contains 50 stars arranged as indicated in the above reproduction. On the admission of a State into the Union a star will be added to the union of the Flag, and such addition will take effect on the 4th day of July next succeeding such admission. The proportions of the Flag as prescribed by Executive Order of President Taft, October 29, 1912*, are as follows:

Hoist (width) of Flag	1.
Fly (length) of Flag	1.9
Hoist (width) of union	7/13
Fly (length) of union	0.76
Width of each stripe	1/13
Diameter of each star	.0616

PROPER MANNER OF DISPLAYING THE FLAG

There are certgain fundamental rules of heraldry, which if understood generally, would indicated the proper method of displaying the Flag of the United States of America. The matter becomes a very simple one if it is kept in mind that the Flag represents the living country and is itself considered as a living thing. The union of the Flag is the honor point; the right arm is the sword arm and therefore the point of danger and hence the place of honor.

1. The Flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. However, the Flag may be displayed at night upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect. It should be hoisted briskly, but slowly and ceremoniously. The Flag should be displayed on all National and State holidays and on historic and special occasions. (However, being the emblem of our country, it ought to fly from every flagpole every day throughout the year, weather permitting.)

2. When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the Flag of the United States of America should be either on the marching right, i.e., the Flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags, the Flag of the United States of America may be in front of the center of that line.

3. When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the Flag of the United States of America should be on the right, the Flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

4. When a number of flags of States or cities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staff with the Flag of the United States of America, the latter should be at the center of at the highest point in the group.

5. When flags of States or cities or pennants of societies are flowen on the same halyard with the Flag of the United States of America, the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the Flag of the United States of America should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant flown in the former position should be placed above, or in the latter position to the right of the Flag of the United States of America, i.e., to the observer's left.

6. When flags or two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate

PROPER USE OF BUNTING
Bunting of the National colors should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping over the front of a platform and for decoration in general. Bunting should be arranged with the blue above the white in the middle and the red below.

staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

7. When the Flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of building, the union of the Flag should go clear to the peak of the staff unless the Flag is at half-staff. (When the Flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope, extending from a house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the Flag should be hoisted out from the building towards the pole, union first.)

8. When the Flag is displayed otherwise than being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out, or so suspended that its folds fall as free as though the Flag were staffed. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the Flag's own right; that is, to the observer's left. When displayed in a window, the Flag should be displayed in the same way, that is, with the union, or blue field, to the left of the observer in the street.

9. When dispalyed over the middle of the street, the Flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

10. When used on a speaker's platform, the Flag, if displayed flat, should be displayed above and behind the speaker.

When displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium, if it is displayed in the chancel of a church, or on the speaker's platform in a public auditorium, the flag should occupy the position of honor and be placed at the clergyman's or speaker's right as he faces the congregation or audience. Any other flag so displayed in the chancel or on the platform should be palced at the clergyman's or speaker's left as he faces the congregation or audience. But when the flag is displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium elsewhere than in the chancel or on the platform it should be placed on the left of the congregation or audience as they face the chancel or platform.

11. When flown at half-staff, the Flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff poistion; but before lowering the Flag for the day it should be raised again to the peak. By half-staff is meant lowering down the Flag to one-half the distance between the top and the bottom of the staff. On Memorial Day, May 30th, the Flag is displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset; for the Nation lives and the Flag is the symbol of the living Nation. Crepe is used on the flagstaff only by order of the President.

Festival of Dance opens June 10, 11

NEWTONVILLE — Featuring the work of four choreographers who are on the faculty of the Newton Arts Center, the Festival of Dance opens Thursday and Friday, June 10 and 11, with Dawn Kramer's highly acclaimed Housewares performed, to live music, by members of Dance Collective.

On Saturday and Sunday, June 12 and 13, Dancevisions, a new modern/ballet company, performs the varied choreography of its three co-founders–Margot Parsons, Kathy Hassinger, and Ellen Sinopoli. All performances begin at 8:30 pm and are at the Newton Arts Center, 61 Washington Park in Newtonville.

General admission is $5 for one program; $3 for the second. Children are half-price. Advance sales recommended as seating is limited. For further information, call the Center at 964-3424.

Regarding Kramer's work, Christine Temin of the Boston Globe wrote, "Housewares is marvelous...a piece of stylish, surprising, sophisticated theater. This is one of the best works by a Boston choreographer in recent years." This full-evening work features six performers who sing, speak, and act as well as dance. It deals in a provocative way with stereotypes about men and women and with such tyrranical elements of modern life as telephones and cars.

Kramer has received two Choreography Fellowships from the Artist Foundation, and as part of a third award, will produce Housewares at the Jacob's Pillow Dance Festival this summer.

Dancevisions will present, by Margot Parsons, Rag, a fantasy work to the music of Jelly Roll Morton; and Reflections, a modern day interpretation of the Narcissus and Echo myth. Breakfast of Champions, by Kathy Hassinger, uses the movements in tennis as the basis for exploring American values toward winning and competition; and Shroud, a solo performed by choreographer Ellen Sinopoli, deals with old age and dying.

Most of the choreography presented by DanceVisions, including the work recently shown at Boston College, has been created at the Newton Arts Center, which provides free rehearsal space to its faculty. This series is funded in part by grants from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, the Raytheon Company through the New England Foundation for the Arts.

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT

Date: 9 June 1982
Community Development Program
City of Newton
1000 Commonwealth Ave.
Newton, MA 02159
TO ALL INTERESTED
AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

The above-named City proposes to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Ripley Street Drainage Improvement Project

Purpose or Nature of Project: Installation of new and replacement of storm drainage facilities and installation of curbs

Location: Ripley Street/Maple Street/Knowles Street, Thompsonville, City of Newton, Middlesex County, Massachusetts

Estimated Cost of Project: $190,200.00.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and accordingly, the above-named City has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such decisions not to prepare such Statement are as follows:

No long-term adverse effects relative to the subject activity have been identified. Most and probably all adverse environmental impacts associated with this project would occur, if they occur at all, during the project implementation. For example, certain work may cause temporary intermittent effects, such as infrequent noise, possible dust, and occasional traffic disruption. It is anticipated that such routine and short-term impacts, as may be generated, will be inconsequential.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the above-named City which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request, at Room 16, between the hours of 8:30 A.M and 4:30 P.M.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted, prior to the request of Federal funds.

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the City to the above address. Such written comments should be received at the above address on or before 24 June 1982. All such comments so received will be considered and the City will not request the release of Federal funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

No 'fools abroad' with a second language

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A foreign language coordinator told School Committee members Monday night students should learn to speak a second language because "Americans are making fools of themselves abroad."

"Americans have been arrogant," said Claire Jackson, foreign languages coordinator for the junior high schools. "We want to stress to students that learning a second language is an important thing to do," said Jackson.

Several school curriculum planners in language arts Monday presented to committee members their foreign programs for students in grades seven and eight.

Jackson said the junior high school's foreign language program, which includes French, Italian and Spanish, stresses oral skills. "But we are not neglecting the written skills," she said. However Jackson added, "We are really committed to turning out students who can speak the language." She said that in grade nine, students concentrate more on written skills. The theory is that younger students acquire oral language skills easier at an earlier age.

Jackson said most junior high school students are enrolled in a foreign language class. Most of the students who are not studying a second language are enrolled in reading and tutorial programs, said Jackson. She said however that foreign language teachers visit classrooms and try to create interest in foreign languages.

Language classes for students in grades seven and nine meet four times per week for 45-minute periods. Classes for students in grade nine are five minutes longer. "The reason is the age difference," said Jackson.

Members also discussed what role Latin instruction plays on the junior high school level. Committee member Susan Silbey said she would favor offering Latin as a primary choice and modern languages as a second choice because of its usefulness in several subjects. However School Superindendent Aaron Fink pointed out a study by a Yale scholar who reported that when students started studying Latin at an early age, about 99 percent never continued the program to their senior year of high school.

Chairwoman Nancy Mann suggested students be required to take Spanish over other modern languages. Jackson disagreed with Mann's suggestion and said "French is useful too. Also, some students have an innate preference for one or the other." Jackson also said once a student learns French, "Spanish is easy."

The committee will hear presentations from other curriculum planners in at their next session.

Soliciting case wins court delay

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The case of a Newton health club owner charged with operating a house of prostitution was continued Monday in Newton District Court to 9 a.m. on Thursday.

Robert A. McIntosh, 41, of Burlington, owner of the Newton Health Club in Upper Falls was charged by Newton police on April 1 with inducing prostitution at the club. An employee of the club, Patricia Frost, 41, was arrested that day for soliciting for prostitution and later found guilty in Newton District Court. The case Monday was apparently continued because the court was backlogged with cases. The case was originally scheduled for May 28 though McIntosh's attorney was granted a continuance.

McIntosh is also awaiting Superior Court action on his appeal on related charges. He was

One for 'The Plant Lady'

By Richard Lodge

OAK HILL - Students, staff, parents and city officials gathered in the sunlight outside the Oak Hill Elementary School Friday to remember a woman who brought "light and love" to the community.

SANDRA PODOLSKY

A memorial garden with yews and crab apple trees was dedicated in a brief ceremony to Sandra Podolsky, a former Newton resident who died in 1979.

Speakers, including Oak Hill Principal Samuel Turner, Mayor Theodore Mann and Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink, recalled Mrs. Podolsky's many contributions to the community, including her work as founding coordinator of the Newton Community Schools program and organizer of activities for the Newton Golden Age Group.

The memorial garden, which will include a large honey locust tree, ground cover and shrubs donated by the city, will bear a plaque in memory of the woman known to many as "The Plant Lady."

As scores of Oak Hill youngsters looked on in the shade of a towering tree in front of the school, Temple Beth Avodah Rabbi Robert M. Miller eulogized Mrs. Podolsky, noting, "The Memory of a saintly, righteous person is a blessing for all times.

"That which brings light and love to the earth," Rabbi Miller added, "Can neither perish nor be forgotten."

In attendance at the dedication service were Mrs. Podolsky's husband, David, and children Lynne, Jay and Mark.

Mrs. Podolsky was involved in the American Jewish Congress and in the 8 affairs of t Temple Beth Avodah in Newton Centre. She was also one of the founders of the temple.

Professionally she worked in the area of interior plant design, in which she gained the affectionate nickname of "The Plant Lady." Her great love of plants and flowers made her family, friends and members of the Oak Hill community feel

'Uncertainty' in federal funding

School programs hit

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — School officials are braced for federal budget cuts which may "trickle down," affecting several school programs now receiving federal dollars.

The major program areas in the Newton schools which will be affected by federal cuts are the Technical-Vocational Department, bilingual education for Indochinese refugees, and Title I, Title IVC and Title IVB.

Officials said last week it is difficult to plan for the upcoming school year in these areas with the FY83 federal budget still awaiting final approval by the U.S. Senate.

"It's very hard to do solid planning when you don't know the allocation until late," Assistant Superintendent of Program Norman Colb said.

According to James Egan, director of budget and accounting for the schools, "You plan based on what you know. If drastic cuts are made, we'll certainly have to look at programs."

The basic federal allocation for technical vocation (created by Public Law 94-482) was already sliced by 25% for the current school year, according to Newton's director of technical vocational education, Dan Malia. Malia said this funding source dropped from $104,000 in FY81 to $75,000 in the current school year. Malia said he envisions cuts of another 17-20% for the coming fiscal year, although he stresses that is uncertain until a final federal budget is passed.

The Tech-Voc Department also receives funds from competitive grants and Malia said these funding sources have shrunk as well, with grants down from three to one.

"Next year is another year," he sighs. "We really don't know yet (about competitive grants)."

A $15,000 career education grant is one example of a competitive grant that will not be available to tech-voc next year. According to Malia, the funds were used in the junior highs, but the grant has been melted into the Block Grant form of aid.

Also, Malia said the state's Department of Education has, in response to federal cuts, changed the guidelines for how tech-voc can spend what money it does get. Now, he says, the funds can no longer be used to buy equipment for tech-voc programs.

"If the food services program needs a kitchen, we now have to find the local funds for it," he says.

While Malia will lose some discretion over federal funds coming to his department, Colb says the one advantage of the Block Grant form of aid to schools is that it removes previous restrictions on how federal money can be spent.

"The whole theory of block grants is to give the local agency much more control and fewer restrictions, so that the monies can be used to respond to the most pressing priorities," Colb says.

For the first time, funds can be spent on salaries for various programs and the School Committee has approved the Division of Program's recommendation to use Block Grant funds to hire four part-time people in the areas of basic skills, advanced challenge and early childhood education.

Colb says the Newton schools expect to receive about $45,205 under the Block Grant formula. The Block Grants consolidate over 20 previous federal programs into one lump sum which, for Newton, results in significantly less money.

Of great importance to the division of program, Colb says, is the elimination of federal funding for Titles IVB and IVC. In the past, IVB has been used to buy library materials and, more recently, to support the junior high school computer program. The Newton Advanced Challenge Program has been funded under IVC.

Colb says it is difficult to compare the block grant to the previous categorical grants, but he estimates that the loss in funding for next year (excluding cuts in Title I and vocational education) will be about $15,000.

The following year the amount will hit at least $70,000 because funds for Newton Advanced Challenge will end. Because NAC was "validated" and is in its third year, Colb says it will continue to be funded for one more year with federal dollars.

According to Dave Whiting, coordinator of media and libraries, Newton has, on average, received $29,000 a year in funding for its Services held honoring the city's firefighters

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — City firefighters gathered with their families, clergy and local politicians Sunday morning to conduct memorial services for colleagues who have died in the past year.

The event was part of an annual commemorative service held on the same day by fire departments all across the country.

The memorial ceremony was preceded by an ecumenical service and breakfast on the Centre St. campus of Boston College.

In the late morning, the crowd of several dozen relatives and guests moved to the front lawn of Fire Department headquarters in Newton Centre. There, under gray skies, the sounds of "How Great Thou Art" mingled with traffic noises. The solemnity of the scene slowed passing joggers down to a slow walk.

Secretary of State Michael J. Connolly, who has relatives who are firefighters, addressed the gathering. Connolly said an uncle of his had recently been disabled in the line of duty, he said.

Connolly called firefighters "48-hour heroes. One day they save a life," he said. "The next day they are in the newspaper, and the day after that they are forgotten," he said.

He encouraged the firefighters in their two fights: one against fires and the other against budget a living a garden would be an appropriate memorial to her.

In a letter last fall to Oak Hill Principal Turner, Newton Community Schools Executive Director Joseph Baron wrote, "Sandy's enthusiasm, commitment and devotion to community service will always be a source of inspiration to her colleagues at Community Schools. The garden you have established is a fitting tribute to Sandy's dedication to nature, beauty and the Oak Hill School."

Baron wrote that Mrs. Podolsky's gift to Oak Hill "was a forum for neighbors to become friends."

"I hope that the garden will forever symbolize the tremendous personal and communal impact that any individual, not only Sandy, can have when they truly give of themselves to others," Baron wrote.

Those serving as coordinators for the Sandra Podolsky Memorial Garden included Gail Epstein, Patricia Burdick and Suzanne Levine.

Newsman tackles foreign policy

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — ABC newsman Ted Koppel Sunday told a crowd of about 700 greater Boston jewish residents that they must confront some "unpleasant realities" about Israel including a foreign policy that "borders on cynicism."

"Israel practices in its international relations a degree of pragmatism that borders on cynicism," Koppel said. "It deals matter of factly and without embarassment with any nation that can help it."

Koppel, host of the popular news show "Nightline," was the guest speaker at cornerstone ceremonies for the Central Area Jewish Community Multi-Service Center on Winchester Street.

In a candid 70 minute speech under a rain soaked tent on the construction site of the planned $13 million jewish center, Koppel said the "nature of statecraft" is the persuit of "self interest."

Koppel cited Israel's selling of weapons to Argentina despite what he called the "anti-semitic inclinations" of the Argentina military as evidence of the self interest of foreign policy.

Furthermore, he cited Israel's dealings with the "racist government of South Africa" and the sale of military supplies to Nicaragua. He also pointed to Israel's relationship with the "bitterly anti-Israeli state of Iran for the simple reason that Iran has been at war with Iraq - a state which Israel regards as an even more hostile enemy."

The veteran newsman, however, stressed that Israel is no different from any other country, basing international relations on "their own best interests" and "survival."

"So what," he said of Israel's international policies. "Israel has to survive. It has little enough support in the world to be able to turn up its nose at those countries willing to deal with it."

Koppel said all countries, including the United States, will in the final analysis do whatever is necessary to survive.

"Why should Israel be any different?" he asked. "It shouldn't and it isn't. Ultimately beyond all the idealism and the dreams, Israel's primary goal is the same as that of every other nation: survival."

"Do not be misled by talk of moral obligation," he explained. "Nations are neither bound by nor do they construct their foreign policy on a foundation of morality."

Koppel, who served as chief diplomatic correspondent for ABC from 1971 - 1981 before hosting "Nightline," said the "most destructive" thing the jewish community could do is ask the many jewish journalists in America to use "a different set of criteria in reporting on Israel than on any other part of the world."

"It would confirm the very worst suspicions of every anti-semite in this country," he said.

'Israel practices in its international relations a degree of pragmatism that borders on cynicism. It deals matter of factly... with any nation that can help it.'

Newsman Ted Koppel

"Nightline," conceived in November 1979 to meet the thirst for news in the midst of the Iranian hostage crisis, has catapulted Koppel to television stardom. The 30 minute news show (11:30 p.m. to midnight) is watched by up to 10 million people nightly.

Koppel said the jewish community must recognize that the interests of America and Israel are not always identical.

"It is not anti-semitic to question whether Israel's interests and those of the United States are identical," Koppel said. "In point of fact, frequently they are not."

The newsman said that when Israeli and United States interests come into genuine conflict, the jewish community must not "crank up the old arguments about moral obligation.

"You must find, if they exist, practical reasons why the United States should not pursue a foriegn policy that is unfriendly to Israel," he said. "And you must expect, if such reasons do not exist, to see large scale erosion in the support of your fellow Americans for Israel."

"That is not anti-semitism," he added. "That is not even disloyalty. That is the way the world operates and no nation has a keener appreciation of that than Israel itself."

He said the challenge facing the American jewish community is "that of continually strengthening its own unique identity without becoming or even being perceived as becoming hostile to the larger American community as a whole."

He added: "There are times when the American jewish community expects more of itself and expects a more uncritical degree of loyalty toward Israeli policies than even Israeli's expect of themselves."

Koppel said that the recent invasion of Lebanon by Israeli forces will make it much more difficult for the United States to bring about a "broader peace process" in the Middle East.

He also predicted that it will be "many many months" before Israel is able to pull out of Lebanon. He said ultimately Western interests may be served by the Israeli invasion because of the possibility that the Lebanese central government may regain control of the region.

Cornerstone goes in for new center

NEWTON — City officials and Jewish community leaders Sunday afternoon gathered for cornerstone ceremonies marking the construction of a $13 million Greater Boston Jewish Community Multi-Service Center.

The multi-service center, located on a 35-acre parcel bounded by Winchester and Nahanton Streets, is being built under the auspices of the Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston.

The center, slated for completion in 1983, will provide a wide range of cultural and athletic programs for the Jewish community. It will include a gymnasium, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, and racquetball and squash courts. The facility will provide day and nursery school, Jewish cultural arts, and health education.

The cornerstone ceremonies mark the beginning of the final phase of a fundraising drive to raise a total of $13 million needed to complete construction. One hundred families have already donated $8 million for construction of the center.

The 35-acre site, purchased by the Combined Jewish Philanthropies in 1979, was formerly a school for homeless and then as a novitiate.

The multi-service center also includes space for human service agencies and counseling services. The center will also include an art gallery.

More than 500 Jewish residents were wined and dined in lavish style at the cornerstone ceremonies before hearing ABC newsman Ted Koppel deliver a speech.

Koppel said the community center represents a response to the many challenges facing the Jewish community.

Mayor Theodore Mann and a number of aldermen attended the ceremonies. Mann thanked all those participating in the fundraising for the center.

David Pokross, a Jewish philanthropy volunteer, said the center will emphasize "the social needs of the family" and bring a "new way of life" for the Jewish community.

Margery Katzenberg, a volunteer from Waban, said it was exciting that the "long awaited dream" of the center is finally "becoming a reality." She said the center will be a place that has "something for everyone" from pre-schoolers to senior citizens.

The national organization will sponsor 36 optometric continuing education lectures devoted to the needs of today's doctors of optometry.

Rep. DeNucci receives public service award

WELLESLEY — Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton, Waltham), House chairman of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee, received the first Distinguished Public Service Award to be presented by Massachusetts Bay Community College in Wellesley.

The award cites his leadership, chairmanship of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee, his service onthe Ways and Means Committee and his commitment to public higher education. The award also cites DeNucci's personal fight to prevent the closinq of Mass. Bay last fall.

Noting the honor, DeNucci said last week, "I firmly believe in the concept of quality public higher education that is both affordable and practical for the youth of the commonwealth."

"For many," DeNucci said, "the community college system is the only way in which high school graduates can go on to receive their college degrees, or as a stepping stone to a four year school. For others it is an associates degree in any number of professions and assures them the opportunity to seek out employment in a highly competitive market."

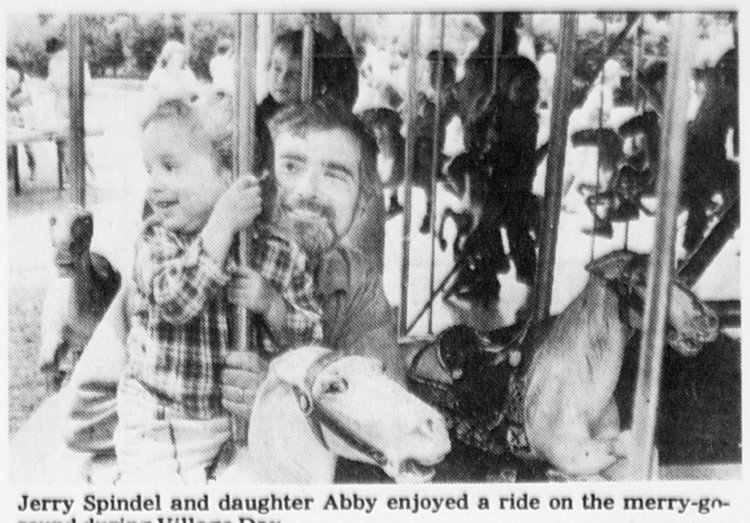
Alex Strunk of Fisher Street led the girls to victory against the boys during the Village Day tug-o-war at the Hyde School Saturday.

This Moonwalker just couldn't resist hamming it up during Village Day activities in Newton Highlands.



Jerry Spindel and daughter Abby enjoyed a ride on the merry-go-round during Village Day.

Hazel Gove named as an outstanding citizen

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — Highlands resident Hazel Gove became the Highlands' first recipient of its outstanding citizen award on Saturday.

Gove, who recently turned 90, has lived in Newton Highlands for 62 years and has donated much of her time to the community and the Hyde School.

On behalf of the Hyde School PTA, Hyde Principal Dr. Arthur Laughland presented Gove on Saturday with a framed, inscribed broadside copy of the original dedication of the first Hyde School building in 1895.

The award was created by the Newton Highlands Neighborhood Area Council and the NHNAC hopes to make it an annual presentation.

Gove, a graduate of Bates College in 1913, taught as a substitute teacher in the Newton school system at the junior and senior high levels for 21 years. At age 70 she retired and taught as a substitute teacher in the Brookline schools for another 10 years.

In 1972, she began volunteer tutoring at the Hyde School and, 10 years later, continues to tutor Hyde children.

Budget woes at school libraries under Title IVB. Next year, Title IVB funding will cease to exist.

"The worst thing about the total situation is that there is nothing in our economy which has gone up at the rate books have," Whiting laments. "You can't name anything that has to go with a book that hasn't outstripped the rate of inflation."

Whiting says that textbooks which cost $5 or $6 in 1975 now cost $15 and juvenile books have increased on average from $4 to $11 over the same period.

"So it is really quite a grisly scene in terms of publishing in general," he says.

In the area of federal funds for special education, which is federally mandated and state mandated, the Newton schools have achieved considerable savings in recent years by creating their own programs and collaborative programs with other towns. But, Director of Pupil Personnel Services John Cullinane said there will always be "some basic minimum number of kids for whom the public schools will never be able to provide," and these children require placement in private residential and day programs which the school must pay for.

Cullinane says there is "a great deal of uncertainty" about what, if any, cuts will be made in federal funds for special education. "Federal funds each year have grown," he says. "That's what gives us hope."

But "hope" in the current budget picture translates into hope that funding won't be cut severely. "It isn't like I wonder if we'll strike oil this year or not," Cullinane says.

If funds were cut drastically, Cullinane says the School Committee would then be faced with a policy decision of funding special ed from other areas of their budget. "Mandate means you do that first, and not when you get around to it," he emphasizes.

Cullinane fears a "backlash effect" if the School Committee were ever faced with huge cuts in special ed (something he sees in the "very foggy" future). "The backlash would be other parents saying, 'Why do my kids have to suffer to fund that program?'" he says.

Bilingual education Director Rosalie Porter says her department receives federal funds only for services for Indochinese refugees. With an increase in the number of Indochines students to about 75 currently in the Newton schools, Porter says federal funding has increased from $3,000 two years ago to $11,000 last year and $16,000 for the current year.

West Newton popular for campaigns

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The campaign headquarters of the two contenders for representative of the Fourth Congressional District, which rambles from Newton down to Fall River, have ended up a little more than a block from each other in West Newton.

Margaret Heckler's Republican headquarters opened this past week on Washington St., near West Newton Square. Barney Frank's Democratic campaign center is on Cherry St., near the other end of the square.

The coordinator of Heckler's campaign in the area, Al Shea, conceded the importance of Newton voters in the battle for the newly formed district. "The numbers alone dictate that we be here," he said.

Newton and Brookline were not in Heckler's district before the recent redistricting, so Shea says she has to concentrate on the area because "She's new here."

He added, "We're going to carry the fight to these two towns. I've found the vast majority of people in these communities know Margaret by name, but they don't know what she has been doing for the last 16 years in Congress. That's because she just quietly goes and does."

Shea responded to recent criticism in the Boston media of Heckler's apparently low profile in the campaign against Frank. "Margaret has an extensive press operation, but it is geared to the local press, not Boston," he said. "She let's her constituency know what she's doing."

He pointed out that "Margaret traditionally does not start campaigning early. This might even be considered early for her."

His present task is "to identify her constituency here." Shea explained, "Barney Frank is very liberal. Margaret is moderate. We have to find out where the moderates are and campaign to them. Newton has a high density of elderly persons. They are obviously a group we have to campaign to."

Commenting on the imbalance between Democrats and Republicans in the district, Shea said Heckler was used to such numerical adversity. He pointed to some of her resounding victories over the years and said a typical reaction among her constituency was, "She's not a Republican. She's Margaret."

Rev. Carpenter is ordained

AUBURNDALE - The Reverend Judith Perry Carpenter was ordained as an Episcopal priest in ceremonies last Wednesday at the Parish of the Messiah in Auburndale. The Right Reverend George E. Rath, assistant bishop of Massachusetts performed the ordination ceremony.

Rev. Carpenter was awarded a master of divinity degree from Andover-Newton Theological School in May and on May 30 of this year she was ordained as a deacon.

She is a chaplain at Dana Hall School in Wellesley and curate of the 8 Parish of the Messiah.

Rev. Carpenter is married to John Brooks Carpenter who is regional director of Young Life in New England, an ecumenical Christian Mission to young people of high school age. The Carpenters have been residents of Auburndale for six years and have four children, John David, Amy, Joshua and Anna.

People from a number of denominations attended the service and a reception followed in the parish hall.

cuts which threaten to diminish their efficiency.

Earlier in the morning, at the breakfast, Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci also made reference to the budget fight of firefighters. He told the crowd, which was half the number of the places set, that they were "involved in a political process. Make no mistake about it."

He said the firefighters had to educate themselves, their families and their neighbors about the issues which stem from drastic budget cuts.

DeNucci reminded them they are "the strongest lobbying force in the Legislature, stronger even than the police. Organizationally, they are a full-time lobby. They are also very visible in their own communities."

DeNucci expressed his concern for the morale of the Fire Department amidst personnel cuts. He cited the relatively small crowd at the breakfast as an indication of the low level of morale among firefighters.

He also turned his attention, for a moment, to the increasing problem of arson. He called it "Our fastest growing crime," and said that "economic frustrations dictate its increase."

The Rev. Robert Littlejohn, pastor of the Myrtle St. Baptist Church and the Fire Department's newest chaplain, delivered the benediction at the memorial service.

Soloist Thomas Brehm and organist Allan Davis, both of the Mary Immaculate of Lourdes Church, provided a medley of spiritual and patriotic music for the program.

Mrs. Henry Edward Stanton, Jr., wife of a recently deceased firefighter, placed a wreath before the firemen's memorial on Centre St. while the honor guard of the department saluted. Michael and Frank Pelligrini played "Taps" on trumpet and snare drum.

Chief Edward B. Rielly then read the roll of firemen who had passed away since the last memorial service. They included, besides "Eddie" Stanton, Capt. William H. Fitzgerald, Firefighter Halpin J. Butler and Asst. Chief Henry L. Murphy.

LIFE — THE FOCUS OF THE BIBLE
The whole Bible is a book of life, and this life is nothing less than the divine and living Person of Christ Jesus Himself, Who is our portion. The Bible is a revelation of Christ as life. Whenever we come to the Bible, we must realize that we are coming to contact Christ as our life.
We should not contact the Bible without contacting the Lord. Whenever we open the Bible we have to say, "Lord Jesus, You have to be here. This is not merely a book, this is Your revelation. I don't like to hear something from this book without hearing You. I don't like to read this book without seeing You. I like to see Your face. I like to see what You are from the printed page. O Lord Jesus, enlighten Your Word and annoint every line that I may touch You." We need such a spirit to contact this living Word.
When we come to the divine Word, nearly our whole being is involved. We must come with a heart which seeks after God, with a clear, sober mind and with an open spirit. If we open our spirit to God and to his Word, we can touch God Himself behind the printed page. It is not just a matter of reading with our eyes, understanding with our mind, or seeking with our heart; it is also a matter of touching God in our spirit. If we exercise our whole being in this way, we not only receive a revelation but some divine element revealed and conveyed by His Word will be transmitted into our spirit.
Ephesians 6:17-18 says that we have to "take...the word of God by means of all prayer and supplication..." We should take the word of the Bible not only by reading and studying, but also "by means of all prayer." We should read and study the Bible prayerfully; that is, we must exercise our spirit to contact the Lord by prayer with the reading of the divine Word.

Dr. Helen Caldicott in New York for the rally.

A voice for peace from the people

Different sources may have reported different figures but somewhere around 700,000 people gathered in New York City over the weekend to speak out in a way which this country has not seen since the final days of the Vietnam War.

The rally, called to protest nuclear arms proliferation, was no less than stunning. Old folks and young folks, people of every description, joined hands to speak out against the insanity which has overtaken the super powers of this earth in a race against time, and toward the blackest hours of our lives.

The scenes on the evening news harkened back to the old days of protesting with thousands pitching tents in Central Park and singing songs of life and love. The movie stars were there and the folk singers again tuned up their guitars to sing out against the arms race. There were Democrats and Republicans, Communists and pacifists. There were little kids with balloons and big kids with banners and flags. It was a gathering of men and women and children who all came together for one purpose - to speak out against war and hope for peace.

The groundswell against the Vietnam War took years to grow and in the process, lives were being lost every day in the jungle fighting. But the anti-nuclear weapons movement seems to have gathered strength and support from all corners in a wonderfully short time period. Like those who protested our involvement in Vietnam, however, the movement for a nuclear weapons freeze has a long uphill road.

But the scene in New York City was one only the most ignorant of politicians could ignore. Yet, it wasn't a day for politicians, unless they plan to vote for peace.

Anti-nuclear protestors came from Japan.

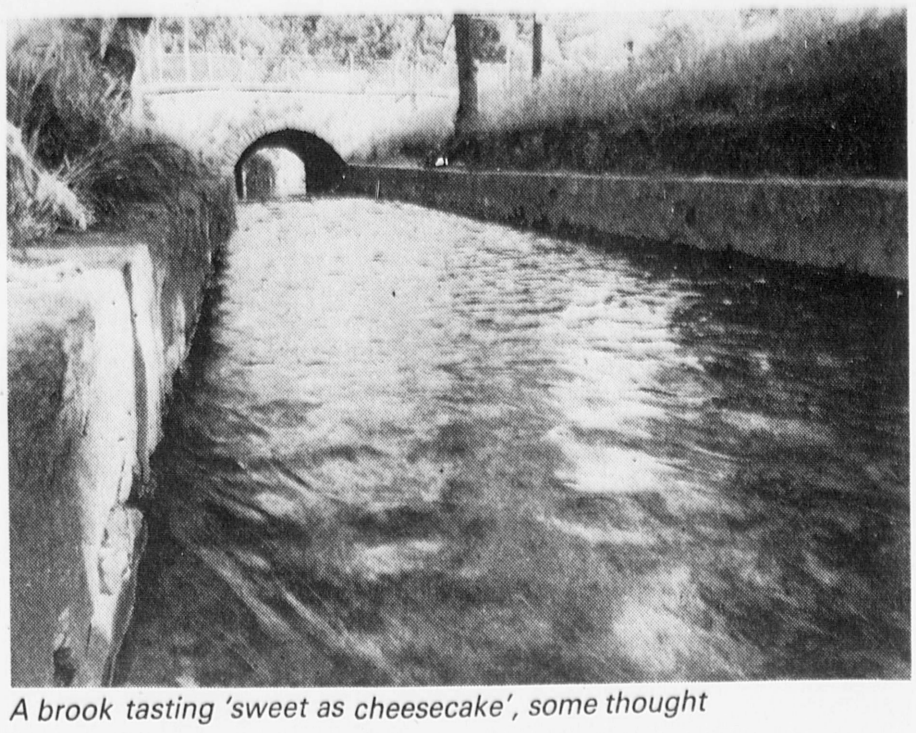
A little 'cheesecake' in the city

By Elaine von Bruns



A brook tasting 'sweet as cheesecake', some thought

Cheescake Brook curves through Waban, West Newton and Newtonville, flowing between neat stone walls.

Cheesecake Brook? What kind of a name is that for a brook? Besides, isn't cheesecake a contemporary indulgence, enjoyed at New York delis and on Cambridge dessert binges? Yet the brook is clearly identified as "The Cheesecake" on maps representing Newton as far back as 1700.

Along with a number of other baffled Newtonians I came up with several hypothetical origins for the brook's unlikely name:

1. Martha Crawford, age seven, in a fit of disobedience, emptied her English grandmother's prized crock of treacle into the brook. A few minutes later, several yards downstream, a Newton founding father stooped for a drink. "Why it's as sweet as cheesecake!" he enthused, immediately determining to bottle the water as New England's first soft drink, "Cheesecake Cola." Needless to say, the project failed, but the name, decarbonated, lives on.

2. One Early Settler (henceforth designated as "E.S.") to another:

"Hey, Tom, let's go down to New Amsterdam and pick up some cheesecake for the Thanksgiving Day Bash."

Tom: "This is New England, Waldo. We prefer pumpkin pie. You can take your cheesecake and toss it in the brook."

3. On September 3, 1698, Nathaniel and Ebenezer Cobb established the Colonial Deli on the banks of the brook. The Colonial became reknowned for Nat and Eb's cranberry-topped cheesecake and on warm afternoons the banks were crowded with E.S. devouring the rich dessert. Pretty soon the brook, and in fact the entire area, became associated in the E.S.s' minds with cheesecake. The brook was named after it and it was only because of the objection of the powerful Pilgrim Diet Club that the entire city of Newton was not rechristened Cheesecaketon.

4. In 1700, to satisfy increasing demand, the Cobb brothers set up two rafts, the Cheesecake I, carrying plain cheesecake, and the Cheesecake II, stacked with cheesecakes topped with cranberries, blueberries and mincemeat. Operating on the honor system, customers were to wade in for their cake, depositing coins in the jug. Unfortunately, the enterprise had to be abandoned when, on their maiden voyage, both rafts were overturned due to customer enthusiasm. With 158 cakes floating (and alas, two sinking) in its waters, is it any wonder that the brook acquired its high caloric name?

Somehow, none of the above scenerios seemed convincing. So I hurried to the Newton Room of the Main Library, where I discovered that according to Newton, Massachusetts by S.F. Smith (1880), the brook's name "is due to the picnic lunch of some of the early inhabitants, who, while out on a hunting expedition, becoming weary and faint, sat down at noon on its banks to eat their cake and cheese, and slaked their thirst from its refreshing water."

This story is supported by King's Handbook of Newton (1889) which goes on to tell how "at a facetious entertainment at the City Hall some years since, the project was unfolded of deepening and widening the rivulet down to deep tidewater, thus to make the village a port of entry, with a Custom House and other appropriate accompaniment," a proposition as far-fetched as Nat and Eb's rafts of Colonial cheesecake.

Graphically speaking

Red faces and towering topics

Must be Upper Falls

Browsing through the June 9 Banker & Tradesman we noted something of a unique sale in the real estate transfer section.

Right there, in black and white, as they say, the transfer of ownership of a parcel on Tower Road from RKO General, Inc., to WNEV-TV, the new owners of Channel 7. Most people know (and most of all the folks in Upper Falls) that just about the only thing with a $250,000 price tag on Tower Road these days which a television station would be interested in is, you guessed it, a tower.

The sale was part of the overall transfer of power (tower?) from RKO to WNEV, following the takeover of the station's license to operate by the new Channel 7 owners.

With the periodic concerns raised by Upper Falls residents whenever yet another tower is proposed in their neighborhood, one has to wonder whether some people are hoping WNEV will take their tower and move it. No small task, we might note, and, to dispel rumors before they begin, it is an impossibility.

So the tower, no matter who owns it, will just keep towering over Newton Upper Falls. Stay tuned.

Officially speaking...

Charles Sabatier made quite a name for himself this year when he was arrested at Logan Airport for refusing to sit on a blanket, as ordered by airline officials. Sabatier, the assistant director of the state's Office of Handicapped Affairs, is confined to a wheelchair. That being the case airline personnel said they were following rules by ordering Sabatier to sit on the blanket, supposedly making it easier for him to be removed from the plane in case of an accident.

Sabatier won the case, airline officials relented and made the blanket policy optional.

Now the Newton resident is in the news again but this time there are no airlines and no police and no courts.

Charles Sabatier will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the West Suburban Council for Children on June 22 at 8 p.m. in the Eliot Church parlor in Newton Corner.

Sabatier will address, in particular, the Reagan administration's threats to the rights of disabled persons, and the meeting is open to the public. For more information call Ralph Hergert at 965-9810.

Sen. Backman goes to bat

The state Senate recently okayed a bill filed by Sen. Jack Backman, the Democrat who represents Newton and Brookline on the Hill.

The bill sets up regulations on the sale of life estates and long-term leases in "continuing care" facilities.

Backman's proposal would require the operator of a nursing, or continuing care, home to give prospective residents a written contract specifying the rights of consumers and the responsibilities of providers. In other words, the bill makes sure everything is in writing. No fine print.

Not up the creek this time

Thanks to the guys in the Newton Rotary Club, the Boy Scouts in the Norumbega Council will be able to get up the creek and back again.

This week's issue of the Rotary Club's Newsletter, "The Service Gear," says the Council has indicated that on June 12 it will have five new Grumman canoes, 16 paddles, 15 life jackets and supports as a result of a recent Rotary Community Service gift.

Such a gift deserves hearty congratulations for the hard work of the local Rotarians. Keep up the good deeds.

Red-faced and roasted

Mayor Ted Mann has a way with words, it seems and sometimes he just can't resist a little dig at his friends.

Last week Hizzoner appeared at a farewell party for retiring School Superintendent Aaron Fink and the mayor was on for introductions. When he came to former Alderman and current Newton Graphic editorial page contributor Mark White (of Marking time fame), the mayor jokingly termed White a noted "Communi...ah, columnist" for the local weekly.

The quip left a few Red faces in the crowd but we'll vouch for Mr. White. He's not a Commie. He's an attorney. And he claims he is not seeing Red after the remark.

District attornily yours

The candidates are coming. The candidates are coming.

Recently Middlesex County District Attorney candidate Paul J. Cavanaugh was treated to a get-together involving some 30 friends and neighbors at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harrison Pearlson of West Newton. Cavanaugh is in the running for the job now held by John Droney, who is seeking reelection.

On another front, Scott Harshbarger, running for the same job, went running with his wife, Betsy, in the ERA Colonial Realty Waltham Run, held to benefit victims of MD. Betsy came in first in the women's division, completing the five-mile race in 31:09. Her husband turned in a time of 33:20 but is hoping he can outpace the other candidates in the DA's race.

And on yet another front, District Attorney candidate Ed Gargiulo was hosted by Mickey and Gail Robinson of Newton and about 50 friends and supporters recently.

Gargiulo, who is Gail's brother, servied as assistant DA for six years before launching his campaign. Gail Robinson is helping out brother Ed's campaign, working as his campaign chairperson.

Frank: The union's man

Congressman Barney Frank, running in the fourth district against Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, received an endorsement from the 10,000 member International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the largest labor organization in the district.

The union pledged support for Frank because "he is consistently on the side of working people."

Union officials said a comparison of voting records of Frank and Heckler was the determining factor in making the endorsement, which had gone to Heckler in past years when she was not opposing Frank.

Citing Frank as a man with "the intellect and experience to understand the real problems facing working people," a statement of endorsement by the ILGWU said, "In short, Barney Frank is the best choice to represent the interests of the most people in these troubled times."

Maybe we'll never know

A recent issue of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce newsletter points out the recent appointment of Dr. John Strand as replacement for the retiring Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink. Fink is retiring this year.

The newsletter says, and we quote, "Assisting the School Committee to choose from among several hundred applicants was a Citizens' Advisory Committee, which was chaired by Atty. Oscar Wasserman... who is presently chairman of the Chamber's Career Awareness and Economic Understanding Committee" and is a past Chamber president.

We beg to differ about the "several hundred applicants," since we were told by Mr. Wasserman that slightly more than 100 applications were taken for the post. The issue is near and dear to our hearts, also , because Wasserman refused to release the names of any but the finalists for the superintendent's job. We would note, to his credit, that he was only following the lead of Superintendent Fink, who refused to release any but the one name of the finalist for the Newton North High principal's job.

Since The Graphic, and many newspapers around the Commonwealth, have long contended that all names of those applying for such a public position are public record, if the Chamber knows for a fact that "several hundred applicants" applied for the job, we'd love to talk about it.

Aside from the finalists' names released prior to Dr. Strand's appointment, it appears we will never know the rest of the story.

Pining away in the sun

Former State Rep. and current candidate for lieutenant governor Lois Pines of Newton, a long-time supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment, wasn't about to let down her friends at the National Organization for Women (NOW). So she ventured south, to sunny Florida, leading a group of pro-ERA folks in a fally June 6. The group, reportedly, was involved in an "intensive" lobbying effort for the ERA where they were joined by an estimated 10,000 other ERA supporters who swarmed the Florida state capitol.

Pines suspended her Bay State campaign for the weekend in order to lend her support for the Florida effort. The sunny Gulf Coast state is one of three, including Oklahoma and Illinois, targeted by ERA supporters hoping to win the necessary three votes for passage of the ERA by June 30.

Return to sender, please

In the June issue of the Charles River Watershed Association newsletter "Streamer" we find this headline: Postal disservice continued unabated.

The "Streamer" notes, by way of explanation, "Our second mailing of Charles River Celebration flyers for June 19 and 26 was delayed a week at the South Postal Annex before we were notified that the whole bulk mailing had been rejected because we used the wrong size rubber bands!

"This," the newsletter concludes, "is in the interest of efficiency."

Band in Boston, we always say.

'Tea Party' pondered

To the editor;

In common with 95% of Newton I have long believed that the 1981-82 "reassessment" left much to be desired. Whether it was the fault of the assessing company itself, its employees or its computers, I had heard so many incredible tales I was sure I could never be a surprised again. But I am.

Like many fortunate Newton residents we own a small lot of empty land adjoining our house, known to Newton Corner children as "Marshall's Yard." Under the building code passed in 1953 it is far too small to be considered as a building lot, it slopes cheerfully downhill and, apart from two ancient apple trees and some lumpy turf, it is truly "unimproved." When the first tax bills arrived we believed "they" had made a mistake. We went to City Hall to appeal, and we were promised that "they would come back and take another look.

It is believed that "they" kept their word for their evaluation went down... somewhat. They claim that the land itself is worth $43,811 and the "residential imrpovement" to that empty slice of grassy land stand at $85,089. This demands a tax increase of 490%. If it wasn't so chillingly outrageous, it would be hilariously funny.

However, it is equally chilling to remember that if our second appeal fails and we are forced to move, there would be a few prospective buyers willing to pay an extra $3000 per year for a slice-of-side-yard. And where else can we take our "unjust taxation" complaint? With the threatened possibility of a new assessment every two years hanging over our heads, to whom can the citizens of Newton take their complaints. The city needs our money, regardless of the veracity of the reassessments? Do we need another Tea Party to emphasize our problem?

Rogers is 'sincere' but reader doubts mayor

To the editor;

Mayor Mann has praised John Rogers, president of Save Our Homes Too. He called Rogers "sincere and straight-forward" and said Rogers "was trying to deal with the problems instead of engaging in rhetoric." As an officer (vice-president) of this organization, I would like to add that he certainly should praise Rogers and maybe go one step further in recognizing publicly that without the help of some aldermen and one in particular, Save Our Homes Two would not have been as successful in having public meetings to assist taxpayers in filing for their abatements in addition to all the public hearings that we previously were able to have (including a chance for the business community to air their concerns before a vote on classification was held).

I assume the mayor realizes in praising Rogers that our group was responsible for having two citizens' petitions addressed at which we learned along with a stunned Board of Aldermen that he again changed the contract with Finnegan Associates in April by further extending deadlines to them. This news made the board appear like Political Puppets before their constituency. This is not rhetoric.

In view of the praise given Save Our Homes Two his conspicuous absence at every meeting and hearing makes me wonder why he chooses not to attend. He manages to schedule appearances at award ceremonies and testimonials.

Mann has now pledged a "careful review" of revaluation problems by City assessors.

I fervently hope this is not rhetoric!

It would be devastating to put the taxpayers through an exercise in futility in order to preserve our right of appeal to a higher level.

The law, revisited

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter from the office of the District Attorney of Middlesex County to School Committee Chairperson Nancy Mann)

Dear Chairperson Mann;

The District Attorney is in receipt of your letter of April 29, 1982 acknowledging that the Newton School Committee violated the Open Meeting Law on April 15, 1982 by dividing into two groups in an attempt to avoid the application of that law. You have stated that your action was made in good faith, have apologized and have promised not to repeat the action.

Although it is unfortunate that there is no way to make the public whole for having been denied access to the deliberations of April 15, because no official action was taken on that date we will be satisfied on this occassion with your commitment to increased attention to the dictates of the Open Meeting Law.

The District Attorney's office is always available for advance consultation on Open a Meeting Law questions in order to prevent "good faith" errors from occurring.

Martha Mensoian is YMCA girl of the year

NEWTON CENTRE - Martha A. Mensoian, a fifth qrade student at Mason-Rice School in Newton Centre, was recently presented the Girl of the Year Award by the West Suburban YMCA at the annual meeting.

In making the presentation, Steve Tammara, director of membership and public relations, cited Martha' s participation in the YMCA's National Progressive Swim Program, the After School Activities Program and the sharing of her time as a volunteer helping young children in the beginning swim classes.

Martha has been a member of the West Suburban Y in Newton for the past four years and has been active in a wide range of activities.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Michael G. Mensoian and lives in Newton Center with her younger brother, Christopher.

3 local youngsters in contest

WEST NEWTON - Three local youngsters competed in the annual piano contest of the Massachusetts Music Teachers Association at Holyoke Community College and two of them came home with trophies.

Susan Worters of West Newton, won first place in the intermediate D competition while Laura Annunziata won third place in the senior division. Also competing was Elizabeth Rosman. All three are students of piano instructor Sylvia Chambless, of Newton.

The Mass. Music Teachers Association is affiliated with the Music Teachers National Association and, besides offering workshops and performance opportunities, the organization sponsors student competitions.

Marking time

Revaluation in just four acts

By Mark White

Act I was the hiring of Finnegan Associates, the only firm which would take the job.

Act II was the visit to your home by the data collector. You remember, the college student who stood outside your door and surmised that you had three bathrooms.

Act III was the determination of your value.

Act IV, the grand finale, is the abatement process.

It's hard to discern whether this show is a drama, tragedy or comedy. However, the curtain is finally coming down on the long running play "Revaluation."

But now we get into the abatements.

If you believe your house is overvalued, file. Make sure you pay the right amount to protect your appeal rights. However, if you already paid your estimated tax bill last October you are probably protected.

Fill in the application properly. Where it says "Reason for Abatement," it is not sufficient to write, "I got ripped off," "Finnegan screwed up," or "It's too much money." Be specific in your objections. (And no, you don't have to cram your four pages of information on those three little lines.)

But the most interesting part of this process is the statutory abatements. For example, there is a hardship abatement. However, it appears that the only grounds for that abatement are that you don't have the money . And that is to be taken literally!

If you pay your taxes and then file for the hardship abatement how can you argue that you don't have the money? Interesting question.

Are you confused? Good. That means you understand the process. Because the process must have been designed by the inventor of Rubik's Cube.

You should see some of these other abatements. If you are a widow over 70 and your entire estate is less than $20,000 you might receive the magnificent abatement of $175 off the taxes.

If you are elderly and make less than $6000 a year you might get a $500 reduction in taxes.

But my favorite is if you are a surviving spouse of a veteran who was killed at Quemoy or Matsu you receive $175. I'm sure that one is given out by the thousands in Massachusetts.

Frankly, I don't know about you but I'm getting sick of the whole thing.

And if you and I are sick of it, think of the poor assessors. The phone never stops. The line of people never ends. Most citizens can't count how many bathrooms are in their homes. Everybody is screaming for the comparison sheets. And soon, everyone in that office will probably be eligible for disability pensions.

Regardless of your feelings toward revaluation, the assessors deserve extra combat pay and a medal of honor for taking this job (or at least, a psychiatric exam).

> 'If you and I are sick of it, think of the poor assessors... Regardless of your feelings toward revaluation the assessors deserve extra combat pay and a medal of honor for taking this job (or at least a psychiatric exam).'

And what about the aldermen? Four public hearings, hundreds of angry phone calls, numerous neighborhood meetings, and endless docket items. Next time the issue of salary raises comes up remember these last few months and especially the past few days.

The aldermen, led by Sondra Schick, not only composed an instruction sheet explaining the abatement process, but last Saturday morning four of them, Carol Ann Shea, Verne Vance, Richard Bullwinkle and Sondra Schick brought their families into City Hall in order to fold and address the sheets so they could be mailed promptly. Those, my friends, are dedicated public servants.

Another dedicated citizen, John Rogers , head of the committee To Save Our Homes Two, has devoted endless hours to understanding and explaining the abatement process to hundreds of citizens.

Somehow, we will get through this. We survived all the snow of this winter. We survived four straight years of Ed King as governor. And somehow we will survive this revaluation.

But as you fill out your application and breathe a sigh of relief that this fiasco is almost over, don't get carried away. The next revaluation is January 1, 1983.

(Mark White is a practicing attorney and former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen)

Guard booked for Mt. Ida Jr. blaze

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

OAK HILL — A Northeastern University criminal justice major and campus security guard at Mt. Ida Junior College was arraigned Thursday in Newton District Court and charged with the June 7 two-alarm blaze which gutted Mt. Ida's main library and resource center.

Philip W. Storer, 22, of 70 Helen Rd., Needham, was charged with arson to a building in connection wit the blaze which caused an estimated $400,000 in damages and losses.

Storer was released on personal recognizance and is scheduled for a a probable cause hearing on July 13 at 11 a.m. in Newton District Court. Storer's attorney, Paul Doyle, of Boston, entered an innocent plea on Storer's behalf.

State police, who investigated the blaze with Newton Fire Captain Carmine Tedesco and representatives of the state fire marshal's office, made the arrest on June 9. Storer, a junior at Northeastern, had been a security guard at the college since September, 1981, according to Tedesco. He said fire investigators held a lengthy interrogation with Storer, which revealed evidence to be presented during the hearing in Newton District Court.

Five firefighters and two campus employees were injured as a result of the blaze. All were treated and released from the hospital. The blaze broke out shortly before 11:23 p.m. in the Hallden Library of the college's Oak Hill campus, 777 Dedham St. Some 42 Newton firefighters battled the blaze, which began in a maintanence closet on the first floor of the two-story structure. The fire spread rapidly through the red brick and stucco, Tudor-style library, destroying books, furniture and media material. Firefighters fought the blaze for four hours.

College President Bryan Carlson said that the blaze caused $200,000 in structural damage and $200,000 damage to the library's book collection, media equipment and furnishings. "Fortunately, a vast majority of the books were salvaged," he said. Calson noted that a recent assessment of the library's holdings valued the collection at $1 million. He commended the fire department for "saving many of the books from water damage." Firefighters used salvage covers to protect the collection.

Carlson said the structure would be repaired by the fall. However the school is in the process of converting the old arena, located several hundred feet away from the gutted library, into the new library and resource center. The project will not be completed until the fall of 1983, Carlson said.

Carlson said it is important to maintain the library because it adds character to the campus. He added that the fire had disrupted the "peace and tranquility we usually enjoy at this time." There has not been a fire at the Mt. Ida campus since 1970 when a blaze struck the Westgate Hall dormitory.

Fire Captain Tedesco with representatives of the state fire marshal's office inspected the burned-out structure the morning after the fire. The vivid red fire official's car was a sharp contrast in the otherwise serene-looking campus. Several students, saddened by the incident, watched as employees moved books and materials from the gutted library and insurance representatives inspected the area.

The comment of one student exemplified the spirit that the quaint, cottage-style structure evokes. "This building is very special. It's so peaceful and beautiful," said Elaine Arno, of Dedham.

Arno, 40, said she spent several hours a day studying in the top floor art room. "I'm very upset because this is where I study. It has all the books you need. You don't have to go anywhere else," Arno said. Pointing to the her favorite spot by a now shattered window. "I'd sit in that art room for hours. It's quite beautiful."

The gabled roof was partially collapsed and charred debris surrounded the library the day after the blaze.

'Big A, little a, r-o-n;' farewell bash for Fink

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — Retiring School Superintendent Aaron Fink was "roasted" last week at a farewell party attended by nearly 300 members of the community.

Congressman Barney Frank, Mayor Theodore Mann, members of the Board of Aldermen, and school officials were among those who came to honor Fink, who is retiring after 13 years. Fink was praised for being "a super Super" during difficult years for the schools. Citations and resolutions from Senator Edward Kennedy, the Massachusetts House of Representatives, former Governor Michael Dukakis, and Newton's Board of Aldermen were all presented to him at the party held in Mt. Ida Junior College's Shaw Hall.

But, mostly the evening was a humorous toast to Fink's tenure as superintendent. Mayor Mann teased Fink that he could be thankful, on his retirement, for his health, and especially because he could still see and hear.

Mayor Mann also reminisced over Fink's years in Newton by joking that the total of Fink's paychecks over 13 years amounted to "$150,000 more than I've earned even when I've been getting all of my paychecks." Mayor Mann was not only referring to $24,000 worth of his paychecks which is missing, but also to Fink's being Newton's highest paid city official.

Former School Committee member Sandra Fleishman said she thought Fink had been wrongfully maligned by some for not being "a back to basics superintendent." "It's not true," she said. "I know how much you care about spelling."

Fleishman said she once took her kids to Fink's office and that he shared with them an important spelling lesson he had learned many years ago... "Big A, little a, r-o-n," Fleishman sang.

"It's clear that the Newton public schools have really thrived under your tenure," she said and then cited enrollment figures which have dramatically plunged since Fink came to Newton.

"You really have been a super Super," Fleishman said warmly. "We wish both you and Norma (Fink's wife) good luck and good fortune in your next endeavors."

A long time friend of Fink's, Ed Hickey, read a telegram which he said was from "Aaron's publisher."

"Now many of you may not know that Aaron has a publisher, but he does," Hickey said and prepared to read the mock message.

'Congratulations, we have accepted your manuscript for your new book entitled, "Stranded,' Hickey joked as the audience erupted into laughter.

When Fink leaves in August, he will be replaced by incoming superintendent, Dr. John Strand, who is currently superintendent of the Pelham, N.Y., schools.

Hickey also read a hyped noted from Congresswoman Margaret Heckler which said, "I won't come if Barney's going to be there."

Later, Fink was called to the podium and joked that the party was "just an excuse for these amateur comedians." Fink then took a few playful swings of his own.

"Somebody said to me yesterday, 'How much is a good mayor worth to the School Committee?'" Fink said.

"And I said, if you have to ask, you can't afford to buy one," Fink quipped.

Fink thanked everyone for the farewell party and then spoke seriously of his years in Newton.

"With all the stresses and strains that we have had, we have honestly found out what a city can stand for," Fink said. "One of the things that we've been most pleased with is the lack of scapegoating that went on (during difficult years of consolidation or budget cutbacks)."

500 flooded basements

NEWTON — Newton fire officials said Friday that some 500 residents called fire headquarters to report flooded basements during the heavy rain storm last week.

According to Fire Chief Edward Reilly, firefighters pumped water from approximately 300 homes. Many residents were forced to remain on a waiting list because of tremendous number of calls for flooded homes, Reilly said. The department went above minimum manning and used two extra crews to pump water "around the clock" from Saturday, June 5 through 6 p.m. Thursday, June 10, Reilly said.

Reilly said the amount of overtime used because of extra manning during the heavy rain was "a very small amount" because firefighters were detailed. Exact figures on overtime costs and number of calls related to the weather were to be available this week, according to Reilly.

For four hours on Monday, June 7, firefighters battled a two-alarm blaze which caused $400,000 in damage to the Hallden Library at Mt. Ida Junior College in Oak Hill. A Needham man was arrested and arraigned in Newton District Court in connection with the blaze. Also on Monday vandals reportedly used a molotov cocktail to set a minor fire at the Peirce Elementary School in West Newton, fire officials said. The blaze was quickly extinguished. No one has been charged in connection with that fire.

On Thursday, June 10, a minor car fire at 7:57 a.m. was reported at Washington and Beacon Streets. A small fire in a truck was reported at 1:48 p.m. Thursday on Park Lane.

On Friday morning, June 11, as Boston was hit by several, multiple alarm fires, Newton sent two engines to cover. Engine 6 covered various Boston stations from 12:25 p.m. - 7 a.m. and Engine 2 covered a Dorchester station from 1:33 a.m. - 6:10 a.m.

Save Our Homes meets Thursday

NEWTON — Save Our Homes II will sponsor a meeting on how to apply for tax abatements at the Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre on Thursday, June 17 at 8 p.m.

Homeowners have until June 28 to submit applications for tax abatements to the Board of Assessors.

Save Our Homes II has protested the manner in which the recent revaluation of properties in the city was conducted.

Okay given to fire alarm upgrade

NEWTON — The Aldermanic Public Safety Committee Monday night gave unanimous intitial approval to $55,000 to up-grade the city fire alarm system and $7,200 to replace a Police Department motorcyle totalled in a crash.

The upgrading of the fire alarm system includes $11,391 for a ladder truck, $1,858 for new alarm boxes, and $41,751 for firefighter training.

Fire Chief Edward Reilly said the improvements will allow better response time and improved communications at the scene of a fire.

Hicks named Mason-Rice principal

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Committee Monday night named a Boston Public Schools curriculum adviser as the new principal of the Mason-Rice Elementary School.

Clara Hicks, of Roxbury, a reading specialist who has designed curriculum programs for schools in England and Germany, was given the committee's unanimous vote after committee member Susan Silbey motioned for the appointment.

During a 15-minute interview last night, Hicks said it has long been her goal to become a school principal. While she worked in England, Hicks said she became aware a principal's job is "crucial and critical" and said, "I want to be in that position."

Hicks told School Committee members that schools cannot be effective unless they have effective principals. "The principal is the leader of the team," she said. "Caring about the students is the nucleus of the whole thing," Hicks added.

A native of Birmingham, Alabama, Hicks received her bachelor degree in education in 1954 from Alabama A & M College. In 1968, she earned a master of education degree in reading from Northeastern University. Hicks continued her education with various post graduate and extension courses at Boston College, Michigan State University and Brigham Young University.

From 1976-78, Hicks worked for the Defense Department Overseas Schools. She was awarded a certificate of appreciation from the West Ruislip School, London, England, for implementing a multi-ethnic studies program. As education program manager there, Hicks was cited for "outstanding performance." Hicks also worked several years ago as a teacher, team leader and consultant in the social studies department of Newton's Educational Developement Center. Since 1979, she has been a senior curriculum advisor for Boston Public Schools office of curriculum and competency.

Hicks said one of her first priorities as principal would be to "know my constituency." Hicks said she would want to meet regularly with parents in formal groups and on an individual basis. In order to maintain or improve the quality of a school system, "You have to be open to really listening to what people are saying," Hicks said.

When questioned about her views on evaluations, Hicks said the reviews should help. "If something is wrong, then you should say why it's wrong and be able to present alternatives," said Hicks.

When a school committee member asked her how schools should accomodate gifted children, Hicks said programs for gifted and talented students should be a "component of special education." She said, "I think a school must be able to determine the needs of its students, including those who are gifted and talented." However Hicks said she believes all students are gifted "in some way."

Elderly urge city to keep Newton Rider

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — About 70 senior citizens Monday night filled a City Hall hearing room, appealing to city officials for the necessary funding to keep the financially troubled "Newton Rider" bus service running.

The bus service, subsidized by city funding and business contributions, will be shutdown by the second week of July without additional city funding, increased support from local merchants or a grant from the MBTA.

The Rider provides transportation for thousands of commuters monthly including Newton students and businessmen. A special "Rider" bus takes about 55 senior citizens grocery shopping each week.

Francis Landers, 84, of Stanton Ave was one of many elderly residents who told aldermen that the city should pick up the necessary $20,000 to $25,000 tab to keep the bus running for the next fiscal year (July 1 to June 1983).

"I think the city should take up the slack," said Landers. She said the bus service was essential to elderly who have no other means of transportation to go food shopping.

"Is the city of Newton in such bad condition that it can not take care of the bus service without all this up and down?" Landers asked.

One by one senior citizens took up the cry for city funding to keep buses on the road.

"The responsibility falls on the city in spite of the cutbacks of Proposition 2½," asserted one elderly resident to the applause of residents jamming the room.

"This city is a very wealthy city and they are treating their subjects very, very poorly," followed another elderly resident.

"I need that bus to get to my employment," said an elderly man who works at Filenes. "This is a very serious problem for us."

Chairman of the Public Safety and Transportation Committee Joseph DePasquale, who organized the hearing as an update on the financial plight of the Rider, said after the meeting he would support a resolution requesting city funding of the service if business support does not keep the Rider running.

Mayor Theodore Mann, however, has refused to initiate an additional appropriation to keep the service running for the next fiscal year. Mann maintains the city has done all that is possible to make the Rider self supporting, but the ridership is not sufficient.

The mayor, however, has applied to the MBTA for a grant to keep the bus system operating.

DePasquale said the committee may take a vote on a resolution at the next meeting (June 28) if other funding is not acquired. The Rider, which is operated by Andre Coachlines of Brookline, began in September 1980 with business and city contributions.

Mann and aldermen approved $2,500 on June 2 to keep the Rider running until the end of June. The city also approved $12,000 in March after 200 commuters packed City Hall.

David Tannozzini, city traffic engineer and Rider coordinator, said the city needs business subscriptions of $2,000 per month to keep the system running.

He said the city has received $220 a months in business subscriptions from a recent appeal including $150 per month from Boston College, $30 per month from Northland Inc. planning construction of an office building on Washington Street, $25 per month from Legal Seafoods, and $8.50 per month from Star Market.

Tannozzini and other city transportation officials urged Rider passengers to write letters to store managers and merchants requesting financial support for the bus system. Several aldermen, however, told the citizens to write letters to the mayor.

Newton League honors Hyde

NEWTON — Newton Centre resident Susan Hyde was recently honored as the "outstanding volunteer of the year" by the Newton League of Women Voters. The Jane Leighton Award was presented to Hyde at the League's annual meeting held at the First Baptist Church in Newton Centre.

Hyde, serving as vice president for two years, has contributed to such League studies as: day care, school finance, library, welfare, natural resources and women's issues. In the past, she has also been treasurer, public relations chair, and an observer of the Board of Alderman.

According to Sandy Butzel, League president, the award is given to the volunteer "who contributes her wisdom and strength to further the goals of the League of Women Voters; serves in whatever capacity she is called upon to fulfill; and consistently brings humor and goodwill to all."

"Susan has developed into a Renaissance Woman of the League – able and willing to do many things well," stated Enid Paul, a fellow-vice president this past year.

In presenting the award, Jane Leighton praised Hyde for "giving generously of herself as a volunteer to the League of Women Voters... and for the qualities of leadership she has inspired in us all."

More enrichment offerings for Newton kids this summer

NEWTON — A class in Creative Dramatics, Music and Art for children ages five and six is a new addition to the Arts in the Parks roster of Enrichment Classes for children this summer.

To be taught by specialists, Marilyn Krassin and Martha Rogers, youngsters will have the opportunity to interpret legends, poems, and their own stories through the disciplines of art, music, movement, mime and the spoken word. Creativity of expression will be encouraged by these experienced instructors.

Marilyn Krassin is a dramatics teacher at Brown Junior High School and a member of the Newton Cultural Affairs Commission while Martha Rogers has among her credits, experience teaching creative movement at the South Shore Conservatory of Music and the Boston Community School of Music.

The class begins Wednesday, June 30 and meets Mondays and Wednesdays for six weeks from 9:30 a.m. - noon at the Mason Rice School, Pleasant Street, Newton Centre. Registration is $72. Checks should be made payable to Arts in the Parks, and mailed to the Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale, 02166.

Registration for the Summer Courses for Children ages 2 through 6 began January 15 and while most classes are filled, a waiting list is kept on file in case of last minute cancellations. A call to the Newton Recreation Department, 552-7120 will get you a summer class list.

The fall schedule of children's classes includes two sections of Partners, a music and art class for two year olds and adult of choice (usually Mom or Dad) which meets once a week, either Mondays or Wednesdays. Keren Milner is the music instructor, Susan Thomas teaches the art segment. Also, for the fall, Phyllis Bernstein teams with Susan Thomas for a two-day a week Creative Movement and Visual Arts program for 3 and 4 year olds that meets from 9:30 a.m. - noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays. A full schedule of Fall courses is also available from the Newton Recreation Department. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Newton Recreation Department, 70 Crescent Street and request the Fall Brochure.

Cancer study seeks volunteers

NEWTON — The Newton-Wellesley Unit of the American Cancer Society is joining its National Organization in a Cancer Prevention Study (CPSII). This is the second such project designed to examine the relationship between environmental and lifestyle factors, and the development of cancer. In the study, subjects will be asked to complete a four page confidential study in 1982, and then be available for follow-up in 1984 and 1986.

From this study, the society hopes to learn which factors increase the probability of incidences of the disease; which decrease the probability; and which have no impact at all. With this information, researches will then be able to determine more effective preventive measures.

Because the study would be expensive to conduct, the society is asking for volunteers to participate in the project and to enroll others to participate. In the Newton-Wellesley area, 57 persons are needed to serve as researches. The responsibilities of this position include the following: 1) locating 10 families among neighbors, friends, and relatives to participate; 2) attending a 1-2 hour orientation meeting to discuss procedures, questions, etc.; 3) to distribute the questionnaire in September; 4) to follow-up the families with a brief questionnaire in 1984 and 1986.

Over a period of six years, the time donated is minimal. Volunteers in the study need not have had any experience with cancer.

Only a large-scale, long term study such as this CPS II can answer questions concerning the relationship of exposure to certain chemicals, or smoking low-tar cigarettes to cancer. The study will only be successful with the cooperation of the public. Volunteer researchers are needed. If you can help call Leslie Schaeffer at the Newton-Wellesley Unit, American Cancer Society at 647-1440.

DeNucci cites new funds for retarded

NEWTON — Rep. A. Joseph DeNucci (D-Newton-Waltham), House Chairman of the Human Services and Elderly Affairs Committee, says he was responsible for $3,000,000 in new funds being appropriated for the unserved mentally retarded.

Last year, Rep. DeNucci said he created a half-million dollar account in the hope of providing services for 260 emergency requests. However, only 57 were able to be served because of per client costs of $10,000.

This year, the Newton lawmaker takes credit for increasing the budget by an additional $3 million to handle a more significant percentage of unserved persons.

JAMAICA
Jamaica is back on the vacation track with last year's elections. Not since its independence in 1962, has it been so firmly in control of its national direction. This home of Reggae music boasts art galleries, dance, drama and the fine arts. Its physical charms caused Columbus to call it "the fairest isle that eyes have ever seen". This paradise is only 600 miles south of Miami. Its thickly forested mountain range is capped by the 7,388 foot Blue Mountain Peak. It is in this cool, mountainous region that fine coffee grows and hiking, freshwater fishing and horseback riding abound. Of course, one need merely mention the resorts of Negril and Montego Bay to know what Columbus meant. Jamaica boasts the largest number of tennis courts in the Caribbean.
Whether you select Jamaica, Europe or a spot closer to home like New York, our agents at FLEMING WORLD TRAVEL & TOURS, 15 Crescent St., Waltham look forward to working with you to make this your best and most memorable vacation ever. Opposition to fire, police merger

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Fire officials Monday night voiced adamant opposition to a proposal which could lead to a merger of police and fire department functions.

In a public hearing, both Fire Chief Edward Reilly and Fire Union Chief Robert Merullo criticized a possible study that could lead to the merger.

Alderman Edward Richmond has proposed a study, including consideration of a merger, to "increase the efficiency of both departments."

Richmond argued that mergers of various police and fire functions, including administrative and communications responsibilities, have been successful throughout the country.

"I think it can be done and I think it should be studied," said Richmond. The Finance Committee Chairman maintained a merger of certain functions in the two departments would lead to significant savings.

The study, however, can not even be considered if Mayor Theodore Mann refuses to appropriate the necessary funding. Richmond said he has not yet spoke with Mann about the study,

Both Police officials and Mann administration officials did not attend the hearing.

Police William Quinn, who was previously in favor of a consolidation of the police and fire communications networks, has voiced no opposition to the study.

"I believe it would destroy the professionalism of both jobs," said Reilly. The fire chief also maintained that the move would create a "great morale problem."

"The union just opposes it completely," said Merullo.

Newton Taxpayers Association President Joseph Alexander refused to shrug off the study. Alexander said the study deserves further review and should be considered if the bottom line may be a tax reduction for taxpayers.

"I think to pre-judge this issue and kill it would be a grave mistake," he said.

Alexander, however, was cautious not to give a formal endorsement of a merger.

Alderman Richard McGrath said any merger must be backed up by "hard facts" and not "personal feelings." He said both departments have "subtleties so complex that just a cosmetic knee jerk approach would be harmful and detrimental."

Furthermore, McGrath said without a clear willingness by the mayor to appropriate funds for the study, aldermen were simply wasting time.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle, chairman of the aldermanic subcommittee reviewing the study, said the committee would hold another meeting on the proposal in the coming weeks. Richmond is planning on bringing several experts to testify before the committee.

Bullwinkle, however, speculated that there is little support for a fire-police merger.

School Committee studies cable

NEWTON — School committee members Monday night agreed with a recommendation by committee member Susan Silbey and created a special committee to investigate the role of cable television in Newton schools. "This is a very open area. Obviously we need to take a very active role," Silbey said.

Silbey presented the committee with an eight-page report on cable television with references to Continental Cablevision, which holds a 15-year franchise to create a cable network in Newton. Silbey said the school committee should examine what policy should be used to allow cable TV in Newton schools and what role it should play. "Somebody, somehow, has to collect the information (and report back to the school committee)," she said. Committee member Leonard Gentile asked, "Shouldn't parents have some input into what their parents will be seeing?" Silbey suggested that after the advisory committee is established that members inform parents at P.T.A. meetings.

Committee members Katherine Jones, Susan Silbey and Ann Berwick volunteered to join the cable television committee.

In other comittee action, members voted unanimously and without discussion last night to transfer more than $300,000 from the Metco program into funds for regular class instruction.

The $314,303 is a reimbursement from the fiscal year 1982 Metco program.

School Superintendent Aaron Fink announced last night that two computors were granted to Newton North and South High Schools from the Digital Equipment Corporation.

According to Fink, Paul Shapiro, Computor Science Coordinator, and Daniel Melia, Director of Technical and Vocational Education, are responsible for acquiring the corporate grant. The school committee unanimously accepted the contribution of the two PDP-11/44 systems. Fink said the system would upgrade South's computor science program to equal North's program by the addition of letter quality printers and video display terminals with graphics.

Committee backs new land purchase

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen Monday night approved a request from the Planning and Development Department to appropriate $35,000 for the purchase of 3.4 acres of land near Temple Beth Avodah off Puddingstone lane.

The land will be left as open conservation land "for the maximum period allowed by law," according to committee Chairman Edward L. Richmond.

Objections from abutting neighbors and committee member Paul Coletti generated some heated debate on the appropriation before it was approved by a unanimous vote.

"We want a guarantee the land can not be resold," said Doug Rosenfeld, a spokesman for the group of neighbors at the meeting. He voiced their concern that, in the far future, the use of the land could be changed to make way for its development.

"Administrations change. Purposes change with time," Rosenfeld said. "Every patch of land that could be built on has been built on."

Coletti said he shared Rosenfeld's concern for the long-term future of the property. He explained that, if the land were not deeded to the city "in perpetuity," the money received for it could sometime be given back and it could be developed. "That's what scares me about this," Coletti said.

The alderman from Ward 5 also expressed his concern for the city's failure to adequately maintain its conservation lands. He unsuccessfully attempted to attach a condition to the committee's approval which would insist that funds be budgeted separately for the upkeep of the property.

Coletti said he lives next to a parcel of conservation land. "You convert the land to a leaf dump and it smells. I don't like living next to the piece I've got," he complained.

Alderman Cynthia Creem interjected, "There seems to be a lot of emotion flying around. I think there are a lot of things bothering people besides this particular issue."

She assured Coletti the land would be maintained.

Health club case delay

charged in December, 1981 with maintaining a house of prostitution by Newton police investigators who also arrested three women and charged them with soliciting for prostitution. The cases of all three women were continued without a finding. They were fined $500 each.

McIntosh's attorney, Richard Steinberg, of Newton, said Monday his defense of McIntosh maintains McIntosh was unaware of the activities of the alleged prostitutes, who were employed as masseuses. Steinberg said also the Massachusetts statue concerning prostitution maintains that "anyone on the premesis, (whoever is in charge at the time of the arrest) can be charged (in connection with soliciting for prostitution)." He said the statue was established "to get rid of the street pimps."

Steinberg added, "I think what the law is trying to do is show that if he (McIntosh) didn't know the first time then he should have known the second time." Steinberg also said he would show that many of the club's patrons have health ailments, such as arthritis. "It's a therapeutic type of treatment," he said.

Echoing Steinberg's remarks, McIntosh said Monday he was "unaware" the alleged prostitutes had broken the law. He said he was concerned patrons who go to the club for health problems have been scared away because of the publicity of the prostitution cases.

McIntosh said about 30 percent of the club's patrons use the facilities for health problems and to use the whirlpool and sauna. He said the club's 1500 gallon tank is the largest whirlpool on the east coast.

McIntosh said the club averaged about 300 cutomers per week, though that figure has slipped dramatically since the prostitution charges were made. He said the club has lost many of its female patrons as a result of the charges. "The number of women who came in for massages has slipped dramatically," McIntosh said.

The health club was established in July, 1981. The club does not offer regular memberships. Patrons pay $30 to use the facilities for one day from 11 a.m.-11 p.m., according to McIntosh. He described it as a "California-style" club. McIntosh said he hires masseuses and masseures after they have been granted licenses from the city of Newton. Licenses are granted under regulations established by the Newton Health Department. "The deciding factor is the health department. They decide whether or not to issue a license," said McIntosh. He added that he seeks masseuses and masseurers with three or four years experience.

When customers come to the club for massages, McIntosh said female patrons are placed with male employees and vice versa. "It's pretty much a practice," he said.

The employees who give massages are in a sense independent contractors as the club does not pay their salaries. They are "tipped" by the customers, McIntosh said. The club does employ salaried managers, however.

Chief reports positive results from program

NEWTON — The Neighborhood Watch Program, instituted by the Newton Police and city officials recently, is already paying off in spades, according to Chief William F. Quinn.

Quinn said last week he received a letter from a Chestnut Hill resident "extolling the virtue" of the Neighborhood Watch program, which encourages residents to observe and report suspicious activities to the police.

According to the resident a combination of an alert letter carrier, calling 911 concerning a broken window, a neighbor calling police about a suspicious person asking "meaningless questions" and a second neighbor noticing a plastic trash bag out on the street in the wrong place and on the wrong day, a housebreak was solved by the Newton Police. Chief Quinn said three persons were arrested a "very short time" after the reports of suspicious activities came in.

The letter also said the house break occurred shortly before noon and by 12:30 the three suspects had been arrested and all possessions returned.

Chief Quinn said he planned to personnaly express the gratitude of the department to each of the residents who helped supply information which resulted in the bookings.

The chief stressed, in a statement released last week, that with the coming of summer months, residents should be particularly aware of the benefits of Neighborhood Watch.

"We all should maintain or increase our alertness and vigilance," Chief Quinn said. "More of our windows and doors will be open or unsecured and each of us should be aware of unusual noises, such as glass being broken, strangers in our neighborhoods, persons walking or riding without purpose, in short, anything out of the ordinary."

"Our residents and their willingness to help, especially since last December, have been instrumental in the arrests of two hold-up men and more than 10 housebreakers, indicating a good partnership between our police and our neighbors," Quinn added.

Mayor pushes for fire alarm upgrade

NEWTON — With fire stations and firefighters declining in numbers, Mayor Theodore Mann is pushing to upgrade the system of fire alarms in the city to speed up detection and communication.

"I have requested a transfer of funds within the Fire Department accounts to initiate a partial upgrading of our fire alarm system," Mann said last week. "This, coupled with the installation of new radios, will provide the best possible communication within the system in terms of speedy response and better on-site communication."

Battered women: shattering myths

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Shattering the myths concerning violence against women is as formidable a task for the Waltham Battered Women Support Committee as trying to raise funding for its programs in the wake of federal cutbacks and Proposition 2 ½.

According to Robin Braverman, founder of the group, one of the most serious of these misconceptions is that women are somehow responsible for their plight. That victims of male brutality are "sick" or somehow "deserve" to be victims are attitudes which exemplify sexism in today's society, says Braverman, 30, a co-director of the battered women committee.

The group, established in 1981, helps battered women by offering protection and legal advise. Though most members are volunteers, funds are needed for court advocates, shelter coordinators and to continue educational progams. The committee's board of directors set $58,000 as its annual operating budget. The funds must come from privaste sources because the committee can not receive State Department of Social Service funding as a result of budget cuts, according to Braverman.

So the committee is holding various fundraisers and applying for grants. The funds are needed so that they can continue to help battered women and also educate people about the facts and destroy the myths concerning the millions of battered women.

"Battering is symptomatic of overall tendencies in our society for women to be abused in all different ways. Physical abuse is the extension and the grossest form of sexism," says Braverman.

Unfortunately, prevailing attitudes often keep women from coming forward because "Society teaches us that we must have done something wrong." Others still feel it is acceptable for a man to beat his wife. The notion often determines how the law deals with brutality cases. "There are some police officers who don't think there's anything wrong with a woman being slapped around," says Braverman.

There are 20 million wife-beaters in the United States according to Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) statistics. A woman is beaten by her husband every 18 seconds, the bureau reports. Those figures do not included unmarried women who a victims of male brutality.

The group shelters and counsels victims from Newton and neighboring communities, including Watertown, Waltham, Weston, Wellesley, Belmont, Sudbury, Lincoln, Bedford and Burlington. Established more than a year ago, the committee offers temporary protection at its "safe houses," one of which is in Newton, where a battered woman can stay with a family for up to a week.

A permanent shelter house is needed however because women must leave after a week. Unfortunately most victims cannot return to their homes because they will be beaten again, Braverman said.

"Most of the time a battered woman is afraid to return to that place because her husband will beat her more severely. When women leave, men become even more infuriated with that action," says Braverman. Changing the locks or issuing restraining and vacate orders do not stop men from terrorizing their wives, she added. The house needs to be rental facility so that if its location is revealed, residents can leave "quickly" says Braverman.

Volunteers, including several from Newton who are former battered women, advise battered women of their legal rights and options. Victims also call the 24-hour hotline: 899-8676. An answering service responds, though Braverman urges victims to tell their stories because the tape will not end as long as they stay on the line and a volunteer will soon return the call. Braverman says the hotline is effective because she recalled two Newton women who had the number memorized and immediately called when their partners beat them or threaten to hurt them. About 500 people have called the committee since the hotline was established.

A common myth about battered women inspired Braverman to become involved with the problem. She once thought that only women from poor and lower classes and certain ethnic groups were victims of male brutality. "I found out that a college friend of mine, whiose father was a bank executive, was beating her mother," says Braverman. Physical violence against women exists in all economic, racial and ethnic groups, she says.

Another myth is that the battered woman should seek couseling as a way of "modifying her behavior" in hope that the man will change. Braverman says the group promotes "self help" and does not offer therapy services. Women often stay not because they are the ones who are ill, but because they are often forced for economic reasons, Braverman said.

A former teacher and political activist, Braverman always had an interest in women's issues. She attended a Lexington-area meeting of the National Organization For Women (NOW), which sponsored a session on battered women. Braverman then began organizing the battered women committee. Formed in January, 1981, the group is headed by Braverman and co-director Paula Screhei, has a board of directors which establishes policy and various committees.

Leslie Naditch of Newton is an active volunteer involved in raising funds for the committee. She said that a personal experience also prompted her involvement. Naditch said she was the victim of "a jealous and violent man" and the experience "effected me quite strongly."

Through the "Buddy System," Naditch and volunteers who were once victims offer practical advise and can emphasize with battered women because they've experienced the trauma.

The committee still needs volunteers. Interested people can call 899-8676 or write P.O. Box 24, Waltham, Ma. 02254.

Overdue books? Better return them

NEWTON CORNER — The Newton Free Library urges citizens to pay their overdue fines and to return outstnading library materials including books, records, magazines and films, much of which is irreplaceable.

"It's disheartening that so many citizens are lax about returning city-owned materials, particularly during these difficult economic times when the library and so much of government finds itself in such an economic pinch," says Virginia Tashjian, director of the Newton Free Library.

"If books are not returned, the library must incur the cost of purchasing replacements," says Catherine Garoian, Supervisor of Circulation. "The limited funds the library has in its budget are much better spent purchasing new books and materials," adds Mrs. Tashjian.

Moreover, when books are not returned on time, citizens are deprived of materials when they want them and the clerical work increases for the library staff at a time when severe staff shortages make operations difficult.

Hundreds of people have bills which total $100 or more, while more than 1,000 Newton families owe a minimum of $4 in fines to the Newton Free Library.

Please help by checking shelves, looking under car seats and in car trunks, chests and among other books in the home.

The maximum fine charged if the book is returned is $4. If the book is not returned, there is a charge for the book, plus a fine.

Help offered on cellar flooding

NEWTON — Fire Chief Edward B. Reilly, Jr., has advised residents that the Fire Department is willing to help them with their flooded basements.

"According to state authorities, the Newton Fire Department was one of the few departments in Massachusetts to have provided service to property owners with water problems resulting from the recent rains," Reilly said.

"During this time, the department received over 500 calls for assistance," he said. "However, the department is equipped with a limited number of small pumps, so a waiting list resulted."

He noted the department will continue to provide the residents of Newton with service during similar emergencies and urged them to adhere to the following guidelines:

- Calls will be responded to in the order they are received. Provide your location and phone number. There is no need to call more than once. The department will call you approximately one half-hour before arriving.
- Try to do something yourself. Call your plumber, another person or a firm that may be able to help alleviate the problem.
- Try to make provisions for permanently correcting the problem as the situation will probably occur again.
- If you have taken care of the problem, please call the Fire Department so your name can be removed from the list.

Acton nips Lions in ninth, 7-6

It ended the only way it could have between these two teams — down to the last out of the last inning with a possible overtime hanging in the balance. They are the Dual County League's version of the Red Sox-Yankees, and unfortunately, Newton South has long been the Red Sox and Acton-Boxboro the Yankees.

Wednesday's showdown was the fourth this season for the schools, and although they finished with a split, Acton managed to win all the really big ones. The Colonials beat the Lions late in the season to take home the DCL crown and defeated them again Wednesday, 7-6, to oust them from the MIAA Division I North Sectional quarterfinals. "It certainly bothers us, no question," said South coach Neil McPhee. "We've been the bridesmaids to Acton for quite a few years now. It has to get to you. But give them credit. They've had an incredible string of talent over the past few years and they have the record to prove it."

The Colonials won the game in the bottom of the ninth inning, scoring two runs to overcome a 6-5 deficit. Newton South, which had once trailed, 5-3, had broken a 5-5 deadlock in the top of the ninth when Evan Kushner cracked his second double of the game, Mike Pappas sacrificed, Rich Wenning walked and Kushner rode home on Adam Rosman's groundout. Rosman's ball had gone to the third baseman, who had looked Kushner back and thrown to second for the force. But when the second baseman dropped the ball, Kushner charged home.

Acton rebounded, however. Mark Romeo reached on a shortstop error leading off the ninth and Joe Spagnuolo, who had struggled with his control all afternoon, walked Bob Kostro and Tom Wilson to load the bases. McPhee then made the change to Mark Paglia, who walked Dave Dugan to tie the game. "That's a tough situation to bring a pitcher in, bases loaded, nobody out, but Mark actually did a good job," McPhee said.

He's right. Paglia recovered to retire the next two batters, but Pitcher Bill Fitzpatrick won the game for himself and the Colonials with a sharp single to left.

"It was a tense game, and I thought both teams showed that," said McPhee. "We played just as well as Acton, but the key was the number of walks we allowed. Joe (Spagnuolo) pitched decently, allowing only six hits, but his control was never there."

The Lions gave up 10 walks, nine by Spagnuolo. "We had to work harder for our runs than they did. That was the difference," commented Neil.

Newton South grabbed a 2-0 advantage off Fitzpatrick in the first inning as Steve Mosca and Mark Nicoletti walked and advanced to second and third with a double steal. Paglia singled in Mosca and Nicoletti came home on the same play when the second baseman threw the relay away.

Acton tied it with single runs in the second and third before the Lions retook the lead in the fourth on a single by Mike Pappas, a Rich Wenning walk and after a Brian Lewis grounder forced Pappas, a ringing double by Mosca.

The Colonials' response was a three-run third which gave them the largest lead of the day, 5-3. Jay Barrow singled to begin the inning and Tom Murphy reached on an error. Spagnuolo fanned Romeo, but then walked Kostro to fill the bases. A wild pitch scored one run and Wilson singled for two more.

The back-and-forth struggle settled into a tie again in the sixth as the Lions came up with two runs. Spagnuolo singled followed by consecutive doubles by Paglia and Kushner.

That led to the ninth and the game's final twist. "We believe we were the equal of Acton this year," said McPhee, "but let's face it, you have to prove that on the field."

Newton South finishes the season with a 15-7 record.

White's 3rd RBI sends Albemarle to 5-4 victory

Bob White drove a ball deep to leftfield in the top of the ninth inning for his third RBI of the game to score Tommy Casey for the winning run, lifting Albemarle Club to a 5-4 win over the Totem Pole Braves at Howard Ferguson Field Sunday in an International League contest.

The Braves had ample opportunity to score in the late innings of the game but couldn't cross home plate.

A double play foiled a Brave threat in the sixth inning. In the seventh frame, Corey Rubin, who threw 10 walks for Albemarle loaded the bases with walks. With one out, righty Chris Bercury replaced Rubin and hurled his way out of a tight squeeze on a fumbled bunt attempt and a strikeout.

He worked his way out of a bases loaded situation in the eighth inning to get the credit for the win.

Totem Pole jumped out to an early 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning when Kevin Tormey who pitched the entire nine innings for the Braves reached on an error. Jeff Robinson walked and Mark Buckley singled in Tormey. Robinson scored on a passed ball for the second run.

Albemarle snatched the lead away from Totem Pole with four runs in the top of the fourth inning. Tony Panaggio and Eric Goolst opened up the stanza with back-to-back singles. A walk to Corey Rubin was followed by a free ticket to David Longmoore, credited with driving in Albemarle's first run.

Aldo Calaganni singled in a run with the bases filled and then Bobby White's single knocked in two more to extend the lead to 4-2.

The Braves moved a step closer in the fourth innning when Josh Poon singled and later scored on a fielder's choice hit by Roger Watson.

Totem Pole tied it up in the sixth on three consecutive walked by Rubin and then a single by Mark Ciccone.

Sacred Heart 14, American Lettering 10

A ten-run slugfest in the first inning by Sacred Heart and two home runs by Leon Bablouzian paved the way for a 14-10 romp over American Lettering in Heart's season opener Sunday at Cabot Field.

Bablouzain spaced his two solo homers apart with one in the fourth inning and the other in the sixth.

But the big thrust for Sacred Heart was the 10 run first inning as they knocked the starting pitcher, Chris Bracken, off the mound.

Fernando Migliossi, 3-for-3, ledoff the rally with a single. After Terry O'Brien forced Migliossi at second, two walks were issued before Ed McAvinn swatted a two-run single. Mike O'Reilly walked to load the bases and then Dave Seletski walked in a run.

Bracken threw a pitch to John Burke that turned in to a two-run single and Sacred Heart was up 5-0. Bracken loaded the bases again with a free ticket and Migliossi hit his second single of the inning, good for an RBI and a 6-0 lead.

With two outs, Bablouzian walked in the seventh run on the fifth walked issued by Bracken that inning. Bracken was taken out and replaced by Mike Martell.

Dan Diminiconi singled off of Martell to drive in the eighth run of the fest and then Ed McAvinn knocked in the ninth and tenth runs with a single.

Lefty Ernie Gonzales was the winning pitcher for Sacred Heart as the team raised its record to 2-0.

American Lettering had its share of hitting standouts in centerfielder Bob Antonellis and Rob Wolman. Antonellis knocked in four runs for American with a home run in the fifth frame, a run-scoring triple in the sixth and a two-run single in the seventh innings.

Wolman drove in three runs with two singles: a two-run shot in the first and a one-run base hit in the sixth.

Sacred Heart 5, Newton Post 440 4

Leon Bablouzian belted in the game-winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning to steer Sacred Heart to a 5-4 victory over Newton Post 440. Saturday at Newton Centre Field.

John Burke's pinch-hit single in the seventh was followed by a Terry O'Brien base hit. Both advanced on an infield error before Bablouzian's hit.

Dan Diminiconi's leadoff single in the second inning turned into Sacred Heart's first run of the game as Diminiconi stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a ground ball by Dave Seletski.

Newton countered with two runs in the top of the third off winner Fernando Migliossi.

Sacred Heart tied the contest in the bottom of the inning when Mike O'Reilly scored on a single by Migliossi. In the fifth frame, Bablouzian doubled in Terry O'Brien and Migliossi for a 4-2 lead.

But two runs in the sixth by Post 440 tied the game up and Bablouzian's single broke the deadlock in the bottom of the seveth.

Warriors 4, W. Newton 3

The defending champion Auburndale Warriors don't appear to have lost anything from their 1981 International League season.

The Warriors made an auspicious debut Saturday morning at the West Newton Common by ekeing out a 4-3 decision over the Albemarle Club behind the gutsy pitching of righthander Jamie Rice.

Rice, a freshman at Rivers Country Day School, had runners on first and third with none out in the seventh inning. He weathered the storm when a baserunner was thrown out stealing and he retired the next two batters on groundouts.

Albemarle came close to tying it up in the fifth inning after Bob-by White singled in a pair of runs. Rice struck out Corey Rubin for the third out, however.

The Warriors clinched the verdict with a three-run outburst in the fourth frame. Shawn McMillen and Rice singled, and with one out, Paul Healey moved both runners up on a sacrifice bunt.

McMillen scored when pitcher Tom Casey's pickoff throw got by the third baseman. Mike Mackay singled home Rice and stole second, tehn tallied on a one-baser by Chris Biotti.

Post 440 bombs Norfolk

Ralph Berry had the eye of the tiger Sunday as he led an 11-hit attack by Newton Post 440 by going 4-for-4 at the plate, smashing in three runs and scoring twice himself while Newton Post 440 outscored Norfolk County 13-5 Sunday at Fino Field in Milford in a Stan Musial League game.

Righty Brad Cohen picked up the win for Post 440 with a little help from Kurt Matthies. Cohen fanned five batters as Norfolk crossed the plate three times in the first inning for their only lead of the day.

Newton bounced back with two in their half of the frame on a sacrifice fly by Bill McEvoy and an error that allowed Berry to score a run.

Back-to-back singles in the third inning by Robby Abramson and Berry preceeded a walk to McEvoy. A run scored on a ground out by Russ Nicoletti. Then Matthies hit a two-run single putting Post 440 up 5-3.

A five-run fourth inning, highlighted by a two-run Berry single, thrust the game out of reach for Norfolk. Brian Murray singled to start the frame followed by a Mike Kasten base hit. Berry knocked in his pair before Abramson hit into a fielder's choice.

After Berry, two walks were issued by Norfolk pitching and Mike Buras knocked in run No. 3 that inning on another fielder's choice. With the bases loaded, Russ Nicoletti walked in a run and one more run came across the plate on an error.

Norfolk answered Newton's call in their half of the inning with two runs of their own.

But the call wasn't strong enough. Two innings went by before a run was scored before Post 440 earned three more in the seventh before calling it a day.

A couple of singles by George Bassiacos and Katsen, an error on a ball hit by Abramson and a Ralph Berry RBI all added up in the end for three more runs for Post 440.

Righthander Matt Regan hurled a six-hitter, backed by Paul Provencher's timely RBI's, and went the distance in pitching Embassy Trophy to a 5-4 victory over Newton Post 440 Friday night at Albemarle Park in Stan Musial League action.

Reagan displayed his cool control by walking only one Newton Post 440 batter and fanning an average five. Provencher drove in three of the five Embassy runs with two singles, the only player on his squad to land two hits.

It was two consecutive walks by losing pitcher Eric Daniel that got the ball rolling for Embassy in the third inning. A John Giusti single loaded the bases. With two out Peter Vinciulla scored the first run of the game on a wild pitch by Daniel. Provencher's base hit knocked in a pair of runs and Embassy enjoyed a 3-0 lead.

Embassy was never trailing in the ballgame as two walks in the fourth inning led to a score on a wild pitch. Mike Scafidi and Frank Tiano walked before Vinciulla hit into a six-four-three double play advancing Scafidi to third base. Scafifi scored when Daniel threw another errant ball.

But Post 440 woke up in the bottom of the fourth stanza with three runs. Robby Abramson reached base on a Regan error. Bill McEvoy singled and Eric DiMartino forced McEvoy at second. Runners were at the corners with one out as catcher Ralph Berry hit a two-run triple to put Newton on the board and into the game. He scored as the relay throw was thrown away, cutting Embassy's lead to 4-3.

But Jim Lupo's triple to left-center proved to squash any hope Newton had for victory. Daniel was replaced by Paul Boudreau on the mound. Provencher was the first batter Boudreau faced and he lined a single to rightfield for what was to be the game-winning run.

Post 4440 responded with a run in the bottom of the fifth inning with two outs. Mike Kasten got to first base on an error charged to the shortstop. Abramson moved Kasten to third base where a single by McEvoy brought him home for the final run of the game.

Aldermen backing the Marathon

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen may soon attempt to pressure Boston Marathon race officials to assure the 86 year-old internationally renowned race retains its historical tradition.

Several aldermen at a meeting Wednesday night said they are willing to exert pressure, including forcing race directors to pick up the city cost associated with the race, to preserve race traditions. The city cost associated with the race amounts to more than $6,000, according to officials.

In the wake of a controversy surrounding a Boston lawyer and the increased push for commercial sponsors, aldermen are setting up a six member sub-committee to review the city's policies regarding the marathon.

Public Facilities Chairman Richard McGrath announced the formation of the marathon review committee Wednesday night. McGrath said the committee will help reveal the "motives" of race directors.

"If we are incurring the cost, I think we have a right to ask questions," he said.

McGrath and other aldermen insisted they will fight any attempt to change the Patriots Day date of the race or starting and finishing lines which may come with a television contract and increased emphasis on making money.

"I think we should show them (Marathon officials) exactly who has the authority," asserted Alderman Harold Levinsky. "We have Heartbreak Hill. We should use our muscle."

The formation of the Newton committee comes while Marathon Director Will Cloney is facing sharp criticism for a contract with Boston Atty. Marshall Medoff.

Under the controversial agreement, the Boston Athletic Association (B.A.A.), sponsors of the race, only get a fixed amount of funds from thousands of dollars in commercial sponsors rather than a fixed percentage.

Dr. Thomas Ford, 37, of Newton Lower Falls, a longtime race fan, is the man behind the city drive to preserve the amateur standing of the race. Ford of Ashville Road has requested that aldermen consider instituting an ordinance to regulate all professional sports events in Newton. He said if marathon race officials want a "professional race," the city should force them to pay for public safety and cleanup costs.

"I have no affiliation with the B.A.A.," Ford said. "I just like to watch the race. I hate to see something like that perverted. It is being ruined."

"It just shouldn't be turned into plastic," he added. "It's people trying to do their best just for the love of the sport."

Department of Public Works Commissioner Charles Thomas said the cleanup cost associated with the race amounted to $6,342 this year.

McGrath also expressed concern about the huge crowds which gather in the city to watch the marathon. The largest crowds on the 26.2 mile route gather at Newton's famed "Heartbreak Hill."

"There is open drinking and abusive people who gather and collect in certain areas intimidating other people," said McGrath.

Doctors think well of The Gables

Are you sick of your present home? The prescribed way to cure your housing ills is to join the many professional people moving to The Gables in Newton.

Almost all the first 35 two and three bedroom attached single family homes have already been sold, and a healthy number of the next group of 16 have been reserved. When homes like these in the $265,000 to $400,000 range go so quickly there must be good reasons.

And there are many: rooms are huge and offer unusual detailing; decks or courtyard areas are large and private; each home has a full basement and an attached two-car garage. There are tennis courts, a clubhouse and swimming pool. Security includes combined gatehouse/electronic surveillance.

Examine the furnished models any day from 9 to 5 to see why so many doctors have got their check up. Newton's best new address is at the junction of Parker and Dedham Streets, directly adjacent to the Charles River Country Club. Call (617) 969-0200 for a private appointment.

First funds okayed for new Hyde wing

NEWTON — The Aldermanic Public Facilities Committee Wednesday night approved $45,000 in architectural design fees to begin the first phase in the process of constructing a new wing on the Hyde School building.

The single-story addition should provide the elementary school, gutted by fire in April 1981, with the necessary educational space to remain open.

The School Committee voted 7 to 1 to declare the burned section of the building as surplus, giving the city the green light to use it for other than educational purposes.

The Public Facilities committee also gave initial approval to $150,000 for technical audits and reports on school buildings for energy improvements.

Robert Sandman, chairman of the Citizens Commission on Energy, said the school department is "lagging behind" the city in cost-saving energy improvements.

The retrofit program for the schools could cost up to $4 million in bonded debt, according to Sandman. He said the $4 million investment will result in savings of $1 million in energy yearly. Sandman gave much of the credit for the savings to Newton City Energy Commissioner Michael Kuklinski.

Board still shunning gypsy moth spraying

NEWTON — The Aldermanic Public Facilities Committee is apparently willing to stick with a city policy not to use pesticides to wage war against gypsy moths.

The committee took no formal vote, but voiced no disagreement last Wednesday night when Superintendent of Forestry Richard Metro defended the city's decision not to use chemical sprays.

In recent years, the Board of Aldermen has rejected use of chemical sprays to battle the pesty caterpillars. Metro said the city has never used chemical sprays.

Instead the city has opted to use the control program for gypsy moths endorsed by the Audubon Society including tree wrapping. Waltham, which borders Newton, is spraying with a commonly used chemical - bacillus thuringiensis.

The dispute over the health effects of chemical sprays is a major controversy among experts.

Metro said many health experts maintain certain chemicals, including the commonly used sevin to control gypsy moths, have damaging health effects.

He said the chemical sevin will give you a 100-percent kill rate of gypsy moths and will "wipe out" bees pollinating, worms and certain birds. "It is potent stuff," noted Metro.

Metro said residents should be aware that pesticide sprayers doing private property must be professionally certified and take special safety measures when spraying.

Metro said nature's own system with natural predators, such as birds and ground beetles, can control the gypsy moth outbreak. "I'm inclined to stay with the natural way," said Metro.

Kenneth Sawin named as Presidential Scholar

NEWTON HIGHLANDS - Kenneth E. Sawin of Lincoln Street has been named as a 1982 Presidential Scholar - one of 141 outstanding young American students designated for this honor from among more than three million seniors this year.

Kenneth is the son of Sylvia Sawin of Newton Highlands and Waban resident Clark T. Sawin.

Selection as a Presidential Scholar, as announced last week by the White House, is based on out-standing accomplishments in such areas as academic success, artistic talent, leadership ability, involvement in school and community and achievement in the sciences and other fields of interest.

Kenneth is a graduating senior at Newton South High School and previously attended Weeks Junior High and the Hyde Elementary School.

During a ceremony at the White House this week, Kenneth is scheduled to be awarded the Presidential Scholars medallion.

Among Kenneth's activities at Newton South has been his role as manager of the student newspaper "Denebola." He has also been on the staff of the literary magazine "Reflections." He plays the trumpet and for three years has been a member of the high school band, orchestra and the jazz ensemble. He has played in the pit orchestras for the school musicals this year and was music director for the senior play in March.

For the past several years he has participated in the Newton Recreation Department's Summer Big Band and he is a member of the Mass. Youth Wind Ensemble.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

Dependable Auto Repair - Body Work

China entering auto market with British engine

PEKING, China — The Peking Automobile Works is gearing up for China's entry into the world automobile market with a diesel powered four-wheel drive vehicle.

The Chinese are counting on a Western-style marketing and public relations program to sell the utility vehicle to the world after the first "Overlanders" roll off the assembly line in August.

"We want to produce a small quantity and then will enter the international market," said a plant foreman who gave reporters a tour of the sprawling auto factory.

The 5-seater vehicle, similar to the American Jeep or British Land Rover, carries the same body and chassis used by the BJ212 car already manufactured by the Peking Automobile Works.

But the Overlander will be powered by a four-cylinder, water-cooled diesel motor supplied by Perkins Engine of Britain. It also will have brake modifications to meet international standards.

Road tests with a fully loaded vehicle traveling a steady 21 mph show it can cover 62 miles using on 1.5 gallons of diesel fuel compared with 2.8 gallons of gasoline, said Perkins engineer Bob Davis, who has consulted with the Chinese on the changeover.

"We believe we have a product for both export and domestic use, but the initial task is to export," said John Harding, director of Perkins Engine..

Japan's Toyota Landcruiser, the Land Rover and the jeep currently dominate the world utility vehicle market.

Harding, who is advising the Chinese on marketing approaches, said China's entry into the fiercely competitive field will have to be slow and deliberate.

"They can't take on the whole world in one gulp."

Under an agreement signed in April between Perkins and the auto plant and the China National Machinery and Equipment Import and Export Corp., the British manufacturer will supply at least 500 engines this year beginning in August and a minimum of 3,000 in 1983.

The price per motor is $2,000 and the completed vehicle will sell for about $5,500, said Harding. ———

Initial sales will focus on developing nations. Pakistan, Iraq, Kuwait, Lebanon and Dubai probably will be among the first buyers, according to T.T. Koo, chairman of the Beirut-based Organization for Promotion of Commerce and Industry, a consortium of overseas Chinese firms.

Koo said the initial sales will be for civilian uses only and added he did not expect the Chinese vehicle to be available to the military in those nations "for the moment."

The auto factory's more than 11,000 employees turn out 20,000 vehicles annually and a switch from gasoline to diesel engines on the assembly line should not cause any major adjustment problems, Davis said.

But as demand grows, so do political and state controls on production.

Output could reach up to 40,000 units per year, but the plant only operates one 8-hour shift because of government energy conservation policies.

Increased production would not only require the use of more power but also more raw materials sought by state industry and construction departments. The whole process of keeping up with a high world demand could thus become a snarl of red tape, Hardi ng said. ———

For Harding, who spent three years negotiating the engine sale while his business peers called him "mad," cutting through China's bureaucratic maze is nothing new.

He not only has become one of the few foreign success stories in the China market but he also has persuaded the Chinese to take the major step of acquiring the services of a Western public relations firm to help market the new vehicle.

In a nation where the principal means of transportation is the bicycle, auto production has not been a priority.

The most commonly seen Chinese car is the Shanghai, a four-door sedan used as a taxi for government ministries and departments. Most actual taxis for use by foreign guests also are Shanghais.

The top of the line in China is the Red Flag limousine, which is used almost exclusively for high-level foreign visitors and the top echelon of Chinese officials.

The predecessor of the diesel Overlander — the BJ212 — first rolled off the assembly line at the Peking Automobile Works in 1967. Resembling the Jeep or Land Rover but designed as a passenger car rather than a utility vehicle, the BJ212 went on the world car market in 1974 but only a few thousand were sold, mainly to Pakistan.

"Aggressive selling is something relatively new in China," said Harding. "They had to be persuaded t hat they couldn't just sit back and wait for orders." ———

Other versions of the BJ212 with the diesel engine include one for eight people and another that is a two-door, long wheelbase light truck.

Servicing will be through Perkins' facilities in more than 160 countries.

There are more than 900,000 vehicles in China. Most of them are for commercial use.

The Peking Automobile Works plant in the city's eastern suburb was a car repair factory in 1949 when the Communist regime came to power. It produced motorcycle and auto parts under the nation's first five-year plan. Then in 1958 it produced a few sedans — the first automobiles ever produced inside China.

More aluminum in cars

DETROIT — For the 12th year in a row, more aluminum is being used in the manufacture of the average car, Harlan Gilmore, chairman of the Aluminum Association Automobile and Truck Committee, reported at the opening of the annual Exposition of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Gilmore said that the average 1982 U.S. automobile contains 133 pounds of aluminum, about four percent of its total 3283-pound weight. Estimates made by consultants Arthur Anderson, he said, forecast the average 2,250 pound 1990 model car will use 200 pounds or nine percent aluminum.

He singled out a number of significant new domestic applications, including the aluminum radiator, engine block, cylinder head, prop shaft supports and formed sheet bumper.

"The aluminum bumper facebar, first used on the Vega and Camaro in 1973," Gilmore said, "weighed around 20 pounds or about half of a comparable steel bumper. Later designs have been so refined that an Omni bumper weighs only nine pounds, yet protects a 2,300-pound car, and the bright dipped and anodized sheet rear bumper on the Olds Omega and Buick Skylark weighs only 11 pounds."

City golf course is above par

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann has countered criticism of the city's efforts to maintain and improve its conservation land by pointing to the Newton Commonwealth Golf Course.

Purchased by the city in 1980 for $700,000, the club grounds have been meticulously maintained. Those close to the project feel the mayor could not have chosen a better example of the city's conservation land policies.

Alderman Lisle Baker, whose efforts were instrumental in securing the 71-acre parcel, said he does not play the course much but thinks "It's a handsome piece of property."

Tom Elkind, a local attorney and chairman of the Newton Commonwealth Improvement Association, said of the course, "It's a great thing the city has done. It is certainly an asset to the city."

The course professional, Ken Campbell, said of the condition of the land, "We came through the winter pretty well."

Baker said the idea to include the course in the city's open conservation land began in January 1979 when he attended a meeting of the Newton Conservators. "I thought it would be a shame to lose such quality open space" as the golf course, he said, and he went to work.

Baker, a professor of environmental law at Suffolk University, suggested a "betterment assessment" as a way of acquiring the land. He described the assessment as a tool used "in the 19th century to create parks," and added that it had not been used for some time when he began to research it.

A "betterment assessment" taxes the neighbors abutting a parcel to be improved. According to Baker, 34 neighbors and a developer contributed a total of $200,000 to the purchase price.

Baker said of the project, "It was a long haul." He estimated, a while ago, that he had spent more than 1000 hours on the effort. He said his background in environmental law was crucial. "It's one of the reasons I could do the project," he said.

"It was a challenge to find some sort of financing that would satisfy the mayor," according to Baker. What he came up with was a plan to work with a developer, Barkan Properties, who would eventually build 42 townhouses on approximately 10 acres on the perimeter of the golf course.

Monies from the state, the city, the neighbors and the developer made up the package that eventually put the property in the city's hands.

Michael Peirce, of the city solicitor's office, said the townhouse project was held up for a while because some of the neighbors protested that the development would adversely affect the value of their properties. Peirce said the developer settled without a suit because "Nobody wants to wait with interest rates the way they are these days."

Baker said part of his many hours working on the project were spent determining "if a golf course could make money." He said he "had to do everything from soup to nuts" in the course of his research. He even met with greenskeepers to find out how much sand, fertilizer and grass seed was used during the season.

Campbell said the course is "doing fine financially. We had a real good year last year. We didn't think we could do as well this year, but, except for this past weekend, we've done even better."

"I think golf is making a comeback," the pro said.

Creative Arts Center summer slate

NEWTON CENTRE — The Newton Creative Arts Center begins its 22nd annual summer program beginning on July 1 at the Ward Elementary School, 10 Dolphin Road in Newton Center from 9 a.m. to noon during the month of July.

The center has always attracted a variety of children and faculty and is open to children between the ages of five years old (entering kindergarten) and 14 years old (entering eighth grade) with programs available to everyone.

Children entering fifth through eighth grade have the opportunity to choose two of the following excellent programs.

Studio Art - taught by Will Robinson (art teacher at Brown Junior High). Focus on two-dimensional art, including collage, painting, print-making and drawing.

Video and T.V. - taught by Carol Nicolucci (Newton Public School music teacher, master's degree in instructional media) - Creative approaches to beginning instruction in small studio television production and T.V. script writing for children.

Music and Theatre - taught by Charlotte Brumit (Newton Public School music teacher). Takes you through the stages of producing a musical performance. Included are improvisational work, set design, lighting and, of course, singing, acting and even a little "dancin."

Environmental Design and Construction - taught by Judy Haberl (former Bigelow Junior High art teacher, MFA candidate in painting, Museum School of Fine Arts). Build, hang, construct and decorate large and small super sculptures. From architecture to kites, wood to paper mache and more.

Puppet Theatre - taught by Tom Schaefer (teacher at Newton North High School, president, Boston Area Guild of Puppetry. Try making a sock puppet or a vegetable puppet, build large masks or people puppets for a play. Learn theatre games and clowning, too.

Jazz Workshop - taught by Greg Livingston (music teacher at Brown Junior High, member of Boston Civic Symphony). Open to all interested musicians. We'll be performing, studying and composing many different styles of music.

Instrumental Music - taught by Karen Wormwood and George Napoli. Provides beginning and continuing instrumental lessons on any string, wood wind or brass instruments.

Ceramics - taught by Peggy Clark (Newton Public School elementary art teacher, potter). Learn basic construction methods, build containers and strange animals. Investigate the methods of clay animation film-making, and learn the ancient raku firing process.

Children entering kindergarten through fourth grade will be integrating all the creative arts - music, drama, dance, puppetry and visual arts. Each team will have a theme (The Circus or Jungle, for instance). These teams provide exciting and stimulating group experience.

Kindergarten team - taught by Connie Carven and Mark Sofield; first grade team - taught by Andi Edson and Ellen Rounseville; second grade team - taught by Janice Johnson and Ellen Harris; third grade team - taught by Arlene Bandes and Becky Schuster; fourth grade team - taught by Carolyn Shapiro and Lynne Kwarcinski.

This staff is expecting a very busy, fun-filled and creative July. An additional consultant will be Cindy Dailey in music. Suzuki violin or cello lessons will be available each day for K-4 children.

Spaces are still available at $160. Call 552-7631 or 552-7625 for registration information.

Jefferson knocks mayor on contracts

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — President of the Board of Aldermen Matthew Jefferson showed just how upset he was over the mayor's amending city contracts without informing the aldermen when he submitted an ordinance Wednesday night which would make the mayor obligated to give written notice to the board of any such changes.

Jefferson said the mayor's autonomous action showed the arrogance of the city's executive branch and "a lack of respect" for the aldermen, who "were treated as less than an equal."

He called the unannounced changes immoral. "Legally it may be right, but not morally. These are my own personal feelings. I consulted with no one," he said, referring to changes made in the contract between the city and Finnegan Associates for conducting the recent revaluation.

According to Jefferson, the mayor changed the amount of the performance bond. The bond ensures a firm does its job correctly. Also, Mann reduced Finnegan's penalty for missing the final deadline from $5,000 per day to $500 without informing the aldermen.

"If I were in his position, I would have done the same thing," Jefferson said. "The revaluation had to be expedited. The mayor would have had to withstand a lot of rhetoric if he had come before us." But he contends the mayor would have gotten what he wanted if he had come before the board and argued his case.

"If the contract means nothing when it is presented to us, then why even show it?" the board president asked. "Why not just say 'I need $100,000 for this or that?'"

If the mayor continued to alter contracts approved by aldermen without informing them of the changes, Jefferson recommended he "just keep the contract. Ask us for the money and I'll guarantee he won't get it.

"It might be more difficult to negotiate a contract with 24 people, but you just have to go that route," he said.

Jefferson complained that the executive branch is not supposed to have more power than the aldermen. He said the two branches are "supposed to be co-equal parts of the government. All the power that does not reside with the mayor resides with the aldermen."

He said he heard "a lot of talk" recently about the aldermen being weak and the executive office being strong. "If the dilution continues, our power will be gone. It behooves the person who is being oppressed to seek remedies for the situation," he said.

Abatement form help offered by the city

NEWTON — City personnel are available to help residents fill out applications for property tax abatements, deferrals and exemptions, according to the mayor's office.

In addition, Department of Human Services staff, also at city hall, will assist both seniors and non-seniors in filling out information on applications for the various programs. This assistance will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Further help will be available for seniors only at the Senior Citizen Drop-In Centers from 9:30 to 2:30.

Harold J. Lipton, director of the Department of Human Services, emphasized that his staff can not give advice to applicants, but will help in filling out the various forms.

Those requiring assistance in filling out the forms are urged to call ahead for appointments at the Department of Human Services, 552-7170, or the Senior Drop-In Centers: Newtonville, 345 Walnut St., 527-6770; Waban, 30 Beethoven Ave., 527-6749; and Newton Corner, 191 Pearl St., 969-8030.

Help is also available at the Nonantum Multi-Service Center, 48 Silver Lake Avenue, 965-6390, Monday through Friday from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The special program operated by the Department of Human Services will end on June 28.

Forms for the abatements, deferrals and exemptions are available at city hall, the Drop-In Centers and the public libraries.

Clinic dates will change

NEWTON — The Newton Health Department announces a change in the regularly scheduled Senior Health Maintenance Clinics during the month of June. North: A special speech

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Of all the gifts given the graduating seniors of Newton North High School, the most precious must surely have come from the weatherman.

The school stadium was bathed in sunlight Thursday evening, and the sky was powder blue as 782 members of the Class of '82 sat through graduation ceremonies waiting for the chance to fling their caps in the air.

What distinguished the event from other graduations was evidence of the school's recent dedication to teaching deaf students. Hearing students who have acquired fluency in sign language lined the first row, facing the crowd, signing along with the speakers.

Fifteen deaf students graduated Thursday night, including one of the evening's featured speakers, Joseph Letendre. He gave his address in sign language standing next to another student who read the text.

South: Kennedy quotations

OAK HILL — Newton South High School's class of '82 was given a large dose of politics and current events at Thursday's graduation ceremony.

Guest speaker Joseph P. Kennedy, chosen by the class as graduation keynoter, criticized the federal budget and nuclear arms policies which he said keep people from receiving basic needs and eliminated necessary energy, housing and education programs.

"Federal programs...have been eliminated because the people in power in Washington do not understand the need for these programs and think they are a giveaway," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said in Fitchburg youths received a federal grant and weatherized 4,000 homes. Boston residents acquired funds to renovate old homes and building that were destroyed by fire. Both programs have been eliminated because of budget cutbacks according to Kennedy.

Health Club case dropped

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

CAMBRIDGE — Charges against the owner of the Newton Health Club for allegedly operating a house of prostitution were dismissed in Middlesex Superior Court Monday.

Judge Hiller Zobel, in response to a motion filed by the Newton attorney representing health club owner Robert A. McIntosh, dismissed the case on the grounds the commonwealth's evidence was "not sufficient to submit to a reasonable jury to find beyond a reasonable doubt" that McIntosh had knowledge of acts of prostitution taking place.

After the dismissal, McIntosh said, "I'm relieved that I've been exonerated and that the three girls have been exonerated."

McIntosh still faces a charge of "inducing prostitution" stemming from an April 1 raid at the health club.

The charge dismissed Monday stemmed from a December raid of the health club at 209 Charlemont St., Newton Upper Falls, in which three female employees were arrested and charged with soliciting for prostitution. McIntosh, 41, of 4 Hart St., Burlington, was arrested at that time and charged with "maintaining a house of prostitution."

The trials of the three women – Mary Lee Gazzangia, 22, of Framingham, Fawn Vincent, 23, of Taunton, and Donna Kite, 24, of Providence, R.I. –were heard in Superior Court and were continued without a finding. Each woman was fined $500 in court costs.

Three state police officers and Newton Police Detective Daniel Donovan were called to the stand Monday by the prosecution during the four-hour trial.

State Police Trooper John Naimovich of the Special Services Unit, testified he was one of three troopers who made the December undercover arrests.

Naimovich also visited the club alone two days before the raid on undercover assignment and testified he was given prices of "extras" available from a masseuse while in a private massage room with her.

The "extras" as described by Naimovich were sexual acts.

Payment okayed to fired officer

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen Monday night unanimously approved a $9,000 payment to a Newton police officer who brought discrimination charges against the department after he was was fired last April.

Officer Harold Hollie, who was fired in April 1981 for alleged insubordination after a three-day administrative hearing, is apparently willing to drop four complaints pending against the city for the $9,000 settlement.

Aldermen approved a transfer of funds in the Police Department budget for the settlement.

Hollie, a black officer who filed discrimination charges against the department with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination (MCAD) in February 1981, appealed his dismissal to the state Civil Service Commission. In addition, he initiated court action against the city after the dismissal.

In his complaint with the MCAD, Hollie maintained he was harassed and denied a promotion because he is black.

An eight-year veteran of the Newton force, he was dismissed after a hearing on several charges including complaints he failed to respond to a call and appear for a court case.

Police Chief William Quinn refused to comment on the settlement. Several police union representatives had maintained the Hollie charges were "trumped up." Hollie's attorney had labeled the charges against his client part of a "racist witchhunt." Quinn and Mayor Theodore Mann made the decision to fire Hollie after the hearing.

The $9,000 transfer came after aldermen held two executive sessions on the settlement.

Alderman Richard McGrath charged an executive session held by the Finance Committee on the matter may have been illegal despite the objections of Finance Committee Chairman Edward Richmond.

Richmond cited the discussion of "litigation strategy" as the reason for the closed door session.

McGrath said the settlement was clearly in the city's best interest. He maintained the potential claims against the city if the court battle was lost would have been "astronomical."

The Hollie firing was questioned by aldermen at meetings last year. Several aldermen, including Board President Matthew Jefferson, had maintained Hollie was unfairly treated and dismissed.

Options open in hydro proposal

NEWTON — Aldermen voted this week to keep their options open in connection with a private firm's application for a study of possible electrical generating potential at the Echo Bridge dam.

The vote Monday reserves the city's right to participate in the process by submitting comments on preliminary application. The intervening petition also reserves the city's right to appeal the issuance of a permit.

Lincoln businessman Sumner Milender has hired the engineering firm of Jason M. Cortell Associates of Waltham to study the feasibility of a hydroelectric power project on the Charles River. Cortrell has filed with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for a preliminary permit to study the dam site.

Boston Edison dumped their plan for a hydro power generator at the Upper Falls dam in November 1981.

Marcy Richmond, who presented the petition, said the city should play a "role" in the possible plan "early in the process." Richmond said the board and citizens have only until Friday to file a petition to intervene in the study.

In a memo to aldermen, Richmond stressed the preliminary application by Cortell is not a construction permit. However, she said the permit, if granted, would prevent any other firm from undertaking a study to develop a project on the site for several years.

Richmond said "hopefully broad community participation and comment throughout the process will help to ensure that in any decision to proceed with the study and/or construction of the site, community needs and concerns will be met."

Correction

Due to a reporting error, a story in last week's Newton Graphic incorrectly stated that Robert A. McIntosh of Burlington was awaiting action on an appeal in Superior Court. McIntosh has not been convicted in relation to his arrest at the Newton Health Club in Newton Upper Falls.

Charges stemming from a December raid at the club were dismissed Monday in Superior Court. Additional charges are pending in Superior Court after Newton District Court officials waived jurisdiction. The Newton Graphic regrets the error.

Community sculpture classes are planned

NEWTON — The Newton Recreation Department's Arts in the Parks plans four workshops this summer at which residents will be able to create their own clay pieces for a sculpture similar to one installed last fall on the Newton Centre green.

In that project Newton cereamic artist Lilli Ann Killen Rosenberg embarked on a community-wide environmental art project for the Newton Centre Green.

Funded in part by a grant from the Mass. Council on the Arts and Humanities and donations from many Newton Centre business people and individuals, the purpose of the sculpture is to celebrate the city's historical, recreatinal and commercial center.

Hundreds of Newton adults, children, artists and civic leaders visited Rosenberg's studio in Newton Centre and made the component clay pieces, which were unveiled in a ceremony with city officials.

The four workshops this summer will be on Tuesday, July 13 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.; or 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.; and Tuesday, July 20 at the same times. Individuals can choose one workshop, indicating a perferred alternate, by contacting Arts In the Parks, 70 Crescent Street, Auburndale. To help defray the cost of completion, a donation is requested.

North class of '82 boasts 782 graduates

Letendre thanked all those involved in making the innovative teaching program work at Newton North. The crowd that all but filled the stadium gave him a long, hearty standing ovation.

Graduating senior Andrea McCloud also spoke, telling her classmates she was filled with "the wonder of the unknown. What will happen next? We are bright. We are ambitious. Our chance is finally here."

Speaking for the faculty, French teacher Marlene Yesley told the graduating seniors, "Forget the alcohol and the pot. Go through life with a clear head." She warned members of "the last class of the post-war baby boom" that college would be rough and work would be rougher. She said there were already 250,000 unemployed Massachusetts residents in line in front of those students who would be looking for jobs.

Retiring principal Richard Meecham told the class of '82 that he always tries to come up with one word to depict a graduating class. For this, his 22nd and final class, he chose the word "thanks." He thanked the parents, his co-workers and the 21 classes that were already history. He added, "But, particularly, thanks to '82 for having me as your classmate."

David Baron and Clare Corcoran won the two Senior Cups, given to the two graduates who best typify "the ideal high school student."

Deborah Tessman received the Phi Beta Kappa Award and the Merit Scholarship Award for academic achievment. Samuel Rebelsky and Mark Weinfeld also won Merit Scholarship Awards.

Paul Howley, captain of this year's hockey and baseball teams, won the Dickinson Memorial Award for athletic achievment.

Henry Huntington won the Meserve Scholar Award and the Presidential Scholars Award.

Liz Natale and Debbie Quinn shared the Helen Breivogel Award for athletic excellence.

Brian Bullwinkle, a computer electronics major and son of alderman Richard Bullwinkle, received the Technical Vocation Award from the Newton Rotary Club.

The Margaret South Award for excellence in the performing arts went to Martha Donaldson.

Renee Farrington received the Wendell Bauckman Award, given for outstanding volunteer work in the community.

A new prize, the Richard W. Meecham Award, went to senior class president Albert Calderone.

Retiring Superintendent of Schools Aaron Fink was honored, as were retiring librarian Ed Beatty and tech-voc teacher Ward Manghue.

As the class of '82 flung their mortarboards into the air and poured out of their seats to get their diplomas, they received the last admonition of their high school careers: "Let's be careful with the hats. Someone will get an eye poked out."

South students host Joseph Kennedy

Kennedy called the nuclear weapons race "a monster who eats out the heart of America. Every year his monsterous appetite grows." He said wealth used for nuclear arms denies Americans new jobs, educational resources and medical and health programs. "We pour all this wealth down his ugly and insatiable maw."

Kennedy, 30, son of the late Senator Robert Kennedy, spoke to about 400 students who were graduated from the school. Students, and several hundred family members and friends listened as Mayor Theodore Mann, School Superindendent Aaron Fink, South Principal Ernest Van Seasholes and others wished the graduates success.

Graduating students chose Kennedy to be the guest speak at the school's 22nd graduation exercises. A resident of Brighton, Kennedy founded and operates an independent oil company which distributes low cost fuel to low income Massachusetts families.

"Fuel oil prices have risen more than 100% in the last decade. This increase is not the result of normal market conditions, but rather the workings of international politics and multinational corporations."

Kennedy was applauded when he said the nuclear disarmament activists who protested at the recent United Nations Second Special exemplified America's "reawakened conscience." He said disarmament and other issues can be resolved through political activism and community involvement. Kennedy urged students to continue this county's heritage of questioning authority when political leaders say problems are too complex for solutions.

"Our nation was founded by those who questioned authority and conventional wisdom. It is our democratic heritage." Kennedy urged the graduates to participate in the political process regardless of their philosophies. "Our future is too important to be left in the hands of others," he said.

He said students should not become so consumed in their careers that they neglect social issues. "Whatever your calling, try to work with others to make our country a better and more equitable place to live." As an example, Kennedy said food cooperatives, "such as the ones here in Newton" are effective in combating high food prices and "provide a direct outlet for small farmers."

Mayor Mann, whose twin daughters graduated last week from South, simply wished the graduates good luck. "Deborah and Stacey wrote my speech. I shall not depart from tradition. Good luck."

The class of 1982 gift to the school was $1800 for new theater curtains, $250 each for various school programs and $500 for charity. The Phi

Beta Kappa award went to Robert C. Lieberman. The senior cup awards for the most outstanding young man and woman went to Patricia Galvin and Richard Battista.

Also addressing the students and spectators was Kenneth Ray Kholberg, a 1982 graduate who was voted by his class to give the address. Kholberg received loud applause after his speech, in which he discussed "the art of compromise."

Kholberg said South students have "rid ourselves of the small exclusive groups and formed ourselves into one." Kholberg said the programs offered by the Enrichment Program helped bring diversified groups together at the school.

Mann calls for look at fuel reserves

NEWTON — Reacting to recent media reports of an imminent shortage in gasoline and other petrochemical supplies, Mayor Theodore Mann has called for an investigation by all branches of government "in order to prevent the reoccurrence of the situation that developed in 1979."

Mann said, "I refuse to accept that a country with our available resources can not intelligently plan programs that would prevent the problems of gas lines and shortages of heating oil."

Mann condemned "the ravages of the inflationary costs of fuel," saying, "The prices have crept up 15 percent in the last few months."

Mann said he had written "to the President of the United States, members of our federal legislature and state elected officials and called upon them to take action to investigate the situation and make the appropriate plans necessary to avert a catastrophe."

The mayor made reference to a speech television newscaster Ted Koppel gave recently in Newton. According to Koppel, the oil companies have not used windfall profits for research on new sources of energy as they were supposed to.

Mann estimated, "$26 million is the take from Newton" in annual heating fuel alone. He offered City Hall as a site for any hearing that might deal with the issue in the future.

Mann wants race sponsors to pay the costs

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann wants the sponsors of the 86 year old internationally renowned Boston marathon to pick up $15,000 in city expenses resulting from the race this year.

In a letter to exclusive Boston Athletic Association (B.A.A.) agent Marshall Medoff, Mann requested that any "distribution of funds be made retroactive to the recent event."

In a press conference last Tuesday, Mann also issued a stern warning for marathon officials. "Ultimately, this city controls who will run on the streets," he said. "Not Mr. Medoff and not the B.A.A."

The mayor said the city costs resulting from the race this year are "in the area of $15,000."

"The worst they can do is say no," Mann said of a possible B.A.A. reaction to his request.

In a telephone interview, Medoff said if the city has incurred the $15,000 in expenses, the B.A.A. should pick up the tab. Medoff said he would forward the letter to marathon officials.

"My suggestion is that if it is a fair figure, they (B.A.A. officials) should pay it," he said. The Boston attorney, however, said there was little chance the B.A.A. would "heed" his advice after a Tuesday press conference that angered many marathon officials.

Mann pointed out that the city of Newton has the longest stretch of the marathon route, 8½ miles, including the largest crowds at famed "Heartbreak Hill" on Commonwealth Avenue. An estimated 500,000 spectators watch the marathon along the Newton route each year.

"Indeed, it should be called the Newton marathon," said Mann.

"If indeed it is going commercial, we do not expect our taxpayers to have to bear the burden while some private enterprise is being enriched," he said.

Charges against owner of health club dropped

Prior to the massage, Naimovich said he was given a tour of the facilities of the health club by a woman after paying $30 at the door to the defendant.

Naimovich said upon entering the club, he received a description of the facilities from McIntosh. After paying the fee Naimovich stated McIntosh also explained that the fee included a three-quarters of an hour massage by the masseuse of his choice.

In cross-examination, McIntosh's attorney, Richard Steinberg, asked all three state troopers if they had been alone in the massage rooms with the masseuses when they were allegedly solicited for prostitution. All three officers stated that at no time had McIntosh entered their respective rooms.

After hearing all four witnesses, Assistant District Attorney Alexander Nappan rested his case. Steinberg then filed on his client's behalf a motion for dismissal of the case on the grounds of insufficient evidence and asked for a finding of not guilty.

In considering the motion, Judge Zobel ordered the jury of eight men and six women (including two alternates) to withdraw from the courtroom. Judge Zobel then asked Nappan if he had presented all the evidence in support of his case.

"I am sorry Mr. Nappan; the chain is just too thin," Zobel said.

"Your honor, short of an admission from the defendant that he knew what was going on, what else could the Commonwealth have produced?" Nappan argued.

Nappan urged Zobel to allow the jury to consider evidence given in testimony by the state policemen that women employees of the club were "scantily clad" in "evening-type" attire, that they were not being paid any salary by the club and that the massage rooms were dimly lighted, and that the lights brightened as soon as state and local police had entered the premises.

"Legitimate" inferences could be drawn from such evidence, Nappan stressed, that McIntosh "knew what was happening in his own facility."

"There are such inferences, but in my judgement, which I am sworn to apply, the inferences are not sufficient to submit to a reasonable jury to find beyond a reasonable doubt," Zobel said in dismissing the charge against McIntosh.

McIntosh faces an additional charge of "inducing prostitution" as the result of an April 1 arrest of a fourth employee, Patricia Frost, 41, of Chelmsford, for soliciting for prostitution.

Frost, who was found guilty in Newton District Court, is awaiting appeal of her conviction before a 6-member jury in Middlesex Superior Court.

In an interview, Steinberg said the additional charge against McIntosh is "exactly the same case." "There is no more evidence than they have in this case," he said.

When asked if he thought the undercover raids were harassment, Steinberg said, "I don't want to comment on that – not until we have this next case. If there is any more (undercover investigations), you'll have a statement."

Two left in commissioners' race

NEWTON - A successful challenge of nomination paper signatures in the race for Middlesex County Commissioner forced the withdrawal of a former Somerville alderman last week, leaving only two candidatees, including one from Newton.

Commissioner candidate Bill Schmidt of Newton said last week he had challenged the validity of some signatures on papers filed by former Somerville Alderman John J. Cameron and Cameron subsequently withdrew from the race. Schmidt, at this point, will face Albert Onessimo, a Somerville businessman, in the commission race this fall.

Two weeks ago incumbent Commissioner John Danehy, considered to be the strongest candidate in the race because of his tenure on the commission, withdrew.

A Somerville resident had unsuccessfully challenged the validity of Schmidt's nomination papers and Schmidt said he had challenged, then withdrawn the challenge of Onessimo's papers.

With only two official candidates in the commissioner's race Schmidt said he is looking forward to "running a positive campaign" on the issues of country government.

"Against an incumbent (Danehy) the campaign becomes a lot more negative," Schmidt said. "But now I'm looking forward to running a positive campaign based on my ideas and what I hope to accomplish.

"I see the campaign as a vehicle for talking about a lot of different issues that may be on people's minds," he added.

At one point in the race, early in May, former Newton Alderman Thomas Concannon Jr. had taken out nomination papers when he said he thought Danehy would not be seeking reelection. When Danehy announced he was still in the race, shortly after that time, Concannon withdrew.

Schmidt, a Newton Democrat, has taken a leave of absence from his job as executive assistant to Middlesex County Sheriff Edward Henneberry to run for the office.

THE DEPTHS OF GOD'S WORD

The Bible, being the revelation of God, is extremely profound. On its surface are the plain doctrines, but in its depths are the deep and vital truths. It is easy to know the doctrines of the Bible, but more grace is required to realize the deeper truths revealed in the Bible. For example, John 1:29 tells us that the Lord Jesus died on the cross as the Lamb of God to bear our sins that we may be redeemed. All real Christians know this. But the same Gospel, chapter 12, verse 24, reveals that the Lord died also as a grain of wheat, falling into the ground to release His life, that He might be multiplied into many grains for the formation of His Body, which is the church. We may not have seen this deep thing of God (1 Cor. 2:10).

Most Christians are very familiar with John 15, a wonderful chapter about the Lord as the vine and us as the branches. However, John 15 is possibly the deepest chapter in the New Testament. In 15:1-26 are four very important items: God the Father as the husbandman, source and founder; God the Son as the vine, center and manifestation; God the Spirit as the reality and realization; and the branches as the Body, the corporate expression. Thus, the vine and the branches are an organism to glorify the Father by expressing the riches of the divine life.

To understand the Bible requires the spiritual maturity of life. Bible understanding and maturity of life are directly proportionate to each other. Only when our spiritual measure of life grows to a certain degree will our understanding of the Bible also reach the same level. We cannot understand certain passages of the Bible in our present spiritual measure of life, but after we have grown to a certain extent, our eyes will be opened. Therefore, when we read the Bible, we should not be bothered by passages which we cannot understand. We must simply take the portions which we can understand and turn them into prayer or memorize them. We will understand more as we grow.

City Hall scene, only seagulls at work.

Bunker Hill? Bah!

Bunker Hill Day was celebrated in the city of Boston last week in two ways. The governor attended a patriotic ceremony at the Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown, as he does every year, and city employees in Suffolk County (which is Boston) took the day off, as they do every year.

The holiday is one of those quirks of the calender giving only city and county employees in Suffolk County the day off, which attests as much to the power of employee unions as to the spirit of patriotism.

Funny thing, though, about Bunker Hill Day. Although it is traditionally unique to Suffolk County, it has spread across county lines into such Middlesex County cities as Cambridge, Somerville, the town of Brookline and, of all places, Newton.

On Bunker Hill Day last week the only ones working at Newton City Hall were the seagulls, ever watchful from the rooftop.

Indications from City Hall are that Bunker Hill Day has been celebrated for many years by city workers, although no one could pin down exactly when this grand tradition came about. It must be, however, the only day of the year when Newton city employees join hands with their neighbors in Suffolk County to mark this most obscure patriotic day.

Anything for a holiday.

No small potatoes

Okay folks, pay up.

Newton Free Library officials said last week a number of Newton residents have overdue fines and outstanding library materials ranging from books and magazines to films and records.

As Library Director Virginia Tashjian said, "It's disheartening that so many citizens are lax about returning city-owned materials, particularly during these difficult economic times..."

Overdue library books are nothing new. In fact, since the first public library opened, checking out books and procrastinating to return them have gone hand in hand.

If the books and records have to be replaced, it's money out of your pocket. If they don't come back on time, somebody is often left standing at the stacks.

So shape up folks. This is not a case of small potatoes or simple nickels and dimes. It is your tax money.

Marking time

Woodchuck woes

By Mark White

"Hello, Alderman Shea"

Yes.

"This is Puxatawney Phil"

Oh yes, you're the ground hog who complained about the value on his property. Do you live in my ward?

"To be truthful I live under it. I guess you read about my revaulation problem."

I did. Did you have any luck?

"No, I filed for a hearing and Finnegan only lowered me $1,000."

How come?

"They lowered me due to a mudslide problem. They felt it would lower the market value. But I'm going to file for a statutory abatement anyhow. I'm presently researching to see if any ground hogs were killed in Quemay or Matsu."

What can I do for you?

"Well since my recent exposure in the newspaper I've been following the local news much more closely. I saw your angry letter in last week's newspaper but, frankly, several of us are very concerned about your noise ordinance."

Why?

"Well, first of all I live underground and you're ignoring all the problems we have."

Like what?

"People stomping on my roof. Lawnmowers at all hours. Those rotten mulchers that make such a racket. Lovers rolling around in the grass making all kinds of noise, to name a few."

Well, you can't cover everything.

"And what about dogs, the bane of my existence. Not only do those things chase me all over the yard but they wake me up every morning. Have you ever woken up looking into a dog's open mouth, barking and growling his head off? It's enough to put you into therapy for life."

I'm sorry to hear that.

"And now you've even exempted dogs from your ordinance. Let me get this straight, that dog could bark outside my home for 10 hours and your law wouldn't help me. But if a loud woodpecker was irritating me I could do something, right?"

No, birds are exempt also.

"Which animals aren't exempt?"

Cats, elephants, burros, iguanas, orangutangs, gnus, platypus, wombats, rattlesnakes, and hyenas.

"You know, one of my cousins is also very upset about this law."

Why?

"He's a woodchuck and he wonders if the law pertaining to use of woodchippers pertains to him?"

"Under your law he can't use his chipper before certain hours and if he does he can't make too much noise. Have you ever tried to chip wood quietly?"

Can't say that I have.

"You know we've also had a lot of rain recently and my friends the beavers are building a lot of dams. They're very concerned that your ordinance is going to inhibit their activities. They never know when an emergency arises and they are going to have to build a dam."

Maybe they could qualify under the emergency noise exemption?

"Alderman Shea, I realize that you're known to be one of the nicest and most reasonable people on the Board of Aldermen and I appreciate your patience with all my questions. But this ordinance really needs work. Why don't you send it back to the committee?"

That's just a way for the opponents to kill the item. Anything else I can do for you?

"Yes, on a totally unrelated item. Do you know that there is a chicken on top of the Langley Road Street sign? What is it doing there?"

I forgot about him, but I'm glad that you told me.

"Why, are you going to get it down off the sign?"

No, he's a city landmark. I'm going to exempt chickens from the noise ordinance.

(Mark White, who likes Alderman Shea but doesn't like her noise ordinance, is a practicing attorney and a former member of the Board of Aldermen.)

Graphically speaking

Framed again, gang

Some call it 'Newtongate'

Newton businessmen Vincent Filippone and attorney Arthur Goldsmith are disturbed that City Hall cassette tapes are missing key segments of the debate on whether the city should pick up Mayor Theodore Mann's legal bills in connection with a $1.1 million lawsuit filed by his former secretary.

All City Hall aldermanic meetings are taped and stored by the City Clerk's office.

Both Filippone and Goldsmith claim there may be more to the blank tapes than meets the eye (should we say the ear?). They speculated the tapes could have been erased and are billing the controversy - "Newtongate."

Don't light up their lives

In the "first in the nation" category the Cambridge City Council followed a Newton precedent last week, voting 5-4 to ban distribution of free cigarettes on the streets of the city.

For those in the know, the Garden City of Newton was the first in the nation to approve such a ban, in spite of some criticism from certain aldermen who said the move was a waste of time.

After the smoke has cleared perhaps everyone will see the light.

Help wanted; apply CRWA

A recent issue of the Charles River Watershed Association's newsletter "Streamer" notes that the organization needs a bit of help. After studying the Charles River clean-up and the annual Charles River Celebration last weekend, CRWA officials see a need for more planning and more volunteers.

"CRWA endorses the pristine and the pleasant," Streamer noted, "but our essential work frequently overwhelms us, leaving insufficient time for planning these events well."

So now the planning will be starting earlier. Like now. If you can lend a hand for these worthwhile events call the CRWA in Auburndale at 527-2799.

And while we're on the subject of the Watershed Association and its newsletter, we offer another note. Seems the "troubled bridge over the water," the footbridge across the Charles at Lower Falls, may be getting a facelift. The Mary Hunnewell Fyffe Footbridge, as it is called, will see construction starting "early in 1983," according to MDC officials. And that, as the newsletter notes, is "good news."

A bird in the backyard...

Chestnut Hill resident Mark Finley had an interesting visitor drop into his back yard recently. Seems a "beautiful racing pigeon" fluttered in and was rescued by Finley as some nasty neighborhood dogs were getting ready to attack.

Finley speculated the bird was disabled in the recent rainstorm so he turned the critter over to the care of the Mass. Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The bird, he noted, was banded and the band bore the symbols "RVPA 79-993."

Nancy might be confused

ABC newsman Ted Koppel, in town recently for cornerstone ceremonies at the Central Jewish Community Multi-Service Center on Winchester Street, is also quite an impressionist.

Koppel got more than a few laughs from the crowd when he did his impersonation of former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Bet Henry's wife, Nancy, wouldn't get the two confused. Henry's always home in time to watch Ted on Nightline.

Board of Aldermen framed

The aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee recently okayed transfer of funds to pay $900 for a photograph of the Board of Aldermen to hang in the corridors of City Hall. That's a photo of the aldermen, not the aldermen themselves, who will hang in the City Hall corridors.

During a recent meeting on the subject, City Clerk Edward English told the committee, "We tried to run as tight an inauguration as possible." When asked about the price of the picture, English said the job had been put out for three bids and that $900 was the lowest. The other bids received were $1,500 and $1,300, according to English.

English, never one to hide under a leaf, explained that the gold lettering naming all the aldermen at the bottom of the picture was the bulk of the expense. "The gold leaf is what's expensive," he said. "When they get into the gold leaf end of things, they find out why the other bids were so high."

Committee member Matthew Jefferson countered some of the skepticism concerning the price of the picture. Sitting in a room lined with the portraits of past boards, with all the names done in gold leaf, Jefferson asserted, "I certainly would not like to see this sort of a record downgraded."

Crabbed Alderman Vern Vance, "I wasn't even in it."

Funds for the portrait were transferred from English's postage fund, which led one pundit to recommend the whole idea be marked, "Return to sender."

No failure to communicate

Congressman Barney Frank has appointed David Abbott, a former journalist and Harvard Law School grad as "communications director" for the congressman's reelection campaign.

Abbott will handle various media-related tasks, including press relations (that's us, folks), direct mail efforts (that's you, folks) and advertising (that's anybody's guess).

Abbott was formerly a reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, covering politics and local government.

He was a member of the executive board of the Cleveland local, The Newspaper Guild and was chairman of the Plain Dealer Guild unit. Abbott's wife, Jan Roller, is an assistant district attorney in Plymouth County.

Hmmm. Just last week the Cleveland Plain Dealer's sole competitor, The Cleveland Press, went out of business. Wonder if Cong. Frank brought Abbott out here to put his opponent, Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, out of business?

Ronstadt's newest fan

Rock star Linda Ronstadt has a new fan.

Alderman Ethel Sheehan, who attended the recent disarmament rally in New York, was not only impressed by the crowds which gathered in Central Park for the largest demonstration in the history of the United States. She was also wowed by Linda Ronstadt - one of many performers at the rally.

"She was great," Sheehan said of rock's reigning queen.

One for the record

In last week's Graphically speaking, a slip of the typewriter keys had us saying Lois Pines of Newton was in Florida, leading a pro-ERA group in a fally to the state capitol. She was, in fact, leading a pro-ERA RALLY, as we are sure she and everyone in the rally knew.

Pardon the slip.

Ted Koppel on the Middle East: 'You have this crazy quilt relationship instead of inter-relationships in the Middle East which has nothing to do with whom do you like. It has to do with whom do you fear the most and whom do you hate less.'

ABC "Nightline" host Ted Kopell was in Newton recently as guest speaker for cornerstone ceremonies for the $13 million Jewish Community Multi-service Center. The occassion served to provide some unique insights into the workings of the mind of this noted television journalist. Newton Graphic reporter Steven Burke compiled some thoughts by Koppel, below:

The only child of displaced German parents who fled to England just before the war, Ted Koppel's dream when he was a young boy was to become a broadcaster. His hero was the father of broadcast journalism Edward R. Murrow.

In an article, the veteran broadcaster once wrote: "While other kids wanted to be a firemen, I wanted to be a broadcaster." Koppel began his career in 1963 as a commentator on ABC radio.

Before hosting the news show "Nightline," he served as ABC News chief diplomatic correspondent in Washington. He was previously chief Vietnam correspondent in Saigon and Hong Kong bureau chief for the network.

Koppel covered former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's shuttle Middle East diplomacy, produced a documentary on Kissinger and traveled with former President Richard Nixon on his trip to the Peoples' Republic of China. He is the recipient of the prestigious George Polk Award.

In addition, Koppel co-authored the novel "In the National Interest" with colleague Marvin Kalb. He is presently working on another novel with Kalb.

Koppel on television journalism in the US: "It is unlike any other journalism in the world in some respects. There is more of it; it is underwritten by more money and serviced by more people; it is more competitive; it covers a wider spectrum of opinion. It has some of the best and the least qualified practitioners."

On free speech: "It is one thing to engage in a purely hypothetical discussion of free speech and a free exchange of ideas. It is quite another when some of those ideas are hostile to everything we personally believe in...I believe in the long run that it is only by hearing all points of view, even those that are anathema to us, that we all retain our freedom... the closest approximation to truth is reached when several parties of a dispute are heard."

On US-Israeli relations: "It is in this nation's interest that it can occassionally shrug its national shoulders in apparent frustration while Israel seems to go its own stubborn way...I think there is widespread support for Israel in the United States not limited to the Jewish community, but certainly spear-headed by the Jewish community."

On the American Jewish lobby: "I don't see why there should be any embarrasment talking about a Jewish lobby. It is a group of Americans who gather together and protect what they believe to be the interests of the organization they represent...There is absolutely nothing wrong nor is there anything un-American about that. Does the Jewish lobby have an influence? Of course it does."

On slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat: "He understood, I think, more effectively than any Arab leader before him or since that the American body politic was best to be won over by someone who made himself available to the media in general, but to American television in particular. Sadat understood the value of public relations and changed the view that the American public as a whole and certainly the American media had of himself, of Eygpt and in a larger sense of the Arab world."

On US support for Britain in the Falkland Islands: "I think ultimately we did decide what was both in our economic and our strategic best interests in siding with the British. From an economic point of view, we have far more trade with Western Europe than we do with all of Latin America combined...The most important alliance that we have anywhere in the world is with NATO."

On the Middle East: "You have this crazy quilt relationship instead of inter-relationships in the Middle East which has nothing to do with whom do you like. It has to do with whom do you fear the most and whom do you hate less."

On the Christian community in Lebanon: "Essentially they are a bunch of right wing nuts and many of them are fascists."

On television diplomacy: "Those who speak of television diplomacy, and many of them are within my own profession, don't know what they are talking about. We have very little effect on whom we bring together. We are constantly trying to bring people of divergent opinions together...When they decide to come on, it is because they believe it is in their own self interest to do so."

Arson verdicts: A 'travesty'

To the editor;

We are writing about the August, 1981 $2.5 million fire at Brown (formerly Meadowbrook) Junior High School in Newton and the recent sentencing of the three young adults who were given 2 ½ year suspended sentences and three years probation by Superior Court Judge Walter Steele, after the three pleaded guilty to arson charges in Middlesex County Superior Court in Canbridge.

Judge Steele ordered that the terms of the sentence be determined by the probation department. (Re: The Newton Graphic, June 9, page 8).

We are outraged by the sentencing in this case; it is a travesty. A suspended sentence has no actual impact. The three were inconvenienced by having to appear in court several times this past year - that's it.

The message that the young people of this city will get is that they can do anything and get away with it. It will tell them that they do not have to be responsible. We, as parents and members of this community, do not want them to get such a message. It is our responsibility to be, and to help our children become, personally and socially responsible individuals at all times.

Our children are the victims of this crime. Aside from the considerable financial loss of $2.5 million, with the city of Newton having to pay $100,000 deductible, how is the total loss of a library and audio-visual area measured for the students of Brown Junior High? Libraries are a rich resource to explore and grow in, and it will be at least September of 1983 before our children will once again have such a vital resource available to them. This saddens and angers us immensely.

How is the loss of three science classrooms, three general classrooms and a lecture hall/small theatre measured for junior high kids?

How is the loss of 15,000 paperbacks in the Social Studies/Language Arts Resource Room measured for the students and teachers who needed those books this year?

How is the personal loss measured for the teachers whose materials and books from many years of work and experience were lost in the fire?

How is the loss measured for the school administration, faculty , staff and city officials who have had to put in marathon hours since last August? That they have done so, and have put the fire behind them, is a tribute to their dedication and professionalism.

Kids and teachers at Brown have adjusted very well in going to the Oak Hill Elementary School for science classes; librarian Louise Freedman and many other teachers have been working very hard at providing library services and ordering new books and materials; the Education Specifications and Design Review Committees have bee working steadily to expedite the rebuilding; school and city officials have cooperated fully.

The fact remains that the actions of three adults last August have deprived and will deprive almost 1000 kids of some basic resources for a period of at least two years. While we understand that the three apparently have emotional problems, learning disabilities and no prior offense, what they did is still a major crime. The three in some way should feel the impact that they did something wrong.

What about restitution or community service? We understand that Assistant District Attorney Thomas Brennan recommended 2 ½ years committed time in the House of Correction and that restitution be ordered, but Judge Steele chose a meaningless suspended sentence. Why?

We are concerned that the three people involved, according to The Newton Graphic story, will probably not be required to give community service as part of their probation requirements because "there's no telling where they'll be," according to one of the defense attorneys, Richard Steinberg. If they are on probation, it should be known where the three will be. The decision by Judge Steele is not, as Steinberg maintains, "absolutely" fair.

How can the justice of this case be explained, not only to ourselves but especially to kids? How can allegations of privileged suburban kids getting preferential treatment be denied in all honesty? How can the possibility of pay-offs/favors be denied? How can cynicism be avoided? Is it too much to expect justice? The suspended sentences are a mockery, and we protest strongly.

For those who agree and feel so inclined, letters can be sent to newspapers, James Lynch, chief justice of the Trial Court Department; Judge Water Steele; Chief Probation Officer Donald Allard; Assistant District Attorney Thomas Brennan (all of the Middlesex County Superior Court); Governor King; and the Judiciary Committee of the state legislature.

Various talents are sought

To the editor;

I am writing on behalf of the elderly participants at our nutrition sites in Newton.

We are hoping, through your readership, to appeal to anyore in any age group with a specific talent to share with the elderly of Newton. Music and dance of all kinds from voice to belly dance, flower arranging, travel slides, magic or a unique hobby, and you would be willing to come to a site, it means a commitment of just one hour, usually at noon.

In these days of budget constraints, programs much as these are eliminated from our luncheons. We are hoping for community support to brighten the lives of our elderly. For further information please contact me at West Suburban Elder Services, 969-0170.

Justice after fire? 'Humbug!'

To the editor;

The public has once again been victimized while the guilty parties, off scott free, thumb their noses at us! I am referring to the article in The Newton Graphic dated Wednesday, June 9, conveying the outcome of the arson case in which three 19-year-old adults caused $2 million worth of damage to the Charles E. Brown Junior High School in Newton last August.

These young adults were given a 2 ½ year suspended sentence and three years' probation after pleading guilty before a judge in Middlesex Superior Court.

It is ludicrous to call that fair or just in view of the tremendous inconvenience this fire created for countless residents in Newton, from the firefighers initially to school children and faculty at Brown, the School Department, parents and city officials.

It is a travesty and a mockery of the public's worth to present those adult offenders with what amounts to no punishment at all for so serious a crime. Most dangerous is the precedent established by such leniency from the courts - the message leaps out in flaming colors - "go burn some more!"

How may we explain to our young that one is responsible for one's actions when they observe that this is not so? The three young adults involved are old enough to drive, to drink and to vote, but are not expected to pay for so grave an act as arson. It doesn't make sense! And while on the subject of making sense, what exactly does "emotional problems, learning disabilities and dyslexia" have to do with arson, breaking and entering? The article points out that defense attorney Richard Steinberg said the defendents were given suspended sentences because of their "history of emotional problems and learning disabilities and dyslexia."

This personal data is irrelevant to the case. Morality and responsibility are the issues here. Steinberg and Judge Steele (by handing down a suspended sentence because of the above-mentioned problems) imply that individuals with emotional problems and learning disabilities are subject to a different set of rules from the rest of us i.e. that they are not responsible for their actions!

It will be worth rewriting IEPs (Individual Education Plans), in that case, to reflect this "new value" (exemption from responsibility) for the numerous learning disabled still in school - and should hasten the demise of the systems' other libraries, science rooms, etc. Justice? Bah! Humbug!

As a parent I counted on the judicial system to redress the balance by coming down firmly on these lawbreakers.

I am disappointed and outraged and fully expect the judiciary to review this case to come up with appropriate sentencing and restitution.

One for the nuke freeze...

To the editor;

Babes in arms and strollers, elderly, handicapped, yellow, black and white, rich and poor marched together. This spectrum of people seemed to reflect a broader base of participation than what I observed at the 1969 Vietnam moratorium.

Another difference from the 1969 demonstration was the absence of tension and animosity between marchers and police.

During the speeches and music of this, my first demonstration since the moratorium 13 years ago, I realized that the rally was just a beginning, a rallying point in time to make a committment to life and sanity on the planet.

Some of my friends felt guilty about not coming to New York. Yes, they missed the rally but there is no need to miss contributing to what the success of the rally makes possible with continued work.

Massachusetts Senate Bill 1825 (to put a nuclear freeze referendum question on the November ballot) and the Kennedy-Hatfield/Conte-Markey nuclear freeze resolution need support.

Letters to the president and to our representatives wait to be written, and probably most importantly, friends, relatives and work associates need to know the issues and what they can do to help. President Reagan has begun to alter his public stance on the issue; just as they did during the Vietnam era, the voices of the people in our democracy are making a difference.

Each of over 50 groups in Massachusetts from High Technology Professionals for Peace to Social Workers for Peace and Nuclear Disarmament provides a vehicle within which to make that difference. The Cambridge-based Council for a Nuclear Weapons Freeze (white pages of phone book) is a coordinating group that can provide information on how to participate.

If you missed the rally in New York you missed a great uplifting experience, but the challenge and opportunity is very much available to contribute to the nuclear weapons freeze that the people of the world are creating. Be one of those people and be proud.

And one for reconsideration

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to Dr. Helen Caldicott, president of Physicians for Social Responsibility)

I happened to tune in on WCRB late Sunday night and hear your disarmament speech.

You were eloquent but: It seems to me that you are hysterical about the threat of nuclear war on two bases.

1. The Russians do not want to incinerate us, they want to enslave us. They do not want to destroy our property, they want to convert it to their own use.

Economically the Soviets have been a failure because communism and socialism just do not work.

They have not been able to produce enough wealth despite their mountain of natural resources to take care of their people. So they want to direct the productivity of the western people and their factories to provide the goods they need for their own citizens. This, of course, so that their own citizens don't ultimately revolt against their own repressive system.

Thus the risk of nuclear war is limited to accidents. We have no desire to bomb them except in defense and they have no desire to bomb us because they want to enslave us. So what do they want? Why they want to threaten us and make us surrender to the very nuclear blackmail that you are surrendering to. It is my considered view that the risk of stumbling into a nuclear war by accident is almost nil.

2. "Mutually assured destruction" is the only language the Russians will understand. The reason you are so worked up about the nuclear threat is because we have allowed the Russians to build their nuclear superiority and they are obviously trying to use it as a form of blackmail at the present time because they know that from now on their relative strength can only decline. As George Washington put it, we can only have "peace through strength."

As for myself, I can only recall what Patrick Henry said when America was under another kind of threat: "Give me liberty or give me death."

Thanks for help

To the editor;

We of the Nonantum Childrens' Christmas Party Association wish to express our deepest thanks to you for the part you played in making out Memorial Day parade such a tremendous success.

The parade was a great tribute to all of our deceased veterans and to honor them in such a fashion, fills each and every one of our members with a great deal of pride. Memorial Day is for the remembrance of our departed comrades and their families and no one else.

Our morning services consisted of wreath placements, fiing squad and taps at the Pvt. Richard Forte Memorial at Allison Park, the Korean-Vietnam Memorial at Hawthorn Park, the JFK Memorial at Jackson Gardens, the W. Wallace Richards Memorial Bridge and the Sgt. Rico Pagnano Bridge.

These services were solemn, respective and well attended by the military, fraternal organizations and citizens.

To all of the parade participants that passed in review, at the Coletti-Magni Memorial Park, all we can say is that you people did yourselves proud. A special thanks to the honor guards and firing squads. To all of the sandwich makers, we are grateful. Without the help of you people who donated money, none of this could be possible.

This was one of our biggest and best parades ever. Again we would like to say "Thanks."

Dear Mayor Mann: thanks

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to Mayor Theodore Mann)

Dear Mayor Mann;

I am most grateful to you and the city of Newton for the creation of such an effective body as the Office of Consumer Protection. A little over a year ago I purchased an electric stove. Almost from the date of delivery, the repairmen was called upon to replace and repair defective parts. I contacted the manufacturer, to no avail. Fortunately I read an article in the local paper describing the Office of Consumer Protection, functioning under the Human Services Commission.

When I called that office, Ms. Bea Borteck was assigned to mediate the complaint. She was a miracle worker! She made the proper phone calls, told me where and to whom letters should be sent, and provided support and guidance for this frustrated homemaker. Her persistence won out... and today a new stove was delivered to my home!

The repairman who had serviced the appliance nine times during the course of the year delivered the new stove and installed it. He told me that he has never seen a manufacturer replace an appliance. I know that it was through the efforts and competence of Ms. Borteck and the office of Consumer Protection that I am now able to cook a trouble-free meal.

Please commend your department for the excellent manner in which this was handled. We, the citizens of Newton, are fortunate for the availability of such services.

2 charged following auto accident death

NEWTON - Two Newton residents have been indicted by a grand jury on charges of motor vehicle homicide in connection with an accident on April 18 which killed one person and another injured.

Rebecca D. Abrams, 17, of 22 Bernard St., was indicted by a Middlesex County grand jury on charges of motor vehicle homicide, operating to endanger, failing to stop for a flashing red light and driving without a proper license.

Michael J. Walsh, 29, of 35 George St., was indicted on charges of motor vehicle homicide, operating under the influence of alcohol, unlawful possession of marijuana and failing to proceed with caution when approaching a flashing yellow light.

Abrams and Walsh were indicted in connection with the death of Arthur W. Parker, 17, of Wisconsin, a student at the Middlesex School in Concord and a passenger in Abrams' car. Parker was killed when Abrams' car, traveling south on Chestnut Street, Newton, collided at 2 a.m. with Walsh's car, which was traveling east on Commonwealth Avenue.

The case will be heard in superior court in Cambridge. No arraignment dates have been set. The maximum penalty for motor vehicle homicide is 2 ½ years in the house of correction.

'Outrage' voiced at arson terms

NEWTON — Members of the parent-teachers association of a local junior high heavily damaged by arsonists said they were "outraged" by the "travesty" of justice following suspension of jail terms for the three people charged with the fire.

In a letter to The Newton Graphic, as well as Governor Edward King and court and local officials, members of the Charles Brown Junior High PTA said "we are outraged by the sentencing" of three adults who admitted they set the $2 million blaze last August.

Text of letter p.5

"Our children are the victims of this crime," the parents wrote.

Eric R. Krasnigor, formerly of 90 Clearwater Rd., Newton, Michael K. Masterson, of 209 Park Ave., West Roxbury, and Leslie Alberts, of 96 Levbert Rd., Newton, all 19-years-old at the time of the fire, were found guilty in Middlesex County Superior Court of arson to a public school building and breaking and entering in the night three weeks ago.

Judge Walter Steele handed down 2 1/2 year suspended jail terms and three years' probation to each of them, citing their lack of prior criminal records and reported emotional problems and learning disabilities.

Attorneys defending the trio said chances were slim the three would be required to make restitution or perform volunteer community service to pay for the damage. The final decision on restitution, they said, rests in the hands of the county probation department.

The PTA members say in their letter they realize the three have emotional problems. Yet the members indicate they want the three convicted arsonists to, in some manner, pay for the crime.

"While we understand that the three apparently have a history of emotional problems, learning disabilities and no prior offenses, what they did is still a major crime. The three should in some way feel the impact that they did something wrong."

Defense attorney Richard Steinberg, when asked if the three might be required to pay some form of restitution, says it is unlikely because, "Frankly, one or two of them can't (pay restitution)." Also, Steinberg says community service is unlikely because "There's no telling where they will be."

PTA members said Judge Steele's decision is "meaningless."

They added, "A suspended sentence has no impact...The message the young people of this city will get is they can do anything and get away with it. It will tell them that they are no responsible."

The association further states the fire resulted in the loss of 15,000 paperback books from the social studies and language arts departments. The members say it will take two years before all the resources are restored to the school. Librarian Louise Freedman is still in the process of reordering new books and materials, according to the PTA. Three science classrooms, three general classrooms, a lecture hall and small theater were also destroyed. Students are taking their science classes at the Oak Hill Elementary School.

"The fact remains that the actions of three adults will deprive almost 1000 kids of some basic resources for a period of at least two years," the PTA says. "Our children are the victims of this crime."

Defense attorney William Homans said Judge Steele "was sympathetic to Newton as a community" when he made his decision." Homans said the judge was aware of the school's loss in terms of books and resources. Homans said Brown parents should consider how they would want the law to respond if they had handicapped children who were in a similar situation. "Think of this situation not only of its effects on the community, but also individualize the situation. How they would want the situation to be dealt with if their children had a handicap," said Homans.

Storage building burns

NEWTON — A fire of undetermined origin caused an estimated $225,000 damage to a storage building and nearby motor vehicles and a house late Friday, according to Fire Department officials.

No injuries were reported.

The cause of the fire in a building owned by Hunting Movers Co. off Washington Street, remains under investigation. At least one fire official described the fire as "suspicious."

Assistant Fire Chief Bernard Goulding found the building "fully involved" when he and Engine cos. 1, 4, 5 and Ladder 3 arrived three minutes after the fire was reported at 10:34 p.m. Goulding declared it a working fire, prompting Engine Co. 2, Ladder Co. 1 and Fire Chief Edward Reilly to respond to the fire.

The flames spread from the building to a nearby tractor trailer truck body filled with furniture. The truck and furniture were destroyed.

Heat from the fire also scorched the backs of four Chevrolet Chevettes parked 20 feet away at Clay Chevrolet, 491 Washington St. The tail lights of the cars were melted.

A nearby house and three nearby truck bodies also were scorched before the blazed could be controlled.

The fire was out shortly after 2 a.m. Saturday.

Local judge would opt for restitution

NEWTON — Newton District Court Judge Monte Basbas agreed last week with suspended jail sentences handed down by a superior court judge to three people convicted of arson in a $2 million school fire.

However, Basbas said the three convicted arsonists, who torched the Brown Junior High School Library last August, should "absolutely" be required to perform lengthy community service to pay for their crime.

Earlier this month Eric R. Krasnigor, formerly of 90 Clearwater Road, Newton, Michael K. Masterson of 209 Park Ave., West Roxbury and Leslie Alberts of 96 Levbert Road, Newton, pleaded guilty in Middlesex County Superior Court to arson of a school building and breaking and entering in the night.

Superior Court Judge Walter Steele imposed the suspended jail sentences reportedly because the trio lacked prior criminal records and had emotional and learning problems.

Basbas said he agreed with suspension of the jail terms but maintained the trio "should somehow make up for their act. I would insist on a lot of community service — and for the city — for a long period of time and a lot of hours per week."

Repeated attempts to reach Judge Steele for comment on the case were unsuccessful.

According to defense attorneys William Homans and Richard Steinberg, the three defendants have a history of emotional problems and learning disabilities. All three are dyslexic and attended a special high school in Cambridge for dyslexic students, Steinberg said.

Defense attorneys said after the sentencing it is unlikely the three will pay restitution because they are not financially able to do so. Also, community service is unlikely in Krasnigor's case, because he is now living out of state and in Albert's case, because of emotional and learning problems. Masterson's attorney, Esther Stevens, could not be reached.

Judge Basbas said, "A jail sentence is not appropriate for them because they are first offenders." He said an alternative to a jail sentence is some type of a reform camp where they would "be confined in a different way" and where they might become involved with forestry of conservation projects.

Steinberg said Judge Steele's decision is appropriate because there is no alternative to sending them to jail. "Do you put 20-year-olds in jail with hardened criminals?" he said.

The maximum penalty for arson to a public school building is 10 years in a state prison or 2½ years in the house of correction. The maximum penalty for breaking and entering in the night is 20 years in a state prison or 2½ years in the house of correction.

Newton Fire Captain Carmine Tedesco, who investigated the blaze, said Krasnigor, Masterson and Alberts should be forced to volunteer their services in a facility for burn victims or by helping to educate the community about the dangers of fire.

"You see the suffering in burn centers. You not only see adults, you see children as well," said Tedesco.

"If you are not going to confine these people, then we should demand community service from them," Tedesco said.

Local YMCA plans new summer camp

NEWTON — The West Suburban YMCA in Newton will be conducting an all-new summer sports camp for boys and girls six to 12 years of age beginning July 6.

The camp will be held for four two-week sessions, Monday thru Friday, from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m., with an option for an extended day program until 4:30 or 5:30 p.m.

This is for youngsters to learn and play different sports the "YMCA WAY" where winning is only one of many goals that is put in perspective with the play, values education and an equal chance for all to play.

Although each session will "highlight" a different sport, a variety of sports and activities will be played each day. The emphasis will be on skill development, team play, individual achievement, physical fitness and fun. Youngsters will be grouped according to age to insure proper instruction and development. Swimming instruction will be part of the youngsters' experience as well.

Summer sports camp instruction will include: Soccer, basketball, flag football, softball, track and field, swimming, racquetball and more.

For more information or a free brochure, contact the West Suburban Y, 276 Church St., Newton, at 244-6050. Enrollment is limited.

Recovered rugs displayed by police in town of Saugus

NEWTON — Newton Police Chief William F. Quinn said last week the Saugus Police Department has recovered seven Oriental rugs as a result of an arrest in that community on May 15.

These rugs will be on display at the Saugus Police Department and may be viewed by persons who have had such property stolen prior to May 15.

Contact Inspector Howard Long at the Saugus Police for further details.

Frank votes to repeal break for legislators

WEST NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass, the only member of the Massachusetts delegation to vote against the Congressional tax break last December, last week voted to repeal it.

The House voted to instruct its budget conferees to repeal the special tax deduction that members of Congress could claim without substantiation, for living expenses in Washington. As a result, the $3,000 limit on deductions for living expenses would be reinstituted. A similar measure has already passed the Senate.

"Unfortunately, this giveaway was in effect for a year but I'm pleased that a majority of my colleagues joined me and the others who opposed this from the outset in voting to repeal it," Frank said in a press release.

On a key procedural vote, the House voted 218-176 to allow amendments to an urgent supplemental appropriations bill. The vote to allow amendments, Frank said, was important because it opened the governmental process to full debate.

Frank was one of the few members of Congress who voluntarily abided by the $3,000 limit on deductions for Washington living expenses which existed in the tax laws before Congress voted the change in December.

Frank was the only member of the Massachusetts congressional delegation to vote against the tax break last December when it cleared the House on a 363-47 roll call as a rider to legislation tightening eligibility requirements for beneficaries of Black Lung Disease funds.

ACT president says cable access is a plus

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Peggy Charren, president of Action for Children's Television (ACT), Thursday told about 50 people that community television can be a success with access and participation.

Charren said one of the many "myths" of cable community television is that residents will not watch the programming.

"We think that's not true," she said. "They will if they know about it and they are involved in it."

Charren was the keynote speaker for a day long seminar on "Cable and the Arts" at the Newton Art Center on Washington Park. ACT is a non-profit Newton based consumer organization instituted to eliminate commercial abuses in children's television.

Calling cable communications a "major issue of our time," Charren said: "It's amazing how little attention everybody is paying to the need for the public to get involved in their own communications."

Charren said people will also respond if the shows are fulfilling a "real need." She cited a Pennsylvania program for elderly citizens.

Charren said audiences must be selectively defined in cable television.

She criticized a recent New York Times editorial that maintained the public access stations in New York were not serving the community.

Charren told the crowd that was filled with arts educators: "The idea that a major communication institution in this country with the kind of reputation of "The New York Times" could so misunderstand what access is supposed to be in a communications system is the reason why it is so important you all are sitting here."

Charren said cable television does not have to look like network television. "If you have a different kind of message it doesn't have to look like it," she said. "It can be a different kind of television."

"I think it can be terrific television if you have people who have some sense of how television works to help other people who don't," she said.

Charren praised Continental Cable television's Newton's access channel as role model.

Charren said communities are fortunate that so many arts are happening across the country.

"I think that we are lucky cable came along now," she said "because if cable came along in the forties we would have had to invent regional and local arts to use community cable to its best advantage."

"We have community arts and we have community channels," she said,"We just have to figure out how to make it work."

Charren also noted that the organization has just printed a handbook on cable television and children.

Beer license lifted; one business day

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — In two separate cases, the Licensing Commission last week made its position known on teenage drinking and video games.

The Grocery Garrison's license to sell beer at 367 California St. will be suspended for one day for selling beer to a 17-year-old on May 8. David K. Garrison, manager of the store, explained to the board that the youth had shown proper identification on many occasions and had become "a regular Saturday night customer." He added that the size of the young man, 6 feet tall and 200 pounds, lent credence to his claim of being of age.

"Of course, he wouldn't even try it if he looked younger than 21," answered Administrative Director Carleton Merrill as he requested that the board suspend Garrison's license for three days.

Garrison's lawyer, Dan Cashman, asked for a milder penalty and Commissioner Jerome J. Pearlstein recommended a one-day suspension.

Merrill said he was concerned with the consistency of the commission's actions but finally agreed with Pearlstein.

"Garrison runs a good business down there," Merrill said. "We like the control we have seen there."

He also warned Garrison, "From now on, even if they look 25, card them."

Garrison's father, Robert Garrison, told the board, "I think you are being fair with the one day suspension. We can go with that. Thank you. Period."

The commissioners took time to instruct Garrison of "the unwisdom" of not checking identification every time in questionable circumstances.

Sgt. C.A. MacLean testified at the hearing that he had observed the youth who bought the beer walking from the store to a car filled with five other youths just before he arrested him.

Henry Munevar, manager of the Newton Corner Bowl, showed up before the board for his third stab at getting a license for installing seven video games in his bowling alley on Bacon St.

Munevar said he did not get "a fair chance to speak" at the previous two hearings. "There are people who keep bothering me about getting more video games," he said. "There are a lot of things I want to do that people won't let me do."

Munevar's appeal was dismissed with prejudice at the last meeting of the commission. That means he can not appeal it for another year.

He presented a petition he said advocated allowing the video games at his place of business. Nowhere on the petition did it say just what it was advocating.

When this was pointed out, Munevar asked, "How many names do you want?"

"None," replied Chairman Ernest G. Angevine.

"You don't even play video games," Munevar responded.

Merrill told him, "Look. You are a nice young fellow and you tried. But, unfortunately, the ball was not in your court this time."

Appeal of payment for Mann's lawyer

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A group of Newton taxpayers has filed an appeal of a court ruling which paved the way for the city's payment of the mayor's legal fees.

The taxpayers, led by Vincent Filippone, have appealed a ruling by Judge James Donohue, and are requesting either a new trial or a revised finding.

Mayor Theodore Mann faces a $1.1 million law suit filed by his former secretary, Diana Ossinger.

Arthur Goldsmith, attorney for the taxpayers, has filed a motion for a new trial or an amended finding.

The suit to block payment of a $10,000 bill to Mann's private attorney, Edward Barshak of Boston, was initiated last December. The suit came after City Solicitor Daniel Funk refused to represent the mayor because of a "conflict of interest."

Ossinger, Mann's secretary for nearly eight years until she was fired in March 1980, claims she was illegally fired and is seeking the $1.1 million as backpay and damages. The West Newton woman was acquitted by a Middlesex County jury in October 1980 of stealing $24,000 from the mayor by cashing his paychecks at the City Hall Treasurer's Office over nearly a four year period.

In his brief for a new trial or amended finding, Goldsmith contends the "court's conclusions of law" in regard to the case are "incorrect." Goldsmith is arguing the taxpayers were "not afforded the opportunity to try their entire case and were thrown into a trial situation..."

Donohue decided the case after denying a request by Goldsmith to force city attorneys and Barshak to answer a long list of "interrogattories" or legal questions in regard to the case.

"Facts have a way of of focusing attention on the correct resolution of contested legal issues," wrote Goldsmith. He said the interrogattories would have provided a "far better and fuller picture" of the dispute.

Donohue ruled that the city must pay all "reasonable" legal bills under a city ordinance insuring city officials for civil rights law suits. In his ruling, Donohue said taxpayers' arguments "lack merit."

Donohue, however, did strike the $10,000 appropriation approved by aldermen last year for payment to Barshak because no legal bills were presented to aldermen.

In his brief, Goldsmith also argues that Mann's legal bills should not be paid until it has been decided whether the mayor was "grossly negligent" in firing Ossinger. In his ruling, Donohue agreed, that the mayor is not entitled to city payment if the Ossinger firing was "grossly negligent." However, the judge maintained that was an issue to be decided in the $1.1 million Ossinger law suit.

In his brief, Goldsmith wrote: "If Mayor Mann can afford to pay Mr. Barshak's retainer, and no claim has been made that he can not, subject to city reimbursement upon vindication, that is a preferable and far more practicable option than to seek the return of advance city paid attorney fees to an official, who after trial, is determined not to be entitled to indemnification."

Filippone maintains "thousands" of taxpayers are against the appropriation. He said he will be initiating a fundraising drive to raise funds for the appeal.

LITTLE WINNER - Countryside School third-grader Bernice Diane Fishman won first prize in the junior competition for the second year in a row in piano competition sponsored by the Massachuaetts Music Teachers' Association at Holyoke Community College. Board supports regulations on condo changes

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen Monday night approved a resolution supporting state legislation to allow cities and towns to regulate condominium conversion.

The resolution, initiated by Alderman Ethel Sheehan, passed on a voice vote.

Newton approved an ordinance regulating condominium conversions last August, but a court ruling struck it down. City attorneys have appealed the ruling to the state Supreme Judicial Court.

Only cities and towns with rent control currently have the authority to regulate conversions. In the past two years, condominium conversion ordinances in a number of cities and towns, including Framingham and Acton, have been declared illegal.

Sheehan, who drafted the Newton condo-restriction ordinance, called condominium conversion a major "human rights" issue.

The state legislation endorsed by aldermen is currently being considered by a state legislative committee.

The Newton resolution, which will be sent to state legislators on Beacon Hill and Governor Edward King, notes the "serious shortage of rental housing for low and moderate income families and elderly in the city."

Furthermore, the resolution states:

•the housing shortage has led to increase in rents such that more and more people must pay greater percentages of their income for rent.

•unless general enabling legislation allowing cities and towns to regulate condominium conversions is passed, the city of Newton must depend on permission from the court to regulate condominium conversions and protect its citizens.

The city ordinance regulating condominium conversion provided renters with a two year grace period before they could be evicted for a condominium conversion. Elderly and handicapped renters determined to have special hardships were provided an additional three year grace period.

Japanese visitors protest nuclear arms

NEWTON — A delegation of Japanese visitors, who had come to New York for a recent disarmament rally at the U.N., visited Mayor Mann last week in his office at City Hall.

Led by alderman Ethel Sheehan, the group came to City Hall from Newton North High School where they spoke with students in history and social studies classes about the prospect of nuclear war.

According to the group's organizer, John Loretz of Action For Nuclear Disarmament, the Newton contingent was part of 45 Japanese protesters who came to the Boston area after the New York rally. In all, more than 1,200 Japanese came to the rally, according to Loretz.

Mann told the visitors of the history of the city and of a book soon to be produced by his administration on the necessity of nuclear disarmament.

The gentlemen from Japan gave the mayor gifts of a pin and an origami bird — a paper crane, a symbol of tranquility and peace in Japan.

The mayor told the delegation, "Hopefully, a message of peace and mutual understanding will be the flowers from today's cultivation."

Getting around

Newton residents Joan Farber and Jack Cole, former TV anchorman and political editor, are still in the "news" business with their "Alleged News in Revue" nightclub act, running this summer at Nick's Comedy Stop on Warrenton Street, Boston.

19 acres to be added as city park space

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aproximately 16 acres of land on Dudley Road and 3 acres off Puddingstone Lane is expected to officially become city park space and conservation land this week.

The Aldermanic Administration and Planning Committee last week gave unanimous approval to accept the 16 acre gift from the will of Dr. Harrison E. Kennard of 246 Dudley Road.

In addition, the committee Wednesday night gave unanimous approval to a $35,000 appropriation to purchase 3.3 acres of land from Temple Beth Avodah land off Puddingstone Lane and .01 acre of land at the end of Maria Circle.

If the land Temple Beth Avodah land is purchased before June 30, the state is expected to pick up 30 percent of the cost.

The Kennard estate also includes a home on the property that city officials may sell or lease to pay for the upkeep of the land. The Conservation Commission had recommended the sale or lease of the land.

Alderman Elaine Gentile suggested a living arrangement providing the person taking care of the grounds with free room and board.

James Fullerton, a private Newton attorney for the Kennard estate, said Kennard was an "accomplished surgeon" who served with the U.S. Navy in the Pacific during World War II.

Fullerton said Kennard, a lifelong city resident, had a "strong feeling" for the city.

The committee also unanimously approved a $3,025 appropriation to send brochures to city residents on the recycling program. The funds will come from an account designated for the purchase of trees for city property.

Several aldermen including Alderman Rodney Barker complained that the funds are coming from the account. Barker and others argued the fund should be used solely to provide trees.

Alderman Verne Vance, meanwhile, requested that no further appropriations for anything other than trees come from the account.

Betsy Lewenberg, a local resident and consultant to the city recycling program, said there was $10,325 in the tree account before the appropriation, leaving $7,325.

Under a city ordinance, newspaper recycling is mandatory. Newspaper recycling earned the city over $25,000 in 1981, according to city officials.

Aldermen attending: Robert Tennant, Gentile, Vance, Barker, Marcy Richmond, Michael Malec.

Absent: Sondra Shick, Lane Sofman, Paul Daley.

The effects of an abused childhood are too numerous to mention.

And too devastating to ignore.

Beyond the immediate mental and physical suffering that abused children endure, there is evidence that many children never outgrow the effects of that abuse.

Statistics show that an abused childhood can affect a person's entire life.

Many teenage drug addicts and teenage prostitutes report being abused as children.

So do many juvenile delinquents and adult criminals.

The fact is, a large percentage of many American social problems stems directly from child abuse.

Yet child abuse can be prevented.

The National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse is a private charitable organization that knows how to prevent child abuse.

But we need your help to do it.

We need money. We need volunteers.

Take the first step toward preventing child abuse. Send us your check today. Or write for our booklet.

Because if we don't all start somewhere, we won't get anywhere.

The evening brought requests for another class and Rabbi Rothman promised that a new adult Bar-Bat Mitzvah calss for Temple Shalom will begin shortly after the High Holy days.

Mayor 'appalled' by county's 'sloppy' deal

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Mayor Theodore Mann Tuesday said he was "appalled by the sloppy business handling" of a multi-million dollar Middlesex County insurance contract for county employees.

Mann, chairman of the Middlesex County Advisory Board, said an initial review by the board has "opened a can of worms." Mann has appointed a special committee to investigate the insurance contract.

"We have only the tip of the iceberg here," declared Mann.

"If it was a question of illegal acts," he said, "we would expect the county commissioners to take the appropriate legal action."

Mann first complained of the insurance contract at a press conference last week. Mann said he has requested a trust fund document for the contract and been informed by an executive assistant of the county commissioners that it does not exist. He also said relevant quarterly reports are not available.

Mann, however, refused to give reporters a copy of a letter sent to him on the matter by Middlesex County Commissioner Executive Assistant William Gustas.

"The insurance committee is now dealing with it in terms of what we are going to do," the mayor said. Mann, however, said it remains with the county commissioners to take action on the questionable contract.

The insurance contract was renewed last July for four years, according to Mann. The mayor has demanded that county commissioners renegotiate the contract.

Medoff says city would reap profits

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Boston Marathon agent Marshall Medoff Tuesday contended sponsors of the race have always intended to use profits from commercial sponsors to pick up some of the "burgeoning" costs faced by cities and towns on the 26.2 mile route.

In a telephone interview after a press conference, Medoff said that one of the reasons for the controversial contract agreement to bring in commercial sponsors was to provide "relief to cities and towns."

Boston Athletic Association (B.A.A.) officials, meanwhile, were reportedly maintaining that Medoff had no right to speak for the organization.

Medoff depicted what some marathon officials claim is a lucrative deal for him as an "honest attempt" by the the B.A.A. to recognize what is "akin to its moral obligation" to marathon route cities and towns.

"The B.A.A. has not spoken up at all on this fact," said Medofff.

Medoff said he cities and towns should come forward and force the B.A.A. to pick up expenses. "As long as cities and towns let them (B.A.A. officials) duck expenses," he said, "they will duck them."

Medoff said the B.A.A. has an obligation to "properly distribute the funds."

He said he was "disturbed" at what he called the "lack of responsbility" shown by the B.A.A. in the wake of the controversial agreement.

Marathon route officials from cities and towns on the route boycotted the meeting or did not attend. Some said they did not want to lend legitimacy to the Medoff conference.

"I think the taxpayers in cities and towns would wonder why the hell they were not down here," said Medoff at the failure of marathon route city and town officials to attend the meeting.

In Newton, aldermen have set up a six member committee to review the city's policies regarding the marathon.

Chairman of the Committee Alderman Richard McGrath, who was invited to the Medoff meeting, said he refused to attend because the meeting was designed for Medoff's "own purposes."

"I think this meeting is to bait us into a position to agree with him," McGrath said. The veteran alderman said he plans to call a meeting of the committee next week to discuss the controversy.

Medoff said he also called the press conference to dispute any impressions or reports that the contract was an attempt to "professionalize the race."

Medoff said he understood that the funds from the contract agreement were also to be used to set up offices, employ staff, and provide expenses for running clinics and a scholarship program. He said the funds were also to be used to pay expenses for some runners.

"That was what was expressed to me by the B.A.A.," he said.

Under the controversial agreement entered into by Marathon Director Will Cloney, Medoff is exclusive agent for the internationally acclaimed race to bring in commercial sponsors.

According to Medoff, the contract guarantees the B.A.A. a straight $400,000 this year with any remaining funds going to Medoff. The Boston attorney has maintained that $690,000 was raised from nine main sponsors in this year's race. Medoff has also claimed he has incurred $200,000 in expenses this year.

Medoff criticized press reports of the controversial agreement as "hostile."

Medoff has hired James St. Clair, the attorney who represented President Richard Nixon during the Watergate scandal, as his attorney to assure his contract agreement with the B.A.A. is not violated.

"There is no way the contract is going to disappear," said Medoff. "The B.A.A. views it, as we do, as a binding agreement."

Medoff said the contract may be modified, but will not "go away."

When asked if he would enter into the contract agreement if he could do it over, Medoff said: "I doubt it very much. I never bargained for all this abuse. I thought by getting myself involved with the B.A.A. it would enhance my career."

Group protests Iranian killings

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — Members of the Boston chapter of the Moslem Students Society gathered in Newton Centre square last Thursday to protest the torturing and killing they say has become a part of daily life in Iran since the Ayatollah Khomeini rose to power.

Midday motorists and pedestrians were shocked to see a man with a black bag on his head pointing a rifle at another man, who was blindfolded and dressed in a blood-covered sheet.

The graphic tableau on the corner of Beacon and Centre Streets was meant "to expose the atrocities and crimes committed by Khomeini over the last three years," according to Ali Astar, a spokesman for the protesters.

Astar, a student at Northeastern University, said that more than 15,000 Iranian citizens have been executed in the past year, "including children and pregnant women." He added that there were presently more than 45,000 political prisoners in Iran and that they were being tortured regularly.

"Khomeini has betrayed the revolution that put him in power and the Iranian people," Astar said. He claimed that the inflation rate in the country is "more than 100%" and that the Iranian economy is "on the verge of collapse."

Astar explained that the demonstration in Newton Centre was just the first of many. "We're going to do it in other cities...Boston, Cambridge, Brookline, anywhere we can expose the truth about Khomeini," he said. "A worldwide demonstration is planned for New York and San Francisco to get more international support to make Khomeini stop these atrocities."

According to Astar, the Moslem Students Society supports the Peoples' Mojahedin of Iran, headed by "the legal president of Iran" Dr. Bani Sadr. He said "mojahedin" means "peoples' crusaders."

Members of the Moslem Student Society protest the executions and atrocities being conducted in Iran Thursday at Newton Centre.

North asbestos project final phases scheduled

NEWTON — The removal of asbestos material from Newton North High School has entered into its final phase, according to Mayor Theodore Mann.

He said last week the contract for the job had, on the recommendation of Purchasing Agent Blair Kanbar, been awarded to DPC General Contractors. DPC's bid for the job, the lowest of three, was for $885,748. The other bids "were each over one million dollars," according to the mayor.

Mann said the bid was "approximately $300,000 less than the original estimate. "For that, I am very pleased," he said. "However, I have requested that the Building Commissioner take all appropriate steps to seek reimbursement for the costs incurred in removing asbestos from the school building."

The mayor said "well over $100,000" had already been reimbursed by the state "a few years ago." He added that he hoped the dividend between the estimated cost of the project and the final bid could be used for public works in the city.

Work on the asbestos removal should begin at the closing of school," according to the mayor. He estimated the job would be done "prior to the opening of school. The vendor will be working on a 24-hour schedule, seven days a week."

Mann said, "I have been assured that the removal equipment to be utilized and the methods to be employed will meet all federal and state environmental standards." He added that, when the high school job is done, "We will have responded to all the problems we said we would three or four years ago."

Jazz Band will play July 4

NEWTON CENTRE - The Heritage Jazz Band will offer an evening of concerts sponsored by the Arts in the Parks program of the Newton Recreation Department on July 4 at the Newton Centre Playground, Tyler Terrace, Newton Centre.

The program will include special entertainment for children between 5:15 p.m. and 6:15 p.m. A special feature will be a five-piece banjo ensemble playing many old favorites. In case of rain the concert will be held at Newton South High School, Brandeis Circle, off Parker Street, Newton Centre beginning at 7 p.m.

Charles River swim slated for June 26

AUBURNDALE — The Charles River Watershed Association (CRWA) will host its second invitational Charles River Swim, Saturday, June 26 at 11 a.m. at its headquarters in Auburndale.

The first such swim was held in 1979 to demonstrate to the general public that the Charles River has improved dramatically during the past 15 years.

Swimmable quality is the official goal for the Charles sRiver above the Watertown Dam. CRWA Executive Director Rita Barron emphasizes that the swim does not indicate that the river has met its official goal but that it is a lot closer to doing so than is generally recognized.

"A range of water quality standards must be met before a body of water can be officially sanctioned for public bathing," says Barron, " and that includes a num[illegible] of parameters not related to public health. What most people want to know is whether they will get sick if they swim in the Charles and the answer to that generally is no. There are exceptions thought."

Information about the Charles River, including its prospects for swimming will be featured at the CRWA's open house following the swim. The public is invited to visit the headquarters between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. to meet the staff and board of directors and see some exhibits on CRWA's work on the Charles.

At noon, following the swim, Environmental Affairs Secretary John A. Bewick will make an announcement concerning the Charles River of interest to upstream communities from Bellingham to Needham.

CRWA is at 2391 Commonwealth Avenue (Rte.30), Auburndale, near the junction of Rte.128 and Masspike. Information about the event can be obtained by calling: 527-2799 from 9 to 5 Monday to Friday.

ACA will hold annual session on Thursday

AUBURNDALE — The 1982 annual meeting of the Auburndale Community Association will be held on Thursday, June 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the United Parish Church Woodland and Hancock Streets, Auburndale.

At this meeting members of the ACA board will update residents on several current issues. Gerry Boyce, Peter Shae, DAvid Purcell and Bill McEvory will describe the new recommendations for the improvement of Commonwealth Avenue. These recommendations are the result of citizen input during the community workshops of one year ago.

The redesigned engieering plans will be available for viewing by those attending the meeting.

Barbara Thibault will review the closing of Warren Junior High and its future. Monika Eisenbud of the ACA board will dicuss local efforts within the nuclear disarmament movement. The Ward 4 Aldermen, Richard McGrath, Carol Ann Shea and Lane Sofman have also been invited to the annual meeting.

Summer camp registrations now accepted

WEST NEWTON — Registrations for the Newton Community service centers Summer Day Camp Programs for children 2.9 - 12 years of age are now underway daily at the Centers facility at 492 Waltham Street in West Newton or through mailed applications which are available by phoning 969-5906 daily.

The Older Camp for boys and girls 6 1/2 - 12 years of age includes a private camp site located at Hale Camping Reservation in Westwood includes 30 acres of tree-covered land, swimming facilities, cookout accommodations, and 1200 acres of long, winding nature trails.

The program is a comprehensive one, including swimming instruction and freeswim, arts and crafts, hikes, sports, boating, games, archery, etc. In addition, other special activities will be offered, such as cookouts, and camp-wide programs. Some youngsters will want to be volved in a special confidence-building "ropes course", which is aimed at improving coordination and agility, facilitating group involvement, and enhancing feelings of joy and trust in one's self and others. All campers benefit from the involvement of graduate students enrolled in the Boston College Summer School. These mature and creative individuals, most of whom have had extensive and varied experience working with children, bring an added dimension of involvemnet and imagination to the camp.

A camper-counselor ratio of 7 to 1 provides responsible leadership for programming.

Campers leave by bus from the NCSC Inc. building, 492 Waltham Street, West Newton each morning Monday-Friday at 9 a.m. and return at approximately 4 p.m. (3 p.m. on Fridays). There is no additional fee for the bus ride to and from Westwood.

The program director is Nicholas Siciliano.

The younger camp for boys and girls 2.9 - 6 years of age includes a rich variety of child oriented activities - indoor and outdoor games, arts and crafts, music, creative movement, wading pools and special events will be offered in a relaxed "camp" atmosphere.

This planned summer program will be divided according to age into small groups.

The program is located at the NCSC Inc. facilities and outdoor area (formerly the Davis School) at 492 Waltham Street in West Newton.

There will be an open house on Sunday, June 27, from 1 to 4 p.m. for individuals which will provide an opportunity to see the site and meet the staff.

Citizens for Life vote new chairman

NEWTON — Reverend Mark F. Bodholdt was elected by acclamation to serve as chairman of the board of Massachusetts Citizens for Life, based on Washington Street in Newton, during the organization's annual meeting June 11.

Rev. Bodholdt, who holds a master's degree in theology from Dallas Theological Seminary, is pastor of the Waltham Evangelical Free Church.

Marianne Rea-Luthin of Brighton was elected to serve her second term as president of the state-wide pro-life organization. Also elected were clerk Leslie Payne of Andover and treasurer Bill Anderson of Beverly. Attorney Philip Moran of Salem will serve a sixth term as MCFL's delegate to the National Right to Life Committee.

Reelected to the MCFL Board of Directors were Robert F. Cooney, M.D. of Wareham; William K. Cosby of Framingham; Joan M. Cronin of Shrewsbury; Rober Dubuque of Worcester; Mary Hadfield of Somerville; Mary G. Hourihan, Roslindale; Madeline McComish of Everett; Edgar A. Packard of Danvers; Elinor Rafferty, Norwood; Catherine Russell, Somerville; and Susan Szetela, Chicopee.

New board members are James Brady, Framingham; Robert Collins, Springfield; David Constantine, New Bedford; Dr. John Jefferson Davis, South Hamilton; Roy Scarpato, Wayland; Rev. Erick Schenkel, Lawrence; and Dr. Joseph R. Stanton, Newton.

Local libraries offer summer book lists

NEWTON — For the fourth year in a row the Newton Public Schools Library Department is sponsoring summer reading lists for youngster K-9 with offerings as varied as the "Left-handed Shortstop," by Patricia Giff to John Knowles' "Peace Breaks Out."

And in a turn of the tables, Angier School youngsters voted earlier this year to have a summer reading list for their parents. Actually, according to school officials, the youngsteres voted on the list for parents and children to read to and discuss together because "they were good to read and might lead to some interesting discussions."

The lists of books are done in terms of interests and reading levels in K-2, 3-4, 5-6 and 7-9 collections, with 20 to 30 books suggested on each level.

The collections contain a variety of themes and both fiction and nonfiction selections. This year's list differs from past years in that it is made up of relatively new books all published within the last three years.

The process also includes informing all the Newton branch libraries of what books are on the list. In addition, the flyers include names and addresses of local area bookstores which might carry the books and whether they are available in paperback editions.

Evidence of an increasing interest in the summer lists comes from reports by school principals and librarians who, as early as May, have teachers and parents asking if there will be lists again this year and when they might become available.

City may extend tax review

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Aldermen Monday night unanimously approved a request for a home rule petition to allow the city to extend the time period for review of property tax abatement applications from the current three months to six months.

The legislative request comes as less than 2,000 taxpayers have filed abatement applications, according to Revaluation Committee Chairman Paul Coletti. Chief Assessor Robert Palmer recently hired 18 temporary employees at a cost of approximately $70,000 to handle up to 7,500 abatement requests.

Coletti said assessors are getting an average of 140 abatement applications each day.

The request for the home rule petition was made by a citizen's group battling alleged errors and discrepancies in the revaluation. The group, Save Our Homes Two, is preparing to raise funds for a legal challenge to the project.

Aldermen argued that if the extension is approved through the home rule petition, assessors will have more time to carefully review overassessment applications. Palmer has promised his department will visit all homes of taxpayer's filing abatement applications.

Aldermen contend it is unfair for assessors to push overassessment abatement requests to the state Appellate Tax Board without a full and comprehensive review.

Alderman Richard McGrath, the most vocal revaluation critic, said the additional three months will allow assessors the necessary time for the abatement review.

Abatement applications must be in the assessor's office by June 28. Property tax bill payments are also due June 28.

Taxpayers filing abatements are being advised by assessors to either pay last year's bill, pay the entire property tax bill, or average the prior three year's assessment and multiply it by the new tax rate.

Antique appraisals set for St. Paul's Church

NEWTON HIGHLANDS —For one day this month St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Newton Highlands will be transformed into a focal point for antique collectors and art lovers from around the area.

An "Antiques Appraisal Day" is planned for Saturday, June 26 at the church, 1135 Walnut Street. On that day experts from the New York office of Phillips Interntational, fine-art auctioneers and appraisers, will examine and give verbal appraisals of items brought in by the public.

Phillips, founded in London, in 1796, is the third largest organization of its kind in the world.

A fee of $5 per item, or $12.50 for three items, will be requested, payable at the door. Proceeds from the event will benefit the Boston Lyric Opera Company.

Items brought in for appriasal do not need to be antiques. The appraisals are expected to provide a guide, not only for establishing the value of family heirlooms, but also as an indication of the possible need for insurance protection as well as potential sale value.

The Phillips appraisors will also welcome questions relating to origin, history, age and other pertinent matters of interest to owners.

Items too large to be brought in may be measured and clearly photographed. A guide sheet on how to photograph for appraisal purposes, as well as further information, is available from the Boston Lyric, 267-1512.

Appraisal day will be from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments and a light lunch will also be available.

Newton-Wellesley wins energy saving award

LOWER FALLS — Newton-Wellesley Hospital was the recent recipient of an energy management award for achieving a significant reduction in energy consumption.

According to John Zang, manager of the energy policy of the American Hospital Association, the hospital's award represents "an important contribution to both the voluntary effort to contain health care costs and the nation's efforts to reduce energy consumption."

Blair Wentworth, director of plant facilities at NWH, says the hospital was able to realize a significant reduction in steam consumption by improved boiler room operating procedures, replacement of steam lines, additional pipe and roof insulation, the conversion from steam atomization to air atomization, and the installation of new oil burnerss.

The Energy Conservation Awards Program, sponsored by the American Hospital Association, is designed to encourage effective management of energy resources and to recognize those health care facilities that have demonstrated consistent management control of their energy resources for a period of three consecutive years.

New Spaulding principal

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Committee Monday night named a Newton resident and Brookline school teacher as the new principal of the Memorial Spaulding Elementary School.

Keven T. Andrews, a second grade teacher at the Edward Devotion School, was unanimously voted to the post after a 15-minute interview with committee members last night. Andrews has been elementary school teacher for the last 10 years. He is currently being trained as a family therapist at the Boston Family Institute.

As a family therapist, Andrews said, "I've learned to guide people, and teach them how to help themselves." Andrews said he would try to help a teacher before he would fire him. "The best principal is one who helps (teachers) grow."

A committee member asked Andrews to describe his views on disciplining children. Andrews responded that his method of discipline would vary depending on the child. "With some children, you need to be right on top of them," said Andrews. He said other children respond to a "more gentler approach."

Andrews in 1973 received his bachelor of arts degree in education from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. In 1980, Andrews received a master of education degree in administration and management from the Institute of Open Education, Antioch Graduate Center, in Cambridge. Andrews will complete family therapist training in 1983.

Andrews' philosophy of education includes "a very high standard for curriculums and a very high standard for teachers." He also feels "strongly" about human relations. Andrews said he was raised by a loving family, which served as a strong base for that attitude toward human relations. For two years, Andrews served as the chairperson for the Devotion schools human relation committee. Andrews also said schools need strong physical education, math, science, and computor technology programs.

Andrews' administrative experience includes directing a support group for student teachers at the Devotion school. He also held an administrative and managerial internship at the Devotion school, where he worked closely with the principal there.

Andrews presently serves on the Emmanuel College Education Department Advisory Council, the Massachusetts Teachers' Association Task Force and the regional division of the National Institutes of Education.

Security cards dealt a blow

NEWTON — A proposed appropriation for changing the security system in city hall was denied Monday by the Finance Committee.

The $39,000 system of key cards and motion detectors was rejected by the Public Facilities Committee last week.

Building Commissioner Allan Fraser told the committee, "There's a pretty regular occurrence of things missing from city hall. Most critical is that department heads know that some irreplaceable records are missing."

According to Fraser custodians are relied on as security guards. "In my opinion, they can not do both jobs," he said and added that there will be only four custodians as of July 1 where there were seven a year ago.

Committee Chairman Edward Richmond, who abstained from voting, said he had difficulties in using a key card to enter a bank. He said the card had bent slightly in his wallet and would not work anymore.

Fraser contended that the key card which would be used in city hall would be of a more durable quality.

Committee member Robert Tennant recommended the new system saying that its cost was small compared to the potential losses in equipment that might come with the present system.

Man named to Hub Bar board

NEWTON — At the annual meeting of the Boston Bar Association held on May 27, Walter G. Van Dorn of Newton was elected a member of the council, the governing body of the association.

Van Dorn is a director-stockholder of Powers and Hall Professional Corporation. He has been in private practice in Boston since 1960, having been admitted to the Connecticut Bar in 1960 and the Massachusetts Bar in 1961. He was graduated from Dartmouth College in 1955 and from Harvard Law School in 1960, having served on active duty as a lieutenant with the United States Army from 1955 to 1957.

He has been a member of the Boston Bar Association for over 16 years and is now Chairman of the Taxation Section. He taught in the Boston University Graduate Tax Program from 1969 through 1979, is a member of the executive committee of the Federal Tax Institute of New England, Inc., is currently last retiring chairman of the Committee on Real Estate Tax Problems of the ABA Section of Taxation and is a member of the American Law Institute. He has participated in local and national seminars on tax subjects.

Neighbors resist but new office building okayed

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Despite determined resistance by neighbors, a three-story office building will be built on Washington St., near the Rte. 128 off ramp.

Northland of Newton finally won overwhelming approval Monday night of a petition for a zoning change from residential to commercial for the property.

The approval marked the end of a long fight by neighbors of the property to keep it zoned residential. Land Use Committee Chairman Terry Morris, who said he sided with the neighbors until recently, described at length the "careful, arduous process" by which he decided a zone change to commercial was warranted.

Morris said his committee "unanimously assumed," at first, that some residential use was appropriate for the site. "This committee tested the validity of that assumption," he told the board of aldermen.

Morris explained that a variety of residential uses, ranging from four single-family homes to a 50-unit midrise apartment building, were explored for the property. He said they were all termed impractical or financially infeasible by a number of local developers.

Units in the midrise complex, according to Morris, would have to sell for at least $175,000 each. Apartments would have to be rented at more than $2,000 a month, he said, and added that no one would pay that kind of money to look out over Rte. 128.

Morris contended, and most aldermen agreed, that the location of the property was unique and that a change of zone would not serve as a precedent for future petitions.

Alderman Edward Richmond spoke of the property's being next to the Rte. 128 ramp. "That alone is sufficient reason to go along with the zone change," he said. Alderman Ethel Sheehan said the land should have been rezoned when the ramp was built next to it.

Lane Sofman, one of three aldermen to vote against the change, complimented Morris on his presentation, but said he remained unconvinced. He said that, "in a time of changing administrations," it was unwise to rule out the possiblity of federally subsidized housing being built on the parcel in the future.

Alderman Carol Ann Shea, who was the only member of the Land Use Committee to vote against the proposal, complained that the residents in the area of Washington St. and Neshobe Rd. "will be in a minority" if the office building is constructed. She said that Newton-Wellesley Hospital and Rte. 128 had already severely diminished the residential character of the neighborhood.

Alderman Michael Malec told Morris he thought the process he used to arrive at his final recommendation was "one-sided." He said Morris should have gotten his financial data from "independent sources," instead of from developers.

Alderman Cynthia Creem, who voted in favor of the proposal, said she thought Morris' presentation "was one-sided because there was nothing to be said for the other side."

Nicolazzo's 70 takes low gross

Richards nets Marrocco title

Dave Richards birdied the 6th hole and parred five others en route to a net score of 52 (gross 87) to capture the 13th annual M/Sgt. Dominic F. Marrocco Memorial Golf Tournament Thursday at the Newton Commonwealth Golf Club.

Richards, a police officer from Newton, edged fellow policeman Butch Coveno by one stroke. Coveno had fired a gross 88 and net 53 and appeared to be the winner until Richards, playing in one of the last foursomes to finish, turned in his card.

The victory was especially sweet for the 39-year old Richards, who'd thought he had won the tournament two years ago only to find out that a mistake had been made. "They gave me the golf clubs and everything for winning," said Richards Thursday night, "and then two days later told me I had to give them back. Someone had miscounted my score. That was tough to take."

Richards played the front nine of the Commonwealth course in 41, recording pars on the second, fourth and fifth holes. His birdie came on the long 407-yard, par-4 6th when he knocked an 8-iron to within six inches of the cup and then tapped in.

"I was scrambling early on," said Richards, "but I put it all together after that hole."

He parred the 13th and 14th holes, but ran into problems when he triple bogeyed the par-3 11th and double bogeyed the 15th, 16th and 17th.

Low gross honors went to John Nicolazzo, a member of the Newton Fire Department. Nicolazzo had four birdies on the back nine, including three straight, to shoot an even par 70 for the round. That was one better than Bob Keefe's 71.

"I came to the 18th knowing I needed a birdie to win," said Nicolazzo. "I had a six-foot putt for it so I just closed my eyes, hit the ball and, what do you know, it went in."

Actually, Nicolazzo was being a little facetious. He three-putted two greens during the day, but otherwise his putting was superb, especially on the back nine. "It kept me in the running," he admitted.

He started the day by parring the 1st hole and bogeying the second. He then recorded the first of his five birdies on the 481-yard par-5 3rd before bogeying the 4th and parring five through nine.

Nicolazzo's back nine hardly began on a bright note as he bogeyed both the 10th and 11th holes to drop to three-over. But he got hot on the next three, stringing consecutive birdies together. On the 500-yard par-5 12th, he hit a bad drive but recovered to drop an 8-iron six feet from the cup on his third shot.

Then, on the 13th (a 201-yard par-3), Nicolazzo took out a 5-wood and left the ball four feet from the hole for another birdie. He dropped another four-footer on the short 14th (par-4, 275 yards) to keep the streak intact.

Pars on the 15th and 17th and a bogey on the 16th left him heading for a 71, which would have created a tie with Keefe. But the 38-year old Nicolazzo, a golfer for 15 years, responded to the pressure. His tee shot put him behind a tree, but after punching back out into the fairway, he took out a sand wedge and rolled it on the green. One putt later and he was the winner.

The Vito and Pat Capello Bocci Tournament was also held Thursday at the Newton Post 440 with Allen Wrench defeating Young Capello's, 21-17, in an intensely fought final. The winners consisted of Allen Connolly, Tom Lewis, Brian Connolly and Ed Foy. Members of the losing team were Joe Capello, Bob Capello, John Capello and Dave Capello.

Joe Lazaro

Invited guests at the golf tournament included Joe Lazaro, National Blind golf champion, State Rep. Joseph DeNucci, Jack Neville, Ponkapoag Golf Club professional, Captain Walter Drew of the Newton Police Department, Vito Soprano, golf tournament director, Joe DeGeorge, Nick Abramo, Jim Piccariello, Major Jim Halloran, director of security of Woods Hole Steamship Authority, and Charles Graceffa, clerk of the Waltham District Court.

Other special invited guests were Post 440 Commander Sal Salvucci, Russ Halloran, Newton Recreation Commissioner, Ken DelGizzi, general manager of Post 440, Paul Burke, former Newton alderman, Mike Meehan, E.W. Delaney, Joseph Cronin and Ernie Pesky, past department commander, Massachusetts American Legion.

A prime rib banquet in the Victory Ballroom of the Post 440 followed the tournaments with Don McAdam serving as master of ceremonies.

Toyias lifts C-K in win

John Toyias fired a six-hitter and aided his own cause by smashing a key double to lead C&K Components past Boys' Club, 5-3, Friday in a Newton National Division contest.

C&K jumped out to a 5-0 lead with three runs in the second inning and two in the third and then withstood a Boys' Club rally. Matt Bilodeau began the second with a walk and then Toyias doubled, with both runners scoring after a wild relay throw. Bill Jordan walked, Dave Segal sacrificed and Lou Marcus singled for the third run.

Chris Coen singled to begin the second and was forced at third one out later by Bilodeau's groundout. Toyias walked, however, to keep things going and Jordan singled for two runs.

Boys' Club had its only response off Toyias in the fourth when they scored all three runs. Toyias walked Joe Slamin and then allowed singles to Mike Walsh and Matt Ryan for a run. Bob Kenney walked and Ryan came home on Tom Keefe's sacrifice fly. Rick Kaplin singled and Bobby Connerney hit into a fielder's choice, scoring Kenney.

McCartney picks staff

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Bill McCartney, Colorado's new football coach, Monday announced the selection of his new staff — one with a distinct Michigan look.

McCartney, hired June 9 to replace Chuck Fairbanks, was an assistant at Michigan under Bo Schembechler for eight seasons. So his selection of four coaches either from Michigan or other Michigan colleges was no surprise.

Newton's Corsi signs with Yankees

Former Newton North pitching ace Jim Corsi has been signed to a one-year contract with the New York Yankees and assigned to their Oneonta, N.Y. Class A squad in the Penn League.

Corsi, a 1979 graduate and twice named to the All-Suburban League All-Stars, reportedly signed for $10,000 according to his father, Ben Corsi.

The elder Corsi called the signing a "good opportunity" for his son who is the brother of graduating North third baseman John Corsi.

The right-handed Corsi was selected in the 25th round of the Major League Draft last week and "left last Friday for New York (upstate)," said his father.

He completed his junior year at St. Leo's College in St. Leo, Florida, about 30 miles north of Tanmpa, where he enjoyed a 7-2 record this past season.

Corsi was a walk-on during his freshman year at college and made the varsity squad there. During the last two years, he had been riding on a partial athletic scholarship, according to his father.

Corsi was double majoring in marketing and accounting.

"It's going to be tough," said his dad in regard to his son making the team. "You have to be lucky and stay away from injuries and Jim is healthy."

International League

Sacred Heart still 'perfect'

Lefty Fernando Migliassi delivered both on the mound and at the plate in pacing undefeated Sacred Heart to a 15-3 runaway victory over the Albemarle Club Sunday morning in a Newton International League game played at Newton North Field. Sacred Heart is now 3-0.

Migliassi toiled the first five innings on the hill and allowed only two hits, while striking out three and walking six. Righty Sean O'Brien was sent into get a little work and went the last two frames. Albemarle scored two of its runs on bases-loaded walks and the other on a passed ball.

Migliassi helped the winning attack with a double and two singles and three runs-batted-in. Third baseman Dan Dominiconi drove in four runs. He singled in a run in the first, added another on a sacrifice fly, and had a two-run single in the sixth.

The Auburndale Warriors, front runners in the Murphy Division, brought their record to 4-0 by notching a pair of weekend victories.

On Saturday at Albemarle Field, the Warriors drubbed the Elks, 10-4, behind the pitching of Jamie Rice and the slugging of left fielder David LeConti.

Rice, a freshman at Rivers School, spun a four-hitter and matched his 11 walks with 11 strikeouts. He also batted in a pair of runs. LeConti, an eighth garder at Warren Junior High, rescued four runs on two singles. Third baseman Chris Biotti had a pair of safeties. The Elks' Bobby Blouin singled twice.

Sunday afternoon at Newton North Field, the Warriors outlasted the Totem Pole Braves to gain a 13-12 triumph. A two-run seventh decided the contest. Paul Healey walked and stole second and third. With one away, Sean McMillen drew a walk and turned the corner at first base and continued on to second without drawing a throw. Winning pitcher Chris Biotti knocked in two of his four runs with a single to centerfield.

Chris pitched the last five innings after taking over for his brother George On the mound.

Totem Pole's Kevin Ciccone had two singles.

Post 440 splits

Newton Post 440 split a twinbill with South County Sunday at Newton's Lincoln Park, getting blanked in the opener, 8-0, but sought retribution with Rick Grant's two doubles in the nightcap winning 6-3 in Stan Musial League action.

In the nightcap, Newton flashed ahead in the first inning with three runs after South County had scored one in their first at bat. Newton South graduate Mike Kasten began the action with a single. Rob Abramson was walked before Ralph Berry singled home Kasten. Bill McEvoy reached base on an error by the shortstop while Abramson scored. A double steal resulted in Berry scoring and McEvoy advancing to second base.

Eric Daniel was the winning pitcher for Post 440. The righty evened his record at 2-2 with his one strikeout and five walks.

Post 440 ran up a tab for two more runs in the third inning when Berry, a Newton North graduate now in his senior year at the University of Tampa, singled. McEvoy was walked and both of them scored when designated hitter Rick Grant cracked a double for what proved to be the winning runs.

Post 440 added another run in the fifth inning on McEvoy's second walk, Grant's second double and Eric DiMartino's sacrifice fly.

But Newton had a handful of trouble in the opener trying to hit righty Todd Mogren. Mogren three-hit Newton and didn't allow a runner past second base.

South County scored four runs in the first off losing pitcher Kurt Matthies, now 0-1, who threw for 2⅔ innings before being relieved by Paul Boudreau.

The hitters for Post 440 were Rob Abramson, Bill McEvoy and Tom Kelly.

Newton Post 440 is now 3-5.

Seskin keeping deli tradition alive

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON CENTRE — The Jewish deli represents a tradition that Ira Seskin would like to keep alive.

"I've always wanted to own a big deli," says Seskin, who two weeks ago became the new owner of the Langley Deli on Langley Road. For 32 years, the deli had been operated by brothers-in-law Ernie Drefer and Ruby Dragoff. When Drefer retired, Dragoff bought out the business. "Now Ernie is teaching me the ropes," says Seskin, 30, of Newton Centre.

For many years, Seskin has longed to own a deli. "I grew up with Jewish delis. I love the food, there's no question about that. I enjoy the customers. And I always enjoyed cooking, even when I was a kid," says Seskin.

The Jewish deli is a special place, says Seskin. "The priority is the product, the way the food is prepared," he says. But the atmosphere of a Jewish deli, particularly the personalities of the deli workers, is just as important as its committment to the product, according to Seskin.

"It's the man who says, 'You want this, not this.' He's forward, friendly and kibitz," Seskin explains. A Jewish deli must be a lively place.

The long-time deli workers always have great stories to tell, says Seskin. Many of the workers at the Langley deli have worked there or at other delicatesens all their lives. "It's absolutely important to hold on to the long-time deli man. I want to continue the tradition," says Seskin.

A 1974 graduate of the University of Denver, Seskin received a bachelor degree in hotel and restaurant management. After graduation, Seskin left Denver, where he said, "There were no good delicatessens."

Seskin moved to Chicago and managed a truck stop diner and a Dunkin Donut franchise. "It was fun," said Seskin. But he was anxious to return to Newton. "I came home (to Newton Centre) because I was homesick. No one understands that unless you're a Newtonian," says Seskin, who attended private schools.

When he returned to Newton, Seskin worked part time in a nearby deli. "At that point I totally fell in love with it. It just clicked," he says.

Four years ago, Seskin opened "I.J.'s" deli in Waltham. "It was the first Jewish-style deli Waltham ever saw," he says. At "I.J.'s" Seskin says he served customers who never had a bagel. "We had a hell of a gentile business after a while," he says. Seskin gave up that business when he purchased the Langley deli business.

Seskin says he learned through the grapevine the Langley deli was being sold. So Seskin approached Dragoff, who is a long-time friend, about purchasing the business.

Now Dragoff is helping Seskin with the deli's operations while Dragoff's wife teaches Seskin's wife, Ann, about the bookkeeping.

Seskin says the deli business is one which requires more than a nine-to-five commitment, says Seskin. "It's so much work. A lot of people don't want to work those kind of hours," he says. Seskin is even considering extending his restaurant hours beyond the current 4:30 a.m.-6 p.m., six days per week. "I'm listening to my customers," says Seskin. Langley deli patrons have been suggesting that Seskin keep the deli open on evenings and Sundays.

An 11-week-old baby girl, Leah Beth, is also keeping Seskin and wife, Ann, busy these days.

"Between the new store and the new baby, I'm keeping very busy," he says.

The annual Charles River canoe races over the weekend saw some heated action but few spectators turned out to enjoy the events.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA-HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

School board okays 'New Start' funds

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The School Committee voted Monday night to transfer $56,550 from the special education tuition account in order to staff technical-vocational teachers for the "New Start" program.

The committee voted to fund three vocational and technical instructors for the programs.

The "New Start" program is an alternative, special education program for high school students who have attendence, behavior, social and psychological problems.

According to Phillip Raddy, director of special education, 10 of the students would have been sent to private schools if the program did not exist.

Also discussed was a technical-vocational training program for handicapped students who have been given job training and placement in Newton. Under the direction of George Wilworth, several special needs students have been trained and are working in housekeeping at the Marriott Hotel. In transferring the funds, the school committee allowed three severly handicapped students to return to the program by funding $23,900 for a special needs teacher.

In other committee action, members discussed a notice from School Superintendent Aaron Fink concerning possible conflicts of interest by school employees.

Fink noted state laws bar school employees from taking jobs that might conflict with their city jobs. In particular, Fink noted that it has been a long standing policy in Newton that teachers and specialists do not "acccept pay for work with students whom they teach" or will teach in the future.

Following the meeting, Fink said he presented the notice because he has received some reports of conflicts of interest.

Committee member Susan Silbey commented that the program directors should explore the possibility of exchanging students with other communities. Daniel Melia, director of technical and vocational education, favored the idea. He said, "The more options you have, the better it is for the students."

Melia noted that Newton is saving money by using special needs day programs with other communities.

School official says lower standards

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A school official feels that Newton should lower its minimum competency requirement on the basic skills tests for junior high school students because 58 students can not pass the exam.

Curriculum Planner Norman Colb said at a school committee meeting Monday night that there are "very serious flaws" in the basic skills test provided by the state which make it unreasonably difficult. He claimed 58 students could not pass the reading comprehension exam during a second testing.

"It's a difficult test," said Colb, assistant superintendent of programs. Colb said the exam should "test skills that are required in society. But it (the test) goes beyond that." Colb added that the the exam can no longer be called a basic skills exam "if there are even five items that are absurdly difficult." Colb said he feels the test was "misnamed."

The basic skills tests, devised by state educators, is given to students in grade seven, eight or nine. The exam tests reading comprehension, writing and mathematics. Each school system decides to which grade the test is administered. Newton administers the exam to seventh graders. Only 9 percent of the state's school systems give the test to seventh grade students, according to Colb. Each system also determines its "cutoff" level for minimum competency.

Colb told committee members that the grade in which the test is given or the cutoff score should be changed. Colb said the percentage of seventh-grade students who failed the reading exam upon retesting in 1981 was reduced from 15 to 6 (58 students). He said 33 of those 58 students are receiving special-education services. Colb said that some students perform better on other competency tests.

The exam has become a "political issue" Colb said. The advisory committee established a high cutoff point for Newton students because people feel Newton students should be at a higher level, said Colb. Teachers, administrators, high school students and PTA members are on the advisory committee. The cutoff point is reviewed annually.

Committee member Susan Silbey remarked that the state's exam should not determine levels of reading comprehension. It should only establish minimum competency, she said. Silbey suggested that the state, rather than individual systems, should establish minimum competency levels. School Superindendent Aaron Fink agreed with Silbey's views. He said after minimum competency is established, Newton could then determine its own standards beyond the state's requirements.

Fink also said the schools should look beyond the state's exam and identify specific problem areas. The state's test is not a diagnostic exam in that it does not pinpoint individual skills.

Vincent Silluzio, director of research and planning, commented that the state's exam "was carefully developed, well-constructed and reliable test." Siluzio said he has not heard "much criticism of the test."

Fun and sun

Fifth and sixth graders from the Frank Zervas School in Newton shared a laugh with Sun Life of Canada employee Marion Lathrop while touring the company's US headquarters in Wellesley recently as part of the school's Academic Enricent Program.

Scouts complete training for canoe trip

WABAN — Thirteen Newton scouts, explorers and leaders have completed the intensive training necessary for their 12-day canoe trip in late July to the wilderness of Kipawa territory in Northwest Quebec Province of Canada. This expedition includes over 100 miles of canoeing and hiking in one of the last uncivilized areas of North America.

Going on this summer's expedition will be: Earl Osborn, Bill Osborn, Lorrin Ferdinand, Jon Springer, Daniel Abarbanel, Joseph Abarbanel, Luigi Sepe, Alec Soreff, Bill Ledbetter, Eran Lobel, Dr. Michael Lobel, Erez Gazit, Michael Altshuler and their leader Adolf Andersen.

"Absolutely clean water and air, the silence broken only by the cry of the loon and lots of excited kids' voices is what brings me back each year," Andersen said.

Lawyers leave their briefs at The Gables
If you'd like a permanent parole from a house that no longer suits you, we suggest a visit to The Gables in Newton. These superb two and three bedroom attached single family homes offer the space and detailing of a large older estate without the problems of care and upkeep. There is a staff to take care of your every need, and combined electronic/gatehouse security will protect you.
In brief: the homes are a mix of one and two level townhomes with attached two-car garages, private decks and courtyard areas, and full basements, some with sliders. Examine the clubhouse, swimming pool, and tennis courts. Careful design and placement assure privacy in every case.
Discriminating professionals have already purchased almost all the 35 homes in the first section, and a number of the 16 in the next group are already reserved. When homes in the $265,000 to $400,000 range sell this fast there must be good reasons.
And there are many. We urge you to visit the new furnished models and judge for yourself. The Gables is easy to find at the junction of Parker and Dedham Streets, directly adjacent to the Charles River Country Club in Newton. Phone (617) 969-0200 for an appointment or visit any day from 9 to 5.

Aldermen return noise proposal to committee

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A controversial noise ordinance which was described as having been "kicked around for a long time" was kicked back into committee Monday night for further review and revision.

The ordinance, spawned by an Environmental Protection Agency study done in Brookline last year, prescribes the maximum permitted noise from a variety of machines and activities. It also stipulates that members of the Health, Building or Police Departments investigate incidents of noise pollution and quantify the alleged violation with decibel meters which will be donated to the city.

A violation of the ordinance could result in a $50 fine.

The proposed ordinance has been criticized many times as being cumbersome and unenforceable. Alderman Bruce Carmichael, who has spearheaded sentiment against the law, argued that it should be sent back to committee to be amended.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle complained that the six-page proposal included "four pages of ordinance and two pages of exceptions." He particularly objected to municipal activites being exempt from the ordinance. "They make as much noise as anyone else," he said. "This is a bad ordinance because it is unenforceable. If it can't be policed, it's a poor law."

Alderman Joseph DePasquale said he wanted the city to be included in the ordinance. He also objected to dogs being exempt and complained about "an ordinance that regulates camels and zebras but not dogs."

Alderman Michael Malec referred members of the board to a recent letter from the City Solicitor which suggested there might be a flaw in the ordinance regarding the constitutional rights of possible violators.

One alderman who spoke in favor of the ordinance was Rodney Barker. He said he thought it was "two years overdue. When I sit in my backyard on a weekend and get bombarded by maniacs with radios...."

The ordinance was sent back to the Legislation and Rules Committee for the second time by a vote of 13 to 8.

Bail set at $500,000 in murder case

By Donna Lombardi
Staff Writer

WEST NEWTON — In a hearing marked by verbal outbursts from the suspect and his family, a $500,000 bail was set Monday in the fatal stabbing of a Legal Seafoods restaurant employee in Chestnut Hill.

Wilfred Odney, 28, of 148 Pleasant St., Dorchester, also an employee of the restaurant, was arraigned in Newton District Court on first degree murder Monday, with a probable cause hearing set for July 7 in the same court.

Odney, a native of Haiti, is charged with using an eight-inch kitchen knife to kill Pedro Sajous, 27, of 186 Ruthven St., Dorchester at the restaurant early Saturday morning. Both the victim and Odney worked as busmen at the restaurant, located at 46 Boylston St., Chestnut Hill.

A French-speaking interpreter was brought in to explain the charge to Odney, who at one point began wailing in the courtroom and had to be escorted out by court officials. Members of Odney's family also cried out at times during the afternoon arraignment.

Newton Police said they arrested Odney shortly after midnight Friday when he ran to a Route 9 service station and told an off-duty police officer he was involved in a stabbing at the restaurant. Police said they later found the victim lying in a pool of blood in the restaurant's kitchen.

Sajous, with a stab wound in the upper chest, was pronounced dead on arrival at 1:23 a.m. at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, according to police. William Soybell, 4th Middlesex County District medical examiner, said Sajous' death was the result of stab wounds.

In court Monday, Jay F. Theise, a French-speaking attorney, interpreted the charge to Odney, who speaks a Haitian dialect as well as French and Spanish. Odney, according to court testimony, came to this country eight months ago from Haiti and had worked at Legal Seafoods since that time. Sajous was also a Haitian native, according to police.

After the defendant began wailing in Haitian and acting irrationally in court, Judge Monte Basbas ordered a court psychologist to examine Odney to determine if he was fit to remain through the arraignment. As Odney cried out, police and court officers calmed him and took him from the courtroom.

However, the outburst sparked cries from Odney's parents, with whom he lives, and other family members cried loudly from their front row seats in the courtroom. After an examination, the psychologist said Odney was fit to stay through the proceedings.

Theise said during the arraignment he felt he should not represent Odney in a trial because they speak different levels of French. Theise did say, however, Odney understood his interpretation of the charges.

Middlesex County Assistant District Attorney Michelle Roberts requested Odney be held without bail because his wife still lives in Haiti. Attorney Paul D'Agostino, of the Massachusetts Defenders' Association, representing Odney on the bail issue, asked Basbas to set bail.

Although D'Agostino urged the judge to consider that neither Odney nor his family had much money and Odney no longer has a job, Basbas said he set the $500,000 bail because of the seriousness of the charge.

5,000 filed for tax bill breaks

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — More than 5,000 taxpayers have applied for property-tax abatements this year, with the majority claiming overassessment after a landmark revaluation.

As the deadline for filing abatement applications approached Monday afternoon, a wave of taxpayers stormed City Hall with abatement applications. At least 2,000 filed in the two days before deadline, according to officials in the assessors' office.

In a non-revaluation year, chief Assessor Robert Palmer said the office receives about 300 to 400 abatement applications.

Palmer said Monday that assessors will reject further abatement applications. When asked if an exception could be made for special cases, Palmer replied, "It's too late."

However, Palmer noted taxpayers who received bills postmarked after May 28 have 30 days from the postmarked date on the tax bill to file abatement applications. A number of taxpayers received property tax bills late because of address changes within the last year. Alderman Richard Bullwinkle said "in hindsight" city officials should have opened City Hall and allowed taxpayers to file applications last weekend.

Assessors have hired 18 temporary employees to help handle applications. Aldermen approved $95,820 on June 2 for additional help, bringing revaluation costs to more than $1.2 million.

The avalanche of abatement applications was anticipated. Strong criticism has surrounded revaluation since it was completed in May by Finnegan and Associates of Acton. Approximately 11,000 taxpayers scheduled informal hearings with the company after receiving new assessment notices.

Palmer has promised a "full and comprehensive" review of abatement applications, including visits to the homes of taxpayers claiming overassessment. Palmer said the department could handle up to 7,500 applications with the additional help.

The chief assessor was scheduled to meet with the Aldermanic Revaluation Subcommittee Tuesday night to give a final tally on abatement applications and review deployment of personnel and the abatement review.

In addition, aldermen were scheduled to hold a public hearing Tuesday night on a petition filed by a citizens group requesting the city pay attorneys' fees for needy taxpayers using an attorney to file abatement applications.

Alderman Dominic Taglienti argued that city assessors should accept abatement applications even after the deadline.

"You should be able to apply for an abatement anytime," he said. "I think we should bend over backwards to help those people." The veteran alderman said he would attempt to force assessors to consider late applications.

Kids 'chip' in; schools cash in

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Since the School Committee reintroduced potato chips as an a-la-carte lunch item this spring, students in Newton's secondary schools have munched their way through over 42,000 bags in three months.

"Kids like potato chips; there isn't any question about that," Support Services Director Roy Cornelius told the School Committee Monday.

The reintroduction of potato chips and other changes in the secondary school lunch menu were part of an effort to test the impact of such changes on the operating deficit of the program.

During March, April and May, the cafeterias in the secondary schools added major a-la-carte items like pizza and submarine sandwiches. Restrictions previously imposed on some items by the School Committee (such as the restriction on selling potato chips and hot dogs) because of nutritional or other concerns were lifted.

According to Cornelius, the schools make approximately 50 percent profit on these a-la-carte items compared with a marginal profit on the regular lunch choices.

Other steps taken this spring were the reduction of the number of labor-intensive items offered both at the salad bar and for the regular A-lunch.

In March, Cornelius said, the number of A-lunch, or primary, offerings were reduced from four or five choices each day to two. Because of complaints, the number of choices was increased to three.

"The complaints about choice were eliminated by this move," he said.

At some of the secondary schools, the number of students buying the full A-lunch decreased slightly, Cornelius said.

"What the figures do not show may be more important," he said.

The studies of the past three months cannot accurately determine, Cornelius said, whether students who were buying a full lunch before are now buying only minor a-la-carte items, such as potato chips or ice cream.

Cornelius said pizza sales (as an a-la-carte item and not part of a regular A-lunch) were also studied closely. Pizza is the "single most popular item," Cornelius said, but, when offered separately, it did not seem to be drawing a significant number of students away from the lunch lines.

Correction

NEWTON - The resolution of a trial involving the owner of the Newton Health Club was not stated clearly in last week's Newton Graphic.

Robert A. McIntosh, owner of the club, was found innocent and charges of operating a house of prostitution were dismissed June 21 in Middlesex Superior Court in Cambridge.

McIntosh still faces a charge of "inducing prostitution", according to Newton Police.

The Graphic regrets the error.

Board moves to make lunch pay

NEWTON — The School Committee Monday chose a tapped a Portland, Maine consulting firm to find ways to make the school's lunch program self-sufficient.

Faced with a deficit of over $130,000 for the program this year, the committee wants to come up with a plan which will reduce their funding of the lunch program to zero, or close to it.

After interviewing four consulting firms, Support Services Director Roy Cornelius recommended York Management Systems. The committee voted unanimously to hire the firm at a cost of $19,707.

According to Cornelius, the contract requires York to study ways to improve the program as well as the advantages of hiring an outside vendor or contractor.

The work by York Management will be done during August and a report will be presented to the School Committee. Should the committee decide to hire an outside contractor, the current program would likely remain in place for the upcoming school year. However, the consultant's study may call for staffing cuts of cafeteria workers at the secondary school level during FY83.

Current reduction in force negotiations with the local union (Local 454), which represents the cafeteria workers, are expected to save the schools $60,000 next year.

Based on a revised budget for the program for next year, the School Commitee also Monday voted unanimously to transfer $31,566 from the fuel, oil and gas accounts to the revolving food services account. Mayor Theodore Mann voted 'present' and committee member Katherine Jones was absent.

Frank says Heckler is backing Reagan

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank Sunday afternoon hammered away at Republican colleague Margaret Heckler's support for President Reagan as the "difference" in the election battle for the 4th congressional seat.

Frank told a group of about 60 campaign workers at a canvassing pep rally on the Newton Centre Common that what he calls his opponent's consistent support for Reagan is the difference in the campaign.

Frank has made Heckler's support for Reagan the cornerstone of his re-election strategy.

Frank, a freshman congressman, and Heckler, a 16-year congressional veteran, have been forced to do battle as a result of a congressional re-districting plan approved last year. The new district stretches from Brookline to Fall River.

Frank told his campaign workers, many donned in blue and white "Barney Frank for Congress" baseball caps (selling for $5 each) and Frank t-shirts, he is no longer "pessimistic" about running against Heckler. Frank last year had claimed he was considering dropping out of the race because of the new district split.

"As some of you know, I was kind of pessimistic earlier," he said. "I no longer am.... Margaret Heckler's support for Ronald Reagan and her inability to decide how to cope with that has really made the great difference."

The Frank-Heckler campaign has already attracted national attention and is expected to be one of the most closely watched races in the country. The White House has marked the effort to defeat Frank a top priority.

In the midst of a common surrounded with "Barney Frank for Congress" signs slapped on trees and cars, Frank attacked Heckler for her "absolute refusal to debate the issues or even let the press know where she is."

Although Heckler has denied she is keeping a low profile, her Washington office has repeatedly refused to release her schedule to the media.

Frank pointed to the Fall River Labor Council's endorsement of his candidacy as evidence of his increasing support. The council switched its support from Heckler to Frank this year.

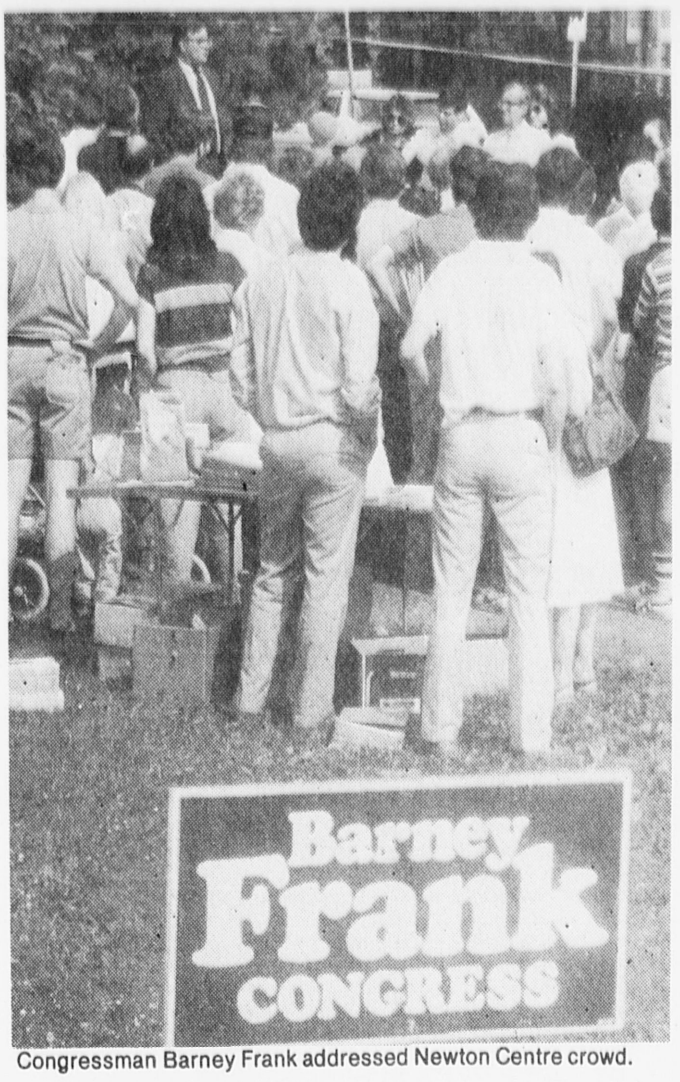
Frank also told campaign loyalists of a visit to a carnival last week at a Fall River parish where four local residents detailed how they have been "hurt" from Reagan budget cuts.

Frank's campaign literature and "instructions" for campaign canvasser's all cite Heckler's support for Reagan. A "script" included in "instructions" for campaign worker's pitching Frank reads: "Well, Mrs. Heckler has consistently supported the Reagan administration's policies."

The centerfold of an eight-page Frank campaign brochure lists voting records on cutting student loans, social security, the Reagan tax program, funding for the MX Missle and other issues; all supported by Heckler and opposed by Frank.

Frank also took time during his campaign stop Sunday to criticize Heckler's voting record.

"Margaret Heckler along with some of the other Republicans has been given the permission to vote against the president sometimes," he said. "On the critical votes, she is still not there." Frank specifically cited Heckler and "fellow gypsy moth Republican's" opposition to what he called "a moderately progressive budget that would not have sacrificed domestic programs to military waste."



Congressman Barney Frank addressed Newton Centre crowd.

Frank volunteers at the rally ranged from a number of college students to elderly volunteers.

Carl Winograd, 69, a Frank volunteer from Newton Highlands, said he is working for the freshman congressman because Frank is a "guy who calls a spade a spade."

Jeff May, 18, a paid member of the campaign staff, was recruited by Frank after interning for the congressman. May, a sophmore college student from West Newton, called the Frank campaign "the cause."

Among the Newton officials attending the rally: State Senator Jack Backman (D-Newton-Brookline), State Rep. David Cohen (D-Newton), State Rep. Susan Schur (D-Newton), and Aldermen Ethel Sheehan, Marcy Richmond, and Rodney Barker.

Board backs down from demands on contract changes

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — The Aldermanic Legislation and Rules Committee Thursday night voted against a proposed ordinance which would force the mayor to inform the board of changes in special city contracts.

The committee voted 3 to 2 (with two members abstaining) to recommend the full board reject the proposal, but reconsidered and held the item after amendments were proposed.

Mayor Theodore Mann has come under attack for making changes in city contracts dealing with revaluation and private ambulance service without informing aldermen.

Mann changed several key sections of the proposed and final contract with the firm that conducted the city-wide revaluation.

The contract resolution initially approved by aldermen last year called for the revaluation company to post a performance bond for the full $600,000 cost of the contract. In addition, the aldermanic resolution called for a $5,000 per day penalties to be charged to the company for not meeting the Jan. 1 deadline for completion of the project.

Mann reduced the bond required to $200,000 and the penalty fee to $500 per day. In addition, Mann later amended the contract and extended deadlines after the company had failed to meet the Jan. 1 deadline. The mayor has maintained he had no choice but to approve the changes if the city was to complete the revaluation and avoid an $11 million budget cut.

Under the proposed ordinance, the mayor would be required to give the board "written notice" of "any and all subsequent changes or amendments" to the original contract.

Opponents contended the ordinance was an attempt to usurp the mayor's contract powers and would serve no purpose other than to open the gates for politically motivated criticism against the mayor.

Under the city charter, the mayor has sole responsibility for negotiating and signing city contracts.

Supporters contended the ordinance was a useful tool to force the mayor to keep them informed and knowledgable on special contracts.

Board of Alderman President Matthew Jefferson, who initiated the ordinance, maintained the proposal was not an attempt to interfere with the mayor's contract authority.

"Nobody has convinced me yet that we are trampling on foul ground," declared Jefferson.

Jefferson said aldermen clearly should have been informed of changes in the important revaluation contract. "There were people who felt this man could not do the job," Jefferson said. "There were people interested in the bond and penalties."

Jefferson said the ordinance was both for "informational" and "political" purposes. The board president said the mayor should be forced to "come back" to aldermen and "take the heat" for contract changes.

The city's Law Department has straddled the fence on the proposed ordinance. Ouida Young, assistant city solicitor, told the committee the proposal may be on safe legal ground if it is purely an informational mechanism not interfering with the mayor's authority to enter and negotiate contracts.

She cautioned, however, that does not mean the proposal "entirely sits well with the Law Department."

Alderman Verne Vance said forcing the mayor to reveal contract changes before signing the amendments would be "mishevious." He claimed the proposal would only result in aldermen "either legally or politically second guessing the mayor."

"I really think it would not be a service to the city to have 24 members of the board of aldermen debating proposed contracts or contract amendments," Vance said.

Other aldermen maintained the ordinance was an attempt to infringe on the mayor's legally protected authority. Jefferson responded by offering to allow the city solicitor to seek a court ruling on the ordinance.

Aldermen voting for proposed ordinance: Jefferson, Michael Malec.

Aldermen voting against: Ethel Sheehan, Vance, and Bauckman.

Abstaining: Terry Morris, Sondra Shick.

Absent: Lane Sofman.

Peirce students map out states

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — If bigger is better, then fourth graders at the Peirce School have constructed the best map of the United States in the country.

Young John Herzog, an integral part of the effort, said it might be the best in the whole world.

Under the direction of teacher Brad Harding, the students laid out and painted a mammoth map of the U.S., 90 feet from Bangor to Burbank, in the parking lot of the school. The project, begun on May 18, was completed on June 25.

Harding said he had the idea for the project several years ago, but he was waiting for "the right group" to do it with. "The right group" consisted of 18 fourth graders "who work together well," he said.

He was quick to praise the dedication and enthusiasm of the students. "I had kids coming in at 6:30 in the morning and on weekends," he said.

The project in "Geography and Map Study" is completed for the purposes of this year's class, according to Harding, but that does not mean it can not be expanded on by future classes. He contended that the best teaching tools are the simples ones, but he also suggested, "In another year, we can paint in rivers and metropolitan areas."

Why don't you and your boss do each other a favor?
Consider a direct deposit plan for your paycheck. Direct deposit will save you worry and time. Under the direct deposit plan your pay goes directly from your employer to the New England Automated Clearing House and into your West Newton NOW account, eliminating delays which so often keep you from the bank...illness, vacations, bad weather, schedule interruptions.
And the plan offers the same advantages for any check you receive on a regular basis–Social Security, VA, Civil Service, dividends, you name it. Direct deposit means you avoid the unpredictability of mail delivery, the possibility of theft, and unnecessary trips to the bank. Best of all, though, you know your money is in the bank earning interest instantly. That's what direct deposit will do for you.
What it will do for your employer is save him time and payroll costs. Talk to him about it. He'll be interested.
Direct deposit is a simple idea, but one worth looking into. And you can get it at West Newton Savings Bank.

Resident may win City Hall fight

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTONVILLE — Daniel Gentilucci thinks he may have won the battle over the two-car garage, assessed at $129,000, located behind his Norwood Avenue house.

He won't know for sure, however, until he walks into the assessor's office at City Hall along with other residents to pay his bill on the last day without a penalty.

According to Gentilucci, an employee in the assessors' office assured him Thursday that a corrected assessment would be ready by Monday. The actual bill, he was told, would not be prepared by Monday, but he could pay the corrected amount anyway.

So, instead of paying the $2,824.70 in property taxes for their simple garage and waiting for their abatement application to be handled, Daniel and Julie Gentilucci hope the new bill will be more in line with what they've paid in the past — $88.50.

"I'm the kind of person who doesn't like to owe anybody anything," he said. "I would have preferred to pay the bill in advance rather than have it laying around on the dresser."

"But, the way it (the process) went, it went until the last gun was fired," he said.

Gentilucci is not only angered because the huge discrepancy was not cleared up during his appeal hearing, but also because he got no action on the abatement he filed June 7 until his alderman, Richard McGrath, stepped in.

"If Mr. McGrath didn't intervene, I still think we'd be left out in the cold," he said.

Gentilucci said he and his wife made several calls to the assessor's office asking for Chief Assessor Robert Palmer, but could not reach him. Mrs. Gentilucci finally left a message for Palmer to get in touch with her.

Julie Gentilucci said the call was not returned until she called McGrath. She received a call from Palmer Thursday and was told that the assessor's office was very busy with all of the abatement applications and had not been able to get out and reassess the property.

"I wanted to ask him, 'Well, how many more $129,000 garages are there in Newton?'" she said.

Mrs. Gentilucci said Palmer told her that only part of the bill would have to be paid on Monday. If the amount turned out to be too little, the Gentilucci's would pay a minimal finance charge for being late with the remainder, although Palmer said he would try to have the charge waived.

This news "frosted" Mr. Gentilucci. "I should not be penalized for somebody else's mistake," he insisted.

Gentilucci said the garage was finally reassessed Thursday, but, he believes, only as the result of an angry trip to City Hall.

Although the Gentiluccis are hoping the matter has now been resolved, their trouble began when they received only one estimated tax bill of $118,000. Since their garage is by deed on a separate piece of property behind their home, Gentilucci pointedly asked during his appeal hearing if the single bill was a substitutXe for both his two-family home and the garage.

He was assured that the sum was based "on everything I owned."

But when the actual tax bills were mailed, the Gentiluccis received two bills which assessed their home for $118,000 and their garage for $129,000.

The bill for the garage also had the size of the lot where the garage is located overestimated by a couple hundred square feet from the actual 1,400 square feet.

Chief bans parking on part of Webster St.

NEWTON — Police Chief William Quinn Monday used his emergency powers to implement a temporary parking ban on the north side of Webster Street between Cherry Street and Elm Street.

In a letter to aldermanic Public Safety Committee and Transportation Chairman Joseph DePasquale, Quinn said the ban was necessary due "to increased parking for a new computer company located on Cherry Street and overflow of customers from a restaurant on Elm Street."

In response, the Public Safety and Transporation committee Monday night unanimously approved a resolution requesting Mayor Theodore Mann to fund a proposed 43-space municipal parking garage at Washington Street and Elm Street.

In addition, the committee gave initial endorsement to the ban by a 3 to 2 vote with the two alderman from the area (Aldermen Richard McGrath and Richard Bullwinkle) in opposition.

An angry Bullwinkle lashed out at his colleagues for backing he ban despite area aldermen's wishes.

Bullwinkle shouted at his colleagues for several minutes as the meeting came to a close. "I am really ticked," he snapped. Bullwinkle complained that he and McGrath have voted in line with other ward aldermen's interests in the past.

Aldermen in opposition were dumbfounded by Bullwinkle's hot tempered response to the vote. Bullwinkle maintained aldermen were giving away their "leverage" by endorsing the ban.

Supporters countered that the committee approved the resolution requesting funding of the municipal parking lot on Washington and Elm.

Sister Dorcas winner of Tufts teacher award

NEWTON — The first reipient of the Tufts University Annual Secondary School Teacher Award was Sister Mary Dorcas of Newton.

Sr. Dorcas is a physics, chemistry and mathematics teacher at St. Clements High School, Sommerville. Her former students, now at Tufts University, selected Sr. Dorcas as the recipient of the $500 prize because "she sparked our intellectual curiosity which led to a continuing interest in academics," according to a student press release.

The award was presented to Sr. Dorcas at a dinner hosted at Tufts by Tufts President Jean Mayer and Student Council President Kevin Thurm. Mayer said the Tufts student senate established the award because they "feel they owe a great debt of gratitude to those who educated them to the point where they could come here. All the money in the world isn't going to make a better teacher. A teacher has to be dedicated," Mayer said.

Sr. Dorcas, formerly of Our Lady Help of Christians Church, Newton, is the sister of Sr. Ann Francis Flannery, of Sacred Heart Convent, Newton.

Frank meets Begin in Washington

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass, met for more than an hour recently with Israeli Prime Miister Menachem Begin and discussed the ongoing crisis in Lebanon.

Frank was among a small delegation of strong supporters of Israel invited to meet with Begin for one hour and 15 minutes at Begin's Washington hotel. Seventeen members of the House participated in the meeting.

Those participating in the meeting discussed Begin's meeting earlier with President Ronald Reagan, Frank said. The members of Congress expessed support for the view that Syria and the PLO must join Israel in agreeing to a withdrawal of all foreign troops from Lebanon.

Also discusssed by the Congressional delegation and Begin, Frank said, were ways to establish a strong peace-keeping force in Lebanon after the withdrawal of Israeli and Syrian troops and the PLO in order to guarantee that the population of Northern Israel will be safe from terrorist attack.

"There was a concensus that all foreign troops need to be withdrawn from Lebanon as soon as possible," Frank said after the meeting with Begin.

Frank is one of a small group of House members regularly invited to meet with Israeli officials to discuss events in the Middle East.

THE SCRIPTURES - LOGOS AND RHEMA
The distinctiveness of the Bible is its dual feature: on the one hand it has its outer shell — the physical part; on the other hand it has its spiritual part, that which is in the Holy Spirit, what is God-breathed and God-spoken. The outer shell is something which comes from man's memory, from the human mouth, which is written in human language, and was also spoken by man as doctrine or teaching. This, however, is the outer shell of the Bible, that which is merely physical. But the Bible has still another part. "The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and are life," declared the Lord Jesus (John 6:63). This is the spirit and life side.
We must deal with two kinds of words — the outward word and the inward word, the word in the Scriptures that is outside of us and the word in the spirit that is within us. Logos is the outward word as a message spoken or written; rhema is the present, inward word. We have logos in our hands, but we have rhema in our spirit. Logos is the written word as the expression of the living Christ; rhema is the word spoken within us by the Spirit of Christ justat the time we need it!
By the written word without we have the explanation, definition and expression of the mysterious Lord and by the living word within we have the experience of the abiding Christ and the presence of the practical Lord.
Perhaps you read the written logos this morning but failed to understand it or to apply it to you in a living way. While you are working, the Spirit anoints you from within with the word, giving you the right meaning and even the right emphasis. You sense the living rhema with its living emphasis by the Spirit. As a result, you not only understand it in your mind but also apprehend it in your spirit. Now the outward, written word becomes the living word within your spirit. Hence, we need to attend to the living rhema within, allowing it to have its full way within us.

Arson and restitution

For students of the legal justice system the recent case of suspended prison terms and probation for three people convicted of arson at the Charles Brown Junior High deserves special attention.

Following a trial in Middlesex County Superior Court the trio, who had no prior criminal records, were found guilty of arson in connection with the fire in the former Meadowbrook Junior High library. The fire resulted in an estimated $2 million in damage.

The suspended prison terms, subsequent probation and lack of any mandatory community service or restitution by the three brought a storm of protest from members of the Brown Junior High PTA. In an angry letter to The Newton Graphic and city and court officials, PTA President Angela Nielsen cited the "travesty" of justice, the financial and educational losses of the fire and the loss of resources for Brown Junior High students.

"The message that the young people of this city will get," the letter said, "is that they can do anything and get away with it. It will tell them that they do not have to be responsible."

We share this grave concern and, like parents, teachers, students and city officials, we question the wisdom of the sentencing.

Court testimony prior to sentencing indicated the three had emotional problems and learning disabilities. Although some in the community questioned the relevance of those facts to this serious case of arson it is apparent such problems must be considered in judging the maturity or ability to handle responsibility which the trio possess.

But arson of any type, particularly burning of a school, cannot be shrugged off by the legal system with no penalty assessed, no punishment administered. One local fire official suggested the three arsonists should be forced to perform community service in the burn ward of a hospital. We see such an idea as logical and fitting the crime since it would instill in a grim way what could have been the results of their crime.

If judges choose to bypass jail sentences for such offenses they must consider some way to make criminals repay society for crimes. Restitution in this case is, obviously, impossible since damage amounted to millions of dollars.

But letting offenders completely off the hook - and that is what has happened in spite of the term of probation - is a callous attitude toward the residents of this city and a horrendous example for children.

Crime may not pay, as the saying goes. But in this case who pays?

Marking time

A bird in the hand? Just sign in

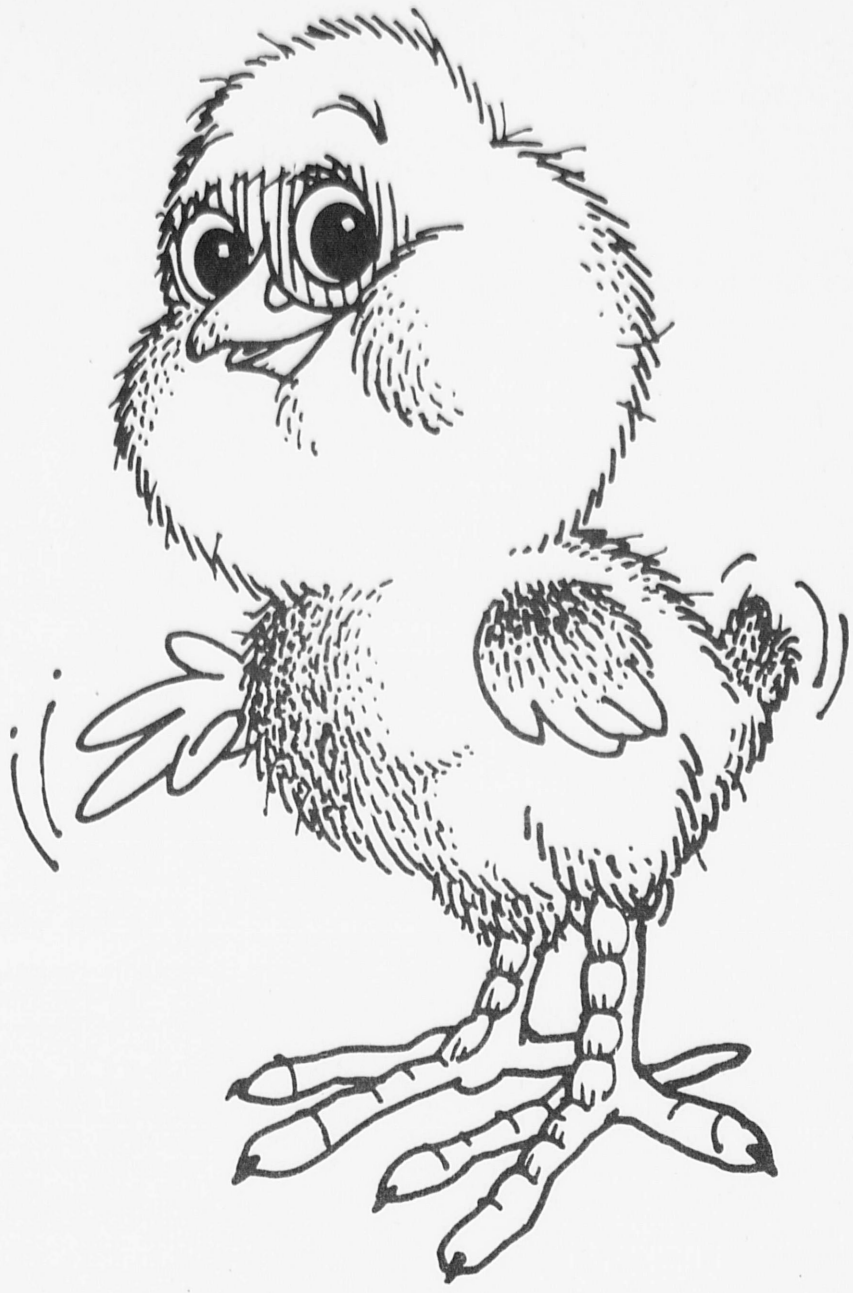
By Mark White

"You know, for almost a year I've been sitting on this street sign and I still can't figure out why I'm here.

"When the Recreation Department decided to put me on the Langley Road street sign I thought they were crazy. Why would anyone put a chicken on a street sign? And frankly, the idea didn't thrill me. I mean, how would you like the words "Langley Road" indelibly etched on you stomach?

"But a chicken doesn't have a lot to say about city policy. Although I'm sure many would say those who devise public policy are chicken.

"Anyway, the mayor decided to put me here.



Being near a deli has its drawbacks. You have to watch your relatives being turned into chicken soup, chicken salad and chopped chicken liver.

So for almost a year I've been on top of this sign, observing the people of Newton Centre.

"I wasn't accepted easily. Some of the residents of Langley Road were upset when I joined the neighborhood. I heard all the complaints - 'You put a chicken on one street sign and pretty soon every sign has a chicken.' And I heard one resident ask, 'Why a chicken? A lion, maybe. A tiger, perhaps. But a chicken?'

"Alderman Dominic Taglienti and his wife, Louise, feel that I don't belong here, that my presence on this sign is insulting to residents along Langley Road.

"You know, they may have a point. I really do feel foolish being up here and it really does look kind of dumb. But it really has been an enlightening experience.

"For instance, do you have any idea how many rude people double park in the middle of Centre Street while they do an errand? They tie up traffic but don't seem to care about the other drivers.

"And of course my favorite pasttime is watching drivers looking for a parking space. I count how many times a driver circles the triangle looking for a space on either Beacon or Centre Streets or Langley Road. And the real fun is watching them fight for those rare spaces in the parking lot. You would think by now they would have enough sense to use the lots behind the stores!

"Being near the delicatessen has its advantages and disadvantages. The disadvantage is that I've had to witness many of my late, lamented relatives being turned into chicken soup, chicken salad and chopped chicken liver. But Saturday is the most fun when Langley Road becomes completely blocked by deli customers. Double parking is nothing. Triple parking is commonplace.

"But getting back to my situation, I figure most people don't even know I'm up here and, quite frankly, I've had enough of this place.

"I think it's time we put up some other animals as landmarks around this city. Just think, we could use a "bull" to designate City Hall, a "silver fox" at Alderman Richard McGrath's house and in front of Alderman Paul Daley's house we could erect a "road runner."

"And I won't even go into how many candidates there are for weasels and skunks and even rats.

"How about a wise old owl in front of Alderman Bauckman's house? And of course we could use a "dead duck" in front of the assessors' office at City Hall.

"Folks, if you have any sympathy or compassion for a helpless chicken you will write your alderman and demand that they take action to get me down from here.

"Just think for a minute - how would you like a chicken on your street sign??"

(The Langley Road chicken, part of an Arts in the Parks neighborhood art project, was given this space by Mark White, a practicing attorney and former member of the Newton Board of Aldermen.)

Graphically speaking

Reverend becomes a 'spark'

Chateau de Littlèjohn

The new Newton Fire Department chaplain, Reverend Robert Littlejohn got something of a charge last week as he was honored by firefighters at their annual ball, held in the Chateau DeVille in Framingham.

The ball, which drew about 190 people, included a raffle in which a slew of fine booze given away, as well as a trip for two to Cape Cod.

Rev. Littlejohn, however, was given a four-channel scanner radio, complete with frequencies of Newton Fire and Police, so he can keep track of the guys in the departments.

We must warn him that, as any scanner fanatic knows, listening to the action on the radio can turn one into a real "spark."

One source in the Fire Department also noted that all in attendance commented on the fine dancing by Fire Chief Edward Reilly and his wife. And the affair had quite an interesting twist when the lights were turned down and the firefighters in attendance warned to control themselves as waitresses paraded into the dark room with trays of flaming baked Alaska!

You know how those guys can't resist a good torch singer.

It was a classic case of "a good time was had by all at the ball" but one firefighter quipped afterward the raffle could have included one other item.

In light of the proposal to close the Manet Road firehouse in Chestnut Hill, and eliminate Engine 9, this curmedgeon suggested raffling off the venerable truck.

A raffle like that could prompt a few people to turn the hose on the guy.

A man of many talents

Newton native Burton Weiner, an English teacher at Newton North, was recently named as adjunct instructor of education at Boston College, just done the street (sort of).

Weiner is no stranger to education or the university community, having been active in the Boston University Community Clustering Program. He is also an elected official of the Newton Teachers' Association.

Frank's close 'Encounter'

Brookline High School senior James Marquand's acrylic painting, "The Encounter," has won "An Artistic Discovery: The Congressional Art Competition," Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., announced last week.

Marquand's painting will be displayed in a national exhibition in Washington in the corridor leading to the U.S. Capitol.

Frank, Fourth District Congressman, and a member of the Congressional Arts Caucus, sponsored the contest for high school students in the district. The contest was part of "An Artistic Discovery," a nationwide activity members of the House initiated to recognize the creative talents of young Americans. The competition, Frank noted, was conducted at no expense to the federal government.

The panel of judges included Richard Pelletier, head of the art department at Leominster High School; Marcia Rosenberg, administrator of the Danforth Museum School in Framingham; and Josephine Simon, director of the Newton Arts Center.

Batter up, David

Congressman Barney Frank has just finished taping television commercials which will be aired shortly in the Fall River viewing market. Frank is running against GOP congressional veteran Margaret Heckler as a result of redistricting. And the district, for which the two are vying, includes lovely Fall River, a long-time bastion of Heckler supporters.

Frank told some Newton campaign workers Sunday that if they "look closely" at the commercials they will recognize Newton State Rep. David Cohen as an umpire in one. As both men know, that talent as an umpire often comes in handy on Beacon (and Capitol) Hill.

On another topic, Frank noted that in his view, the attitudes of Massachusetts residents have changed drastically since his last election bid two years ago.

"Compared to two years ago, there is a very real difference," Frank says of voters' attitudes. "Two years ago, people were feeling that we were under-armed in this country...Today, the attitude is absolutely reversed."

Too many arms and not enough brains sometimes, perhaps.

The greening of Newton

A note in the mail this week came as an addition to a recent column on revaluation by Mark "Marking time" White.

The writer, a Newton homeowner for 42 years, noted that on his assessment he was pegged for having solar heat. When he asked the assessors to identify the supposed solar hearing unit, he was referred to the small, three-section greenhouse attached to his cellar.

Had it been a true solar heating unit, our writer notes, he should have received a tax credit for such state-of-the-art energy saving technology.

Sort of warms your heart doesn't it?

Mr. Lipton, Esq., bar none

The late June issue of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce newsletter notes a bit of information that slipped right by us.

Howard Lipton, director of the Human Services Department in Newton has been admitted to the Massachusetts Bar Association.

Lipton is a graduate of the New England School of Law. Our sincere congratulations.

We've been admitted to quite a few Massachusetts bars of late but never one as prestigious as that.

Health club owner gives a tour

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

UPPER FALLS — The owner of the Newton Health Club opened the doors of his club to the press last week.

Club owner Robert A. McIntosh, of Burlington, was found innocent earlier in the week of the charge of operating a house of prostitution by Middlesex Superior Court Judge Hiller Zobel.

The charge against McIntosh stemmed from a Dec. 12 state and local police raid in which three women were arrested and charged with soliciting for prostitution. The cases of all three women were later heard in Superior Court and were continued without a finding.

Following three hours of testimony by prosecution witnesses Judge Zobel dismissed the case on the grounds of insufficient evidence on the Commonwealth's part to demonstrate that McIntosh had knowledge of acts of prostitution taking place at the club at 209 Charlemont St.

Judge Zobel found McIntosh "not guilty" and dismissed the case following a motion by McIntosh's attorney for such a verdict.

McIntosh told The Newton Graphic reporter during the tour that since the defense never presented its case, he wanted an opportunity to dispute what he termed "very hazy" testimony by state and local police in court.

"I built this club from scratch," McIntosh said. "It was an empty warehouse. We built this step by step with the Building Department and the Health Department."

McIntosh denied any knowledge of soliciting for prostitution taking place in the club while customers are in one of the seven private massage rooms. "To the best of my knowledge, what they (the masseuses) are doing is giving a therapeutic massage," he said.

He added that he does not go into the massage rooms while customers are receiving massages. Although a three-quarter hour massage by the masseuse of the customer's choice is included in the $30 fee to use the club, McIntosh says many customers opt only to use the club's whirlpool, sauna, exercise equipment or to relax in the lounge and watch the wide-screen television.

On Super Bowl Sunday, McIntosh said, the lounge was packed with customers who had come to watch the game.

The brief tour of the club, which opened in the summer of 1981, took place prior to the actual opening time of 11 a.m. After entering through the canopied outer door into the foyer, customers must register with McIntosh or one of two other shift managers at a window and, in turn, receive a receipt for the $30 club fee.

During courtroom testimony by State Police last week the officers said the window where they registered had sliding glass, but McIntosh said there was no glass at the reception desk.

After registering, customers are buzzed through a locked inner door to enter the club facilities. If it is their first visit to the club, McIntosh said, as a matter of courtesy, customers are given a tour by one of the employees.

Once inside, the tour begins with a walk down a well-lighted hallway to the locker and shower room area. Then, following the rectangular path of the hall, the visitor is shown the seven massage rooms and one supply room.

Additional courtroom testimony which McIntosh challenged was a state trooper's statement that he had been given a massage in the first room on the left upon leaving the lounge area.

"The first room on the left is a supply room. It has always been a supply room," McIntosh stressed.

McIntosh said the lighting fixture in each of the massage rooms as another example of "hazy" police recollections of the club. Although all three State Police witnesses testified the lighting fixtures in the massage rooms were overhead lights, McIntosh noted each room was actually equipped with a single wall lamp with a shade. State police also described the massage rooms as dimly lighted.

"If these rooms are dimly lighted, then I'm King Kong," McIntosh said.

The rooms were well-lighted by the lamps, although the lighting in the massage rooms was, McIntosh said, softer than in the exercise room, the whirlpool room or other areas of the club.

"I don't think any of the club is dimly lighted," McIntosh emphasized. "There are different levels of light."

During the trial Monday, one state policeman testified the light in the massage room he was in had become "very bright" when state and local police entered the club on Dec. 12. The masseuse allegedly said, 'The cops are here,' he testified.

Pointing to the separate electrical outlets in each room which the lamps were plugged into, McIntosh said there was no main control of the lighting and demonstrated that there were only two levels of lighting — on and off.

State Police also falsely described, according to McIntosh, the attire worn by club employees. Police also said in court most of the women were braless.

"I'm not going to dictate what underwear a person wears," McIntosh stressed. "What I say is that you must be well clad; you must be totally covered."

"The reason I got into this (running what he terms a health club with an "all-around program) is that it's a profitable business," he said. "It's certainly a recession— proof business."

McIntosh said the club's business has been hurt by the publicity and the arrests. A program for female customers which the club was trying to start has never gotten off the ground because of female customers lost "because of the stigma" over the prostitution arrests, he said.

Some male customers have been lost as well, he said.

"We ran a clean house before; we're going to run a clean house now," McIntosh said.

"I know that we have been under (police) surveillance from day one," he said and added that he would not be "surprised" if police have made over 200 visits to the club.

A fourth employee of the club, Patricia Frost, 41, of Chelmsford, was arrested April 1 by an undercover officer and charged with soliciting for prostitution. Frost, who was found guilty in Newton District Court of the charge, is awaiting appeal in Middlesex Superior Court. As the result of this arrest, McIntosh faces possibly another trial on the charge of keeping a house of prostitution.

Chamber says 'join together'

To the editor;

(The following is an open letter to Mayor Theodore Mann and the Newton Board of Aldermen)

At the direction of the Board of Directors of the Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce at its June board meeting on the 9th, I am writing to you to suggest an approach for dealing with the several concerns of homeowners, renters and members of the business community together who are interested in preserving the unique character and quality of our city. Now that the decisions for Fiscal 1982 are behind us and revaluation and classification are indeed a fact, we would like to repeat the chamber's offer to establish a working committee to meet with representatives of the administration and the Board of Aldermen to deal with the fiscal realities of the new year beginning July 1.

In our opinion the focus on revaluation has tended to obscure a more basic reality: how can the city structure spending and taxing programs which will maximze limited resources, at the same time recognizing federal and state cutbacks, declining population and school enrollments, as well as rising costs.

It is essential that the various elements in the community's government, business and citizen sectors now join together in a mutual quest for building a rational taxing and spending program for Newton.

Lewis B. Songer, CCE
Executive Vice-president
Newton-Needham Chamber of Commerce

State pay raises 'reasonable'

To the editor;

Massachusetts citizens have every right to expect the best qualified legislators to make our laws. In Newton we are fortunate to have outstanding legislators: Senator Jack Backman and Representatives Joseph DeNucci, David Cohen and Susan Schur. These people and their colleagues are key to good government in Massachusetts.

The League of Women Voters of Newton feels that the proposed state pay raises for Massachusetts are reasonable. A $30,000 salary is in line with salaries paid legislators in comparable industrial states.

The recommendations for pay raises were made by a citizens' commission appointed by the governor and is made up of five prominent business, civic and professional leaders. They held hearings throughout the state. We think the process is a good one and should be continued.

The present system of basing legislative pay raises on those of state employees reeks of conflict of interest and is closed to the public view. The process should be a public one.

Sandra Butzel, president
League of Women Voters of Newton

Chamber, Warren Jr. High host job training

NEWTON — The Newton Chamber of Commerce and Warren Junior High School have co-sponsored a Pilot Career Exploration Program in an effort to enable students to combine classroom study with practical on the job training. Four ninth grade students from Warren have begun working voluntarily in the West Newton Community for three hours a week to explore the responsibilities, satisfactions and rewards in having a job.

The basics of the concept of supply and demand have been illustrated to Michael Murphy at AJ Harris Hardware, under the supervision of owner Mr. Harris and to Sharon Huff at the Busy Bee, by owner Lynn Baldi as they stock shelves and help with inventory.

At the West Newton Savings Bank, Vice-President and Treasurer, Larry Goldsmith made arrangement for Jody Deluty to have the opportunity to discover the functions of each department within the organization.

Judy Moulten has been learning the skills involved in a direct mail campaign during her work experience at The Newton Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Mr. Lewis Songer, Executive Vice-President and Co-Sponsor of the program.

During class at Warren, under the supervision of Ginny Barry, Career Exploration Program coordinator, students have the opportunity to use a variety of resources to develop an understanding and appreciation of themselves regarding their personal goals, abilities, and interests. The West Newton volunteer work experience is a unique opportunity for students to gain work experience and to start a resume while making an outstanding contribution to the community. Therefore, students indentify ways society and self interact through careers.

Mr. and Mrs. Mario Bauldy, at the Busy Bee, held a dinner at their home in honor of the students and and their participation in the program.

Local computer firm offers free workshops

NEWTON — Data Utilities of North America (DUNA), a Newton-based computer company is offering young people free computer workshops.

John Banjak, president of DUNA, says, "People should understand computers and their operations. After all, it's people who run computers."

DUNA, founded in 1960, has operated its own computer center. The company offers a wide variety of computer services.

Recently DUNA conducted a free two session workshop for teenagers at Newton Community Service Centers. The workshop, which was conducted by Senior Vice President Peter Rapp, introduced the young people to the business application of the computer, and provided a business orientation to the students.

DUNA also will be accepting interns from Pine Manor College in Chestnut Hill for the fall term. The student interns will be introduced to a variety of specialties including telemarketing and information processing.

DUNA plans to expand its comitment to increase computer literacy. The company invites non-profit organizations to contact DUNA if they are interested in offering a computer workshop for their members. There is no charge for the workshop. The sponsoring organization will be expected to cover travel expenses for the DUNA representatives.

Police chase results in drunk driving arrest

NEWTON — A Brookline man was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol following a police chase early Sunday morning.

Police said John Martorano, 17, of 101 Monmouth St., Brookline, was charged with driving under the influence, failing to wear a helmet while riding a motorcycle, speeding, failure to stop for a police officer and operating a motorcycle without a front shield.

Martorano was arrested about 1 a.m. after his motorcycle crashed on Commonwealth Avenue and Washington Street, police said. Police Officer James Treddin reported earlier that a motorcycle sped off after the officer noticed that the driver was not wearing head gear and the vehicle had no front shield. The officer chased the suspect and lost him on Exeter Street.

Officer Treddin later responded to an accident at Commonwealth Avenue and Washington Street where he recognized Martorano as the driver of the motorcycle he was chasing earlier.

Martorano and a female passenger were injured and treated at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

Disorderly conduct charge in Newtonville

NEWTONVILLE — A Newton man was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct Sunday, police said.

Michael Nickolazzo, 38, of 457 Washington St., Newton, was arrested by Police Officer David Dues at 6:46 p.m. on Washington Street. According to police, a white male was seen jumping on the hood of a blue car, parked in front of 475 Washington St. The suspect broke the car's windshield and antenna. The man was also yelling at the driver, a Framingham woman. Officer Dues arrived at the scene and arrested Nickolazzo who faces arraignment in Newton District Court.

Woman hurt when dog causes crash

NEWTON — A 21-year-old local woman apparently escaped serious injury Sunday afternoon when the car she was a passenger in crashed into a tree at 103 Cabot St., police said this week.

Katherine Stone of 19 Baldwin St. was rushed to Newton-Wellesley Hospital by ambulance following the single-car accident about 12:25 p.m. but was released after treatment.

The driver of the car, Jane Butterworth, 21, of 127 Bellevue St. was shaken up but did not require hospital treatment, police said.

Butterworth told police she was driving west on Cabot Street when her dog jumped from the rear to the front seat, causing her to lose control of the car. When she slammed on her brakes, the car veered right into a city-owned maple tree in front of 103 Cabot St. Police issued no traffic violation citations for the mishap.

Ambulance personnel put a neck brace on Stone and also put a splint on her right leg.

Robber takes cash from Beacon Street store

NEWTON — Police are searching for an armed robber who took an undetermined amount of cash from The Tree House at 837 Beacon St. about 5 p.m. Saturday.

According to police the robber entered the store and waited until several customers left before confronting two women employees in the store.

The robber told them he had a gun in a bag and would kill them if they didn't give him "all the money," police said. The robber took three rings from the fingers of one of the women in addition to store receipts and Master Charge and Visa credit cards. He then ordered them into a back room of the store, warning them to wait 10 minutes before emerging, police said.

11-year-old charged on breaking and entering

NEWTON HIGHLANDS — An 11-year-old boy was charged with breaking into the Hyde School Sunday night and stealing several items including three woman's necklaces, Newton police said.

Police said they received a call from a resident who said she saw a boy go into the school on Lincoln Street. Police said the youth entered the building through a rear window from the playground side of the school.

Did car take a dip in Charles River?

NEWTON — City police and fire spokesmen said Sunday that a car apparently plunged from Nonantum Road into the Charles River, according to a report they received at 11:38 p.m. Saturday. But local public safety personnel had no details of the accident and reported rescue because MDC Police had handled it, Newton Police said. MDC Police have jurisdiction over the river.

However, a phone call to MDC Police Sunday night produced no confirmation of the reported accident and rescue of someone from the car.

An MDC spokesman said last night there was no notation of such an accident and that he had not heard of it until receiving a call from The Newton Graphic.

The World of Travel

by Hank Fleming
STAY AT A CASTLE IN FRANCE
Everyone should spend at least one night in the splendor of a European Castle letting the mind swim in romantic visions. If you are visiting France's Loire Valley, the Chateau of French perfumer Francois Coty offers such a place. The 2500 acre estate boats a recreated 18th century chateau. The adjacent chapel is a smaller version of one at Versailles and it is used as a guest pavilion. The chateau's 52 guest rooms and 6 apartments are all different. Vaulted ceilings, marble baths, a circular dining room with Corinthian columns, Empire furnishings, superlative food and a fine wine cellar all shed their grace on a guest. And, believe it or not, it is affordable.
The Coty Chateau has tennis, a heated pool and fishing in the Indre River.

Frank seeks debate sponsor

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., has asked the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts to sponsor nine debates between him and his opponent, Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, R-Mass.

Frank, who has already accepted two debate invitations from local leagues, recommended that seven others be added. He suggested that the state league coordinate the participation of all 13 local league chapters in the new 4th Congressional District.

In order to reach the greatest number of voters and cover the bulk of the district, Frank suggested that the league sponsor debates in Somerset, Swansea, Natick, Newton, Brookline, Dover or Medfield, and Sharon or Walpole. Frank has accepted invitations from the league in Wellesley and from the combined leagues of the Attleboros, Foxboro, and Norton-Mansfield.

Heckler has not responded to the two league invitations that Frank has accepted, according to Frank. He has accepted nine other debate invitations which Heckler has either rejected or not responded to.

"Debates...are the most effective way to present voters with clear information on the difference between the candidates' views," Frank said in a letter to Judie Hass, director of voters service of the state league. "Without the side-by-side comparison that debates provide, voters have much more difficulty making informed choices."

Frank said that since neither he nor Heckler has an opponent in their parties' primaries, there is no reason to wait until after the Sept. 14 primary for the debates to begin.

Three residents attended state leadership seminar

NEWTON — Three Newton residents participated in the 5th Annual Massachusetts Youth Leadership Seminar.

Jonathan Blumberg, Newton South High School, Diana Selig, Newton North High School and Mary Connolly, Mt. Alvernia, attended a seminar held June 4-6 at Boston College.

They were among the 169 student representatives from cities and towns across the state who participated in the seminar. The program is sponsored by the Massachusetts Youth Leadership Foundation, Inc. in conjunction with the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation and the Boston Jaycees.

Piccadilly Gardens hosts big opening

NEWTON CENTRE — Piccadilly Gardens, on Beacon and Union Streets, the newest extension of Piccadilly Square in Newton Centre officially opened on June 21.

The square features landscaped gardens around a plaza area with several new shops. Each shop has its own greenhouse/bay windows for maximum exposure and light, and large bell-shaped canopy.

The shops are the result of planning which converted a nonproductive area into new business space. Each shop has new wiring, heat and air conditioning and shared common bathroom facilities.

Among the new shops is "Smart Stuff LTD," introducing "kidknowledgy," creative and educational toys and games from around the world, and materials for the disabled. "Bus Stop Records," a specialty record store offering out of print and collector items, and "North Star Valet," for dry cleaning with all work done on the premises.

Chestnut and Oak garage is approved

By Steven Burke
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A 27-space municipal parking garage should be in place on Chestnut Street along the railroad tracks east of Oak Street by the end of the summer.

The aldermanic Public Safety and Transportation Committee Monday night gave the project unanimous initial approval. The proposal is expected to be approved at the next full board meeting on July 12.

Paving the area, across from the Gamewell office building, will cost the city $35,000, according to a project manager for the city Planning Department. The city is leasing the land free from the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA).

Despite concern that installation of parking meters would force traffic on to streets, creating problems for area residents, the committee gave initial approval for three-hour parking meters in the lot.

Newton Upper Falls Advisory Committee Chairman Brian Yates said the new lot represented a "major physical improvement." But he said the installation of parking meters may create a problem.

The unpaved lot is currently used by employees of the Gamewell office building at the intersection of Chestnut and Oak. "If you push here, where does it come out?" asked Yates. Impact of the meter installation is "unclear," he said for the record.

Alderman Richard Bullwinkle maintained strict enforcement of meter violations would force the Gamewell representatives to provide employee parking. Bullwinkle said ticketing "two or three days a week would put the pressure" on Gamewell.

Alderman Michael Malec, who represent the Upper Falls community, vowed to keep a close watch on the lot to prevent problems.

In other action, the Public Safety and Transportation Committee gave initial approval to:

• a Traffic Commission recommendation to deny a requested four-hour parking restriction on Sumner Street along with a rescinding of the existing no-parking restriction at 126 Sumner.

• a Traffic Commission recommendation to rescind current traffic regulations on Norwood Avenue from Harvard Street to Clarendon Street.

•a Traffic Commission recommendation for a no-parking sign in front of the Exxon Gas Station at 650 Washington Street.

• a Traffic Commission recommendation to deny a petition for signs requiring traffic to keep right of the triangular island at East Side Parkway- Newtonville Avenue. A local resident has complained there have been several near collisions at the intersection. As a result, the committee also voted to recommend the Traffic Commission study the intersection for possible improvements.

•a Traffic Commission recommendation to redesign the island at the Elliot Street-Mechanic Street intersection to make the westerly entrance to Mechanic Street one way southerly the length of the island. The improvements are scheduled to be made during the reconstruction of Elliot Street in 1983.

In addition, the committee bucked the Traffic Commission and recommended retention of a two-hour parking regulation on Court Street near Washington Street. Further, the committee recommended denial of a petition for a 4-6 p.m. northside parking ban from Route 128 to Concord Street.

Social studies, special needs jobs filled

By Sarah Clayton
Staff Writer

NEWTON — A new special-needs coordinator and a new Social Studies Department head won unanimous approval from the School Committee Monday.

Sarah Williams of Chestnut Hill was recommended by a screening committee for special-needs coordinator of Pupil Personnel Services and Roberta Dollase of Needham was recommended to head the Social Studies Department at Newton South High.

Both start September 1. Williams is replacing M.A. Byrnes and Williams salary will be $29,925. Dollase is replacing C.W. Altree and her salary was set at $25,318.

Williams is a 1968 graduate of Blackburn College in Carlinville, Ill., and received a master's degree on remedial reading from Oakland University, Rochester, Mi. She is now director of pupil services for the Lincoln Public Schools.

According to Newton's director of Pupil Personnel Services, John Cullinane, more than 100 applied for the position. Of nine finalists, four were from Newton schools and five were from outside Newton.

"The committee was impressed by the evidence from her record and from her interviews with her knowledge of teaching and learning, her assessment skills, and her organization, management and supervisory skills," Cullinane said of the new special-needs coordinator.

Roberta Dollase is a social studies teacher at Newton South High. She began at South in 1974 and was acting housemaster of Cutler House for the fall 1980 semester and acting administrative assistant for one semester in 1979.

She graduated cum laude from Brown University in 1961 and received her master's in teaching from Wesleyan University.

South Principal Ernest Van Seasholes recommended Dollase as "a truly first-rate teacher in every respect."

Of the candidates interviewed for the position at South, Seasholes said seven were from Newton schools, five were from Massachusetts and two were from out-of-state. There were 63 applications.

Bail set in case

D'Agostino said he would appeal the judge's bail decision to Middlesex County Superior Court in Cambridge. Odney is being held in the Billerica House of Correction pending the July 7 Newton District Court hearing.

If probable cause is found, Odney's case will continue in Superior Court in Cambridge pending a possible grand jury indictment. The maximum penalty for first degree murder is life imprisonment.

Basbas ordered Superior Court to appoint an attorney for Odney. D'Agostino said the Mass. Defenders' Association does not handle first-degree murder cases.

The last murder case in Newton was in 1979 when a former McLean Hospital employee, Sylvester Brown, was charged with fatally stabbing his wife. Brown, formerly of Oxford Road, Newton Centre, was convicted and is currently serving a prison sentence in Walpole State Prison, according to police.

Hearing on Social Security in Newton

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank said a House Select Committee on Aging, of which he is a member, will hold a hearing in Newton on the methods used by the Social Security Administration in collecting overpayments to recipients.

Frank said he received permission from Aging Committee Chairman Claude Pepper (D-Fla.) to conduct the hearing, scheduled for July 8 at 10:30 a.m. in the Lincoln Elliot School gymnasium. The congressman said the hearing is a result of reports that the Social Security Administration was subjecting elderly persons to collection-agency type harassment.

Frank said he has received complaints that collection practices included withholding entire benefit checks, charging interest for installment payments, addig penalties for late payments and notifying credit bureaus in order to destroy credit rating.

Frank has also obtained a memorandum from one Social Security area director offering rewards to employees who collect the most money in overpayments.

"Those kinds of tactics, if true, are totally unacceptable. Threats, harassment and abusive scare tactics against Social Security recipients perpetuate panic among our elderly citizens already frightened and concerned about the well-being of the retirement system," said Frank.

Frank said most overpayments are the result of the administrations errors. "It is important to make clear that we are not talking about recipients who have committed social security fraud. We are dealing with recipients who are being harassed because of computer of clerical errors," Frank said.

Norman Roy is BayBank director

NEWTON — P. Norman Roy has been named a member of the Board of Directors of BayBank Middlesex.

Roy is executive vice president of Barry Wright Corporation in Lower Falls. A graduate of Boston College, Roy earned a master degree in business adminstration from Babson College and is a Certified Public Accountant.

Roy serves as a director of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital, the Financial Executives Institute in New York and the Associated Industries of Massachusetts. He is a member of the American Institute od CPAs, the Machine and Allied Products Institute, the American Management Association, and the National Association of Manufacturers.

Shulman picked to lead committee at Brandeis

NEWTON — Cynthia B. Shulman of Newton was elected the 16th president of the Brandeis University National Women's Committee during the committee's national conference this month.

Shulman has been a member of the committee for 18 years. She was formerly the committee's assistant treasurer, vice president, chairman of Chapter Visits, regional coordinator and for the last two years chairman of the annual giving program. She has also held several local and regional positions.

Shulman is listed in Who's Who Among American Jewry and Who's Who in American Women. Brandeis President Marver H. Bernstein named her to the President's Council at the university.

For 14 years Shulman has been trustee of the Hebrew Rehabilitation Center for the Aged in Roslindale, where she is now president of the center's Women's Auxiliary. She also has held various positions with the Greater Boston Combined Jewish Philanthropies.

Sulman is honorary president of the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel in Newton and honorary president of the NEw England branch of the Women's League for Consertvative Judaism.

The women's conference, at which Shulman was named committee president, drew delegates from 123 chapters which have contributed more than $19 million in support of the Brandeis libraries. The woman's committee, founded with the university in 1948, is the largest of any library supporter in the world.

Anniversary fete

Attending the Newton Community Service Center's 75th anniversary celebration were (L to R) Congressman Barney Frank (D-Newton), Matthew Jefferson, Board of Alderman president, Susan Schur, state representative, Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, State Representative Joseph DeNucci, Louise Hauser, NCSC president, Mayor Theodore Mann and State Senator Jack Backman.

Cong. Frank supports action on equal rights

NEWTON — Congressman Barney Frank, D-Mass., recently joined in supporting plans to reintroduce the Equal Rights Amendment in Congress and vowed to continue the fight to put equal rights into the constitution.

Frank, in a statement made on the floor of the House, joined Congresswoman Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., in expressing "anger and dismay that the ERA has run into political obstacles which have stopped its ratification temporarily."

Frank was one of the chief sponsors of the Massachusetts Equal Rights Amendment, which has been in effect since 1977. He said, "None of the horror stories conjured up by the opponents have come true in Massachusetts."

"There has been none of the erosion of family life or moral standards that have been inaccurately imputed to ERA and, in fact, it has had positive effects," Frank said. The equalization of the state's property laws was one of those benefits, he said.

Should Congress approve the reintroduced ERA, Frank said the amendment's proponents would have seven years to win ratification.

NEWTON — A small item on the recent aldermen's docket, a request for funds to buy a new police motorcycle, promises to generate some large debate before it is finally approved.

When it appeared before a meeting of the full board recently, alderman Richard McGrath requested that the appropriation be held up for some in-depth research.

"This is a pretty extravagant piece of equipment," McGrath said of the $7,200 Harley-Davidson the police have requested. "I can't imagine going for a piece of equipment like this."

McGrath said he wanted to see the new bike before he made up his mind on the appropriation. He questioned why a police motorcycle which $1,200 reportedly needs worth of repairs had to be replaced with one worth $7,200.

Chief William Quinn explained to the aldermanic Finance Committee recently that the motorcycle would be a Harley-davidson with a package of police accessories, including a radar unit to spot speeders.

Quinn said the old bike was damaged on the day of the Boston Marathon, that repairs have been estimated at around $1,200 and that "It wouldn't be worth it," according to the Police Department's mechanic.

The chief added that the old bike, a Honda 450, was too light for police work and that the heavier Harley would be better suited for traffic work and crowd control.

Police contend that the cycle will be used to patrol areas, like parks, where cruisers can not travel. But McGrath says there is "total access" to all the parks in the city for police cars. He added that, for maneuverability off the road, the Honda 450 was the bike he would prefer.

Agreement on Murray Road School

By Kevin C. Kennedy
Staff Writer

NEWTON — Neighbors of the boarded up Murray Road School find themselves agreeing with members of the aldermanic Land Use Committee on the condition of the school but at odds as to what to do about it.

"The property has undoubtedly deteriorated. It's a terrible, terrible looking place now," said committee member Carol Ann Shea at Monday night's meeting. "The deterioration since last fall is considerable. It's worse inside than you can imagine."

Committee member Paul Daley concurred, "I really felt the building was a boiler room and nothing but a boiler room."

Abutting neighbors called it "an eyesore" and worse. "I don't know another neighborhood that would tolerate it," said Guy Compagnone. He said his 82-year-old father, who lives across from the abandoned school, is horrified by its intrusion into his neighborhood.

The two-story brick building was closed four years ago. Two years ago, the mayor's office set a minimum price of $100,000 on the one-acre property and bids were received from developers. The plan, at the time, was to build eight condominium units within the existing structure. The developer to whom the contract was awarded has since found the project to be infeasible.

Jack Simmons of the city Planning and Development Department told the committee that stipulations attached to the contract were the main deterrents to the development of the property. Specifically, Simmons mentioned the developer's being required to include a three-bedroom unit, one of eight, which would be deeded to the city as low-income housing.

The inclusion of the low-income unit in the project became impractical when the full cost of rehabilitating the rapidly deteriorating structure was understood, according to Simmons. The developer was reportedly backed up by other developers in his final opinion of the project.

Simmons said the conditions of a contract to develop the property would have to be "more liberal and less restrictive before going up for bids again."

Peter Bella, spokesman for the group of neighbors which attended the meeting, objected to the suggestion that the inclusion of more units might make development more feasible. "Speaking for myself, you ought to open it up to all sorts of development plans, including single-family homes," he said.

Bella and the other neighbors attending the Land Use meeting contended that the old building should be demolished and the residential nature of the area should be maintained by building homes on the property.

Daley said he thought, years ago, "The building should be taken down for duplex townhouses. That was my opinion then and it is even more my opinion now. Single-family homes won't float."

Compagnone argued that the single-family option was eliminated because the city was asking too high a price for the property. "$100,000 is too high for that neighborhood," he said. "It seems like everyone is shooting for the stars in a working man's meighborhood."

Compagnone, who told the committee he has been a developer for 31 years, said the demolition of the existing structure would cost as much as the property and that the asking price should take that into consideration. "It's feasible to build six single-family homes there if the city comes down on its price," he said.

When pressed by Daley to come up with an appropriate figure for the property, Compagnone said, "$15,000, absolute maximum."

Complaining that "We have a dog on the market," Shea asked for some suggested courses of action on the matter.

When Daley suggested the site might be appropriate for six duplexes, Bella objected. Daley said he only made the suggestion "to get the ball rolling."

Bella responded, "Well, let's get it rolling in the right direction. The neighborhood wants to get back to what it was."

The committee finally passed the matter along with three options outlined for it. The original plan of eight condominiums inside the existing buildings was kept. The possibility of building seven single-family homes on the property was suggested. And, at Daley's behest, the option of building attached townhouses on the site was added.

Voting in favor of the motion were aldermen Daley, Taglienti, Sheehan and Shea. Committee Chairman Terry Morris abstained because of what he said was a possible conflict of interest.

13th Hamill winner Joe Slamin

Slamin earns Hamill Award

Joe Slamin of Newton North, the Suburban League's All-Star catcher in 1982, has been selected as the 13th winner of the annual Bill Hamill Award, given each year to the outstanding high school baseball player in Newton.

"There were probably better athletes on the team this year, people with a little more talent," said North coach Tom Rezzuti, who nominated Slamin for the award, "but none who did more for the success of the team than Joe. He did the most of any player for us this season."

Slamin batted over .400 for the Tigers in 1982, knocking in 15 runs and, amazingly, striking out just twice in 68 at bats. "He made contact with the ball and became one of our best clutch hitters," said Rezzuti.

The muscular senior catcher was just as proficient behind the plate, where he tossed out 11 of 15 runners while adequately handling the Newton North pitching staff.

It was a banner season for Slamin, especially following a less-than-successful junior season when he hit just over .200 and played only average defense. The difference? "He matured as a player," said Rezzuti. "I think Joe was more into the game this season. He wanted to prove to everyone, and me, I suppose, that he could be the best catcher in the league. I've always felt that it took at least two years to develop a catcher, and that's why I said at the end of last season that Joe was going to have a great year in 1982.

Slamin was the Suburban League's best — on the field and on paper. Six of the eight league coaches voted for him as a first team All-Star.

Although the high school season is completed, Slamin is continuing to play baseball this summer with the Boys' Club team of the Newton National Division. Not surprisingly, he's doing well on that level, also.

Slamin plans to attend Curry College in the fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Slamin of 35 Washburn Street, Newton.

The Hamill Award, which will be presented by the Kiwanis Club at noon Wednesday at Valle's Restaurant in Newton, is given in memory of the late Billy Hamill, who was a three-sport star at Newton High from 1952 to 1955. He played baseball for two years at Holy Cross before signing with the Boston Red Sox organization in 1957. He played four years at Allenton, Pa. of the Eastern League before retiring. Hamill died suddenly of a massive hemorrhage in February of 1969.

The award is voted by a committee of prominent people which includes Moe Maloney, Watertown High coach; Bill Matthews, Ed Fraktman, Howie Ferguson, former Newton North coach; Russ Halloran, a teammate of Hamill's at Newton High; Paul Burke and Dick McGrath.

Previous winners of the award have been Mike Kasten of Newton South (1981), Gary Frechette of Newton North and Mike Dwyer of Newton South (1980), Chris Chaloff of Newton South (1979), Bobby LeBlanc of Newton North and Mike Reddish of St.Sebastian's (1978), Tom Carey of Newton Catholic (1977), Bruce Jennings of Newton South (1976), Steve DeBenedetto of Newton North (1975 and 1974), Ned Moan of Newton South (1973), Dave Boyajian of Newton North (1972) and Jethro Mills of Newton North (1971 and 1970).

Pappas leads Mosca

Mike Pappas doubled in two runs in a six-run third inning as Mosca Club went on to down the Norumbega Chiefs, 8-6, Friday in Newton National League action at Lincoln Park.

Righthander Mark Paglia went four innings to record the win for Mosca Club, while Joe Spagnuolo provided relief help.

Dave Goldman started off the third inning with a single and then stole second. Steve Mosca singled him in and stoled second. Paglia singled in Mosca, followed by Paul Aries being hit by a pitch. Evan Kushner hit a fielder's choice to score one run. Pappas double in two more and rode home on Mike Dwyer's single.

The Chiefs collected six hits in the game with Mike Hays pounding out two of them. The win raises Mosca Club's record to 4-2.

On Friday, an unbelievable triple-play foiled a bases-loaded no-out rally by St. Bernard's in the fifth inning as C&K Components withstood another rally in the top of the seventh to hold on for a 5-4 win at Del Ryan Field.

Trailing 5-1, St. Bernard's batter Fred Delicandro stepped to the plate with the bases filled and no outs. He grounded a 3-2 pitch by southpaw Rich Maloney to third baseman John Toyas who threw to home for the force out.

Catcher Jim Walsh threw to Matt Bilodeau at first base to snag Bilodeau. Meanwhile, Bill Collins, who started on second base, was trying to score all the way from there. Bilodeau smartly fired the ball back to Walsh for the third out.

But that wasn't the only rally. St. Bernard's came back for three runs in the top of the seventh inning and almost stole a victory away from Maloney. The southpaw issued three consecutive walks before an Ed Natale sacrifce fly brought in one run. Harry Martins singled in another run and a Bob Cadman base hit made the score 5-4. Maloney fanned Larry Kelly to retire the side.

C&K scored first in the opening frame when Chris Coen doubled home Jerry Marcus who had earlier reached on an error.

The third inning was the big inning for C&K. Maloney was issued a walk off loser John Santagate before back-to-back singles by John Humphrey and Coen load the bases. Jim Walsh doubled in two and was followed by another doubles, this time by Matt Bilodeau for two more.

C&K Components new stand at 4-2-1.

The summary:

C & K COMPONENTS(5)--J. Marcus 4-0; Humphrey 2-1; Coen 3-2; J. Walsh 3-2; Matt Bilodeau 3-1; Jordan 2-0; Tafe 1-0; Toyas 3-0; L. Marcus 1-0; Segal 2-1; Maloney 2-1; Tot. 26-8.

Chiefs win first in National, 5-2

A base-clearing double by Kenny Sabbag, coupled with the steady mound work of southpaw Dave White, sent the Norumbega Chiefs into the Newton National Division winner's circle for the first time this season Monday night at Newton North Field.

The Chiefs snapped a five-game losing streak by overtaking Barry Brothers for a 5-2 victory.

Norumbega was on the short end of a 2-1 score going into the bottom of the fifth inning when Sabbag turned the game around with one swing of his bat. Steve Delvecchio and Kevin Hiltz drew successive walks and a single by Chris Noble jammed the runways.

That brought up Sabbag, who hammered a drive down the left field line to send all three baserunners home as he pulled up at second with two-bagger. A groundout by White advanced him to third and he scored the final run on a wild pitch.

White, a 16 year-old who will be entering his junior year at Newton South High in September, fell behind in the first inning when an error and walk enabled Barry Brothers to put across two unearned runs. After that White was in complete control and kept five basehits scattered and struck out five.

The two other National Division contests scheduled for Monday were postponed due to unplayable field conditions. They were: Boys' Club versus St. Bernard's at Common and C&K Components against Auburndale Sports Shop at Auburndale.

The summary:

NORUMBEGA CHIEFS(5)--Delvecchio 3-0; Hiltz 2-1; Noble 3-2; Sabbag 2-1; White 2-0; Brandon 3-0; Malone 2-0; McAndrews 2-1; Fritzy 1-1. Tot. 20-6.

Cardinals win North LLB championship

Righthander Frank Battista's no-hitter was spoiled with a lead-off single in the sixth inning, but that didn't stop the Cardinals, who beat the Indians anyway, 3-2, to win the Newton North Little League championship Monday at Albemarle Field.

The 12-year-old scattered two hits and fanned 11 batters en route to the win.

Mark DeStefano's lead-off single in the fourth inning was followed by a base hit by Battista. Ronny Fremault then pushed down a clutch bunt single to load the base for Terry Natamaso. Natamaso unloaded a double to drive in two runs. Arthur Magni then grounded out to knock in what turned out to be the winning run of the game.

The Cardinals were sailing until the top of the sixth when George Maxcey ruined the no-hitter with a base hit. Kevin Cornell was issued a walk before losing pitcher Jason Campbell cracked a two-bagger for two runs.

The summary:

CARDINALS(3)--Lemon 3-0; DeStefano 3-2; Battista 2-1; Fremault 2-1; Pattek 2-0; Brown 1-0; Natamaso 1-1; Magni 2-0; Pang 2-0; Kelly 1-0; Pitts 1-0; Tot. 20-5.

Larson is red hot

Greg Larson went 5-for-5, including three triples and a double, to drive in two runs and personally power the Elks Red Sox to a 10-7 triumph over Carson Post Monday night in an International League contest.

The Elks broke open a close ballgame with two runs in the fourth, one in the fifth and four in the sixth innings.

Elks tallied twice in the top of the first as Ian Chambers was hit by a pitch, Larson tripled and Greg Coughlin singled. Carson Post got those back in the home half, but Elks went ahead again in the second when Ray LeDoux walked, stole second and third, and rode home on Steve Colella's sacrifice.

The Red Sox then exploded in the sixth. After Phil Jepson walked and Tom Binnal was hit by a pitch, Bob Blouin doubled for a run. Larson then singled to drive home Binnal and consecutive walks to Sean MacLellan, Alan Larson and Chris Scafidi accounted for the remaining two runs.

Blouin went the distance to notch the win, allowing eight hits and fanning nine.

Tigers 10, St.Bernard's 8

Ricky Desamone came in to relieve Russell Houston in the first inning with one out and ended up hurling a two-hitter, paced by three RBI's by Gam Pollock to lift the Newton Tigers to a 10-6 triumph over St. Bernard's in Newton International League action Monday at Cabot Field.

The righthander made his appearance after Houston had issued five straight walks as St. Bernard's scored three times in the first inning.

But Houston repented for his wild pitching by doubling in two runs in the fifth inning.

The Tigers answered St. Bernard's call with two of their own in the first inning. Steve Gentile was issued a walk and Keven DuBois followed with a base hit. Pollock then slugged them both in with a two-bagger.

St. Bernard's had the lead, 5-3, after three, but the Tigers tied the contest with two in the fourth and went ahead with two additional runs in the fifth frame when Pollock singled in DuBois and Jim Rizza hit into a fielder's choice for the other.

Jimmy Weltz smashed a home run to deep centerfield for St. Bernard's sixth run in the fifth inning.

The Tigers capped the game with a three-run seventh inning. Desamone walked, Keith Clark singled and Steven Cottons walked to load the bases. Houston then doubled in two runs and Tommy Delacandro hit a sacrifice fly to right for the third run.

Steve Gentile played outstanding defensive ball in centerfield, making four game-saving catches. One of them stole a home run from David Boule in the third frame with two men on base.

Oak Hill 6, On The Road 5

A total of 18 walks were issued in the first three innings as the game was called on account of darkness in the sixth inning, but the Oak Hill Cubs nipped On The Road, 6-5, at Newton South Monday.

The Cubs jumped out to a two-run lead in the first inning, beginning with a single to right by David Seghorn, a walk to Steven Chapman and an RBI base hit by Marc Stiller. Chapman later scored on a passed ball.

The third inning was something of an enigma as a cumulation of five runs were scored by both teams on 10 walks and no hits. On The Road scored three runs on five walks off Kevin Rolins, two K's, a groundball and two wild pitches.

On the other hand, the Cubs came up with two runs on five walks and three groundballs. Both squads changed hurlers in the fourth inning.

Winning pitcher John Doherty, 14 and a righthander, gave up two runs for the Cubs on a two-run single by Brook Ablon.

The Cubs came back in the bottom of the fourth when Steven Stoller reached on an error and Seghorn's sacrifice bunt advanced him to third base where he scored on a long triple by Chapman. Rolin sacrificed Chapman home with the winning run.

Boys' Club 8, Albemarle Club 7

Albemarle Club rallied for three runs in the top half of the sixth inning to tie the game at 7-7, but a run-scoring single by Danny Deverix won the game for Boys' Club, 8-7, Monday at Paul Burke Field.

Both teams contributed to the three triples and two doubles for a total of 14 hit during the contest.

David Longmoore and Chris Bercury hit the triples for Albemarle Club.

The winning run for Boys' Club came in the sixth inning after Alex DeNucci walked. Deverix lined a base hit to right to bring in DeNucci.

DeNucci knocked in a run in a two-run third inning with a double after a walk to Jimmy Proia. Mitchell Nash had two hits in four appearances at the plate — an RBI-single in the third and a triple in the fifth inning. Nash also scored on a Burt Ryan double in the fifth.

Dino Leone was credited with the win for Boys' Club.

Four famous names in Longwood field

A quartet of tennis veterans, who between them have played over two decades worth of tournament tennis in Boston, have been added to the field of the 55th U.S. Pro Tennis Championships, to be held July 10-19 at the Longwood Cricket Club in Chestnut Hill.

Joining Ivan Lendl, Guillermo Vilas, Eliot Teltscher, Yannick Noah and Eddie Dibbs in this summer's star-studded field are Harold Solomon, Raul Ramirez, Hans Gildemeister and John Alexander. Solomon and Gildemeister are past singles runners-up at Longwood, with Solomon the bridesmaid in 1976 and Gildemeister a final-round victim in 1979 and 1981. Gildemeister has also fallen just short in the U.S. Pro doubles competition in recent years, succumbing in the finals the past two summers alongside Andres Gomez.

Ramirez, on the other hand, is a two-time doubles winner at Longwood, triumphing with Brian Gottfried in 1975 and with Pavel Slozil a year ago, while Alexander returns to Boston as a seeded player this summer after having reached the semifinal of the U.S. Pro last July as a qualifier.

This summer will mark the 19th year Longwood has hosted the U.S. Pro, the world's oldest professional tennis championship. This year's event will offer $200,000 in prize money as a Volvo Grand Prix Super Series tournament, and will be sponsored in part by Bank of Boston, Schweppes, George H. Dean Co., Hamilton Realty Co., Marshall's Inc., Molson Ale and Beer and Camus Cognac.

In addition to the U.S. Pro, Longwood will also be hosting the fourth stop of the 1982 Almaden Tennis Grand Masters circuit this summer.

Tickets are available at Longwood Cricket Club, all Ticketron outlets and the Where's Boston booth at Quincey Market Place. For box office information, and Visa, MasterCard or American Express credit card purchases, call 617-731-4500.

Support group opens shelter

NEWTON — The Waltham Battered Womens Support Committee announced Tuesday that it has opened a shelter facility in Waltham for battered women and their families.

According to Robin Braverman, director of the committee, 10 people can stay at the shelter, a rental facility, for up to six weeks. There are now seven residents at the shelter, which opened the first week of June.

Until this month, the committee, formed in 1981, has depended on safe houses to shelter battered women. However safe house can only provide shelter for up to one week. Braverman also noted that in safe house, "Women are isolated from one another. They don't have the opportunuty to share their feelings and experiences."

Braverman can not reveal the location of the house because the husbands of battered women often go out looking for their wives.

Contributions from various church groups and civic organizations made funding for the shelter possible according to Braverman. The committee does not get federal or state funding because of budget cuts. It is operated by volunteers. The funds for the new shelter will last only for the next four months. If the group does not raise more money the shelter will have to be closed, Braverman said.

"It's feed money just to get us started. But we have to continue to get funds. But I feel confident that the community will respond," said Braverman.

No other shelters serve the West Suburban area, the Rt. 128 belt between Quincy and Lowell or between Cambridge and Worcester.

Braverman said the committee is approaching groups from in and outside Metropolitan Boston for funds becuase they are serving women from so many cities and towns. "We have received phone calls (from battered women) from all over Metropolitan Boston, " she said. The committee has helped women from as far away as Tewsksbury and Littleton.

"In the next few months we're going to contact groups all over since we find we are serving a much larger population. We will approach people from many areas to help keep us open."

"We're the only shelter. Other shelters are always full. More shelters are needed in general, but specifically in these ares," Braverman said. Many battered women in these areas call the Waltham committee. "It's heartbreaking to us because we could not help them."

The cost of the shelter in rent and utilities is $700 per month. Women provide the food. There is no paid staff, which the committee wants to provide. Volunteers stay with the women.

The committee also advises women on their legal rights. The Battered Women hotline number is 899-8676. A recording will answer but a volunteer will get back to the caller.

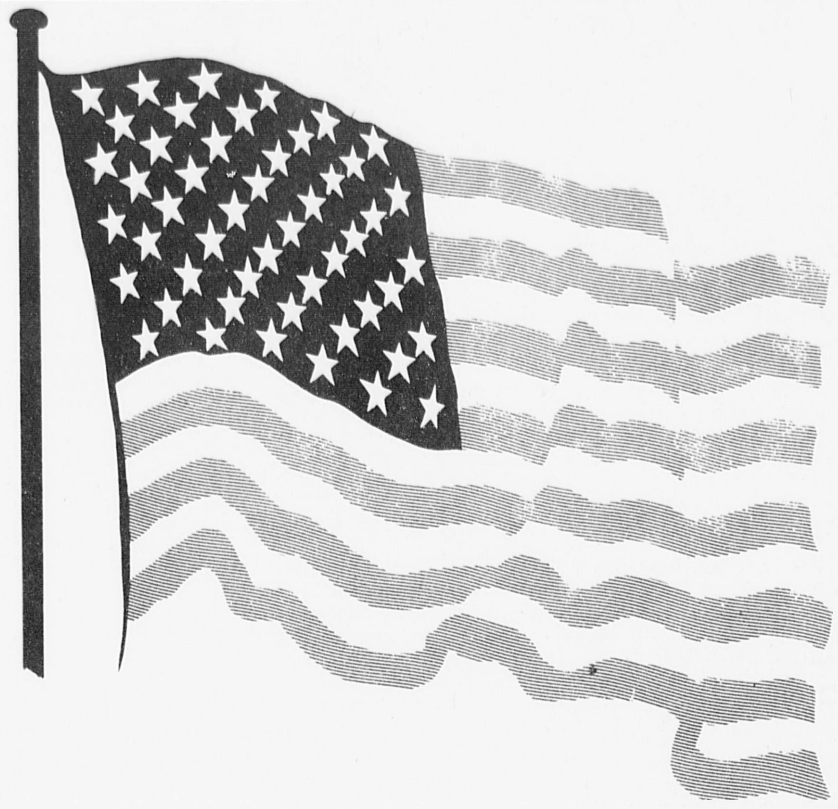
INDEPENDENCE DAY

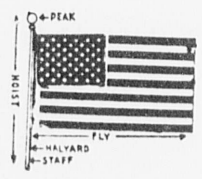
JULY 4th



EXCERPTS FROM FLAG CODE

DESCRIPTION OF THE FLAG

The Flag of the United States of America has 13 horizontal stripes, alternating, and a union which consists of white stars of five points on a blue field placed in the upper quarter next to the staff and extedning to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top. The number of stars is the same as the number of States in the Union.



Effective July 4, 1968*, the canton or union contains 50 stars arranged as indicated in the above reproduction. On the admission of a State into the Union a star will be added to the union of the Flag, and such addition will take effect on the 4th day of July next succeeding such admission. The proportions of the Flag as prescribed by Executive Order of President Taft, October 29, 1912*, are as follows:

Hoist (width) of Flag	1.
Fly (length) of Flag	1.9
Hoist (width) of union	7/13
Fly (length) of union	0.76
Width of each stripe	1/13
Diameter of each star	.0616

PROPER MANNER OF DISPLAYING THE FLAG

There are certgain fundamental rules of heraldry, which if understood generally, would indicated the proper method of displaying the Flag of the United States of America. The matter becomes a very simple one if it is kept in mind that the Flag represents the living country and is itself considered as a living thing. The union of the Flag is the honor point; the right arm is the sword arm and therefore the point of danger and hence the place of honor.

1. The Flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. However, the Flag may be displayed at night upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect. It should be hoisted briskly, but slowly and ceremoniously. The Flag should be displayed on all National and State holidays and on historic and special occasions. (However, being the emblem of our country, it ought to fly from every flagpole every day throughout the year, weather permitting.)

2. When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the Flag of the United States of America should be either on the marching right,

i.e., the Flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags, the Flag of the United States of America may be in front of the center of that line.

3. When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the Flag of the United States of America should be on the right, the Flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

4. When a number of flags of States or cities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staff with the Flag of the United States of America, the latter should be at the center of at the highest point in the group.

5. When flags of States or cities or pennants of societies are flowen on the same halyard with the Flag of the United States of America, the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the Flag of the United States of America should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant flown in the former position should be placed above, or in the latter position to the right of the Flag of the United States of America, i.e., to the observer's left.

6. When flags or two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate

PROPER USE OF BUNTING

Bunting of the National colors should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping over the front of a platform and for decoration in general. Bunting should be arranged with the blue above the white in the middle and the red below.

staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

7. When the Flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of building, the union of the Flag should go clear to the peak of the staff unless the Flag is at half-staff. (When the Flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope, extending from a house to a pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the Flag should be hoisted out from the building towards the pole, union first.)

8. When the Flag is displayed otherwise than being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out, or so suspended that its folds fall as free as of a church, or on the speaker's platform in a public auditorium, the flag should occupy the position of honor and be placed at the clergyman's or speaker's right as he faces the congregation or audience. Any other flag so displayed in the chancel or on the platform should be palced at the clergyman's or speaker's left as he faces the congregation or audience. But when the flag is displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium elsewhere than in the chancel or on the platform it should be placed on the left of the congregation or audience as they face the chancel or platform.

10. When used on a speaker's platform, the Flag, if displayed flat, should be displayed above and behind the speaker.

When displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium, if it is displayed in the chancel

the Flag should be displayed in the same way, that is, with the union, or blue field, to the left of the observer in the street.

9. When dispalyed over the middle of the street, the Flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

11. When flown at half-staff, the Flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff poistion; but before lowering the Flag for the day it should be raised again to the peak. By half-staff is meant lowering down the Flag to one-half the distance between the top and the bottom of the staff. On Memorial Day, May 30th, the Flag is displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset; for the Nation lives and the Flag is the symbol of the living Nation. Crepe is used on the flagstaff only by order of the President.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

CREATIVE HOME FINANCING

If you're in the market for a home of your own, you're probably in the market for a home loan, too. A conventional mortgage is usually the first kind that comes to mind, but other alternatives do exist.

These include • privately insured loans • GI-insured loans • FHA/HUD-insured loans • Farmers Home Administration loans • urban "homestead" loans • "house-to-house" loans • variable interest rate loans • graduated payment mortgages and • HUD's subsidized homeownership program.

To learn about these possibilities, talk to a member of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® before you start looking. REALTORS® are real estate professionals, and forms of financing are part of their expertise. They can tell you what's available in your community, and how you can qualify.

PART-TIME BUS DRIVER TRAINEES

The MBTA invites men and women who are interested in applying for work as part-time bus drivers to register for a public lottery to be held on July 16, 1982. Basic qualifications include having, for at least three years, a valid Mass. driver's license, or an equivalent driver's license, a good driving record, a good work record, plus the ability and willingness to learn to drive MBTA buses. If your name is drawn, you will have to pass a written test, a physical exam, and other pre-employment processing to get your name on a list of qualified applicants. There is no guarantee of employment. Whether we reach your name on the list will depend on how many new drivers are hired during the life of the list — about two years. Should there be a need for full time bus drivers the Authority will consider those who have qualified for part time employment.

To register, complete the form below, or a copy of it and mail it to T-Lottery, Box P-3, South Dartmouth, MA 02748. Entries must be postmarked no later than 12:01 A.M., July 14, 1982. Do not call or visit the MBTA's offices to ask about your status. We will not be able to help you because we have hired an independent agency to conduct this lottery. Be sure to carefully complete the attached coupon; inaccurate, illegible or incorrect information will result in your disqualification. Do not register more than once or you will automatically be disqualified. After the lottery, those whose names were drawn will be notified. If you are not notified by July 28, 1982 it will mean that your name was not drawn. The "T" will schedule another lottery in approximately two years and you can re-apply then.

The MBTA is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer. The information relative to your sex, color or race is needed in connection with our affirmative action plan.
